Rockcastle County was apparently spared damage after Friday nights vicious storms that rolled through Kentucky. However, Kentucky State Police Post 11 in London, and several Rockcastle County church organizations and clubs among others, are joining to offer help to fellow Kentuckians who suffered damage.

The storms included the longest tornado in Kentucky history and the strongest winds in Kentucky history, according to Governor Andy Beshear who made several media appearances concerning the storms. News reporters have reported on the event throughout the weekend. One tornado reportedly moved over 200 miles through three states on the ground and winds

Henshaw II pleads guilty in murder case

Commonwealth seeks 25 years

By: Mike French
Editor

On a November night in 2020, police were called to a home on Potter Road in Rockcastle County where George Henshaw II, 42, was arrested and charged with shooting his stepmother in the face, killing her. Henshaw claimed he shot at his stepmother, Lois Henshaw, 60, with a pistol that he then threw into the woods, but it was later determined that he shot her with a 30.06 hunting rifle.

Thanks to Kentucky

State Police Detective Ryan Loudermilk, members of the Rockcastle County Sheriff's Department and the Mount Vernon Police Department, the rifle was confiscated on the night of the shooting and was later determined to be the murder weapon.

Henshaw Sr. was reportedly in the shower when his son fired the fatal shot.

Henshaw II was arrested and charged with murder and tampering with physical evidence and his bond was set at $1 million cash.

Henshaw II told police he had been arguing with his stepmother and had used methamphetamine. According to the police report, Henshaw stated that he "wouldn't have done this but for the meth."

The Mount Vernon man was indicted in December of 2020 by a Rockcastle County Grand Jury.

One year later, On November 10, 2021, Com-

Kentucky American Water makes bid on Livingston water system

Kentucky American Water submitted the only bid for Livingston's water system, a bid of $225,000.

The bid was opened at Monday night's regular meeting of the Livingston

City Commission, with two commissioners, Donna Durham and Leroy Lamb, absent.

David Farrar, vice president of operations for Kentucky American Water Company, told the commission that the cost of bringing the city's sewer system up to standards would be around $1 million and that the amount customers would have to pay for the service would be too prohibitive.

Instead, Farrar suggested that since the city is first in line to get approximately $750,000 in grant money, through the Cumberland Valley Area Development District, that they take that route and, along with other mini grants available, bring their system up to date and KAW will revisit

Hullings held on $150,000 bond

By: Mike French
Editor

District Judge Scott Lawless found probable cause last week to hold a Mount Vernon man on 20 counts of possession of matter portraying sexual performance of a minor under 12-years-old.

Raymond A. Hullings Jr., 65, of Mount Vernon, was arrested earlier this month after a Kentucky State Police undercover investigation revealed sexually explicit materials on electronic equipment in his possession. According to a police citation, Hullings admitted to police that the equipment does belong to him.

According to Rockcastle County Attorney Jeremy Rowe, the judge found probable cause for all 20 felony offenses at a preliminary hearing. Rowe says Hullings' bond was raised to $150,000 cash or property.

Rowe said Kentucky

State Police Detective Anthony Gatson told the judge the investigation is still underway and additional charges could follow.

Hullings will remain in custody pending indictment for the next 60 days, during which the case will be presented to a grand jury, Rowe said.

Aces Over

By: Mike French

I have been thinking a lot recently about some of the things that are gone from existence now that I really enjoyed as a young fellow. Some are not gone but have changed so much they are nearly unrecognizable.

In fact, the way we lived in general was so different in my childhood.

Gumball machines are few and far between anymore. As a youth, they were in almost every store I entered.

As soon as I spotted one, I would pull my hand away from mom's hand and head over to the brightly colored balls of satisfaction.

Inserting a penny, I would twist the knob round and round and listen as countless gumballs filled the tray below. There were so many that I had to hold my hands under the flap before I pulled it open to let the gumballs flow out till my hands were full. Yep, a penny. Candy bars used to be smaller. Not a lot smaller mind you. I remember the day perfectly when I went to the store to find that all candy bars were a tiny bit larger. All of them. It was hard to see, but they were indeed larger. However, the price had jumped overnight from 5 cents to 10 cents.

A 100% price increase for a 10% size increase. I remember thinking that wasn't fair. Double the price should be double the Zagnut. But nope. My first life lesson was on that day and I didn't realize it. As long as we are willing to pay more, they will keep taking more. I should have learned that then.

Since that day, candy bars have gone up in price. Now they are 33 times the original price.

I am betting many of you never saw the original size candy bar. I miss

T.J.'s Journal

By: Tonya J. Cook

Those Victorians, Plum Pudding and Poor Mrs. Claus
Dear Journal,

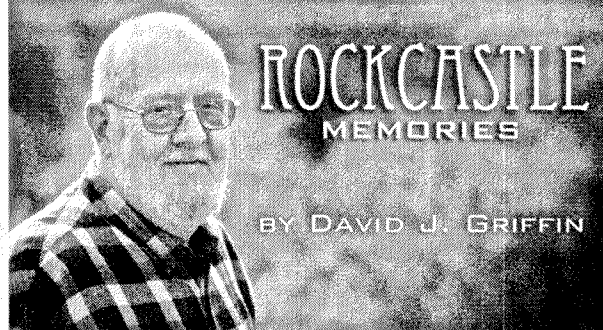

This afternoon just before dark I was letting the dogs out for the last time today. I sat in the kitchen and watched a flurry of leaves from the pear tree shower the yard. It is always the last to change color and lose its leaves. They were the most beautiful that they had ever been this year. They were a golden yellow but had a brilliant crimson color all on the same leaf. I hear that tonight there is a system of showers to pass through and cold weather is to follow. There go the moderate temperatures until spring probably.

It was a good evening for the Noel Night this year in Mount Vernon. This year the Rockcastle Chapter of the DAR entered a float in the parade for the first time and won first place in its division. It was a patriotic vision of Betsy Ross sewing the flag as she told stories to children in front of a fireplace with a Christmas tree nearby. The theme was "This is My Country", inspired by the song of the same title. There were some children riding on the float throwing candy to the various spectators. One of the little boys, who wishes to remain anonymous, threw some candy and hit Mrs. Claus (She wasn't wearing her familiar clothing) right between the eyes as she prepared to snap a picture of the float going past. After learning her identity, he is so afraid of not getting anything for Christmas. He said that he just knew that she was married to the "real" Santa because he just looked like the most real Santa he had ever seen. I'll bet that little boy is especially good between now and Christmas.

Speaking of such, I've been looking at some topics about the way the Victorians actually lived on YouTube, as well as life in other periods of history. Actually, it was an interesting study. Queen Victoria was really big on Christmas and many of today's traditions date to her era. She had a meal with several courses and almost certainly, the plum

"The Christmas Song"

As I told my readers recently, I have been listening to my new bedside radio for a couple of weeks. This radio is an early Christmas present from my wife.

A few days ago, I heard "The Christmas Song" by Nat King Cole and was immediately taken back to my childhood, living in Mt. Vernon. Cole first recorded the hit in 1946 and re-recorded it in 1953 and again in 1961. The Christmas classic was written by Mel Torme and Robert Wells in July of 1946, just in time for the Christmas season. Cole's recording became an instant hit. The song has no chorus, and each of the four verses paint a picture of Christmas cheer. The first stanza reminds me of Christmas when I was approximately six-years-old.

*Chestnuts roasting on an open fire
Jack Frost nipping at your nose
Yuletide carols being sung by a choir
And folks dressed up like Eskimos*

I distinctly remember my grandparents (Pop and Mommie Katie) placing chestnuts on an open pan on top of our Warm Morning stove. When they were ready to eat, Pop would use his pocket knife to remove the shells and to cut the nuts into two equal pieces that he shared with the rest of our family.

I also remember Christmas carols being sung by the choir at the First Baptist Church, which was our home church.

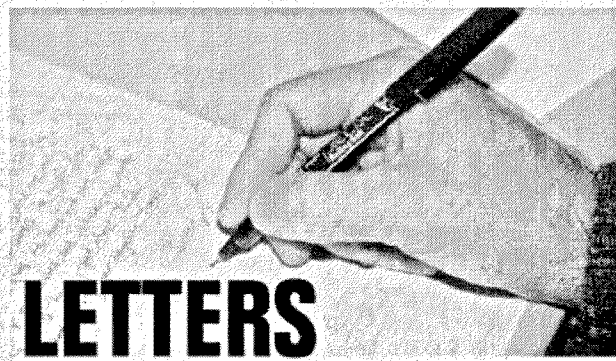

*Everybody knows a turkey and some mistletoe
Help to make the season bright*

Tiny tots, with their eyes all aglow

Will find it hard to sleep tonight

Mommie Katie always prepared a huge turkey and dressing (and all the other fixins) for Christmas. Our entire family gathered around her kitchen table to celebrate

Please research vaccines prior to getting...

Dear Editor,

Due to the Democrats and Joe Biden pushing vaccines, I would like to see everyone do some research about these vaccines before you take one. Please go to Telegram, CloutHub, YouTube or duck duck go.

Robert Kennedy, Jr. just published a book about Fauci doing experiments on New York children. The results ended the life of around 100 children.

Big pharma just wants to make money and so does

Doc Fauci and Bill Gates.

Our children deserve better and a bright future. Do not vaccinate until you read all the information about these vaccines.

them. It was about 1967 when they changed.

Pop bottle returns were the greatest thing ever invented. That gave a child or a homeless person, or just someone down on their luck, a way to make enough money to eat in a short time. It was "The American Way" to me.

For every glass bottle, I got three cents and Uncle Sam got nothing. THAT is why it changed! When Coke was a dime it only took five bottles to get a pop and a candy bar. Then you got three cents of that back after you finished.

Hunting bottles in ditches was a joy for all us kids. We could make enough for a bologna sandwich, chips and drink in 30 minutes work.

But Coke has never been as good as they were in those cold glass bottles. While government is tossing around mandates, why not force Coke to use glass bottles again?

We didn't waste much either. We always had to turn all the lights out when we left a room. It was so important to dad that you would think that bulb was going to affect the national debt.

Of course we couldn't waste a drop of water. Water was a precious commodity. And to stand and stare with the refrigerator door held open was all but breaking a Commandment. The "cold was getting out."

I have seen my grandmother finish cooking dinner on her wood burning stove. But rather than "waste the heat" because the meal was done before the fire went out, she would cook tomorrow's dinner on the hot burners. "There's no point in wasting that heat," she would say.

Mom used to set a clock by her phone on the kitchen counter. She would sit at that counter and talk to her sisters and watch that clock every minute. After three minutes, she got charged an extra nickel for each minute and that was unacceptable.

A phone call at a pay phone booth, which was on nearly every corner, was a dime.

The Drive-Inn was a big deal in those days. For 50 cents, you could spend the entire night watching two movies on the big screen. We always got one large popcorn and shared it. That was quite the treat. They have tried, but no one has ever matched the taste of that butter.

There is a lot I miss and every day more and more of the "old days" are disappearing.

G.I. Joes, cap guns, linoleum floors, Warm Morning stoves, boiling water for a bath, out houses...well, some things I don't miss too much.

pudding for dessert. As it turns out, the pudding is similar to a bread pudding of today's standards. It is molded into a ball, put into a cloth, tied shut with string and boiled for two or three hours and when done is decorated with holly. The plums aren't really plums as we think of plums, they were raisins and /or currants. So, when the kids in "The Night Before Christmas" had visions of sugar plums dancing in their heads, it was just sugar coated raisins. They would go nuts over some Raisin Bran.

I had the vision dancing in my head to try my hand at making some plum pudding. Should I try it? I'm not sure but one day I may just dare try it. They gave a few recipes for it on the internet. Some were baked instead of being boiled. I'm really wondering how it tastes. Something like fruit cake maybe? It called for some suet but I don't know where I could find any but you could use butter some said. If I'm going to all the trouble to make it, I want it to taste as much as original as possible.

the event. She never took a seat until everyone had been fed.

They know that Santa's on his way

He's loaded lots of toys and goodies on his sleigh

And every mother's child is gonna spy

To see if reindeer really know how to fly

Our family opened the gifts from Santa on Christmas after our special meal. This was done to accommodate Mommie Katie's other daughter (Ruth) who lived in Lexington. She always brought her family to the celebration on Christmas day.

And so I'm offering this simple phrase

From kids from one to ninety-two

Although its been said many times, many ways

Merry Christmas to you

So, I am using this wonderful Christmas carol to say, Merry Christmas to my many readers. Thanks for all of your notes, texts, emails, and letters. May the good Lord bless you all.

building the new Veterans Memorial Park. They have now buddied up with the City of Mt. Vernon to place the park inside the Mt. Vernon Park, claiming it is a beautiful site. We disagree.

The Renfro Aunt Polly site was a much better place with easy access close to I-75 and U.S. 25. The Mt. Vernon Park, where the new veterans' park will be located, looks like a hayfield or pasture land, except for the muddy spots that are bare of grass. As for the view, it's just great if you love looking at a building, surrounded by a chain link fence, surrounding what appears to be a camper storage lot. Also a chain link fence backstop.

American Legion didn't show us any of the above issues in their front page photo of the New Veterans Memorial Park site in the November 25, 2021 issue of the Mount Vernon Signal.

Questions: 1) How will the veterans access the new park? a) through the camper storage lot? b) through the VFW Hall? c) walk around the VFW building and fence? or d) climb down the hillside from the road?

First Come, First Served.

2. If a ballgame is being played in the city park, and the ball fans and parents are sitting on the Veterans Memorial Park benches, and a few veterans show up to show their buddies from past times, their new Veterans Memorial Park, will the fans give their benches to the veterans? How many veterans have passed on that did not get to see their Veterans Memorial Park? Pass it on: Doubts!

If all the money listed is true, there is no reason not to have had a Veterans Memorial Park years ago.

Fiscal Court: 2018 $21,846 Free; 2019 - 2,500 land Renfro Lot 5,271.

Also, if the donations number is Kathy Bobo, 606-308-1208, she doesn't return calls.

We are going to ask fiscal court for the Renfro lot to build a Taxpayers Memorial Park since they foot the bill for it all. Without those folks, there would be no veterans, no roads, no parks and no grants, period!

Was the Renfro property too valuable for the Veterans Memorial Park? Did a certain entity, that has a failing TIF project in Renfro, want the Renfro site for future taxes?

A History of Buckeye Christian Church

June 25, 1999 - December 1, 2021

In the above photo, of Buckeye Christian Church's old log building, are some of the parisoners of the church at the time: first row: Ethel Dowell, Della Dowell, Virgil Dowell, Charley Parsons, George Fish, Johnny Fish, James Fish and Bessie Taylor.

Submitted
Church of Christ at Bethlehem, known today as Buckeye Christian Church.

To my knowledge, no records exist of the church, prior to 1899, as all records were destroyed in a fire at the church on January 11, 1899.

On June 24, 1899, members and officer agreed to re-enroll all known members, officers, etc., completing the task on Sunday, June 25, 1899, with ordination of Brother M.G. Fish as minister at the Church of Christ and Bro. W.W. Coffey as Elder. Bro. Lunsford was Minister Administering the Rites of Ordination.

Elders at that time were: J.W. Riddle, Allen Hiatt and W. W. Coffey. Deacons were M.G. Fish and George W. Taylor.

Some notes that have been recorded from the memory of Bro. Leo Proctor: about 1840-1850 church was organized.

James Proctor, grandfather of Lee Proctor and James Chestnut, grandfather of Dr. Lee Chestnut were the first Elders. Anderson Proctor and Madison Ramsey were the first Deacons.

Some of the early preachers were Martin Owens, Bill and "Ove" Asbell, James Chestnut and Jim Hiatt.

The present building was erected about 1909-1910, as recalled by Bro. W.R. Coffey. He said he hauled material to help build the church building. The old building is said to have been built of Buckeye logs, thus the name of Buckeye Church.

Several years before 1952, no services were held. The building and grounds were in very bad condition.

Bro. Howard Ray, pastor of Mt. Vernon Christian Church brought some of the young people from the church, cleaned up the grounds and building and started Sunday afternoon services, reorganizing the church.

On Homecoming, August 28, 1955, the eldest people attending were Mrs. Betty Davis of Mt. Vernon and Jones Hiatt of Renfro Valley. The last service in the church was held in October of 2010 by Bro. Cledith Thacker, the church's last pastor.

Credit is Due:

Cecil Dailey, lifelong supporter and promoter of Buckeye Christian. Herman and Connie Taylor Smith, lifelong caretakers. Cledith Ray Thacker and Barbara McNew Thacker, last serving ministers of Buckeye Christian Church.

The "passing of Buckeye Christian Church marks the passing of a kinder, simpler era, the likes of which we may never see again. R.I.P.

A question that is often asked is why did God forsake Christ on the cross?

God has always hated and there are a lot of examples in the Old Testament showing how he dealt with sin. In Genesis 3 Adam and Eve sinned, Genesis 3:23, God banished both from the Garden. God dealt with sin. Genesis 6:5 tells us that man's wickedness was so horrible that He had to flood the Earth, wiping everything away except eight people, seven pair of clean animals, two pair of unclean animals, and seven pair of every kind of bird. God dealt with sin. Genesis 19:24, God rained down fire and brimstone and destroyed the city of Sodom and Gomorrah because of their sin.

There has always been a high price to be paid for sin, so when Jesus went to Calvary's cross to pay the debt of humanity, he to was a high price. Many people don't understand that Christ was the sinless sacrifice for the sins of the world. For Christ to fully understand the impact of sin, he had to feel the feeling of loneliness and in the three hours of darkness before he gave up the Ghost, he truly felt that. In 1 John 1:5, God is light and in him is no darkness at all. Death is darkness and from the prince of darkness, Satan. God could not be apart of that at the cross. Christ was in the flesh and the flesh was hurting and suffering and with all that Christ went through, he still referred to God as my God.

When we understand Jesus Christ, we'll understand God and his righteousness!

Suppose It's True After All

As I was sitting in front of the computer, putting this short article together, I began to think of all the people that are in the world today and most it seems are lost. They don't know God, neither are they interested in hearing about the gospel of Jesus Christ, which would help them get to know Jesus Christ and the salvation that is offered through his name.

Man has become secure in himself and does not feel the need of help from a Supreme Being such as God. It could be because of the technology we have today is greater than it has ever been, we have come farther in the last fifty years, it seems than the previous six thousand upon this earth. Our advances in all fields, whether it be science, medicine or any other field, we have advanced greatly, allowing us to think about ourselves to be greater than what we really are.

God help us, if we ever get to this point, to open our eyes, to be able to see we are the created and not the Creator. (Proverbs 30:8-9) Solomon says Remove far from me vanity and lies, give me neither poverty or riches, feed me with the food of convenient for me lest I be full and deny thee, and say, Who is the Lord? or lest I be poor, and steal and take the name of God in vain. When we think about society today, this fits most of us, we want three meals a day, a nice car, a good home, a good job, go to church once a week, if there's time, a little recreation, and start all over again come Monday morning, repeat the cycle. We live our lives as if there is no God.

But suppose it is true after all, there is a God, and there is judgement after all, and we must give an account of our deeds in judgement? 2 Corinthians 5:10 For we must all appear before the judgement seat of Christ, that everyone may receive the things done in his body, according to that he hath done. Suppose it really will happen someday just as Jesus said in Matthew the 25 chapter, how that the unrighteous shall be placed on the left, and then hear the words, depart from me ye cursed into ever lasting fire prepared for the devil and his angels. How would we fare if today was the end of the world? Where would we spend eternity after the judgement, if it is true after all?

Suppose it is true after all that there is a hell, just as it is described in the Bible. Hell is a place of eternal punishment. It will last forever. Suppose it is a bottomless pit where the fire is not quenched, and the worm dies not. Where people are in pain twenty-four hours a day, gnashing their teeth in so much pain. Suppose all of this is true just like Jesus said, why would you want to be there, the Bible tells us God cannot lie, just suppose all of this is true, what would you do.

Brodhead seeking way to enforce local ordinances

Police Chief seeks to give a voice to the accused

By: Mike French
Editor

Members of the Brodhead City Commission held their regular monthly meeting Monday night to discuss local issues. One of the conversations centered on enforcement of city ordinances.

With several ordinances on the books, and more in the works, Police Chief Richard Reynolds said there are some of the ordinances that are difficult for him to enforce.

"In years past, there was a city court or some other entity for people to go to where they could tell their side," he said. Reynolds said he would never pick on anyone or treat a citizen unfairly, but there is no way for the city to prove that currently.

"Before I can truly enforce an ordinance, the person who is accused has to have a third party, like a city court or a judge or an impartial body, to hear their side of the story. Otherwise there is nothing to keep any city from abusing that authority."

Reynolds posed a sympathetic point. "If a city needed $1,000 for something, with no outlet for the accused to express their point of view, I could simply go out and start writing tickets to anyone I see and they would have no ability to give their side or argue against the ticket," he said. "Everyone deserves a chance to have their side of any issue heard by an impartial third party."

Commissioners agreed. "People used to go before the county judge or some other entity to have their side heard," said Commissioner Brian Bullock. "Things were different then. We need some way to enforce our ordinances and provide everyone a voice."

Commissioner Jerry Adams said times have changed. "Back in the day, I got a speeding ticket for drag racing and I just went to the judge's house one night and paid him and it

"Everyone deserves a chance to have their side of any issue heard by an impartial third party."

was over," he said. Reynolds said some issues can be enforced but others are more difficult. "You know if someone violates some of our ordinances, we have the authority to turn off their utilities until they comply," he said.

"Some ordinances give us recourse. But things like dog leash ordinances (which the city currently has under consideration) or the nuisance ordinance, we can write them a citation but they have no recourse to disagree with us. They may think the condition is no nuisance at all and they need to be able to tell that to someone."

According to City Clerk Becky Bussell, the city is currently working with attorneys to provide an enforcement method for the city ordinances that would provide due process for all accused of violating an ordinance. "We are currently bound by the state leash law but there are some local conditions specific to Brodhead that we need to address for public safety sake," she said. "We are working with attorneys now to try and resolve this issue."

In other business, commissioners decided to purchase two new pumps for the sewer plant since one broke down recently. "They flush rags and towels and things you wouldn't believe into our sewer system and it has destroyed one pump just this week," said Bussell. Bullock agreed. "They are around $10,000 but we don't have a back up pump and we better have a back up or we could find ourselves with a real problem," he said. The other commissioners agreed.

Emergency Management Director Brian Bussell said the city is still waiting on direction from the federal government on how to use the $368,000 from the American Recovery Act. "There is a lot we can be sure the money can be used for but they need to release the details soon," he said. "There are some projects that are becoming more important every day."

The city already received the first portion of the grant and the remaining $130,000 is expected in 2022. Some other cities have apparently used some of their portion of the grant but most are waiting for direction. The commissioners also discussed a $9,900 bill for cleaning the "sludge" from the sewage tanks. "This hasn't been done in many years and needed done drastically," said Brian Bussell. Shannon Cash, Director of the Water and Sewer department said the Rite Way Services company cleaned 48,000 gallons of sludge from the tanks. Having no further business, the meeting was closed. The next regular meeting is scheduled for Monday, January 10, 2022.

National riots and looting trend is not welcome in Rockcastle County

By: Mike French
Editor

According to many statistics, crime rates across the country are on the rise. In fact, in some of the more dangerous cities in America, officials say the murder rate has risen to the highest numbers since 1950 when accurate record keeping began.

Some officials, including United States Attorney Rachael Rollins and some mayors in high-crime cities, have vowed they will not prosecute such rioting and looting as felony crimes. In fact, in California, Proposition 47 minimized any theft under $950.

Some national retail chains say looters have caused many businesses to close their doors. Walgreens and CVS Pharmacy have closed some locations permanently. However, Chicago Mayor Lori Lightfoot has blamed the retail outlets for the looting in her city saying the businesses need to have more guards.

Some rioting has been reported in some Kentucky cities recently, as well, and looting is growing in the aftermath of recent storms in Kentucky. Local officials agree that theft and looting are on the rise nationwide even as many news outlets and elected officials deny it. However, these same local officials agree that such rioting and looting will not be tolerated in Rockcastle County.

"In Rockcastle County, rioters and/or looters will go to jail and will be prosecuted," said Rockcastle County Attorney Jeremy Rowe.

Mount Vernon Mayor Mike Bryant also agrees that such activity will not be overlooked, ignored or minimized in Mount Vernon. "In the event that any such activity did occur here in our city, businesses owners, workers and residents should know that such rioters and looters will be arrested and prosecuted to the fullest extent of the law," said Bryant. "I strongly support the Constitution, the laws of the land and holding folks accountable for their actions."

Local officials say the pharmacies in Rockcastle county, as well as other businesses, are much safer than in bigger cities since local officials will not tolerate or support such activity. Rockcastle County Sheriff Shannon Franklin says there will be no such tolerance for looting here in Rockcastle County. "Citizens of Rockcastle County can rest assured that their sheriff's office, and all other state and local law enforcement agencies, will continue to make every effort to protect our citizens and their property," he said. "We can deal with law breakers through the good people that work for our court system, making every effort to see law breakers prosecuted fairly under state and local law, just as we have since Kentucky became a state."

However, Franklin feels such looting may never come to Rockcastle County. "It is unlikely that those who commit these types of crimes will come here since we are an armed and polite society," he said. "There are easier pickings elsewhere."

Local woman named interim president

By: Mike French
Editor

A Rockcastle County native has been named to the top spot at the University of Louisville.

Lori Stewart Gonzalez, Ph.D., has been named as interim president of the University of Louisville. Gonzalez will succeed Neeli Bendapudi who accepted a position at Penn State University.

Gonzalez has served as vice president and university provost since April. Her resume is filled with top positions at some of the nation's premier universities but her most recent post, before coming to Louisville, was to serve as vice chancellor for academic, faculty and student affairs at the University of Tennessee.

Her resume also includes work at Southern Illinois University, the University of Kentucky, University of North Carolina and more.

The first act as interim president was to name Josh Heird as interim director of athletics.

Mt Vernon Lions Club members Judith Smith, Rose Brown and Sandy Dowell delivered Christmas gifts to the three elementary schools in the county. Wish lists from three students from each school were shopped for and wrapped with love for Christmas. Thank you to the Brodhead Lions Club, Rockcastle Sheriff Shannon Franklin, NAPA, Central Body, and members of Mt Vernon Lions and the community for their contributions.
