

Boys beat Lynn Camp; lose to Clay County big

The Rockcastle Rockets were handed their first loss of the season, and it was a mighty blow dealt by district rival Clay County, who beat the Rockets 84-49 Tuesday night.

The Rockets had a dismal night all around, with poor shooting and defense, and only 4 of 12 from the free throw line.

The first quarter was the only bright spot of the night for Rockcastle, as they came out hot with Aaron Anderkin hitting three three's, Jeremy Neely hitting a three and Josh Rowland, Aaron Cash and Jason Reynolds each adding a bucket to give the Rockets the 18-15 lead at the end of the first quarter.

It was all down hill from there, however, as the Rockets only managed 5 points in the second quarter, while the Tigers dished up 21 points to go into the locker room at half-time up 36-23.

Rockcastle managed ten points in the third quarter, but Clay County caught the Rockets standing around on defense several times and scored 27 points to extend their lead 63-33.

The Rockets scored 16 points in the fourth quarter, but the Tigers would not go away, finishing off the Rockets 84-49.

Rockcastle beat Lynn Camp last Friday night 75-51 in a very evenly matched game that saw the Rockets do to the Wildcats what the Tigers did to them.

Although Lynn Camp ran tough with the Rockets in the first quarter, actually leading at the end of the quarter 19-16, Rockcastle just had more weapons to use against the Tigers and pulled away for the 42-35 halftime lead.

Things went even better for the Rockets in the third quarter with Rockcastle doubling the Wildcats
