Serving Rockcastle County Since 1887

Mount Vernon, Kentucky 40456 - (606) 256-2244

Construction continues on the bridge on Highway 3275 over I-75 in northern Rockcastle County. I-75 was closed for two nights in May this year while the existing bridge was torn down and traffic on HWY 3275 has been rerouted since then. The expected date to open the new bridge is September 1st. The new bridge is part of the $31 million I-75 widening project.

Council work session addresses Brodhead Nuisance ordinance

By: Mike French

Members of the Brodhead City Council held a work session Monday evening at City Hall to discuss details of the new nuisance ordinance.

Councilmen John Burton, Ricky Kirby and Brian Bullock, along with City

Clerk Becky Bussell, discussed the ordinance line by line in preparation for a first reading at the August 14 regular monthly meeting.

Before the ordinance is enacted, the council must hear the first reading in August and then vote to accept the new ordinance after the city. However, the council second reading at the September meeting.

The nuisance ordinance has been a topic of discussion in Brodhead for nearly a year. Some local residents had attended meetings to lodge complaints about trash and junk littering the updated ordinance to provide time to research legal details, among other factors, before implementing the new ordinance. Earlier this year the

had tabled completing the council voted to eliminate the existing nuisance ordinance until the new one could be completed to replace it.

According to Bussell, the present council members have the ordinance ready now for the first reading.

"The only significant change from the old ordinance will include the way the city addresses junk vehicles in our city," Bussell

Though the old ordinance did address junk cars within city limits, the new ordinance bans any junk cars, even on personal property, if that inoperable vehicle creates a hazard to the environment or any other health hazard. Residents of Brodhead are encouraged to attend the August meeting which will begin at 7 p.m. at city hall, to hear the first reading of the ordinance and be informed about any changes that may occur in the city's ordinances.

munity support has helped provide some relief for a grief stricken family in Rockcastle County after a tragic accident last week left 17 month-old Carson Watts, son of Rachel Parez, dead.

On Wednesday, July 26, at approximately 10:30 a.m. Kentucky State Police Post 11 in London received a report that a vehicle had struck the toddler on Old State Road near the intersection of Fairview Loop in the Conway community of Rockcastle County.

Upon arrival, Trooper Adam Hensley found that a 2007 Ford Edge was traveling south when it struck the child, who had wandered into the roadway from a nearby residence.

The child was pronounced dead at the scene by Rockcastle County Coroner Marvin Owens.

Trooper Hensley said after investigating the scene and interviewing those involved, it appears drugs or alcohol played no part in the accident. "The driver of the car has been through a very traumatic event and is innocent. We aren't going to release the name of the driver to avoid any further trouble for them," said Hensley.

According to Trooper Hensley, the child apparently either rolled or walked into the narrow roadway from a very shadowed area where shrubbery and trees line the edge of the blacktop, just as the vehicle topped a hill which led into a curve and struck the child.

At the scene of the accident, the mother could be heard screaming inside the home but the pastor of Fairview Baptist Church, Vaughn Rasor, was already at the home comforting Parez, who is a member of the church, while the investigation was underway.

According to interviews Rasor gave to other media outlets, and interviews that the child's grandfather gave, support from the community has been overwhelming.

In fact, monetary donations have been made to the church to help cover funeral costs but that's not been the most impressive support.

Reports indicate that while the child's grave was being dug, cars and trucks began to pull over and line the roadway. People began to get out of their trucks and carrying shovels into the cemetery on the hot day and soon men were swarming

Solar eclipse coming soon

Rockcastle Countians, along with the rest of the country, will be treated to a once-in-a-lifetime event on Monday, August 21st - a total (in some parts of the state) solar eclipse, the first visible from coast to coast since June 1918.

The most recent total solar eclipse was in Indonesia on March 9, 2016.

The eclipse, when the moon passes between the sun and the earth, will be visible only in the United States. This is the first total solar eclipse that's only visible in the U.S. and no other country since the country was founded in 1776. The next total solar eclipse here

Fate plays amazingly different hands to people and families in general. It's like in Poker one guy will get a 5, 6, 9, J, K and the guy beside him will get a A. A, A, A, 4. It just doesn't seem fair sometimes.

This happens in the game of life at an even worse level and I have seen it in this business quite often and just am not sure what can be done about it.

Here is a perfect example. There is a family where a little dark-haired girl has a father who is horribly addicted to drugs and spends his days and nights curled in the fetal position in the corner of a dark room. The little girl's mother left home months ago leaving the young gal to take care of her father's convulsions and her younger sister whom she must get ready for school every morning and fix breakfast for, all while keeping her daddy from going into fits and doing laundry and cleaning house and keeping the world from finding out her situation so that grown ups don't take her family away from her. And when her daddy's check comes in the mail, she walks to the local store to get groceries and tries to use what's left to keep the electric on.

Just a few miles away, a little blond girl rolls out of her silk sheets and goes to her fully prepared eggs and bacon and toast ant then meets her father in the BMW so that he can drive her to school

Mother will pick her up later and take her to her piano lesson. Mom will wait in the car and once the lesson is over, mom and the little blonde girl will go to the mall and pick out a new dress and possibly have a nice dinner out together. At some point during the day, the little blonde girl and the dark haired little girl probably crossed paths. I wonder if they spoke to each other? Perhaps a friendly nod. They are both too young to have started to judge people on their socioeconomic status.....aren't

Besides, the dark haired little girl doesn't look poor. You can't tell just by looking at her that her dad is an addict or that she cries herself to sleep.

Thirty years from now, will the blond girl come from the broken home and be devastated while the dark haired girl has a father who quit drugs and a mother who came home?

Most likely not. The little blonde girl has a vastly greater head start towards living the stronger, healthier, wealthier, more successful, more popular, less stressful, happier life. Through absolutely no fault of her own, the little dark haired girl, who fights ever hour of the day to do the right thing, is greatly diminished in her chances in life. She is not banned from success. She can do it. But statistically, her chances are all but nonexistent. Yet, she continues to fight.

How is this fair?

One child is born and, by the time he is 18, he can run so fast he breaks school records and gets scholarships to college.

Another child, born on the same day, has no legs. How is this fair?

I suppose we all have limits no matter how poor or how well off we may be. Someone, somewhere is poorer and someone, somewhere is richer. All we can do is accept out lot in life and play the cards we are Here's hoping that occasionally we all get dealt a hand with aces over.

Granny Soakers and Other Southern Treats

In a recent column, my favorite "storyteller," Rick Bragg, described a snack from his past that made my mouth water. He was discussing the construction of a tomato sandwich exactly like the ones prepared by my grandmother (Mommie Katie). Bragg gave the following directions: "Slather one thick slice of good white bread with real mayonnaise, and top with one or two thick slices of fresh tomato (late-summer ones are best) and salt and black pepper to taste. Top with another slice of white bread, slathered slightly less."

Although Mommie Katie made this tasty southern treat for herself, I never saw her make a tomato sandwich while actually sitting at the dinner table. I only witnessed her making them in the kitchen while she was cooking. When one day she made one for me, I thought it was delicious.

I recall wondering why we did not eat them for meals. I am sure my grandfather, Pop, would have loved it. He would eat tomatoes with any meal, or even by themselves. There were countless times that I watched him pick a ripe tomato from one of his vines and promptly eat it with the aid of his trusty pocket

Not long ago, my wife got up from where we were watching late-night television and made her way to the kitchen. Upon her return, I spied a plate of sliced bananas covered with mayonnaise, and a layer of peanut butter on top. I am sure that the look on my face gave her pause. I was like a hungry kid with his eyes lighting up. I immediately explained that Mommie Katie brought the same TV snack to me when I was a little boy. I loved it then, and I still love it now. I was grateful for the delights of both the food and the recollection of a warm and wonderful memory. Memories of such southern treats makes me recall another one that I only remember Mommie Katie eating. She called the concoction a "Granny Soaker," and she made them for herself at the kitchen table, usually just after breakfast. It

My Rediscovery of Bonanza

Dear Journal,

Anyone of a certain age and beyond will tell you in a heartbeat that there is nothing on television anymore to watch. Oh, yes, there are plenty of shows but nothing that we enjoy. Once you've seen the "golden age" of television, nothing else compares.

There are plenty of reality TV shows that some enjoy. I've tried to watch, but never have seen such a made up piece of trash in my life. America has gone wild over the Kardashians. Just who are they and what have they done, anyway? The comedy shows aren't really that funny. I never cared for the "whodunnit" mysteries because I never cared "who done it". The old westerns are gone forever. We're not left with much to watch, I'm down to the local news and two soap operas: the Bold and the Beautiful and The Young and the Restless. I"ve even stopped watching the network news as all it is anymore is "Trump bashing".

Every story is geared to make him look bad.

A few months ago, Stanley bought me a tablet. It has turned out to be a wonderful device. I'm almost never without it. Just to think, when I was growing up a tablet was a big block of paper all attached on one side and used to write friends and kinfolk.

Every night Stanley and I used to try to find something to watch that we both liked as we fell to sleep. Neither of us really were interested in the same things, except on rare occasions so it made it difficult. He likes action type shows or movies and science fiction. I like classic musicals and classic movies from the 1930s through the 1950s, "Golden Age of TV" shows, historic films, or documentaries and biographies With our individual tablets we can prop up in bed to enjoy what we like

You can find all kinds of things to watch on

Opinion-Editorial: Beware The Skimmer

By Ryan Quarles, Kentucky Commissioner of Agriculture

Summer is a great time to make memories with family and friends. Whether you are spending your summer out on the farm, driving to your local ice cream shop, or hitting the road for a vacation, Kentuckians should be on the lookout for preying credit card skimmers seeking to steal sensitive information while you fill up your gas

Credit card skimmers have been on the rise in recent years. Whether in Florida, Indiana, or here in Kentucky, skimming has become a national problem. Just this last month, Credit Union Insight reported that the federal government estimates skimming losses increased by as much as 70 percent in 2016.

The information obtained from a skimmer can result in hundreds of fraudulent charges over a single weekend. That's why, prior to the Fourth of July holiday, I encouraged Kentuckians to be aware of this threat to their pocketbooks. Kentucky Department of Agriculture (KDA) fuel pump inspectors already have removed four skimmers at gas pumps this summer.

This is a big issue, and we are actively working with our friends in the law enforcement community to protect Kentuckians at the pump. For the second year in a row, our inspectors are looking for evidence of tampering with fuel pumps. In the past, inspectors were not checking for skimmers, but as the threat of skimming increased, we incorporated an additional inspection into our responsibilities at the Department of Agriculture. This is part of our on-going commitment to do more with less, even as we cut

our budget to help Governor

Matt Bevin meet the state's financial obligations.

Kentuckians are our best ally as we try to stop these crooks. We need you, our friends and neighbors, to be our eyes and ears out on the road. So, while you fill up at your local gas station, pay special attention to the card reader, and if you think you spot signs of tampering, please notify the KDA by calling (502) 573-0282, ext.

2, or emailing us at ag.web@ky.gov. You may be wondering, "How can I tell if someone has tampered with a card reader?" Here are a few key signs to look for: • Locks that appear to have been compromised, or · Doors that may have been pried open

 Broken or loose security tape that does not adhere to the pump

I am proud to work alongside some of the best folks in Kentucky serving the Commonwealth. The Department of Agriculture is committed to doing whatever we can to go the extra mile for our neighbors.

As your Agriculture Commissioner, I want to make sure the pocketbooks of Kentuckians are protected at the pump, and that you are not being taken advantage of by preying credit card thieves.

So when you fill up your vehicle this summer, do a quick inspection, and if you see something that looks suspicious, let the attendant know and contact law enforcement and the KDA. Don't let your summer vacation, or your pocketbooks, be disturbed.

cause my fall garden has far more boundary than the first two can possibly cover. Two of them costs $26 and change including S&H but they are worth far, far more than that if, in fact, they are responsible for keeping the raccoons out of the sweet corn I hope to have coming in 3 more times before the first frost. I'm reasonably convinced these things work but they have fairly limited capability. I also figure that it's just a matter of time before the coons figure them out which is why I only plan to have them in operation during those times when I have corn ripe enough to attract varmints. I'll keep you posted.

In the meantime we have been using solar-powered, ultrasonic, seismic, vole repellers that seem to be working now that we no longer have a cat willing to keep the mole and vole population in check. These things also work on batteries that have solar rechargers. The trick is getting the tips of them 8 inches into the ground where they emit very subtle vibrations that will carry underground for 50 feet in all directions. Voles are supposed to find this so aggravating that they'll move to your neighbors' yard. And, since my closest neighbors are cows, I don't feel too guilty for

I still see a new vole ridge from time to time but, so far, during the 60 days I've been using these things, the voles haven't stuck around for more than 12 hours and, in fact, I see fewer now than when the cat was here.

was like her little dessert after eggs and bacon, instead of toast and jam.

I watched her crumble several saltine crackers into her saucer and then pour black coffee from her mug over the crackers. Finally, she sprinkled sugar on the "soaker" and ate it with a spoon. You could tell from the look on her face that she enjoyed this dish very much.

I once asked Mommie if I could have a little, and she slid the saucer over to me. I dipped my spoon into the blackened cracker mix and tasted it for myself. I then slowly pushed the saucer back to Mommie Katie. I never asked for a second taste. I suppose you had to love truly strong coffee to fully enjoy a "granny soaker." Maybe I should try it again now that I have been a daily coffee drinker for such a long time.

It would, of course, be Mommie Katie out of all my family who would know about home-made tasty treats. The woman was a warehouse of knowledge when it came to anything involved with food and its preparation. Anyone would have been totally safe with her if they were lost and wandering in the woods. Mommie Katie always knew where there was food. And she certainly knew what to do with whatever she had available.

I miss that woman; and there is nothing that I would like better than to sit down to a tomato sandwich with her right now - especially if the tomatoes came from Pop's garden.

Thinking ahead to fall hunting in the heat of summer

eternity away when the heat index soars into the triple digits and air conditioners must work overtime to meet unrelenting demand.

The arrival of the new Kentucky Hunting and Trapping Guide from the Kentucky Department of Fish and Wildlife Resources provides a comforting reassurance that summer is marching closer to fall. The free guide ships to outlets that sell licenses and permits, but it also can be viewed and downloaded from Kentucky Fish and Wildlife's website at fw.kv.gov.

A valuable resource for anyone who plans to participate in fall hunting seasons, the annual publication lists season dates and summarizes rules and regulations for deer, elk, bear, turkey, small game, furbearers and other species. It also provides information about licensing and permit requirements, youth hunting, quota hunts, publie lands hunting and much

Changes since last year also are highlighted in the guide. There are several to note this year, including new or expanded hunting opportunities on wildlife management areas (WMAs) and state parks. An addendum to the bear hunting section of the guide is forthcoming. It will be available on the department's website or by calling the department at 1-800-858-1549.

In addition to brushing up on the latest information, this also is a good time to start laying the groundwork for a safe and successful season.

Trail cameras have become a valued tool for many hunters. Derek Beard recently put up trail cameras on land he plans

Fall can seem like an to hunt this fall in an effort attention to the kind of tree place to hunt with the to pattern deer before archery season, which this year opens Sept. 2 across the state. 'Trail cameras will give vou an idea about what's there," said Beard, Bluegrass Wildlife Region coordinator for Kentucky Fish and Wildlife. "I look for a high megapixel cameras and this time of year I like my flash cameras. They're older trail cameras, but I like a colored nighttime picture because it helps me identify those deer a lot better and get a better idea of what they look like."

Tree stands can offer hunters an advantage in the woods, but safety should always be foremost in mind when utilizing one. Whether a stand has been left out in the elements since last year or is new from the box, it should be thoroughly inspected. Replace any damaged tethers, straps and lines. It's also wise to inspect safety harnesses and ensure they fit properly.

If hanging a stand, pick a live tree that is relatively straight. Gabe Jenkins considers a few things before choosing a stand location. "I want it close to where I'm expecting deer to be," said Jenkins, the deer and elk program coordinator for Kentucky Fish and Wildlife. "Another consideration is what type of weapon that I plan to be using in that tree stand, whether it's an archery setup or firearms or both. And accessibility.'

Something else to keep in mind: the invasive emerald ash borer has ravaged ash trees in recent years. While forest floors are littered with broken and shattered ash trees and their limbs, many dead ash trees are still standing. "You need to really pay you're putting your stands in," Jenkins said. "Especially in the Bluegrass, the dominant tree species can be ash. You do not want to put your stand in a dead ash tree or in close proximity to one."

Now is a good time to beat the fall rush and preregister for hunter education courses. Hunters who are not license exempt and were born after Jan. 1, 1975 must carry a valid hunter education card or hunter education exemption permit while hunting. Hunter education cards are obtained by completing a hunter education course. Courses are offered in person throughout the state, online or on a CD-ROM. Register online through the department's website.

While there, explore all that it has to offer. Find a WMA and Public Lands search or public shooting ranges. Buy licenses or permits. Consider subscribing to Kentucky Afield magazine, Kentucky Fish and Wildlife's award-winning publication. The upcoming fall issue will explore grouse restoration efforts, profile hunters who harvested some of Kentucky's most impressive bucks last year and preview fall hunting opportunities.

The hottest months of summer are upon us, but it's never too early to start thinking about fall.

Cade Burdette earned first place honors Tuesday in the Somerset Invitational at Eagles Nest, shooting a 72. Burdette won the tournament in a sudden death playoff hole in which a par was good enough for the win over Barbourvilles' number one golfer. The Rockets return to play Saturday in the Estill Co. Invitational.

"What Is Landscaping?" Simply as it can be stated, landscaping is a section of nature that is pleas-

Most people don't have the luxury of finding the perfect scenic property in that pristine spot they like best, and then hiring a wellknown builder to construct their dream house (without destroying the natural spot in the process). But most can take what they have and beautify it.

Back in time, at least to Babylon and ancient Egypt, the royal class were planting trees and shrubs and vines in an organized way they found pleasing. This probably was about the beginning of landscaping.

Landscaping can be a lot of things to various people. It should be interesting and attractive. A landscape should be practical and organized. A yard or garden should be comfortable. making one at ease who en-

And it takes more than a few annual and perennial flowers to make a land-

Everybody seems to have a favorite tree or plant, but taking a shopping spree and then bringing your favorites home and looking for where best to plant them is the wrong way to go about landscaping. Think, research, plan, sketch. Then shop. Then plant.

Landscapes can be simple, yet tasteful. Or they can be elaborate and formal. Or naturalized like in a country cottage yard. Sometimes we can handle our own landscaping. And sometimes, especially for the elaborate project, we need an expert with experience. Or a creative artist, good with rocks and plants

From landscaping on the cheap, where you put in a few small trees and shrubs and are willing to be patient, to fancy or exotic landscapes with lots of features like curved drives and walks, retaining walls, arbors and pergolas, maybe a sports field or a swimming pool, maybe a pond or stream or waterfall, perhaps a hot tub or a firepit, or an all-out outdoor kitchen and dining and entertaining area. Landscaping can be any and all of these.

The Beginning of Something Better

By Howard Coop

With high school graduation behind me, I was, indeed, happy! My world was bright. There was so much ahead for me. The college of my choice had accepted me, and a summer job promised so much. I waited for the new world, and my heart was filled with hope. But...

My world collapsed. That summer job I had accepted so eagerly was a total failure. Instead of earning enough money for college, I ended that summer with a small debt, and September approached. There was, I thought, no way for me to go to college. Depressed and defeated, I saw no way ahead. I did not know what to do.

But I didn't give up. A job, one I had not anticipated, that offered a grand total of $425 for the next twelve months, was offered, and I accepted it gladly. Then, I enrolled in another college, one I had never thought about, and I had a great year. Daniel A. Poling said it so well, "It's not the fact that you're whipped that counts; but only how did you take it." In 1936 when the Great Depression was a reality, Dorothy Field wrote a song that says it so well: Pick yourself up,

Take a deep breath, Dust yourself off, And start all over again.

If we are to succeed in real life, that's what we have to do. One failure does not have to be final. It can be the beginning of something

In everyday life, ill winds are not uncommon. Too often they blow, sometimes hard, and we feel them. They may shake us, sometimes, more than a little bit. But even an ill wind, if we choose, can be used to an advantage. The American poet, Ella Wheeler Wilcox, said it so well when she wrote:

"One ship sails East, another West, By the self-same winds that blow. Tis the set of the sails, and not the gales,

That tells us the way to go."

'Ag Tag' donations soared to nearly $630,000 in 2017

Kentucky Agriculture Commissioner Ryan Quarles announced today that voluntary "ag tag" donations in the 2017 fiscal year that ended June amounted $629,865.43, setting a record for the largest amount donated since the program began.

The voluntary donations are divided equally among Kentucky 4-H, Kentucky FFA, and the Kentucky Department of Agriculture.

"This number is a testament to the giving spirit of farmers all over the state and demonstrates the support Kentuckians have for Kentucky 4-H, Kentucky FFA, and Kentucky's agriculture community," Commis-

"We're grateful to everyone who gave to the 'ag tag' program."

'Without a doubt, 4-H councils across the state benefit from the generosity of each and every individual who purchased an ag tag," said Melissa Miller, executive director of the Kentucky 4-H Foundation. "On behalf of 4-H, I would like to thank Commissioner Quarles, the KDA, and drivers throughout the Commonwealth proudly supporting 4-H."

"Every year, Kentuckians step up and donate more of their hard-earned money to the ag tag fund, which enables the FFA to develop the next generation of agricultural lead-sioner Quarles said. ers," said Sheldon "We're grateful to every- McKinney, executive director of the Kentucky FFA Foundation. "We are thrilled with this announcement and look forward to investing these funds directly in young Kentuckians.'

Donations in fiscal 2017 increased by $77,152.59, or nearly 14 percent, over fiscal 2016.

Kentucky motorists who buy or renew farm vehicle license plates, or "ag tags," may make a voluntary donation of up to $10 to the Ag Tag Fund. Half of the 4-H and FFA funds go back to the county where the tag is purchased, where both organizations use the funds to support local programming, awards, and scholarships.

Welcome

Justin Williams, DO

Introducing Oncologist Dr. Justin Williams

ockcastle Regional is pleased to welcome Dr. Justin Williams who is joining our Cancer Care team as a full-time medical oncologist.

Dr. Williams earned his degree in osteopathic medicine from Virginia College of Osteopathic Medicine. He completed both his residency in internal medicine and his fellowship in hematology/oncology at the University of Kentucky Chandler Medical Center.

To schedule an appointment or for more information, please call (606) 256-7486.

The above graphic shows the expected path of the August 21st total eclipse of the sun across Kentucky. A farm near Hopkinsville is considered "the point of greatest eclipse." In Rockcastle County, the sun is expected to be covered 96.6% with the peak coverage at 2:32 p.m.

"Eclipse"

In Rockcastle County, the eclipse will begin at 1:03 p.m., will peak at 2:31:42 p.m. and will end at 3:56 p.m. During the peak, 96.6% of the sun will be covered.

A farm, 11 miles northwest of Hopkinsville, has been designated the "point of greatest eclipse." Orchardale Farm will play host to NASA scientists, news media and elected officials and dignitaries to watch the first total solar eclipse in the United States since 1979 when a total solar eclipse was only visible in Washington, Oregon, Montana and North Dakota.

During the eclipse, according to NASA Planetary Scientist Renee Weber, "It gets dark during the day, which is very strange. You see the sun's corona, which is the hot, outermost atmosphere of the sun. You see the solar flares and projects." Plants and animals act as though night is falling, as flowers close up and birds return to roost. The temperature can drop 10 degrees or more.

The path, in which the moon's shadow sweeps across the Earth's surface, will cross parts of 12 states: Oregon, Idaho, Wyoming, Nebraska, Kansas, Missouri, Illinois, Kentucky, Tennessee, Georgia, North Carolina and South Carolina. The average speed of the moon's shadow as it crosses the U.S. is nearly 1,700 mph. That's over two times faster than a supersonic jet.

From the beginning of the eclipse in Oregon to the end of the eclipse in South Carolina, the eclipse will last about an hour and a half.

According to Kentucky Emergency Management, 10 western Kentucky counties are bracing for an influx of 100,000 to 500,000 visitors starting about three days before the Monday afternoon event. Another 11 counties are preparing for a mass of traffic as visitors travel to and from the total eclipse zone. Tourism officials report reservations, at local hotels/motels in the 10 western Kentucky counties, from 12 different countries and 34 states.

The event could also cause one of the worst traffic days in U.S. history, some NASA representatives predict. Although about 12 milliion people live within the narrow band of totality, about 200 million reside within a day's drive of it. The agency has estimated that the population inside the path of totality may double on the day of the eclipse.

Be very careful trying to view the eclipse! The only moment it's safe to look at the eclipse is during the 2-3 minutes when the sun is completely behind the moon. Before and after that during the partial eclipse special eclipse glasses, or welder's goggles, must be worn. That's because the sun's surface is so bright that if you stare at any portion of it, no matter how small, it produces enough light to permanently damage your retina. Our eyes never evolved to look at the sun without suffering severe damage. Regular sunglasses are also not safe to

Card of Thanks

The family of Jean Boone would like to take this time to thank everyone who took the time to call, send cards (she loved these), visit, food and supplies, flowers and gifts and most of all your prayers during her sickness and finally her passing.

The past few months have been challenging to say the least, and we know the days ahead will be no less, but with God on our side and continued prayers we will be okay with the hope of a happy reunion one day.

We were so humbled the night of mom's viewing. There was a continuous line of friends, family and co-workers for 3 1/2 hours to show us how much they cared for us and our mom. She would have been so happy to know she touched so many lives.

We ask that you continue to pray for us and may God bless each of you.

With love and gratitude, Brent, Marcella, Stella, Becky, Daniel

KY Chamber Vice-President to address local Chamber at August 29th meeting

The Rockcastle County Chamber of Commerce will meet Tuesday, August 29th at noon at Limestone Grille. Kentucky Chamber of Commerce Vice-President of Public Affairs, Ashli Watts, will be the featured speaker. Watts will discuss the Kentucky Chamber's efforts to improve the business climate in the state.

Also at the meeting, the Kentucky Chamber will make a presentation honoring the leadership of Representative Jonathan Shell during the 2017 regular session of the General Assembly. Shell, who represents Rockcastle County, is the state's first Republican House Majority Leader.

Chamber members and the public are encouraged to attend. For more information, contact Steve McKinney atstevemc1964@gmail.com.

Drivers be aware - it's back to school time

State highway crews will begin activating traffic warning flashers at schools across south central Kentucky as students and teachers return to classrooms.

And, that means hundreds of buses will be sharing roadways with workday commuters each morning and afternoon.

The Transportation Cabinet reminds all drivers to slow down in school zones, obey warning flashers on buses and never pass a bus on undivided highways when the stop arm is extended, and drive care-

According to the National Highway Traffic Safety Administration, the greatest risk is not riding the bus, but approaching or leaving the bus. Before children go back to school or start school for the first time, it is essential that adults and children know traffic safety rules.

Drivers

• When backing out of a driveway, driving in neighborhoods or near school zones, watch out for children.

• Slow down. Watch for children near bus stops, and stay alert. Put down the phone.

· Obey speed limit warning flashers near schools.

• Learn and obey the school bus laws in your state. Learn the "flashing signal light system" that school bus drivers use to alert motorists of pending actions:

• Yellow flashing lights indicate that the bus is preparing to stop to load or unload children. Motorists should slow down and prepare to stop their vehicles.

• Red flashing lights and extended stop arms indicate that the bus has stopped, and that children are getting on or off. Motorists must stop their cars and wait until the red lights stop flashing, the extended stop sign is withdrawn, and the bus begins moving before they can start driving again. Children:

• Get to the bus stop at least five minutes before the bus is scheduled to arrive. • When the bus ap-

MIKE HARMON AUDITOR OF PUBLIC ACCOUNTS

To the People of Kentucky

Honorable Matthew G. Bevin, Governor William M. Landrum III, Secretary

Finance and Administration Cabinet Honorable Doug Bishop, Rockcastle County Judge/Executive

Honorable Michael E. Peters, Rockcastle County Sheriff Members of the Rockcastle County Fiscal Court

Independent Auditor's Report

Report on the Financial Statement We have audited the Rockcastle County Sheriff's Settlement - 2015 Taxes for the period April 16, 2015 through April 15, 2016 -

Regulatory Basis, and the related notes to the financial statement. Management's Responsibility for the Financial Statement Management is responsible for the preparation and fair presentation of the financial statement in accordance with accounting practices prescribed or permitted by the laws of Kentucky to demonstrate corapliance with the Commonwealth of Kentucky's regulatory basis of accounting as described in Note 1. Management is also responsible for the design, implementation, and maintenance of internal control relevant to the preparation and fair presentation of a financial statement that is free from material misstatement, whether due to fraud or error. Auditor's Responsibility

Our responsibility is to express an opinion on the financial statement based on our audit. We conducted our audit in accordance with auditing standards generally accepted in the United States of America, the standards applicable to financial audits contained in Government Auditing Standards issued by the Comptroller General of the United States, and the Audit Guide for Sheriff's Tax Settlements issued by the Auditor of Public Accounts, Commonwealth of Kentucky. Those standards require that we plan and perform the audit to obtain reasonable assurance about whether the financial statement is free from material misstatement. An audit involves performing procedures to obtain audit evidence about the amounts and disclosures in the financial statement. The procedures selected depend on the auditor's judgment, including the assessment of the risks of material misstatement of the financial statement, whether due to fraud or error. In making those risk assessments, the auditor considers internal control relevant to the entity's preparation and fair presentation of the financial statement in order to design audit procedures that are appropriate in the circumstances, but not for the purpose of expressing an opinion on the effectiveness of the entity's internal control. Accordingly, we express no such opinion. An audit also includes evaluating the appropriateness of accounting policies used and the reasonableness of significant accounting estimates made by management, as well as evaluating the overall presentation of the financial statement. We believe that the audit evidence we have obtained is sufficient and appropriate to provide a basis for our audit opinion. Basis for Adverse Opinion on U.S. Generally Accepted Accounting Principles

As described in Note 1 of the financial statement, the financial statement is prepared by the Rockcastle County Sheriff on the basis of accounting practices prescribed or permitted by the laws of Kentucky to demonstrate compliance with the Commonwealth of Kentucky's regulatory basis of accounting, which is a basis of accounting other than accounting principles generally accepted in the United States of America The effects on the financial statement of the variances between the regulatory basis of accounting described in Note 1 and accounting principles generally accepted in the United States of America, although not reasonably determinable, are presumed to be material, Adverse Opinion on U.S. Generally Accepted Accounting Principles

In our opinion, because of the significance of the matter discussed in the Basis for Adverse Opinion on U.S. Generally Accepted Accounting Principles paragraph, the financial statement referred to above does not present fairly, in accordance with accounting principles generally accepted in the United States of America, the taxes charged, credited, and paid of the Rockeastle County Sheriff, for the period April 16, 2015 through April 15, 2016. Opinion on Regulatory Basis of Accounting

In our opinion, the financial statement referred to above presents fairly, in all material respects, the taxes charged, credited, and paid for the period April 16, 2015 through April 15, 2016 of the Rockcastle County Sheriff, in accordance with the basis of accounting practices prescribed or permitted by the Commonwealth of Kentucky as described in Note 1 Other Reporting Required by Government Auditing Standards

In accordance with Government Auditing Standards, we have also issued our report dated May 2, 2017 on our consideration of the Rockcastle County Sheriff's internal control over financial reporting and on our tests of its compliance with certain provisions of laws, regulations, contracts and grant agreements, and other matters. The purpose of that report is to describe the scope of our testing of internal control over financial reporting and compliance and the results of that testing, and not to provide an opinion on the internal control over financial reporting or on compliance. That report is an integral part of an audit performed in accordance with Government Auditing Standards in considering the Rockcastle County Sheriff's caternal control over financial reporting and compliance. Based on the results of our audit, we have presented the accompanying comment and recommendation, included herein, which discusses the following report comment: 2015-001 The Sheriff's Office Lacks Adequate Segregation Of Duties Giver Receipts And Disbursements Respectfully submitted,

Area youth put "love thy neighbor" into practice

Grace and Waveney Brooks are at once exceptional and ordinary. Both students at Tates Creek High School in Lexington, they have journeyed to Guatemala with their family to translate at a medical clinic in a small village and recently joined over 80 youth from local Church of Latter Day Saints congregations to partner with Christian Appalachian Project (CAP) in Rockcastle County. The service project provided an opportunity for them to make a difference at home.

said Waveney. "I wanted to take part in a project like this because I knew it would bring me closer to those I worked with and also bring me closer to God."

The sisters were part of a group of youth from 10 different LDS congregations in the Lexington area taking part in a youth conference. The teens, ages 14-18, worked on a variety of CAP projects such as assisting with commodity distribution at the Grateful Bread Food Pantry, assembling informational packets for the Disaster Relief Program, sorting/steaming donated Thrift Store, and constructing ramps/benches.

clothes for Grateful Threadz

"This youth conference provides an opportunity for nearly 100 teens kids to try a variety of tasks they can do in their own community to help out and bring Christ into people's lives," said Drew Millar, one of the youth leader's that accompanied the group. "These type of service experiences will make them want to come back and give back."

The annual youth conference seeks to strengthen their faith in Christ, provide opportunities to build important friendships, and serve the larger community.

"I just wanted to help people that are in need," Grace added. "It made me really happy to help others and see the progress we made on the projects we worked on.'

The young people that were with Grace and her sister came from area congregations, including Lexing-Richmond, ton.

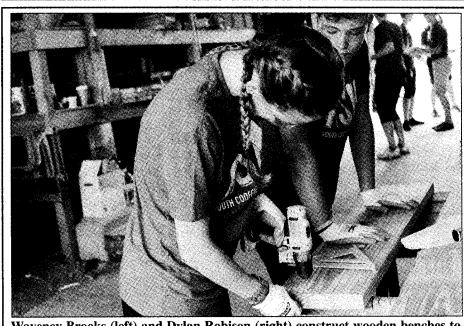

Nicholasville, Danville, Berea, Liberty, Somerset, London, and Corbin. CAP works to establish partnerships with local churches through its Volunteer Program and its newly created Church Relations Program.

Waveney plans to do missionary work full-time for a year after she gets a little older. "This experience with my sister was fantastic because we got to help people who otherwise might be left out," Waveney added. "It's amazing to think you can be a part of something that changes the life of another person. Serving others can bring more light into anyone's day."

To learn more about mission trip opportunities with Christian Appalachian Project or how your church can partner with CAP, email groups@chrisapp.org.

Teens from the LDS Youth Conference pre-assemble handicap-accessible ramps that will be used on housing projects throughout the county.
