The Brodhead Fire Department was assisted by the Western and Mount Vernon Fire Departments at this structure fire on Slaty Branch Road last week. According to officials at Brodhead, the outbuilding was completely engulfed and collapsing when firefighters arrived at the scene. The fire was extinguished avoiding the spread to nearby buildings and brush. The cause of the fire is currently unknown and no injuries were reported.

Livingston now has police chief

— Citizens discuss issues

By: Mike French
Editor

The City of Livingston is once again under the protection of its own Police Chief. Mikey Ashurst was officially hired by the city during the regular monthly meeting Monday night at City Hall.

City Clerk Amanda Thomas said it was a good night to hire the new officer since several concerned citizens attended the meeting to discuss some of the issues that Ashurst will be dealing with. "It was really good timing actually," said Thomas. "Our new police officer had the chance to hear concerns about our nuisance ordinance, illegal parking in the city, people blowing through local stop signs, our dog leash laws and several other issues he will have to deal with."

Mikie Ashurst

"I am so glad I am here to help."

Mikie Ashurst is now the Livingston Police Chief. The 35-year-old has been a certified police officer for over ten years and served the past six at the Knox County Sheriff's Department.

"I am honored to be in Livingston and can't wait

Thomas said several concerned citizens were present at the meeting expressing concerns about local ordinances but all were well received. "It was a very good meeting," she said. "Citizens calmly expressed their desires for our city and pointed out issues that

Brodhead Commission hears several reports

By: Mike French
Editor

Sometimes, you light a firecracker then hunch over and grimace with fingers in your ears and eyes closed tightly...and nothing happens. It was a dud.

This came to mind at the regular monthly meeting of the Brodhead City Commission Monday night when expected fireworks over a recent controversial issue did not develop.

Due to recent controversy over who is responsible for past due water bills in the City of Brodhead, and recent tempers flares and heated discussions between landlords, renters and city officials, most commissioners expected a loud and controversial meeting causing an extra police presence. The meeting was moved to a larger room for bigger crowds and commissioners sat ready with city ordinances and folders in hand.

But, surprisingly, only one landlord was present and when asked what he had to say, he said, "oh, nothing."

So, commissioners moved on to items on the agenda.

Commissioner Teddy

Correction

Ooops!!!

In last week's issue of the Signal, we listed the monthly meetings for Brodhead, Livingston and the Rockcastle County fiscal court one week early. All three meetings were this week instead of last week. We apologize for the error.

Rose said the city's dump truck was in dire need of repair which would cost nearly $4,000. Rose, and Commissioners Jerry Adams and Harold Taylor, agreed to begin searching for a different truck instead of repairing the current vehicle.

"The one we have is a 1972 model and has about had it," said Adams. "As soon as it is repaired something else breaks. It would be cheaper for the city to find a different truck."

There was no vote but commissioners agreed to be looking for a newer dump truck and come to the bring the matter to a future commission meeting, with a recommendation, when one is found.

Commissioners also voted to help the fire department with expenses involved in the required annual equipment testing process. An exact dollar amount was not set.

Brian Bussell, Brodhead Emergency Management Director, informed the commission that he met with FEMA officials recently to set a value on recent flood damage that is eligible for federal assistance. Bussell said he will keep the commission informed of any progress.

All departments reported business as usual and, 13 minutes after it began, Mayor Walter Cash adjourned the meeting.

One commissioner was heard to say, "Well, that was anticlimactic."

Car show and Fish Fry to be in Brodhead

By: Mike French
Editor

As COVID-19 restrictions and mandates begin to fade, the Brodhead Volunteer Fire Department has planned an old-fashioned family day of fun and excitement.

A Car and Tractor Show will be held at the Brodhead Depot Park on Saturday, May 1. Registration for your car, truck, rat-rod, tractor or other unique vehicle will begin at 1 p.m.

"We want everyone to come on out and enjoy themselves," said Fire Chief John Dyehouse. "Bring the kids and your best vehicle to show off."

And, the kids can participate also. Registration for bicycles, power wheels and go-carts will be free. Adults will be charged $20 to register their vehicle and that money will help with the loss the fire department has experienced due to COVID-mandated cancellations last year.

Everyone is invited to spend the day at the park, enjoying fellowship with family and friends and all should know that CDC social distance guidelines will still be followed.

But wait, there's more. The fire department has decided to bring back one of the most popular events in Brodhead - the Fish Fry.

"This is a one time thing," said Dyehouse. "We can't go back to hav-

Vaccinations still available here

By: Mike French
Editor

Officials at the Rockcastle Regional Hospital have now administered 3,126 vaccinations, according to Jana Bray of the hospital's public relations department.

A majority of the vaccinations, however, have been the two-dose Moderna vaccine so a smaller number of individuals have actually been vaccinated than the actual number of injections administered.

The clinic has gone very smoothly for the hospital, as well as the patients, according to Bray. "The clinics have gone very well," she said. "Everything has gone smoothly and we are getting patients in and out very quickly while maintaining a safe and socially distant environment."

Hospital officials

started providing the vaccine to anyone over 18 as soon as they recognized there would be vaccine left over, and potentially wasted, when adhering to Governor Beshear's schedule. So, rather than allow any of the vaccine to waste, officials began providing the vaccine to anyone interested.

Though the vaccinations have now been open to anyone over 18 for more than two weeks, Bray says there is still some of the vaccine available at the local facility.

"We still have plenty of appointments available for both Moderna and Johnson and Johnson," she said.

However, on Tuesday of this week, Governor Andy Beshear announced the pause of administering the Johnson and Johnson Kentucky Attorney General Daniel Cameron has joined 44 other attorney generals across the country to fight the sale of fake COVID vaccine passports online on Twitter, Spotify and eBay.

Saying that the sale of these fake passports, which bear the CDC logo, "spreads false and misleading information regarding COVID vaccines and threaten the health of our communities, slows progress in getting our residents protected from the virus and are a violation of the laws of many states."

This is all well and good, the fake certificates shouldn't be sold but I would, personally, much rather see our attorney general working to ensure that a vaccine certification is not required at all.

I would be much more impressed by the use of his power as state attorney general to make sure we are guaranteed the freedom to choose what we put into our body without fear of repercussions because we do not choose to voluntarily inject an experimental drug which, from all reports, will likely have to be repeated in six months time.

And, serious question here, have the illegal immigrants, presently coming across our southern border by the 10s of thousands, been tested and vaccinated to assure they do not pose a threat to our citizens' health, especially when they come in contact with us at voting booths, which is where a great many citizens most likely contact with them will be?

Will billionaire Bill Gates' association with the development of the vaccine be studied to make sure there is no connection between the ingredients in the vaccine and Gates' advocacy for reduced population on our planet (along with his idea to put dust? into our atmosphere to dim the Sun's rays)?

Will the New York State illegal immigrants, who are being offered a one-time payment of $15,600 if they can prove they are New York residents who are ineligible for unemployment, appreciate the fact that they are being prioritized over our homeless Veterans?

But, fear not, VP Kamala Harris was placed in charge of the border crisis in late March by President Biden and, to date, there has been no press conference, no trip to the border, no plan and no transparency by Harris who has not been shy to advocate for an open borders United States.

Arizona's attorney general is filing a lawsuit against the White House and DHS over harmful immigration orders and is asking a court to void Biden's Executive Order to halt the construction of the border wall and reverse former President Trump's "Remain in Mexico" policy.

Of course, the suit will eventually get kicked to the Supreme Court, where four justices recently voted to restrict you from holding religious gatherings in your home -- think about that for a minute.

Conservatives can no longer depend on supposed Conservative Justice John Roberts since he rules with Liberal judges more often than with the four and sometimes, five other Conservative judges. But, remember, he was appointed by globalist President George W. Bush so his actions should not come as that much of a surprise.

Something else you might not be aware of. The FDA has halted the use of Johnson and Johnson vaccine after six cases of a deadly rare blood clot and, in Europe, governments have

Which way is the water flowing?

I know things seems like normal daily life to younger people, but if they had grown up in my time, they too would see how outlandish things have gotten.

To the younger generation, and to most liberals, all the anti-Christian, anti-freedom stuff going on around us seems normal.

It's called "Conditioning."

In the "good old days" we had moral values. We had a belief about our country. A direction we were headed. Some things were good and some things were bad but, in those days, we acknowledged the difference.

I wish today's youth could see the changes we older fellows have seen, because it shows direction. They can't see where we are headed because they don't know where we came from. If they could see all the things that are completely accepted now that would have been horribly wrong just 50 years ago, they could tell where we are headed.

From a photo of a creek, one can't tell which direction the water is flowing. You have to see it coming, before you know where it is going. Is the city about to flood, or is the water flowing away?

To young people and Democrats who won't face the past or see the future, this is all normal. It's just life. It is a still image in time.

Fortunately, there are we old-timers who remember where we came from. Knowing that, it is much easier to see which direction we are headed. Downward!

Personally, I think it started when we let television become the all-time biggest baby-sitter. Suddenly, we allowed left-wing nuts in Hollywood decide what our children would see and hear every day.

Before we knew what was happening, moral values were gone, ethics and common courtesy

By Ike Adams

At this time, 2 years ago, I weighed 186 pounds. It wouldn't have hurt me to lose about 10 of them so that's what I did. By April of 2020 I was down to 176 even though I hadn't intentionally done anything to lose the pounds. I had developed cancer but I promise you faithfully, that was not done on purpose. At the Doctor's office last Thursday I weighed in at 152 despite the fact that I've been consuming over a case of high-calorie/high-protein nutrition shakes weekly and trying to eat fattening food for more than the last 8 months.

The doctors, nearly a dozen of them, are all noncommittal as to what could be causing the fairly rapid weight loss but they all agree that it is "concerning". The most likely culprit is the prostate and bone cancer medication I've been taking since last August but nobody wants to make any changes in that because it is working so well. It isn't curing anything but it has brought the cancer's progress almost to a complete stop. Unfortunately, it has also made my appetite nearly non-existent. I only eat because I feel like I absolutely have to force something down and usually that involves a mind over matter, internal struggle.

If I so much as hint that I might like some particular food, Loretta will rush right out and get it. She worries as much or more about my weight loss than I do. If I said I was craving caviar, she would find a can but I actually hate the thoughts of the stuff. On the other hand, I thought pickled bologna might go down easy. I'm still eating on a half gallon jar of the stuff, heartburn and all that she promptly found. ArmourStar, chili-beef, hot dog sauce was yet another easy find. Okay it was also heart burn city but it went down easy along with 3 fat wieners on both occasions. Fresh baked salmon was yet an-

A New Swing Brings Remembrance

I just met with a carpenter that is going to build a new swing frame for our backyard here in Mt. Sterling. My wife and I both have always loved sitting in a porch or yard swing. That experience has been part of my life since I was a toddler.

When I was a boy, my family spent a great deal of time on the front porch of my grandparents' home. During the warmer months, the porch became the most comfortable place to be because of the cool breezes that surrounded the swing, which was located on the corner of the huge porch. Since we had no air conditioning, we migrated to the swing particularly during the summer in order to enjoy the night drafts that encircled our house situated on a hill

Just Call Me Humpty Dumpty

Dear Journal,

A week or so ago Stanley got us a new mattress. As it turns out, it is probably the best mattress we've ever had. We sleep just great on it. I even feel like I'm on some kind of sleeping drug when I sleep on it. This mattress is a pillow top and much thicker than the one we had. Our bed is on those risers that lift the bed about six or more inches more than usual in order to store stuff under the bed. The bed is now close to three feet off the floor.

When we went to bed the first night on it, I didn't think I could get in the bed. With all of that height it makes it tough on a short, fat, handicapped woman like me. Well, I finally got in and commented that by tomorrow night the bed risers or something had to go. I soon drifted off to sleep and as usual I needed to get up to the bathroom in two or three hours.

Then is when it happened. I turned over to my left side to sit on the side of the bed and just kept on going. I fell flat out of the bed face down. I couldn't believe it. Nothing like this had ever happened to me. I called for Stanley to help me up. Of course he was already awake. I guess most of the county was. They probably heard or felt the vibrations in Berea to London. I couldn't get up no matter how I tried. As a matter of fact I was wedged between the bed and dresser. It reminded me of that little old lady in the commercial from a few years ago on TV, "I've fallen and I can't get up". Stanley tried to help me but couldn't seem to due to my being stuck half way under the bed and dresser and being hurt and sore in more places than I thought I had places. I told him just to call for the ambulance to come before he strained his back and hurt me even worse.

He went and called the ambulance to come. Meanwhile, he started putting dogs away in bed-been imposing age limits on who can receive the AstraZeneca jab for similar reasons.

You should also remember that the CDC admits that only 6% of COVID-reported deaths were actually due to COVID. Doctors were incentivized with a 20% bonus from Medicare for each COVID declared death.

This statement is made believable by the fact that in 2019/20 there were 38,000,000 cases of the flu in our country and in 2020/21 there were only 1,800.

We are on a slippery slope in this country and it's getting slicker by the minute. It began with "15 days to slow the spread" and "wear a mask" to scientists at the Pentagon wanting to put a microchip in you to detect Coronavirus.

This was never about a virus or keeping you "safe," it's all about control.

On another of our government's destructive programs, federal employees are now being offered four months paid leave, by our President, if they will take in illegal alien children.

This is part of the new $2.3 trillion infrastructure bill which considers this paid leave infrastructure, along with child care and caregiving programs and money for "diversifying" neighborhoods which would change zoning laws to end single family home neighborhoods and allow for multiple unit "affordable" or low-income rental housing.

Less than 5% of the $2.3 trillion would go toward traditional infrastructure projects such as roads and bridges.

I have little hope that our country will resemble, in any way in 2024, the one that Democrats took control of through the 2020 "fair election."

were unimportant and everyone had a right to do whatever they wished. You are "special" and the world is here to serve you.

Somehow, they even convinced these easily-swayed young minds that government rules are more important than God's rules and suddenly our speech was limited, gun control laws were put into play, over-taxation became rampant and we are in the midst of the most hypocritical world ever known.

These drug-induced, television producers taught our youth that no matter what they do wrong, it's not their fault and if someone else has earned something, you deserve it too.

It started around the time Barbara Eden showed her belly button on national TV on I Dream of Genie. Though there was a huge uproar for a short time, moral, ethical people eventually just let it go.

And now, we have a generation that cries and whines over Mr. Potato Head, Bugs Bunny and Dr. Seuss books, while they cheer nude women simulating sexual relations on national TV to disgusting, sick music that curses its way through each chorus.

When you let one wrong thing go, this is where it goes.

We moved from a God-fearing, moral, hard-working, free nation, to a country of dark and evil values.

I wish someone had told me 50 years ago that soon we would live in a country where four out of every 10 pregnancies end in the baby being murdered - and it will be legal, and that one in two marriages end in divorce.

I wish I had known we would allow politicians to ignore and alter the Constitution whenever it suits their goals.

Someone should have told me little boys would be able to become little girls, that there would be racist bills in Congress and no one would care, that the Ten Commandments would not be allowed in public places, that Governors would tell us when we could open our businesses, that taxation would be our biggest expense in life (and death), that cops, who risk their lives to save us, are evil, that music would promote drugs and degrade women, that some idiots would promote letting government disarm them, that people would fall for the most obvious boldfaced lies ever spoken as long as Joe Biden speaks them and that laws don't apply to elected officials.

I especially would have liked to know that it would be perfectly okay to break into businesses and steal everything I wanted and destroy people's workplace if a cop anywhere does anything I don't like. It would have been nice to know that if you call yourself "BLM" laws don't apply to you.

This is the direction we have headed. Some of us are old enough to see which way we are going because we know from whence we came.

According to polls, as of last week, over 50% of the population declares no religious affiliation. Unfortunately, we are no longer a free nation or a Christian nation.

America is almost underwater.

rooms and the bathroom so they wouldn't bite anybody. We have a protective bunch. He forgot a black pit bull, Gulliver, that sleeps on my feet every night. I didn't think they would ever get there. By now I was really hurting...BAD. I had strained every muscle in my back and could hardly move. The ambulance drivers couldn't get me up either without hurting me worse so they called the fire department. Somewhere in the distance I heard Stanley saying something about calling for Town and Country's towing service. With a combined effort they all got me up and back to bed right after Stanley took those risers from under the bed.

I finally went back to sleep and when morning came I felt like I had been in a major car wreck and in bits and pieces all over the place. Kind of like Humpty Dumpty and it would take all of the king's horses and all of the king's men to put this old egg together again.

We also enjoyed listening to the sounds of the night, including: birds, animals in the woods, crickets, and sometimes even the sound of rain on the porch's tin roof. Late at night, we heard the trains moving up the track toward Mt. Vernon as they began to slow for a stop at the depot. That lowly whistle of the engine could create its own magic when applied to a relaxed mind - it could sound like an invitation to travel somewhere unknown, or it could sound plain and sometimes lonesome. (I still miss hearing the sounds of trains.)

My grandmother (Mommie Katie) had other furniture on her porch of course, including a glider, but most everyone preferred the swing - especially on a warm evening. It was a way to create your own little breeze in the summer night air. On hot and humid nights, we lingered on the porch and in the swing, waiting to catch any hint of a breeze that might pass by.

I can still see the fireflies that gathered in Pop's yard. From our observation point, it was like watching a lot of small fireworks going off in the yard. On many of those sultry evenings, we could also hear the thunder of a distant passing storm.

Installing a new swing in our backyard causes my memories of the old porch swing to come flooding back. So the very idea of a new swing holds a special place in my heart because of my own background. My family members were drawn to that spot, and year after year we kept coming back - even though some of us moved away.

On our visits home, that big old swing drew us back to the front porch where it felt like we could just pick up where we left off the last time we gathered there. That swing greeted us like a lifelong trusted friend.

Oh, how I cherish those memories of the times when we were just swangin'!

other easy find and there's not a restaurant anywhere that can fix it to suit my taste buds as well as my wife does.

Then I suggested Hormel's pickled pigs' feet and we both started striking out. I've loved that stuff ever since I first discovered it at the late Minnie Blair's little country store in the head of Blair Branch in the 1950s. It's not for anybody even thinking about going on a diet or dealing with cholesterol issues, but remember that I'm trying to gain weight and health problems are not among my major concerns when it comes to stuff I can actually eat.

So one afternoon last week we stopped to visit our old friends, Adella Stevenson and her daughter, Sue, in Lancaster and I started whining to Sue about the fact that we'd looked in over half a dozen stores where they ought to be and couldn't find pickled pigs' feet. She told me I probably wasn't looking hard enough and we let it go at that.

Later that night, Sue called Loretta to tell her she had found the pig's feet and they were the same Hormel's brand I loved more than 60 years ago. The store only had 3 jars and she had bought me 2 of them.

The next day we drove from Berea to Lancaster to pick them up and I ate well over half a jar at one setting when we got home. I could easily have polished the rest off on the spot but decided I didn't really want to have another stroke on the spot. I've since polished off that first jar and ready to start the second.

We will go back to Stanford for the third one if I live through it. I really can't tell if I've gained any weight but I have sure enjoyed trying.

"Show"

But, after the car show on May 1, everyone should make their way down the street to the Brodhead Fire Department and enjoy the return of the Fish Fry.

Plates will be $10 and serving will begin at 4 p.m. and last until 7 p.m. Everyone will have the option of dine-in or carry-out and the meal will include fish, hushpuppies, fries or baked potato, cole slaw, dessert and a drink.

"This is a chance for everyone to get out and enjoy our community and help our volunteers in the process," said Dyehouse. "It will be great to see everyone out on the grounds again."

"COVID"

Anyone over 18 who is interested in being vaccinated is encouraged to call 256-7767 to schedule an appointment. "We have both Thursday and Saturday appointments available," said Bray.

According to the CDC, Kentucky ranks 19th in the country in percentage of citizens vaccinated at slightly over 20%. New Mexico is number one at 29% and Georgia is 50th at 15%.

"Mikie"

Ashurst has a bachelor's degree from Lincoln Memorial University and is a certified firearms instructor and he places a special emphasis on drug enforcement.

"I focus a lot of attention on drug enforcement and intervention and I will be focusing on seizures and forfeitures," he said. "I hope to help with new equipment and take the department forward along with the city itself."

Ashurst is also more than happy to help other departments. "I want every police agency to know I am here to help and assist in any way I can," he said. "The Sheriff's Department, the city or any police agency can call on me anytime."

Ashurst has been married to his wife Taylor for five years and they have one son, Tucker, 2.

"We are honored to have Mikie with us," said City Clerk Amanda Thomas. "He is energetic and enthusiastic and we believe he will help make our town an even better place to live."

"Cop"

Thomas said Mayor Dwane King and the commissioners agreed to look into each of the ordinances brought before them at the meetings. "They were all very good points and they needed to be addressed," said Thomas. "One of our big worries has been parking at events in the school gym because cars sometimes block entrances that fire trucks could need to use."

Thomas said the other points were helpful also. "We have a real problem with people just blowing through stop signs here and Ashurst will be looking for that now."

The Rockcastle County fiscal court provides $1,000 per month for the Livingston Police Chief salary and an additional $1,000 for other expenses, according to Thomas. That funding had been placed on hold until the position was filled and Thomas plans to seek reinstatement of those funds immediately.

Ashurst will not begin work until his certification is adjusted to Livingston's requirements through the Department of Justice but Thomas said paperwork is already being completed to provide that updated certification.

Assistant Fire Chief Bobby Phelps reported that Livingston Fire and Rescue has performed 181 runs already this year. Officials expect that number is higher than usual due to recent flooding and forest fires.

Phelps reminded those present of the burn ban that is currently in effect in the state.

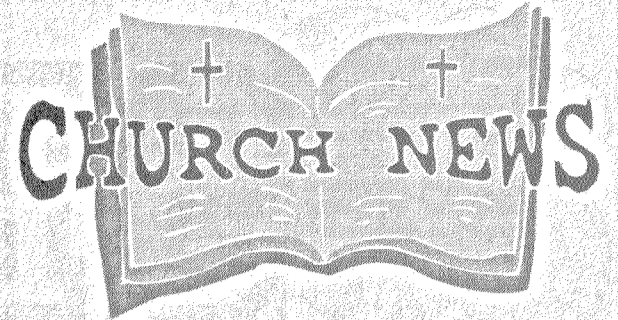

Raymond and Michael Flannery, owners of the new Livingston Marathon also attended the meeting and thanked the city for their welcoming manner.

The owners plan a Grand Opening ceremony for May 7 and 8 and the public is invited to attend. Officials say there will be more details about the event announced soon.

The new station is one of two new businesses to locate in Livingston in recent years.

Thomas also announced that City Hall will be closed this week due to administrative paperwork in preparation for an upcoming audit.

City Hall is expected to reopen Monday, April 19. Anyone needing to contact the city this week may email cityoflivingston@windstream.net. The next regular meeting will be Tuesday, May 11 at 6 p.m. The public is invited to attend.

1 Timothy 1:10

The apostle Paul mentions things contrary to sound doctrine, in an effort to tell young Timothy that there are those who will come teaching false doctrines. He also mentions in v. 11 The glorious gospel.

Why is there so many teaching a different gospel than that of Christ? v. 15 Says that his gospel is worthy of all acceptance and that Christ Jesus came into the world that he might save sinners; of which Paul considered he himself to be chief.

Paul understood the mercy that had been extended unto him thru Jesus Christ, I ask to those who read this article, do you understand that mercy? Have you put your trust in Jesus Christ?

God has a simple plan of salvation one must hear. Roman 10:17 Faith cometh by hearing and bearing by the word God. One must believe. Mark 16:16 He that believeth and is baptized shall be saved, he that believeth not shall be damned. One must make a confession that they believe that Jesus Christ is the Son of the living God. Romans 10:10 With the heart man believeth unto righteousness and with the mouth confession is made unto. One must repent. Luke 13:3 Christ says I tell you nay: but, except you repent, ye shall all likewise perish. One must be baptized Acts 2:38 When Peter preached there, the question was ask what must we do to be saved, his response was repent and be baptized and you shall receive the gift of the holy ghost. And lastly we must remain faithful unto death Revelation 2:10 Be thou faithful unto death and thou shall receive a crown of life.

Rily Smith took the loss going two innings, allowing seven hits and eight runs while striking out two.

Noah Fain led the Rockets on offense going two for two with two RBI and a walk. Silas Shaffer went one for three with two runs scored.

The Rockets were scheduled to travel to Casey County Tuesday, April 13th and will host Russell County Friday night. The Rockets also travel to Boyle County Saturday and Estill County Monday, April 19th and Somerset Tuesday, April 20th.

the win for the Rockets going four and a third inning allowing nine hits and four runs while striking out one and walking one.

Madison McIntosh threw two and two-thirds innings in relief.

Offensively, McIntosh and Lexie Brock had multiple hits for the Rockets as well as three RBI for McIntosh and two RBI for Brock. Casey Coleman also had two RBI.

Harrison County came to town Friday and the Rockets earned the victory, 4-1.

Senior Madison McIntosh was tough on the mound going seven innings allowing six hits and one run striking out seven and walking one.

It took three innings before the Rockets put some runs on the board scoring two in the bottom of the third.

Makayla Coffey got things started with a single and advanced to second on a Laney Bryant sacrifice. Madison McIntosh drew a walk and Madison Yates singled to score Coffey. Madison Yates singled to load the bases and Casey Coleman drew an RBI with a hit by pitch.

Rockcastle added two more in the bottom of the fifth. McIntosh doubled and advanced to second on a Yates ground ball. McIntosh scored on an error and Yates scored on an error after stealing third base.

Harrison County managed only one run in the top of the seventh for the final, 4-1.

The Rockets' next three games have been cancelled due to COVID-19 policy.

Their next scheduled game is Friday when the Rockets host Cooper at 8:30.

We Need More Green Time (And Less Screen Time)

When I was young, parents would tell us “go outside and play”. And the grownups would often work outside for a living, and even if not would have a garden and a yard to take care of. And there weren't computer screens nor smartphones to absorb so much of our time. The first newspaper compositions I composed for publication were completed first by careful longhand writing, then on a manual typewriter by the time I was a high school senior. (And transmitted with envelope and a postage stamp!) Yes, some things have become more convenient, and the explosion of knowledge is everywhere, but mentally and physically the lack of “green time” is taking its toll on each of us individually and the world as a whole.

As the days grow longer and warmer, I encourage every reader to step outside more often. Consider your yard or your garden. And if you don't do those chores, or if you rent or live in an apartment, you can still go for a stroll or find a trail to hike or a public park to experience. For it will benefit you.

There's not time and space in this column to explain lengthy research on the subject, but it is proven in multiple studies I've seen over the years, that exposure to greenery and sounds of nature and certainly waterfalls or ocean waves, have a calming effect on the body. Lower blood pressure, and a more peaceful clearer mind results. In one particular study, a class was divided and one group of students sat inside all day and another group were taken on a nature walk, then the same exam was given to both sets of students. By now I am sure you guessed, the average scores were higher for the group that took the nature walk before test time.

Screen time in excess is harmful. Stress goes up, sleep may be deprived, personalities are affected, interactions in person with others become uncertain, and the eyes may be damaged. Those are just some of the negative affects which result from too much time at the computer, the phone screen or the television screen.

If it's not hurtful, why would the top computer and software developers in Silicone Valley not even allow their children to own a smartphone or portable computing device? No, they don't even have computers in some of the private schools they send their own children too. Think on that a minute.

Green time has been demonstrated to have a positive effect on everyone, but all the more on those with mental disorders and the “typical” prisoner (if there is such a thing as an atypical inmate). Developmentally challenged students can benefit from a school garden experience. Governments may think they are getting free labor when they put prisoners on a work project, but the real beneficiary of some such projects is actually the prisoner. (Being crammed into a jailhouse with hundreds of other problem people is not the way to “correct” and get such a person prepared for being set free and expecting better behavior than before. Just the opposite...most become repeat offenders.)

Yards to Paradise

Screen time can be wasted time. Playing video games will never get a child to the top of his or her class. Time on the computer researching for an assignment in class or at work, would be an example of profitably spent screen time. Children had chores of some type or another in the past. We may have more “fun” on the phone than raking leaves or dusting furniture, but chores are an important part of living life. If texting and games take up all the time, other skills are not learned.

When an evening on the smartphone or playing video games is the most fun our young people have—it is no wonder the world and its occupants are getting more messed up day by day with the passage of time.

Planting some flowers, vegetables, trees, and taking care of them may not be the prescription for everyone's happiness and mental and physical well-being; but, more green time will do us all some good. Try it; even prove me wrong if you believe you can.

Legislative Update

By Jared Carpenter
State Senator

The General Assembly successfully passed nearly 200 pieces of legislation during the 30-day 2021 Session. Bills covered a wide variety of topics, but the impacts of COVID-19 continue to loom over the legislature, our state, and the nation. This is certainly the case for Kentucky, which is struggling with ongoing Unemployment Insurance (UI) issues.

Employees of the Kentucky Labor Cabinet are working hard to address the backlog of claims. They and UI claimants have also had to deal with—and are dealing with—fraudulent claims and attempts to breach the UI system.

On Thursday, April 8, it was announced that the Office of Unemployment Insurance (OUI) was shutting down the UI system for four days due to fraud, at which time no new claims could be filed, but all other processing would continue. According to the administration, all unemployment claimants will have to re-register with an eight-digit personal identification number (PIN) mailed to them from the Labor Cabinet. The cabinet issued further steps that claimants must take. They include:

- Creation of a new 12 character password using a mix of letters, numbers, and special characters.

- Verification of your email address and receiving an access code through your email account.

- Use of the new eight-digit PIN you are mailed from the cabinet—The telephone claiming system (interactive voice response) will also use the eight-digit PIN.

- Review all information in your account to make sure it is correct, and if it is not, you can receive a paper check. Only new claimants can enter account information for the time being.

This new information comes following the Labor Cabinet issuing a press release on April 2 stating that it had stopped claimants from making changes to their bank account information on file with the agency. That decision was prompted by reports from claimants who saw unauthorized changes to their bank accounts. OUI and the Commonwealth Office of Technology had previously stated that no security systems or information technology infrastructure had been breached or compromised. At the time of this article's submission, it is unclear if that is still the case. Moving forward, OUI will require UI claimants to have more complex PINS to prevent unauthorized access to accounts instead of simple four-digit PINs like 1111 or 1234, which are more prone to exploitation.

Over the last year, constituents have expressed frustrations over their inability to connect with another human being on the phone when calling OUI. Claimants with bills piling up and other life issues to deal with have been placed in a call queue, patiently waiting for assistance with their claims. Due to the COVID-19 pandemic, all regional offices were closed, but we have come a long way since last year. Vaccination rates are increasing, case counts are falling, and our hospital and intensive care unit occupancy are at manageable levels.

With all of this in mind, it is past time for UI offices to open up and provide help for Kentuckians in need. The legislature passed Senate Bill 146 to do just that. A provision in the bill requires that the Labor Cabinet make no less than 12 regional UI offices open, fully functional, and adequately staffed with trained UI specialists by April 15. The bill also implements criminal background check requirements for every prospective and current employee of the Labor Cabinet and its agencies, including contract staff, who can access or use federal tax information. The law directs the Labor Cabinet secretary to identify offices in regions where the unemployment rate has been above five percent in the last six months. The cabinet has the discretion to open additional offices on a full or partial schedule if it wishes.

The Kentucky Career Center (KCC) has identified the following offices opening for appointments April 15 – April 30. On April 19, appointments for May 3 will be available, with additional times opening after that. They include:

Ashland - 1844 Carter Ave., Ashland, KY 41042

Bowling Green - 803 Chestnut St., Bowling Green, KY 42101

Covington - 1324 Madison Ave., Covington, KY 41011

Elizabethtown - 233 Ring Rd., Suite 100, Elizabethtown, KY 42701

Hazard - 412 Roy Campbell Dr., Hazard, KY 41701

Hopkinsville - 110 Riverfront Dr., Hopkinsville, KY 42240

Lexington - 2624 Research Park Dr., Lexington, KY 40511

Louisville - 600 W. Cedar St., Louisville, KY 40202

Morehead - 1225 U.S. Hwy. 60 West, Suite 160, Morehead, KY 40351

Owensboro - 3108 Fairview Dr., Owensboro, KY 42303

Paducah - 416 South 6th St., Paducah, KY 42001

Prestonsburg - 686 North Lake Dr., Prestonsburg, KY 41339

Somerset - 410 East Mt. Vernon St., Somerset, KY 42501

On April 7, the KCC website began allowing the public to schedule appointments. Please visit kcc.ky.gov to make an appointment or find when other openings may become available. When accessing the website, you should click on the orange "Schedule an Appointment" link. You will then click the blue "Make Appointment" link and select your appointment type (Unemployment Insurance Assistance – In Person). At that point, you will be put into an online queue showing you what number you are "in line" and a display indicating the approximate amount of time it should take for you to view available openings. Be aware; if all appointment slots are booked, you will be unable to enter the online queue. If the website shows you a message of "no availability," make sure to check back regularly for any opportunities that may become available. If appointment slots for the first round of openings become filled, the next available day to schedule one appears to be April 19. That would be for appointments on May 3.

The legislature took additional steps to help with the unemployment crisis. Earlier in the session, we passed Senate Bill 7, a priority bill for the State Senate that gave the Labor Cabinet secretary authority to waive the requirement that people who mistakenly received benefits they did not qualify for must pay that money back. Additionally, the following budget appropriations were made this year:

- $575 million for UI loan repayment on the more than $800 million loan taken out by the Governor last year (House Bill 382). Paying this down will provide tax rate relief to Kentucky small business owners.

- $47.5 million for the replacement of the antiquated UI system (House Bill 192). The Governor wanted to use bond funds but the General Assembly elected to use general fund dollars.

- $9.5 million to fund 90 additional UI employees to help with the backlog of claims (House Bill 192).

If you have any questions or comments about this public policy issue or regarding the 2021 Legislative Session, I certainly want to hear from you. You can contact me toll-free at 1-800-372-7181 or email me at jared.carpenter@lrc.ky.gov.

Frankfort Update

By Josh Bray
State Representative
Pandemic and Potential:
Education a hot topic during 2021 Session

As a legislator, my view of public education begins and ends with one question:

Is this good for our children? I am a father of a 3rd grader and a little girl who will be in kindergarten in the next couple of years. My wife and I are both the product of public schools and our two children will be as well. Making sure our schools have the tools and policies in place to best educate students is one of my top priorities. That's why over the January recess I went to school board meetings throughout my district. No one knows better what our schools need than our local school boards and administration.

One of the first things I learned our school systems needed was funding for all day kindergarten. Currently, the state only provides funding for kindergarten students for half of the day. Whereas students in 1st through 12th grade are funded at approximately $4,000 per student, kindergarten students are only funded at approximately $2,000. This means our local school systems have to provide the additional funds needed. In HB 382 we allocated $140 million statewide to fully fund kindergarten. This will have a huge impact on rural school districts like ours that rely on SEEK funding. This has been a need for years and I am proud to have advocated for our schools.

I am happy to share some additional measures we took to improve the educational opportunities offered to our children.

HB 178: This measure addresses the current instability in the organization in the Kentucky Board of Education, which has seen several commissioners and reorganizations in the last few years. It requires appointments to the Kentucky Board of Education to reflect equal gender representation and proportionally reflect the Commonwealth's political affiliation and minority racial composition. It provides that members can be removed if composition requirements are not met and adds a student and a teacher to the board as non-voting members. HB 178 also prohibits the Governor from reorganizing the board.

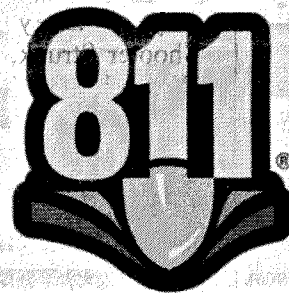

SB 128: You may have heard this legislation referred to as the "do-over bill" because it provides Kentucky's public and non-public K-12 students the option to complete a "do-over" of the school year interrupted by the COVID-19 pandemic. Students and their parents or caregivers must submit their request for a supplemental school year to retake and supplement coursework already completed to their local board of education, who can accept or deny all requests. While some have managed to continue learning through this pandemic, this is not the case for all students. We know the digital divide and access to technology, availability of a parent or other supportive adult throughout the school day, and many other factors impact how a student fared during the 2020-2021 school year. A "do-over" academic year offers families the opportunity to put their child's individual education needs first and help close any learning gaps.

HB 331: Endorsed by the Kentucky School Boards Association, HB 331 is aimed at holding local school board members accountable to the people who

WORKING ON AN OUTDOOR PROJECT?

By taking these important steps BEFORE you break ground - you can help protect not only yourself but our community. Disrupting an underground utility line can interrupt service, cause injuries, and cost money to repair. -- Always call 8-1-1 first and know what's below --

1. NOTIFY

Call 8-1-1 or make a request online two to three days before your work begins. The operator will notify the utilities affected by your project.

2. WAIT

Wait two to three days for affected utilities to respond to your request. They will send a locator to mark any underground utility lines.

3. CONFIRM

Confirm that all affected utilities have responded to your request by comparing the marks to the list of utilities the 8-1-1 call center notified.

4. RESPECT

Respect the markers provided by the affected utilities. The markers are your guide for the duration of your project.

5. DIG CAREFULLY

If you can't avoid digging near the markers (within 18-24 inches on all sides, depending on state laws), consider moving your project location.

Mt. Vernon Message

Mrs. Alaina Taylor's second grade class has worked super hard to create PSAs about recycling in honor of Earth Day later this month. There is one posted in each hallway of our school.

Each poster has QR code that can be scanned with your phone and you can hear the short message read by students.

The students are so excited to know that people outside our class may hear their important messages.
