Rockcastle County Judge/Executive Doug Bishop (above) and Livingston Mayor Jason Medley (right) spoke to the crowd attending a ceremony held Saturday, August 26th celebrating the re-opening of the Preston Parrett Gymnasium in the former Livingston School. The remodeled space can now be used for many activities and is available for the entire county. A Parks and Recreation Board is already in place to oversee activities at the gym which may also be rented for family or social events. Medley said there will be certain nights each month that the facility will be open for anyone who wants to simply drop by and play a little basketball. Others who spoke at the ceremony included Dell Ponder, Mount Vernon Mayor Mike Bryant, Billy Wayne Bryant and Magistrates Mike McGuire and Shannon Bishop. Many renovations have been made to the gym which was closed with the school in 1994.

Baseball bat used to carjack local man

Hate crime suspected

By: Mike French

James Goodson was driving along Sweetwater Road on Sunday, August 6th, when a male and a female approached his vehicle and used a baseball bat to break the driver's side window and force him out of his vehicle, according to Rockcastle County Deputy Sheriff Matt Bryant.

The couple then stole the vehicle and drove away leaving the injured Goodson standing alongside the road with minor injuries from the glass breakage.

Deputies arrived on the scene and began an investigation into the robbery and recovered the damaged car

Burglary and meth arrests in county

By: Mike French

There were several arrests this week related to drug usage and burglary in Rockcastle County.

Kentucky State Police received a call Monday, August 28, of two men fighting in Brodhead.

Upon arrival, police found John Newland, 43, of Brodhead, standing on Main Street in Brodhead with a armed with a bullwhip.

The report says Newland had struck another man with the bullwhip and had broken down a door to a residence with a sledge hammer and told those inside that he would kill them and burn their house down.

Newland was arrested and charged with public intoxication, disorderly conduct, assault and terroristic threatening.

In an incident on Sunday, Aug. 27th, Mount Vernon police officer Ryan Messenger observed Joseph Holsing, 38, of Mount Vernon, climbing into a window of a residence on Richmond Street. As Messenger drove by, he saw Holsing half way into the window.

According to the report, Holsing claimed he was attempting to get rolling papers from inside the home but the owner of the residence told police a billfold with $90 inside was missing.

$15,000 in savings to county

Fiscal Court gets reduction in health insurance premium

Rockcastle County Judge/Executive Doug Bishop and magistrates got some good news at last Thursday's special called meeting of the fiscal court. Fiscal Court Clerk Trish Martin told the court that the county's health insurance premium costs would go down by 5% for the upcoming year -- a savings of around $15,000 for the county. The savings would have been greater but the court approved providing an app for all employees' smart phones which can be used to keep track of their insurance's co-pays, deductibles, etc. and can also be used to speak with a doctor 24/7 for information on a possible medical condition.

Judge Bishop spoke in favor of the app, which can be used by all family mem-

Brother's Keeper plans new facility in county

By: Mike French

The first public meeting for a group associated with My Brother's Keepers, Inc., was held Thursday, August 24 at the Rockcastle County Middle School.

A large crowd gathered to hear former Marine and Kentucky State Police Detective Ryan Loudermilk and Kim Gibson, spokesperson for Rockcastle Rehab and Addiction Center, talk about addiction and the possibility of opening a facility in Rockcastle County.

Loudermilk told the crowd there are 83 million addicts in America and Rockcastle County has its share of that amount.

"We can't just keep putting people in jail over and over again and expect them to become productive members of society," he said.

Loudermilk said he, and those working with him, "dream big" and plan to start with a 16 bed, 28-day facility and will need approxi-

Many events planned for Livingston Homecoming

The after effects of Hurricane Harvey, expected to hit this area beginning this Thursday and continue through the weekend, will not stop the festivities planned for this weekend's Livingston Homecoming. The events will just be moved inside the Livingston school gym or the Depot building, according to Livingston Mayor Jason Medley.

The first event will be Friday night, September 1st and will be an evening full of gospel singing, featuring The Murphys, Ralph Allen & Friends, Williamsburg Gospel Band, Sister Judy O'Brien, Earl Smith and more.

On Saturday, events begin at 8 a.m. with the

Aces Over

By: Mike French

If you read Aces Over very often, you know that I enjoy stepping back in time occasionally and remembering what life was like when there were less worries and a much less "anything goes" lifestyle.

It seems to me that general society, especially young liberals, have adopted a new phrase called "haters" and anytime a Christian, or a morally-centered human being, condemns an activity or lifestyle that is immoral or directly forbidden in that little book called the Holy Bible, they are called "haters" and subject to public ridicule and/or violence.

Something is ironic about the fact that anyone who disagrees with the "anything goes" lifestyle will be ridiculed and hated by those who claim that any belief or lifestyle should be tolerated.

Anyway, back to remembering things that takes your mind go back a little.

I remember encyclopedias. Big, giant sets of hard back books that told you almost anything you wanted to know. It was so cool to open those pages and smell the ink.

I remember that a set was very expensive and we had to purchase a few volumes at a time. The full set was 10 or 12 books listing everything from Aardvarks to Zine.

Of course today we have the internet for that.

Here's a good one. I remember, wash boards. I mean as a way to wash clothes, not as an antique decoration to hang on a wall.

Grandma would set the legs of the washboard in a big metal tub and hand scrub all their clothes on that washboard and then rinse them out and hang them on a line stretched from tree to tree to dry them out.

I had to be very careful riding my bicycle in the yard or I would crash into sheets hanging outside. Yes, you and I know I did it on purpose but I told grandma it was an accident..... everytime.

Points East

By Ike Adams

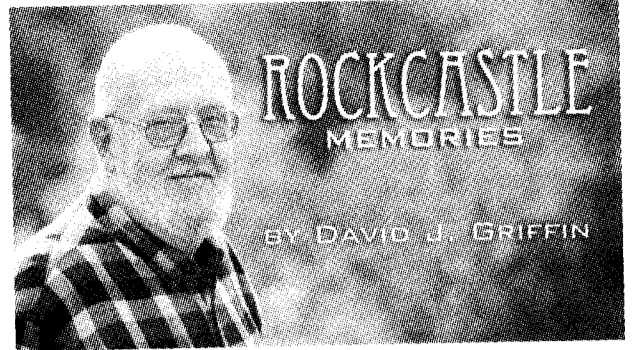

I've had and pretty much, still have, the "prettiest" vegetable garden I've had in at least ten years despite unsuitable weather and Mr. Parkinson's all out attempts to keep me out of it. Even though it doesn't look nearly as good as it did a month ago we are still eating several meals from garden produce every week and should have green beans, sweet corn, summer squash, peppers, tomatoes, eggplant, green onions, cucumbers etc. coming in until frost stops them. (Special thanks to Patty Jennigs of Jennings Home Center in Berea for saving me some fall onion sets!)

Record low night-time temperatures during the last part of July caused both my Babe Campbell corn field beans and my Lazy Wife fall beans to suffer major set-backs. They're just now coming on like gangbusters when they should have been ready to start picking at the end of July. I have Big John's, acquired from Kyle Whitaker in Winchester in 2014 just now blooming. The "Babe Beans" were a gift from Mrs. Tannie Campbell Cornett of Ulvah in 2005 and Loretta insists that she doesn't understand why I bother growing anything other than "The Babes" which have been grown by Tannie's family for over a century. Ditto, for the "Big Johns" and Letcher County's Whitaker family. Loretta changes her mind based on whichever one she's eating at the time.

My Dad was growing Lazy Wife fall beans commercially more than 50 years ago. We had lost seed of them for several decades but brother Keith (Keeter) found them in Shumway's catalogue last spring, listed as "Lazy Housewife" beans and the seed has proven to be the same bean I remember from over 50 years ago. (Google "Shumway's Seeds" for the online catalogue).

The taste is not quite as distinct as most other fall beans but the seeds are the same, nearly pea-shaped and size, as a regular white fall bean. They get their name for being stringless and because the pod is well over twice as long and bigger around than other fall beans. According to lore, a "lazy wife" could break up a mess of them far more

Persimmon Trees

I have a lone persimmon tree, and I am quite fond of it. It stands proudly on the edge of the woods adjacent to my home. While walking there recently, I noticed that the persimmon tree is looking very healthy. Every time I notice that particular tree, I am reminded of my grandfather (Pop), because there were two persimmon trees in his backyard. I am proud to report that mine is tall, strong, and full of small fruit.

My first personal experience with persimmon trees occurred when I was a very young boy. Pop showed me the fruit from one of his trees and began to teach me, saying "David Joe, you must not eat persimmons until after the first hard frost." He went on to explain, "If you bite into one before that time, your mouth will draw."

What Pop was describing is the astringent nature of the fruit's pulp. The effect of the frost is what makes it palatable.

After Pop's warning, Kenneth Hansel and I decided to find out what he meant. You know what happens to young boys in just such situations.

We took a few persimmons into the woods in order to "perform an experiment." We both bit into a green persimmon, only to discover that our lips and tongue felt like they were shriveling up. We began to spit, cough, and gag—and quickly thereafter to run as fast as we could to get to the house for a drink of fresh water. Upon reaching the desperately needed water, we were horrified to discover that that only made it worse! The next hour was spent with us gagging and spitting and making faces.

Needless to say, we never tried that again. (And, by the way, did Pop set us up?)

The teacher which ever resides inside me insists that I inform you that the American Persimmon tree is native to the Eastern United States and that they grow wild, but have been cultivated for their fruit and unique wood. There is evidence that Native Americans grew these trees. The wood is very hard, heavy, strong, and dark, like ebony. The fruit is sweet and luscious – when ripe.

Neither my mother (Bee) nor my grandmother cared for persimmons. Pop and I would share a few under his trees in the late fall every year when I was a boy. I can see us both now, spitting the seeds as we sampled the fruits.

I hope that my tree produces a large amount of

T.J.'s Journal

By: Tonya J. Cook

My New Teapot

Dear Journal,
I've been having some problems with my arthritis for the past few days, even worse than usual. I've done something to my neck and can scarcely turn my head so I haven't done much lately.

All of this has really put the stop on redoing the kitchen. We're putting in a new floor (in part), flooring, and painting top to bottom.

I'm doing it all in the primitive style. There is something about that style that gives peace to my soul. I'm just crazy over it and am considering doing the whole house in primitive.

I've also fallen in love with the Pioneer Woman collection of kitchenware. She has a little bit of everything, from dishes, utensils, pots and pans to table linens. I think I've missed out on the picnic basket for this year.

For the past couple of months I've been getting a piece or so of it here and there, and setting it back until the kitchen is done. Then, I'll get it all out and have a Pioneer Woman "high". (When you get to a certain age, it doesn't take a lot to excite you.)

I bought another piece yesterday. I got the teapot! When I got home I got it out and admired it for a long time and imagined having tea in it. In the past few years I've collected quite a few tea pots. Stanley's sister, Edna, gave me a Pioneer Woman tea kettle a few days ago, so I'm all set.

All of this was before she got a new-fangled wringer washer that grandma didn't really like. She said it didn't get clothes as clean as scrubbing them.
Does anyone remember mercury? I would burst the glass in old thermometers and get the mercury out. It was the neatest “liquid” I ever played with.
For weeks I would roll it around in my hands and experiment with the way it would break apart and then go back together much like special effects on a Terminator movie today.
It wasn't until many years later that we heard mercury was supposed to be this terrible thing that causes a bunch of problems to anyone who touches it. But hey, it never hurt me and I rolled it around for weeks at a time.
How about television antennas? We first had those that sat on the TV itself and you would have to turn them very slowly until the picture got clear.
Ours were kind of weird in that when I touched it, the picture got clear and, when I let go, it got fuzzy again.
A little later we got that huge antennae that my dad mounted to the roof. Reception was much better but a windstorm would turn it and dad would have to go on the roof and turn it while mom yelled from the doorway when the picture was clear again.
That happened so much at our house, that dad just left the ladder in place so he could skip up there anytime.
I also remember foot pedal sewing machines.
I would sit and watch grandma use her feet to pedal the machine and I wanted to pedal it so bad.
I snuck and did it a couple times just to watch it go but I messed up all the thread she had on it and I had to stop. But one day she cleared the machine and it had no thread on it and she let me sit there and pedal for hours.
Though there are hundreds of other memories that have gone away, I'll end with S & H green stamps.
Everytime mom bought groceries, or most anything, she got some of those little stamps and some books to stick them in.

That was my job, to lick the stamps and place them in the proper location in each book.
Then, once a lot of the books were full, mom would take them and get something free like a table lamp or other household item.
Oh, that was exciting. “Let's go see what we can get with this many green stamps” she would say.
Days gone by. I miss a lot of things from those days. Pop bottle openers nailed to the wall, dirt piles to play in, creeks you could drink from, and most everything from those days.
Soon those of us who remember them will be gone. Let's tell our grandchildren about them so our memories may continue.

“Points East”
easily. In less than half the time it takes to work up regular string beans and have a better tasting dish at the same time. On the other hand, if Loretta is the person preparing them, I have learned, for good reason, to refer to them as the “Keeter Bean” in our household.
In the meantime, my brothers Andy and Keeter are mostly responsible for the fact that I've had such a great garden because, without them, I would not have had a tiller I could use to work it several times a week.
Keeter talked me into buying a 6HP Predator engine to replace the non-functional 8.5HP Kohler on my old Troybilt Horse tiller that needed well over $100.00 in engine repairs but would still have weighed more than Mr. Parkinson would allow me to maneuver if it had been fixed.
I confess to being very skeptical that the new engine would be strong enough to power the tiller but I had a coupon that allowed me to purchase it for $99.99 at Harbor Freight in Nicholasville back in May. Keith and Andy came down and it took them less than half an hour to switch the engines out. An hour or so later, Andy had my 50' x 120' garden tilled to a depth of 15 inches and I was in business.

Not only is the engine more powerful than the old one, but it reduced the weight of the tiller by well over 50 pounds. It is also far easier to crank and almost always starts with one pull and never more than two. The tiller runs far better now than it did when I purchased it, used, in 1986. I have no idea how China managed to make and market the same motor that Honda sells for nearly 3 times as much but the only difference I could find between the two is the name painted on the cowl. I know, for sure that mine represents the best use I've made of a hundred dollar bill in this century.
My old tiller is a 1977 model but I promise you faithfully that I would not swap it for brand new one that costs around $2000.00 these days simply because they don't make them like this anymore. It has taken Mr. Parkinson and me most of the summer to learn and get used to running it with one hand but we've put upwards of 150 hours on it, 20 minutes at a time every day since mid May if the ground was dry enough to plow.
I have no idea how much longer Parkinson is going to allow me to raise a garden but I can tell you that the new motor on my old tiller is worth far, far more than I paid for it in the pleasure I've already gotten from it, not to mention the Lazy Wife, Big John, Babe Beans and the Bodacious sweet corn yet to come between now and cold weather.

I want to get some other items in a few days, maybe some cookware. I can just dream of cooking with it now. (See, I told you it didn't take much.) Some women just find stuff like this exciting, I guess.
Several years ago I was shopping at a mall and there was a man selling a new line of cookware, and demonstrating its features. There was a crowd gathered around him watching closely. One lady near me said, “It just makes me want to go straight home and cook something in every pot!” Then, there was a man who popped up and exclaimed, “Let me get my wife. Maybe it will have the same effect on her!”

fruit. I would love to let my grandchildren try them for the first time, like I did with my grandfather. That would bring my persimmon tree full circle, so to speak.
I also want my wife to sample persimmons for the first time. I would be intrigued to discover how she thinks they taste. Most people either love them or hate them. I think she will like the taste but am unsure how she will react to the texture of the pulp. She has not yet committed to the experiment.

Pension problem should not be fixed at the expense of public educators...

Dear Editor,
I realize that the pension system has to be corrected but not at the expense of public educators who have invested their lives to a worthy career of shaping our future for the better.
We did not create this mess, and to place the burden of correcting the situation on our retired and current teachers is beyond belief.
Furthermore, the proposed changes to teachers who have yet to begin their career will cause a good many to reflect on their chosen career path and they may abruptly change course.

Many of us chose teaching as a career for many reasons. Not for the yearly income but because we had a passion for teaching and caring for children, to give everyone in our community a chance to chase their dreams so that their future could be as bright as possible. The promise of a retirement pension at the end of that career was an incentive for dedicating a life of doing the greater good.
There is a feeling across our region and the entire Commonwealth that Republican leadership at the state level has not been listening to public educators, even going back to the charter school decisions.
I'm confused why the pension issue and revamping the tax code was not a bigger priority during the General Assembly back in January but I guess Charter Schools gained more lobbying money.
Our representatives should be strong enough to represent their constituents as public servants and not as politicians just looking to move forward at our expense. If not, the upcoming election is always the best way to make sure our voices are heard.
Sincerely,
Jason Coguer

Frankfort Update

By Jonathon Shell
State Representative Working In Earnest to Save our Pension Systems

The status of Kentucky's pension systems is dire. A large, unfunded liability leaves our state with a crisis that could negatively impact every part of state government if not dealt with as soon as possible. This includes the basic and necessary priorities of state government, including education, law enforcement, infrastructure, and other key services.

It is no longer an option for us to "kick the can" down the road, as has been done for so long. As your State Representative, I am committed to developing real, long-term solutions to this pension crisis, so that we can continue providing retirement security for those who teach our children and keep our communities safe.

As a member of legislative leadership, I have spent the last several weeks in various meetings regarding this difficult and complex issue. No one disputes the fact that we as a state cannot financially sustain the current system, and that changes are needed. My colleagues in the General Assembly and I are working closely with the Governor and interested parties to come to a solution. We must ensure that we keep our promises, while also putting our state on a sustainable path moving forward.

There are many causes for the crisis we are in today, each of which contributed to the unfunded liability we must now dig out of.

Systems were being managed under a misguided belief that robust investment returns could make up for failing to provide adequate funding.

Problems were compounded by the retirement systems making unrealistic assumptions about investment returns and payroll growth.

The retirement systems were assuming growth in payrolls, even though it was clear that the number of state employees was declining.

All of this meant that previous executive budgets sent to the General Assembly didn't request sufficient funds to keep the pension systems solvent. The result was the rapid decline of the health of our pension systems.

The failing pension systems we are currently facing provide NO retirement security to state employees and teachers, and negatively affect all Kentuckians. So here we are in 2017, and we must either break the legal obligations made to our teachers and state workers, or take action to fulfill our commitments.

Over the last several years there have been a few small steps in the right direction. In 2016, I voted for a budget that provided a historic amount of resources to the Commonwealth's pension systems, which was passed and signed into law by the Governor. That budget included more than $1.2 billion dedicated annually to shore up shortfalls in KERS and KTRS, and created a permanent fund to be dedicated to pensions only. We also authorized an independent, 3rd party (The PFM Group) to perform a comprehensive review of the state of our pension systems. Their report was issued on Monday, and included several recommendations.

We've been looking at these recommendations. That's what they are - and all they are - recommendations. I believe it is imperative for the General Assembly and the Governor to balance the need for aggressive steps to save the pension system with the legal obligations that the state has made to retirees, public employees, and our school-teachers.

I truly believe, and am committed to, reforming Kentucky's broken pension systems to avoid devastating cuts to education, public safety, and infrastructure, while honoring the commitments made to our public employees and teachers. There is no bigger priority our state, and all of our citizens, at this time.

This issue is complex. Please feel free to contact me at Jonathan.Shell@irc.ky.gov with any questions or suggestions. It is an honor for me to serve you in Frankfort at this critical time.

Family Court Judge in Pulaski, Lincoln and Rockcastle Counties. She was then elected and served on the Family Court bench from 1999 until 2006. Following her time as Family Court Judge, she returned to private practice until her election to the Kentucky Court of Appeals. Previously, Judge Lambert served as an Assistant Commonwealth's Attorney and as City Attorney for the City of Mount Vernon.

As she began developing the new family court, Judge Lambert volunteered to work directly with middle schools in her three counties. She established a truancy prevention program called “Whatever it Takes.” This program was a strength-based program meant to encourage attendance and achievement, building on the individual student's own skills.

Judge Lambert also brought the first drug courts to her circuit, both a Family Drug Court and a Juvenile Drug Court. The National Association of Drug Court Professionals recognized Judge Lambert in 2002 by inducting her into the Stanley M. Goldstein Drug Court Hall of Fame. She is only one of three Kentuckians so honored.

“My work as a lawyer, prosecutor, trial judge and now Court of Appeals judge makes me uniquely qualified to serve the people of the Commonwealth. I grew up modestly and learned to work hard. That work ethic has served me well in my career. The Kentucky Supreme Court gets the final say regarding our state laws in most all circumstances. Their rulings shape our everyday lives, both in our homes and businesses. The work is sometimes somber and often difficult, but I am a serious-minded, constitutional conservative with respect for all branches of government and, if elected, will faithfully and impartially execute my duties to the people of this Commonwealth.”

Judge Lambert graduated from Eastern Kentucky University in 1983, with distinction, and from the University of Kentucky College of Law in 1989, in the top 25% of her graduating class.

She is the mother of two adult sons, Joseph Patrick Lambert and John Ryan Lambert.

at a residence on Hurricane School Road where it had been abandoned.

On Wednesday, August 23, Bryant arrested Josh Sowder, 32, of Mount Vernon who was taken to the Rockcastle County Detention Center and charged with robbery.

The investigation also shows that the female was Courtney Duff, 26, of Berea. An active arrest warrant was issued for Duff but she was already in jail on unrelated charges when the warrant was served.

Police determined that the couple knew the victim and picked him out because of personal reasons instead of randomly picking a car to crack.

Bryant says carjacking is very rare in Rockcastle County but this particular event may be considered a bias crime as a motive and during sentencing the couple may face charges including a hate crime which includes much stronger sentencing.

mately $329,000 to start the non-profit facility.

Loudermilk's goal is to start the facility this size but quickly grow into another facility that will have 40-50 beds and offer an eight-month program.

The reason for starting small and building, according to Loudermilk, is state regulations that private insurance and Medicaid will not pay if there are more than 16 beds in a facility.

The new organization plans to purchase property in Rockcastle County that will allow for the growth and the additional facility within six to eight months.

The mission of the organization is “to utilize a Christ-centered foundation, twelve step, and holistic approach to help each person gain their freedom from addiction in a safe, judgement-free environment.”

Loudermilk said everyone admitted into the facility will learn valuable life skills and how to be accountable.

Gibson discussed some funding possibilities and possible grants the organization may get, along with planned fundraisers and public events to raise the needed funding. “By law, we have to be completely ready to open the doors and have a fully-functioning facility, before we can actually open the doors,” she said.

The duo spoke to the crowd and then took questions from those attending.

Gibson said there will be an alumni program and the new facility will have onsite nurses and doctors on call, along with programs to help those who graduate the program to find work immediately after they graduate.

Once the facility is open, Gibson said that will open avenues to even more government grants that may help the program to grow.

Loudermilk said that the organization is not going to homes or businesses asking for donations. Donations will be gathered at fundraising events. “If someone comes to your door claiming they are collecting money for the My Brother's Keeper facility, do not give it to them and call the police.”

Loudermilk said this new facility will treat each person as an individual and will devise a program for that individual rather than treat the symptoms of addiction.

Gibson pointed out that this will not be a Suboxone or Methadone clinic, but a facility that will treat each person according to their addiction.

“This can and will work in Rockcastle County,” said Loudermilk. “We will have more meetings once we work out more details and get closer to starting up.”

Loudermilk said there will be a board of directors and the organization will be completely transparent, placing all their funding and costs on line on their Facebook page which is part of the “My Brother's Keeper” site, as well as on its own website that is not up and running as of yet.

Loudermilk publicly thanked those who support the program and listed senators and representatives as well as Judge/Executive Doug Bishop, the Mount Vernon Signal, the fiscal court and many individuals who are playing a part in getting the new facility started.

More meetings will be announced as the organization gathers its board members and addresses more detailed issues concerning the Holsing was arrested and charged with burglary and public intoxication. He told officer Messinger that he had smoked marijuana earlier.

Sarah Spoonamore, 23, of Mount Vernon, was found to have a Suboxone tablet in her possession, while incarcerated at the Rockcastle County Detention Center on Friday, August 25th.

Spoonamore was charged with promoting contraband and possession of a controlled substance.

On Thursday, August 24th, Kentucky State Police Trooper Scottie Pennington observed erratic driving by Logan McGuire, 27, of Mount Vernon, on Richmond Street in Mt. Vernon.

According to the citation, Officer Pennington pulled McGuire over and patted him down locating a small amount of Meth.

The report says McGuire told the officer the reason he was driving poorly is because he couldn't remember where he had the meth and he was searching for it to hide it better.

McGuire was arrested and charged with no seatbelts, no license, possession of meth and possession of drug paraphernalia.

However, once at the jail, where a more intensive search was conducted, more meth and synthetic marijuana was found on McGuire, and a charge of promoting contraband was added to his charges.

Mount Vernon Police officer Adam Stallworth also arrested James Baldwin, 40, of Cambellsville on Thursday, August 24th after a complaint from Danny Baker who told police he had loaned Baldwin his car and he could not get the keys back.

Police searched the vehicle and found nearly 10 grams of meth.

Upon entering the hotel room where Baldwin was staying, police discovered synthetic marijuana in the toilet.

Baldwin was arrested and charged with trafficking a controlled substance, possession of synthetic drugs, possession of drug paraphernalia and tampering with physical evidence.

bers of an employee, telling magistrates it could keep the employee from sitting in a doctor's office for several hours waiting for a medical visit and save employees from having to take time off.

This app will cost the county $5.25 a month per employee. The county also provides vision coverage for all employees and this benefit saw the only increase in premium this year from $7.62 month to $7.97. Other benefits provided employees includes $25,000 term life insurance with accidental death and dismemberment benefits for all full-time employees and a $500 healthcare reimbursement card.

In the county's 2017-18 budget, $59,000 was budgeted for employee health and life insurance premiums.

2017 Brodhead “Weiner Walk” set

By: Mike French

Ray Hensley, a member of the Brodhead Fire Department, and his daughter Cheyenne Jones are joining forces to help stop prostate cancer.

As a survivor himself, Hensley has been involved in lobbying for federal monies for prostate cancer research and has helped get $90 million from federal funds for the effort for ZeroCancer.org.

But now, the two are bringing the fight to Brodhead.

“We are setting up a fundraiser and we hope people will come out and support our efforts to fight prostate cancer,” Hensley said.

The event will be held September 16th and will be called “Prostate Cancer 2017 Weiner Walk and 3K Run”

“It is so much fun. Those involved will run the circle then eat a weiner, run the circle again and eat another weiner. Run the circuit again, eat a weiner, throw up and run again. It's a blast,” Hensley said.

The run will begin at 5:30 p.m. and registration will be held from 4:30 to 5:20 or you may register online.

Those who register by September 11th will be eligible for awards and will each receive a t-shirt, Hensley noted.

The registration fee is $25 but even if you don't want to participate in the weiner walk, you are still encouraged to attend the event and donate to the cause.

To register or for more information about the event, contact Hensley at R.Hensley@RHRCC.org or search events on Facebook. There are already some sponsors for the event locally but Hensley said he and his daughter are still soliciting more sponsors.

School board members approve new tax rate

By: Mike French

The Rockcastle County Board of Education held a special called public meeting Thursday, August 24th, so that parents and local residents could express their views or concerns about the new tax rate and the work on the high school.

However, no parents or local residents attended. In fact, no one attended except board members, department heads and the superintendent.

The board approved the new property and personal property tax rate of 41.4 cents per $100.

“We had strong support for the tax increase. Our community supports us and our school system,” said Superintendent David Pensol.

The board also agreed to move forward on the maintenance and improvement issues at RCHS. No vote was held to begin the construction or repairs, but the board agreed to move forward and address the issues at the next regular meeting on September 12th. The public is invited to attend.

Named Supreme Champion

Cameron's Cow dominates state junior dairy show

Caleb Cameron, an eighth grade student at RCMS, took three registered Red and White Holsteins to the Kentucky State Fair and came away with ribbons galore, including Grand Champion of the Red and White Holsteins and Supreme Champion of the whole show.

The two-year old wowed the judges with her beautiful frame and excellent mammary system and they made her the winner of her class and the Grand Champanion of her breed.

In addition, Caleb's eight-month-old calf won her class and his three-year-old cow was second in her class.

Later in the day, all the Grand Champions of the seven dairy breeds competed in the Parade of Champions to determine the Supreme Champion. The competitors included the Brown Swiss, Milking Shorthorn, Guernsey, Kindergarten students began their week with a Safari Tour around the school to help them become familiar with staff and important places in the building. In their journeys they were looking for the elusive faces that they will encounter throughout the school year, the principal, the nurse, our custodians, our secretaries, and others who are an essential part of their learning experiences here at Brodhead. ## Rockets defeat Patriots 41-30 in Jamboree Bowl

Rockcastle Football Head Coach Scott Parkey had nothing but praise for his team following Friday night's season opening 41-30 win over the Lincoln County Patriots in the Jamboree Bowl. "It was a game that was really important to lots of people. Border games are always special," the coach said. The game was also "very important for our team."

Parkey pointed out that his team "played with grit," and the "offensive line did a great job all night, opening up lanes for the backs."

The Rockets rushed for 388 yards and that doesn't just happen, Parkey said. "It takes a group effort communicating, motivating each other and then physically dominating the guys across from them."

The Patriots only picked up 46 yards on the ground but got 174 yards passing.

Jaden Payne, Holden Barnett, Josh Thacker, Hunter Sargent and Noah Prickett were all singled out by Parkey as doing an "outstanding job with their respective roles in the backfield. They are very unselfish and understand that we do not have a one man show. Each guy must be able to pack the ball around 10 times while being lead block the other 40."

The defensive side of Parkey's team also came in for their share of praise. They "played well together, swarmed on tackles and the interior line and linebackers played well, shutting down Lincoln's running attack." Parkey went on to say that his "secondary played solid as well. Lincoln's QB and his tall receivers were a big challenge for our guys, but they responded, making plays when they had to. Mathew Tomlinson was injured on the opening kickoff which forced us to make some changes on both offense and defense and the guys responded on both sides."

Offensively, the Rockets were led by junior Jaden Payne, who was named offensive player of the game, who carried the ball 21 times for 174 yards and scored three touchdowns and a two point conversion. Sophomore Josh Thacker, who was named defensive player of the game, carried the ball six times for 74 yards; senior Holdan Barnett got 62 yards on 11 carries, including one rushing touchdown; senior quarterback Brent Lovell picked up 44 yards on eight carries and scored a touchdown; junior Hunter Sargent got 25 yards on five carries, including a touchdown and a two point conversion and senior Noah Prickett got nine yards on two carries.

Lovell threw the ball four times, completing one pass, to Holdan Barnett, for eight yards with no interceptions.

In the scoring column, Payne led with 20 points; Sargent got eight; Lovell and Barnett, six each and junior Jeremiah Blevins kicked an extra point.

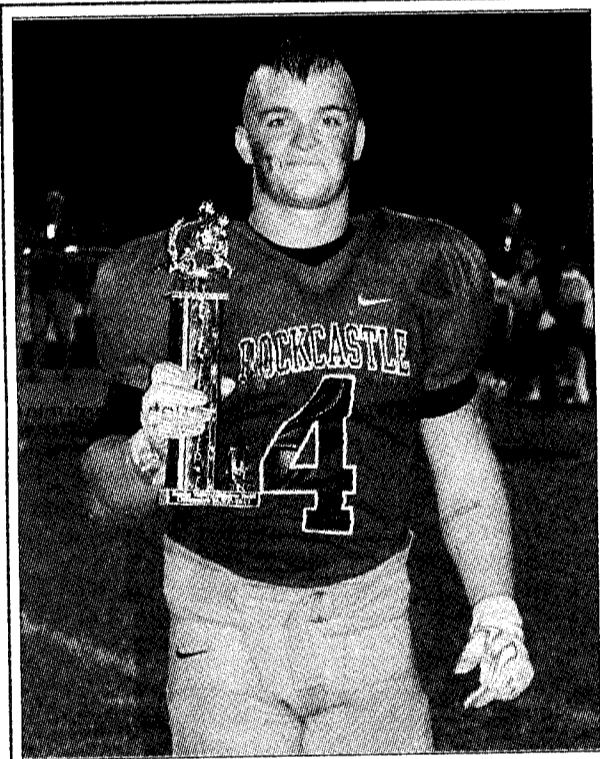

Defensively, the Rockets were led by freshman Andrew Mink and senior Noah Prickett with eight total tackles - Mink got three solo tackles and Prickett had one; Payne and Thacker each recorded seven tackles - five assists and two solos; seniors Logan Barnett and Jarred Brown each had six total tackles - Brown with one solo and Barnett with three; junior Jacob Hansel and Lovell were each credited with two solo tackles; freshman Logan Brown got one solo tackle as did senior Isaiah Amyx who was also credited with an assist and senior Holdan Barnett got two tackle assists.

Jarred Brown, Brent Lovell, Jaden Payne and Josh Thacker were each credited with one interception.

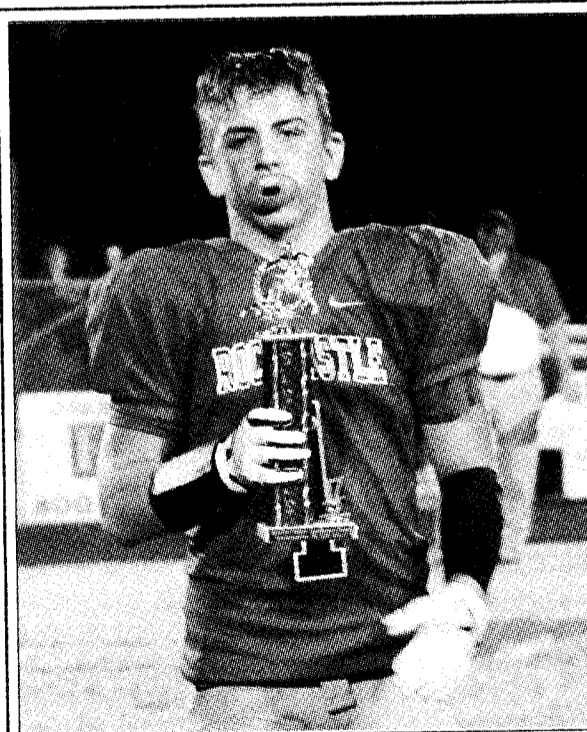

The Rockets will next host Whitley County this Thursday night and it will be Youth League Football Night. Parkey said that Whitley is a "really good team. They have a very potent offense and a very solid defense that held Corbin to 14 points."

This week's game has been moved to Thursday night at 7:30 p.m. when the Rockets host Whitley

Junior Jaden Payne was named the offensive player of the game Friday night. Payne picked up 174 yards on 21 carries and scored three touchdowns and a two point conversion.

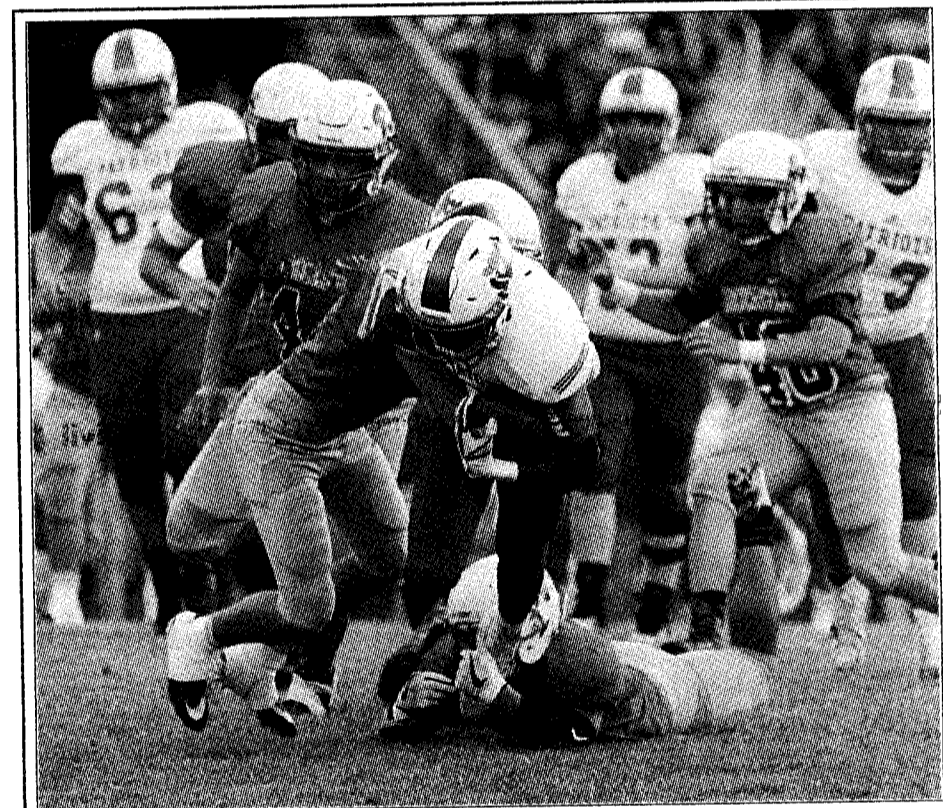

Sophomore Josh Thacker was named the defensive player of the game in the Rockets' 41-30 win over Lincoln County Friday night. Thacker had seven tackles and one interception. Offensively, he had 74 yards on six carries.

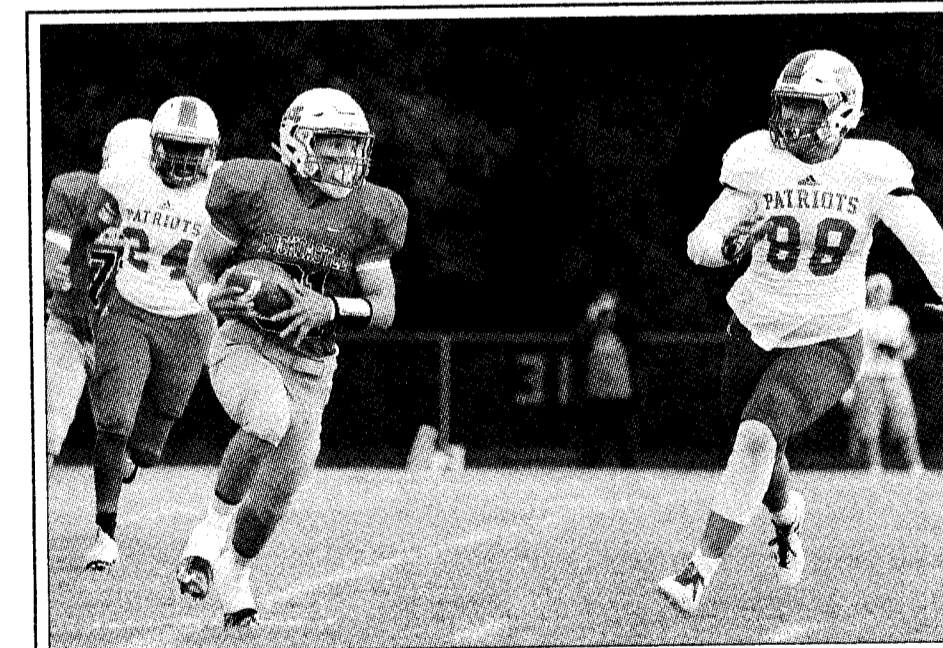

Rocket cheerleaders were busy Friday night supporting their team during the Rockets' win over Lincoln County.

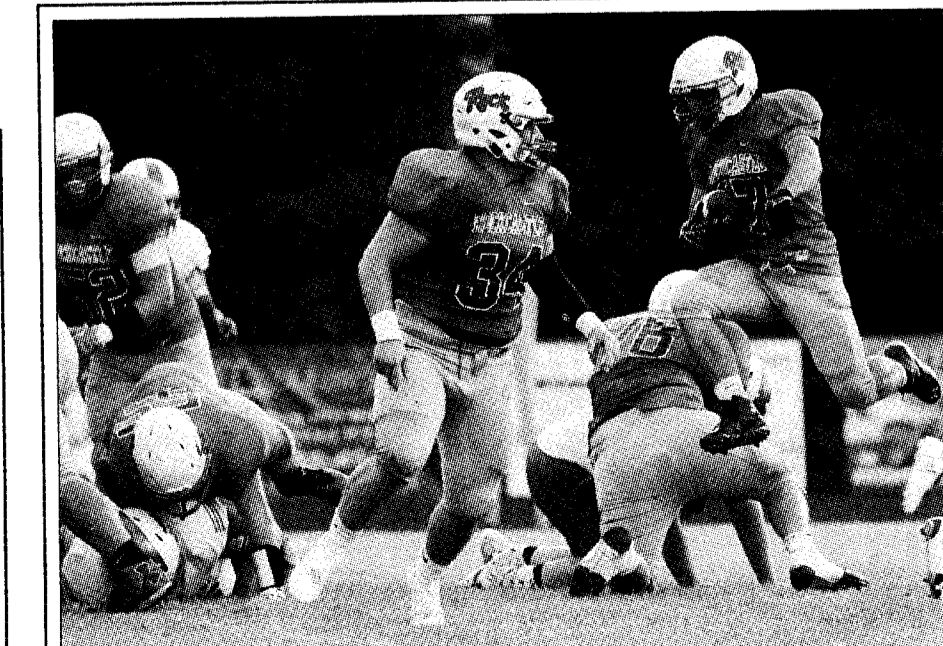

Junior Jaden Payne breaks through the offensive line behind teammates Blaze Stewart and Isaiah Amyx during the Rockets 41-30 win over Lincoln County Friday night in the annual Jamboree Bowl. Payne rushed for 174 yards on 21 carries, scored three touchdowns and a two point conversion. He was named offensive player of the game.

Freshman Drew Mink and sophomore Josh Thacker bring down a Lincoln Patriot during the annual Jamboree Bowl held last Friday night. Thacker was named defensive player of the game.

Senior quarterback Brent Lovell looks for running room in the Rockets' win over Lincoln County Friday night. Lovell picked up 44 yards on eight carries, scored one touchdown for the Rockets and came up with an interception on the defensive side of the ball.

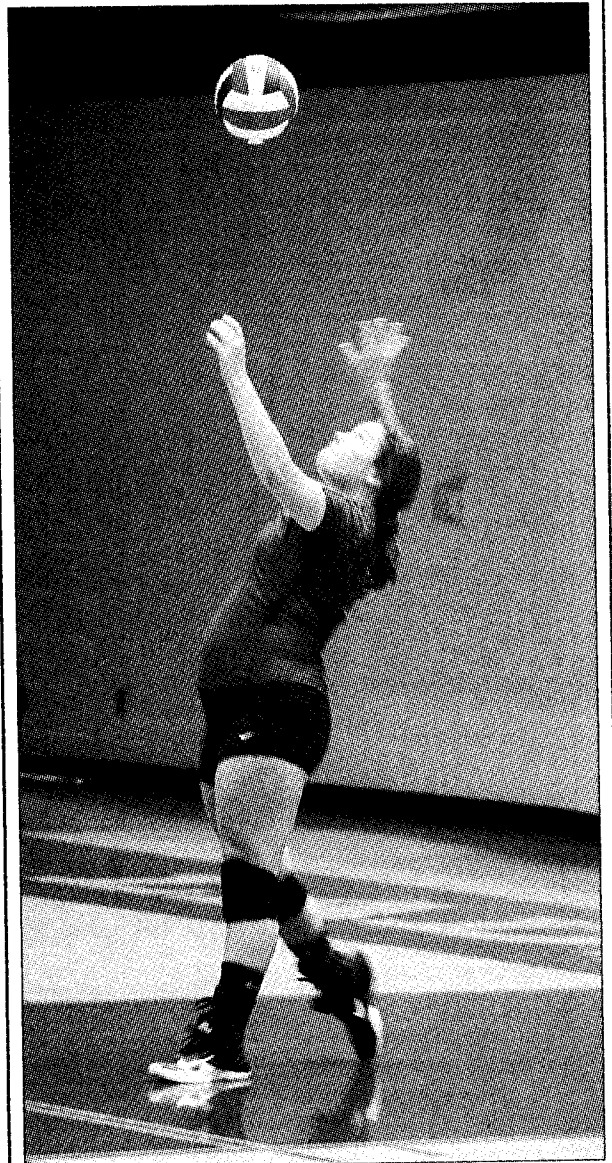

J.D. Hamilton, Logan Barnett and Holdan Barnett create room for the leaping Hunter Sargent as he breaks free for a touchdown for the Rockets Friday night. The Rockets host Whitley County this Friday night at 7:30 p.m.

Emily Ponder puts up a serve in recent Rocket volleyball action. The girls have had a tough week with losses to North Laurel, Casey County, Madison Central and South Laurel. The girls will try to right the ship this Thursday night when they host Pulaski County in district action. They will travel next Tuesday night to Lincoln County to take on the Patriots.

September is quota hunt application time

Each year, the Kentucky Department of Fish and Wildlife Resources administers quota hunts for deer, upland birds and waterfowl on state wildlife management areas and other public lands.

September is the month to apply for these opportunities.

Hunters can apply through the department's website at fw.ky.gov or by phone at 1-877-598-2401. Either option is available 24 hours a day. Applications for these quota hunts are not open until Sept. 1.

The minimum charge to apply for a quota hunt is $3. Last year, the department received more than 11,000 quota hunt applications.

There are 35 quota deer hunts this season. The dates and number of slots available for each hunt are listed in the "Quota Hunts" section of the Kentucky Hunting and Trapping Guide and on the department's website. Click the "Hunt" tab on the homepage and choose "Quota Hunts" from the dropdown menu.

This year, there are several new quota deer hunts with the addition of seven state park hunts and a shotgun only, youth-mentor hunt scheduled Nov. 18-21 on West Kentucky Wildlife Management Area (WMA). The new state park quota deer hunts are scheduled Dec. 9-10 (youth only) and Jan. 6-7 at Dale Hollow Lake State Resort Park, Nov. 3-5 and Nov. 10-12 at Greenbo Lake State Resort Park, Nov. 9-12 at Kenlake State Resort Park and Dec. 14-17 and Dec. 21-24 at Kincaid Lake State Park. The hunts at Kenlake and Kincaid state parks are archery and crossbow only.

Small game hunters can apply for pheasant quota hunts scheduled Nov. 17, 18 and 19 at Green River Lake WMA, Dec. 1, 2 and 3 at Clay WMA and Dec. 1, 2, and 3 at Yellowbank WMA.

Quota bobwhite quail hunts on Peabody WMA are scheduled Nov. 28 and Dec. 19, 2017 and Jan. 6, 13 and 23, 2018. A youth-mentor hunt is scheduled Nov. 25. Quota upland bird hunts on Clay WMA are scheduled Nov. 8, Nov. 19, Dec. 16 and Dec. 26. Hunters may take bobwhite quail, ruffed grouse and woodcock during the upland bird quota hunts, when the seasons for all three species are open. Woodcock season is open Oct. 28-Nov. 10 and Nov. 13-Dec. 13 this year.

Hunters may apply for quota waterfowl hunts at Ballard WMA and Sloughs WMA. The hunts at Ballard WMA are Wednesdays through Sundays (excluding Christmas Eve, Christmas Day and New Year's Day) from Dec. 6 to Jan. 28, 2018. Waterfowl quota hunts are Thursday-Friday and Saturday-Monday from Nov. 23 to Jan. 28, 2018 at Sloughs WMA but hunters must apply for a block of dates.

The application period extends through Sept. 30 and results should be available in early October. Applicants can check to see if they have been selected by accessing the "My Profile" feature on the department's website. If results are not showing correctly, or an applicant does not have internet access, call 1-800-858-1549 from 8 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. (Eastern time).
