COVID increase

Rockcastle County remains in the Red Zone with an increased incident rating of 171 Monday. Of the 120 Kentucky counties, all are listed as Red Zone counties, on the KYCOVID-19 website. According to the Cumberland Valley District Health Department, Rockcastle has lost a 64 year-old female as well as a father and daughter to COVID in the past week. Cases across the state continue to climb to record numbers according to the state website.

In a special called meeting Monday, members of the Rockcastle County School Board voted to reinstate the mask mandate for all students, faculty and staff with several exceptions. Only board member Misty Lakes voted against the mandate.

The Kentucky Department of Education has left the decision up to local boards but has highly recommended universal mask mandates in any red-zone county. As of Monday, January 24th, every Kentucky county is a red-zone county.

The board discussed the question for over an hour and heard varying recommendations and opinions from each board member until a motion was eventually made by Chairman Angela Mink.

Lakes made an emotional statement concerning the issue and gave reasons why she felt she must vote against such a mandate. Lakes said she is "not convinced this would do anything to stop the spread of COVID." She continued to say that in her recent legal studies, she has not "found anything to indicate that we, as a board, have the right to force a student to wear a mask if the parent doesn't want them to."

During the meeting, nearly every board member agreed that masks do not stop the spread of COVID-19, but all members except Lakes voted for the mandate.

Many different forms of mask mandates were discussed but the final motion was to create a "When You Move, You Mask" mandate. In other words, while sitting at their desk, students will not be required to wear a mask. But if they get up, "even to sharpen their pencil," board member Angela Woods said, "students must put on their mask."

Teachers will not be required to wear a mask behind their desk or while walking around the classroom but must put on a mask if they get close to any student. Masks will not be required on anyone at any extra curricular activities or at any sporting events or during a physical education class or while eating or drinking.

In an effort to comply with the wishes of many parents who pointed to data which suggests that full-time masks can be harmful to students, especially young students, the board had lifted the mandate late last year. But even as the mandate was lifted, board members repeated the idea that the board may change that policy at any time. Monday night, the board did change that policy.

Until Tuesday, students, faculty and staff were free to choose if they wanted a mask. But once again the board has installed the mask mandate "for student's whose feet are moving," according to Woods.

The board repeated that this new mandate is only in effect for 10 school days and the issue will be revisited at the February 8

Chimney fires

fires tend to increase during the winter months, accord-

One of the more common residential fires occur in chimneys, according to Mount Vernon Fire Chief Adam Bales. "Of course it used to be a very common

As always, residential thing because a lot more people used fire places. But chimney fires are still a rather common call to fire departments," said Bales.

Though fewer homes use an actual fireplace to heat their home, wood burning stoves, gas stoves and other units are still vented through chimneys, Bales said. In fact, local departments were called to West Main Street in Mount Vernon just this week due to a chim-

Dispatchers at the local 911 center received a call concerning a truck parked at the Mount Vernon Pizza Hut parking lot for about two hours Friday, January 21.

Upon arrival, police found Brett D. Whittaker, 38, of Somerset, sitting in the truck unresponsive, according to a uniform citation.

Police noticed the truck was running but not in park and a small gun was seen inside the vehicle, according to the citation.

Upon waking the suspect and talking with Whittaker, police found he had been previously pardoned by Governor Matt Bevin on charges related to a DUI wanton murder charge, according to Rockcastle County Attorney Jeremy Rowe.

I'll be the first to admit that winter stinks. I mean it really stinks bad. I mean I would just about prefer being covered in honey and locked in a dumpster with a box of ants as long as it is warm outside. Yes, I hate, hate, hate winter.

As for my own view of winter, there is nothing good about it. People like to say it keeps our insects from over populating and I guess that is a good thing. But I would sure be happy to live with a big bug walking around than to have my nose and toes black from frost bite.

Having said that, I will admit I am amazed at how the state has become so weak that it can't deal with winter at all anymore. Yes I hate winter, but I don't cower in a corner in the fetal position everytime it snows. I still have a life.

I wish some of this generation had experienced the winter of 1978 like I did. Maybe the state wouldn't come to a screeching halt when it snows if they had.

It snowed (a lot) for 29 consecutive days. Snow drifts across the state were well above some windows in Kentucky. Roads weren't slick, they were gone.

There was no way to tell where the edge of the road was. There was no line where the road stopped and the ditch began. It was all perfectly level, white, snow. To drive at all, you had to know the road very well and simply remember that there was a turn just ahead.

The tree lines and utility poles helped some and people had a general idea where the road was. But not from vision. Only from memory.

But I will say this. We didn't stop living. We didn't just curl up and disappear like people do now.

I found Dollar stores and grocery stores and businesses and restaurants and even convenient stores and gas stations closed with signs on the doors that said "closed due to weather." What?

Well let's hope it doesn't snow on a day when you had plans.

Good grief. We didn't just crawl under the covers and die in '78. Yes it was bad but the thought of missing work never crossed our minds.

My dad never missed a minute of work through the entire month-long storm. If he had to, he would have ridden on the back of a tractor. But you didn't just stay home.

If this kind of weenie generation continues, things could get to a point that you can't even say words that may offend someone...wait!

Before you know it, people would be so weak and scared of everything that we would have to remove statues of great American heroes if someone got their little feelings hurt...wait!

If we became such a weenie nation that we close our businesses and public offices because it snows, we would probably run and hide in our basement like cowards during flu season...wait!

If people are so afraid of snow that they will close down their business, then they would cover their faces and wear a mask around all day if a cold was going around...wait!

Anyway, in '78, I never saw a business closed or a single person lock themselves inside. Instead, they put on ther-

Some have reached out to me wanting to make suggestions and ideas to be included in the Rock Star articles, however, we're already in the process of writing most of these stories for this first year. Perhaps down the road if we continue we'll start taking suggestions and ideas.

Much of what is appearing in the Signal article Rock Star is real life stories as told by family members, a son or daughter or a spouse or sibling, in their words with a few added words and editing.

I love the lyrics from the song "The God on the Mountain" which says, "For the God on the mountain Is still God in the valley,

When things go wrong He'll make them right, And the God of the good times

Is still God in the bad times, The God of the day Is still God in the night"

Celebrity Robin Roberts says it this way

"Make your mess your message." I've been known to say that. People know me for saying that, and it comes from my dear mom and as I got older when she really said it to me was when I was diagnosed and cross-country team. with breast cancer. And we make Mac asked me where I she said, be their voice. Make your mess your message."

In a very similar way our second installment of Rock Star is saying that same message in a different way.

When I was a kid growing up, mom always had a pair of "sleeping socks". She would stand over a vent for a bit and get her feet good and warm and then put on her "sleeping socks" just before going to bed. It seemed to do the trick. She also had a scarf she wore at night so her head wouldn't get cold. I've been known to wear a toboggan to bed. Bless her heart; she would be 101 years old tomorrow on 1-24-22. Due to my sleepless nights because of my cold feet, I stay so sleepy during the day it makes it hard to even function at times. If I could only get a good night's sleep consistently would be so wonderful. If I can get my feet warm and finally go to sleep, then I often suffer from those horrible leg or feet cramps. Then I have to rub them and walk around for awhile. Then I'm awake for hours. Around 2 a.m. I quite often wake up even if everything else is fine. I read somewhere that according to an Oriental chart, if you woke up at 2 a.m. to 3 a.m. constantly that you hated yourself. Gee, I didn't know that. I always thought that I was a pretty good old gal, but there are those who would beg to differ. I knew we had become a weaker nation over the past 50 years but I didn't know that we would simply close up America and hide if it snowed.

We are a nation that has changed its heroes from James Dean to Whoopie Goldburg. Obviously Russia and China are noticing this change

We better stop begging government to allow us to travel and just go if we want. We better stop letting looters walk out of stores with both legs. We better stop whining that the climate is 0.0001 degree warmer and use that money to build up our military. We better stop showing our body in public and then complaining if someone notices. Memories

Lexington the following Monday.

Upon my arrival at UK, I proceeded to unload my Chevy and move into my new dormitory room. Haggin Hall had just opened as the newest and largest residence hall on campus. It also had air conditioning, and that was my first experience with AC. I could not believe my luck. I thought it was just too cool!

Mac and I discussed sports at UK in 1962 and now. I explained how the experience at Memorial Coliseum added to my UK life. I had always been a huge Wildcat fan of UK basketball and football. As a student, I only had to show my identification to be admitted to the UK home games. That was just too much fun for a boy from Rockcastle County.

Memorial Coliseum opened in 1950. From 1050 to 1976, it was home to the UK Wildcat basketball team (26 seasons). It was the home of the 1951 and 1958 NCAA Basketball Championship teams. Memorial Coliseum was just across the street from Stoll Field, UK's football stadium.

I tried to explain how different it was to see UK basketball with 12,000 fans compared to 23,000 at Rupp Arena. UK basketball was so much fun in that environment.

I also shared my memories of the K-Lair Restaurant with Mac, which was located near Haggin Hall. The K-Lair opened early for breakfast and stayed open late for us dorm residents. They had the finest cheeseburgers, especially late at night. I can't remember how many times stopped by for a quick breakfast sandwich on my way to classes at UK.

Mac and I enjoyed comparing our experiences as students at UK, even though they were a lifetime apart. I suppose each individual thinks their time at UK was the best ever. He and I both love our time there.

Nancy Irene (Bruce) Hale

Nancy Hale's Rockcastle County roots predate her birth. Her father, Jack Bruce pastored Livingston Baptist Church in the early 1950's. He and his wife, Betty, became close friends with Rockcastle natives Clifford and Irene Bales. They were so close that the Bruces later named their daughter after Irene. Nancy Irene was born after the family had moved to Albany, Kentucky in 1956.

Being a "preacher's kid", Nancy was to know many homes in Kentucky and Ohio prior to her father's return to Rockcastle county to pastor First Baptist Church in M t Vernon. This move was to be Nancy's last she'd had found her lifetime home, mar-

Director, choir member and numerous other roles of service and ministry. Nancy attended Sue Bennet College for a year before transferring to Eastern Kentucky University where she completed her Bachelor and Master's Degree in Edu-

She spent 34 years teaching in Rockcastle County Schools including service as Gifted Education Coordinator and GEAR UP Coordinator. She provided many leadership training opportunities for students through Y-Club and other activities she sponsored.

The Kentucky YMCA recognized her as Outstanding KYA Advisor and Outstanding KUNA Advisor in 2000, 2001 and 2005.

In addition, Nancy served two terms as President of the Kentucky Association of Professional Educators

After retiring from Rockcastle Co. Schools, Nancy was approached about working with Operation UNITE as Co-Director of the UNITE Service Corps funded by an AmeriCorps Grant. Her background in education served her well in her new role working for the Education component of UNITE and assisting people who wanted to become educators.

"UNITE" is an acronym meaning Unlawful Narcotics Investigations, Treatment and Education. It reflects the threepronged, comprehensive approach deemed necessary to combating substance abuse and misuse.

Operation UNITE was launched on April 7, 2003, by U.S. Congressman Harold "Hal" Rogers in response to a special report, "Prescription for Pain," published by the Lexington Herald-Leader newspaper during January and February of 2003.

Nancy served 4 years in this role before the CEO of UNITE left for another position and Nancy was asked to assume the CEO position.

Nancy's passion for her work with Operation UNITE is the result of seeing family members suffer from the effects of poor choices involving drugs. The death of a neice, a nephew, and a cousin make the ongoing drug problem real to her.

As CEO, Nancy led the treatment team to expand the UNITE Voucher Program to include the full continuum of care including transitional housing. This has aided many people with addiction issues in their recovery.

Operation UNITE has developed several programs for use in schools and Nancy is enthusiastic about promoting and expanding them to reach students with the antidrug message. She has helped pilot a mobile prevention unit called "On The Movell that offers a mobile classroom and simulated impaired driving experience. Another program is the WISE (Why Internet Safety is Essential) Program that teaches students the dangers of sharing too much information on social media and the repercussions of cyber-bullying.

Nancy's desire is to see an end to the pandemic of illicit drug use that is destroying lives. She doesn't consider her role at Operation UNITE as much a job as it is a calling - her ministry. She says, God placed me here "for a time such as this"

Thank you Nancy Hale for being such a Rock Star at this moment in time!

Legislative Update

By Jared Carpenter State Senator Week 3

Children are the Commonwealth's most precious asset. Investing in them today makes for a healthier, stronger, more economically sound commonwealth and the leg-education and healthcare. The following is an overview of bills passed by the Senate this week, which are now on their way to the state House for consideration: Senate Bill 9 (SB 9) systematically improves the quality and delivery of reading instruction to K-3 students across the state, by implementing supports, interventions and creating a streamlined curriculum-based foundation in phonics, vocabulary, and comprehension. SB 9 also requires readingspecific developmental training for all teachers K-

Senate Bill 11 (SB 11) modernizes and strengthens oversight and care for residents in assisted living communities by transitioning these services from a certification model to a licensure model within the Cabinet for Health and Family Services. This bill brings assisted living communities like nursing homes, under the Office of the Inspector General in CHFS, improving regulatory oversight on par with other states. Senate Bill 55 (SB 55) gives first responders a more clear indication of where stroke victims should be transported. The bill adds a fourth level of certification called thrombectomy-capable, to hospitals caring for stroke patients. Kentucky currently has three levels of identified care; acute, primary and comprehensive; SB 55 would add thrombectomy-capable as another, signifying the capability of handling blood clots.

Senate Bill 56 (SB 56) aims to save lives by making federally approved 'opioid antagonist' drugs more widely available to the public. An opioid antagonist is a drug that can rapidly reverse a drug overdose and is currently only available to first responders; this bill would make it more widely available.

Also, the week of January was National Child Advocacy week, in which our Senate Majority Caucus Chair, Julie Raque-Adams, filed priority legislation to tackle the issue of child abuse and neglect across the commonwealth. This bill aims to address issues in our Commonwealth surrounding child abuse and neglect, in which we rank 50th in the nation. That statistic is horrific and following strong attention during the first few weeks of the session to strengthen education, keep students in school and improve health care, it is imperative for the General Assembly to put measures in place to protect the most vulnerable residents in our state. Above all else, this is legislation that should bridge party lines in order to help our children and those who work to protect them. Expect more attention on this priority bill, Senate Bill (SB) 8, in the days ahead.

Finally, the governor vetoed both the Congressional (SB 3) and the House District (HB 2) maps. The Senate acted expeditiously to override both vetoes, as did the House.

I'm excited about the significant changes in policies we are able to impact for the better education and health of our residents. It's an honor to represent you.

Yards to Paradise

By Max Phelps Peat: Story of and Uses of Peat Moss for Landscape Gardening

Peat is a most useful and abundant planting and seeding material that is almost universally used in modern plant propagation and growing. It's a sustainably harvested natural resource, at least in North America, and the predominant source is Canada, though a good deal is harvested in the United States.

The popular "Proven Winners" line of garden center plants use potting mix from Fafard group, a Canadian concern that has several US plants, too. Mass production depends on peat for the plants we purchase from the big blue or orange store or our favorite garden center.

Sometimes there's negative press for using any product that has carbon or might in some manner increase pollution. Such stories distort the picture. For, any alternative also has some plusses and minuses, and are also not as good in most cases for young seedling production of the garden plants and flowers most of us buy regularly in the spring.

Sphagnum moss and other bog plants decay over time, and the process is slow. To get the big picture, 86 percent of peat bogs are virgin and undisturbed. Canadian peat can only be harvested for about 30 to 45 days due to frozen ground and/or rain. Of the 160 million acres, only about a fourth of one percent of those are being actively mined. And of the 9,000 acres finished, over half have been reclaimed to near original state. Other countries may have other statistics, but in any case it is a natural and an environmentally friendly product used everyday in modern horticulture. What are the garden uses of peat? Potting mixes and seed starting pots are a primary use. Bales of shredded peat can be tilled or mixed into garden beds to help aerate compacted or clay soils (or add organic matter to sandy soils). We often use peat to reduce pH, especially useful for cultivating blueberries, azaleas and many acid-loving shrubs and perennials. Certainly perlite, peanut hulls, rice hulls, coconut husks, pine fines and a myriad of other things can and are added to planting mixes and grow mixes, but it's tough to get a dependable medium without using some peat.

An informative reference on peat can be found https:// www.gardenmyths.com/ peat-peatmoss-true-story/ . Even so, they seem to suggest there are more environmentally friendly options than peat. I'd like to see the proof rather than the opinion on such myself. In summary, peat is the perfect seed starting ingredient, and a lovely ingredient in potting and planting mixes and garden or tree planting soils. Most of it is responsibly harvested and the areas restored upon completion of harvest or mining. It is acidic, and not every plant likes that. But some lime or some wood ashes easily corrects that situation if using a lot of peat in gardening and landscaping. Bales of peatmoss are the most economical for mixing

but a seed starting or potting mix containing peat is probably more convenient for many to begin gardening in. The author is a landscaper. Feedback encouraged: rockcastles.net or 606 416 3911.

regular monthly meeting. Superintendent Carrie Ballinger said 26 staff members missed work Monday due to COVID-related issues.

According to the Kentucky COVID state website, there are over one million cases of COVID-19 but less than 1/3 of those are confirmed. The site also lists 12.687 deaths due to COVID but only about 1/10th of those are confirmed.

The state website lists the statewide incident rate at 237 while Rockcastle is 171.

The state website also recommends mask requirements in all red zones.

trict and the DOW, Mahaffey provided samples of the water and has consulted with water experts on the issue.

Mahaffey said he spent the entire day Friday flushing the water system and suggested that all residents flush their lines at home as well.

Officials in the City of Livingston have agreed that customers will not be charged for the water used flushing their lines for one hour. Customer may flush longer if they choose but will be charged for water used after one hour.

Samples of the water were sent to laboratories for examination and initial testing suggested the water is not harmful. In fact, according to Mahaffey, the DOW "did not feel that a boil water advisory is necessary."

The DOW lifted the boil water advisory Monday morning. But Mahaffey will continue the investigation. "We at Livingston Municipal Water Works are working to protect our customers as much as we can until this is figured out," he said. "We continue to flush lines and stay in regular contact with the Division of Water and with Wood Creek Water District."

Monday morning, officials with the DOW contacted Mahaffey and lifted the advisory since the samples "came back clean," Mahaffey said.

Mahaffey and city officials say they are working on the issue every day and will continue to search for answers. "This color has spread throughout our water system and we have done everything required of us to figure it out and to flush it out," said Mahaffey. "We are taking extra precaution and will continue to do so."

According Mahaffee, officials suspect that the coloration in the water started when workers had to use a jack hammer near some water lines recently causing the pipes to shake loose build-up inside. "They aren't positive of that cause yet and we are continuing to investigate every possibility," said Mahafey. "As soon as we have a definite result, we will let everyone know what caused the discoloration. But they think that was the cause."

Still, in the meantime, Mahaffey says he has been assured that the water is safe and no boil water advisory is needed. In fact, a document received from the Division of Water in London Monday stated the samples had been tested by Fouser Environmental Services and "the water had been tested by a certified lab and found clear of possible biological contamination."

For more information concerning discolored water, contact the Livingston Municipal Water Works at 606-453-2061 or contact Mahaffey at 606-308-7708.

"Most of the 13 inmates are showing mild symptoms and we hope that continues," he said. "The nurse is saying that everyone seems to be doing better already."

Carter said some of the inmates who tested positive were fully vaccinated and some were unvaccinated but he did not have the exact numbers in mind.

"It looks like everyone is getting much better pretty quickly and they only had minor symptoms for a few days," he said.

Since the jail switched to virtual visitation last year, the positive cases do not affect visitation hours or protocol, Carter

Officers performed sobriety tests and called Rowe concerning the pardon. Rowe informed police that the presence of the handgun gave officers cause for arrest on a charge of a handgun in the possession of a convicted felon.

Once arrested, police discovered suspected methamphetamine and drug paraphernalia in the vehicle, the citation says.

Whittaker was transported to the Rockcastle County Detention Center where he was charged with no license in possession, operating a motor vehicle under the influence, possession of a handgun by a convicted felon, possession of meth and possession of drug paraphernalia.

Whittaker's preliminary hearing is set for next week.

ney fire. The fire was extinguished and no injuries were reported.

"It is a common call in all fire departments and about the only way to avoid it is to keep your chimney clean," said Bales.

While some hire a chimney sweep to clean a chimney, others do the work themselves after purchasing a chimney cleaning kit at a home supply store.

Bales said the job can determine if there will be a chimney fire at the home. Therefore the importance of the job may suggest homeowners hire the work done unless they are very experienced at such DIY projects.

"Over the winter months, we get several calls for chimney fires and they can, and sometimes do, spread throughout the entire home," said Bales. "Cleaning the chimney is among the most important things a homeowner can do to protect

Bullock also agrees that the only safe chimney is a clean chimney. "We highly recommend a professional but there are some do it yourself options on the market. That should be safe as long as follow you all manufacturer's instructions," he said.

The Good Shepherd

Christ is the Good Shepherd. What is the job of a Shepherd? A Shepherd's job is to care and provide for the sheep or the flock. God uses the example of how his Shepherds are to lead his people and to look out for their best interest, putting their needs above their own. In Ezekiel 34 those who were the Shepherds of God's children, which is Israel, were rebuked sharply for failing in that service.

God, through Ezekiel, goes on to say that because these Shepherds (leaders) were using their positions to promote themselves and gain wealth from those whom they were supposed to be serving and leading, he himself was going to be the Shepherd of his people.

You see the prophets oversaw prophesy, the prophesy of God. They became false prophets, in that they started working for themselves. They would prophesy for the high bidder, saying what do you want us to say? Does this sound

The priest was to oversee the worship and the sacrifice service unto God. They perverted their positions for personal gain. Nothing angers God more than people who are acting as his leaders and for his people to be worshipping with the wrong motivation.

Kings had power, often they would use that power to oppress their subjects. Power can be abused. You see power comes with great responsibility, often men cannot manage power, it goes to their head! God sent a Shepherd that fulfilled all the positions the way God intended for them to be fulfilled. God sent his son and our Savior Jesus Christ. Christ is referred to in the New Testament as Prophet, Priest and King. He is the Chief Shepherd. Christ cares for his sheep and will lead them into truth and righteousness.

The Lord's Supper - Part 2

Wednesday Evening Bible Study: 7:00

As I wrote last week, we would look at the emblems used in the Lord's Supper, because these are very important because this is what our Lord instituted, shortly before He left this earth.

1 Peter 2:21 Because Christ suffered for us, leaving us an example, that we should follow in his footsteps. 1 Corinthians 11:2 The apostle Paul said: Remember me in all things, and keep the ordinances, as I have delivered them unto you.

Many want you to believe that the cup and the fruit of the vine are the same thing. Luke 22:20 Likewise he also took the cup, after supper. Saying, the cup is the New Testament in my blood, which is shed for many. It is easy to see the cup is the symbol of the New Testament and the blood sealed or ratified this covenant. It is a shame what man has done to the Lord's Supper, by twisting the symbols and trying to make them mean something completely different than what our Lord instituted nearly two thousand years ago. As Christians we need to get back to taking the Lord's Supper, just exactly as our Lord instituted it two thousand years ago, with one cup, which contain the fruit of the vine, and one loaf that is a symbol of our Lord's body.

Thayer says: Luke 22:20 This cup containing the fruit of the vine, an emblem of blood, is rendered by the shedding of my blood an emblem of the New Testament. Hence the cup stands for the New Testament, and the fruit of the vine, an emblem of the blood of Christ, are connected to the Lord's Supper.

Jesus told us how we are to divide it. Luke 22:17 Take this and divide it among yourselves. Jesus also tells us how we are to divide the contents of the cup. Matthew 26:27 He gave it to them, Saying drink ye all of it. Mark 14:23 and he took the cup and when he had given thanks, he gave it to them, and they all drank of it. Once again, a very simple command, easy as one two three. I believe the disciples did exactly as Jesus commanded. They understood the meaning of each emblem and the importance of each emblem, and I believe they did as Jesus commanded.

We find the early Church in Corinth, not many years later following this pattern that had been commanded by our Lord. 1 Corintbians 11:23-25 For I have received of the Lord, which I have delivered unto you. That the Lord Jesus, the same night, in which he was betrayed took bread. And when he had given thanks he break it, take eat this my body which is broken for you, this do in remembrance of me. After the same manner also he took the cup, when he had supped saying, the cup is the New Testament in my blood, this do ye, as oft as ye drink it in remembrance of me. For as oft as ye eat this bread and drink this cup, ye do shew the Lord's death, till he come. The Lord used one cup and one loaf on the Lord's table, and he said for us to do likewise. The question is? What will

Thanks for reading, God bless the faithful in Christ Jesus.
