is a merchant in our town and the bride is the attractive daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Sam Stallworth. May their lives be one of pleasure and may they never regret their choice in this matter. Miss Lyda Cook and Miss Ethel Hayse are visiting in Cincinnati this week. Misses Nettie Rice, Annie M. Walton and Alice Ward have returned from Stanford after a few days visit in that city. Miss Mae Magee of Danville, after a weeks visit with her aunt Mrs. J. H. Browning has returned home. J. H. Browning was in Corbin Monday on business. The Holiness people are conducting a meeting in our town at present. Ragland Show is in town and from what we can learn will remain here a week. They have a merry-go-round, a shooting gallery and every thing that will cause a nickle to change hands. It is the intention of T. J. Pennington to complete the Davis Brick store house this week and we believe he will be able to do so. Talk about Jonahs gourd growing up in one day the building of this house reminds us of that divine saying. Mrs. Bettie Pike began her school on Rockcastle river Monday. Mrs. Angie Owens has moved to the rooms over the Postoffice vacated by Mrs. Bettie Pike. T. P. E. Drummonds, the man with the long name has returned from Knoxville, Tenn. Mr. and Mrs. James Meadows of Mt. Vernon, spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. N. H. Oliver. Mrs. Will Brown of Parksville, after a two weeks visit with her daughter, Mrs. C. A. Blanford, has returned home. Miss Sinnie Parker of Mt. Vernon has been visiting relatives here for the past week. J. W. Baker was in Mt. Vernon Sunday. Miss Ella Mac Blanford has returned from Parksville, where she has been with relatives for a few days. Mrs. Manerva Anglin has returned to Mt. Vernon. Mr. and Mrs. J. F. Neighbors are spending ten days with relatives in Louisville, Louisville and other places. Mr. and Mrs. M. G. Warren of Hansford, after a few days visit with their son, W. A. Warren have returned home. Jerry Sams who was supposed to be seriously injured in a tunnel is rapidly improving. One of the finest rains of the season fell Monday night and all vegetation has taken a new lease of life. Miss Cora Griffin of Mt. Vernon, has returned home after a few days visit with her aunt, Mrs. J. D. Hall. Mrs. Walter Turpin attended the funeral of O. W. Turpin at Brodhead Monday. Mrs. Will Odell of Indianapolis, Ind., is visiting relatives here. On Monday night, last, the society young folks gave a tramp party in honor of Miss Minnie Wood Quiggins of Elizabethtown. The guests were Misses Florence Pennington, Alice Ward, Carrie Ponder, Georgia Amyx, Mabel Nicoley, Ella Mae Parley and Minnie Wood Quiggins, Messrs John Clark, Forest Shrock, I. W. Catlin, Mose Brad, J. B. Donally, Ed Hard, Fred Baker, Hugh Clark, and Earl Rice, Mr. and Mrs. J. P. E. Drummonds, Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Rice were chaperones. All report a splendid time. Alvin Reynolds lost his house and all its contents Monday night by fire which is supposed to have been set by lightning. It was a total loss as there was no insurance on the building but the good people of this town are helping him, which is no more than their duty, but Livingston always does its part in cases like this.

“EVERY ONE CHEER UP,” WAS ADVICE OF FORD Auto Manufacturer Is a Guest of the President.
CHICAGO MEN ASKED CHANGES IN TRADE COMMISSION.
Regulation of State Banks Subject of One Discussion.
WASHINGTON, July 9.—Optimistic views of business conditions were presented to President Wilson to day by Henry Ford, the Detroit manufacturer, during an hour's conference at the White House. Mr. Ford told the President he saw no evidence of any sort of business depression, psychological or otherwise, and said that in his opinion business was getting better all the time. "There is absolutely nothing wrong with business," Mr. Ford told the President. "The only trouble is that some people seem pessimistic. If everyone would only cheer up and attend to their business, this calamity talk would stop immediately."
The President and Mr. Ford discussed the trust bills in a general way, as well as the business situation. Officials close to the President said he was greatly encouraged by his talk with Mr. Ford and that he had been further strengthened in his determination to push the trust programme during the present session of Congress. Mr. Ford refused to discuss his call, saying that talk of business depression was unworthy of the President.
Direct result of the conference yesterday with the Chicago business men is the possibility that the trade commission bill, which has passed the house and is now pending in the Senate, may be modified as to details. To that end the Chicagoans remained in Washington and conferred to-day with Representative Covington of Maryland, author of the House trade commission bill. The President arranged for the conference. Representative Covington told them President Wilson has said to him he wished to meet big business half way in consideration of the trust programme and wanted to be fair in every way. Mr. Covington promised to take their suggestions under consideration and lay his opinions before the President, and later before the House Commerce committee.
The delegation told the President that they favored the trade commission bill, but suggested certain modifications which, they contended, would make it a strengthening agency, helpful to all business.
There is more Catarrh in this section of the country than all other diseases put together, and until the last few years was supposed to be incurable. For a great many years doctors pronounced it a local disease and prescribed local remedies, and by constantly failing to cure with local treatment, pronounced it incurable. Science has proven Catarrh to be a constitutional disease, and therefore requires constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. LIVINGSTON.

The black berry crop in this neck of the woods is very short and the berries are very small. The Bible School convention will meet in Livingston August the 9th all delegates who expect to attend will write Miss Virginia Summers, Sec. to look them out a home while here. The officers and teachers expect one of the best conventions ever held in the county, and we believe they will accomplish that desire, for they never do anything by halves. Well crops in this section will be a complete failure and gardens are already gone. W. E. Gray has moved into the River Mansion. C. H. Rice has returned from Louisville where he has been for a few days. Only about 3 more weeks until the Big Mt. Vernon Fair and we hope to get to go one day we wish to meet our old friends Maret and Franklin face to face and then all wrongs will be righted and the one that has been to blame for the past year can be punished. Miss Minnie Quiggins of Elizabethtown is visiting relatives here. Mr. and Mrs. D. M. Preston of Cincinnati, were here between trains Saturday, enroute to Brodhead for a ten days visit. Oscar Mahaffey was fined $5.00 the other day in Squire Arnolds court for smoking cigarets. If this was carried out every where, boys 8 and 10 years old would soon discard this awful habit. It seems now when a boy gets large enough to have pockets in his clothes he will begin carrying cigarette papers and tobacco. R. L. McFerrer of Mt. Vernon, was here Monday. Well if old Sol don't come down in earnest now we are bad fooled. Last Sunday the thermometer rose to 107 and since then it has still been almost unbearable. Buck Howard after several days confinement to his room on account of a crippled leg is able to be out again. W. H. Brown of Mt. Vernon was here Sunday. Leslie Anglin has returned from Mt. Vernon and will assist his grandfather, J. W. Baker in the store. Mrs. S. E. Hellard who has been very sick for some time is greatly improved and able to leave her room. J. M. Foure swapped two mules and one horse to two horses and gave the man $10 to take them off his hands. Mat is blind but we guess he had heard about the bird crops. Mr. Lee Mullins and Miss Cleo Stallworth were united in the bonds of matrimony at the residence of the brides parents Mr. and Mrs. Sam Stallworth Saturday July 11. Mr. Mullins

This is the way the public builds up a leading statesman. There is nothing too good for him while the people are building him up; they tie him under the chin and wax his mustache, and scratch his back, and laugh at all his jokes and write poetry about him, and name their babies after him, and sing his praises all over the land, and everybody feels happy. But after a time they get tired of this and weary of him, and they swat him over the political head, and pull off his official arms and legs, and rip him up the vertebrae with contempt, and leave his carcass to molder in the ditch of a political graveyard.

This is working in harmony with nature, building up to tear down, and tearing down to build in a different location.

We desire to call attention to the above editorial of the Louisville Times merely to emphasize our own lukewarmness on the road proposition here. It seems to us that Bell county, being the home of Senator Bosworth, who has done more to the end of making it possible to have good roads in Kentucky than any other man instead of lagging in the rear ought to have been the first to have taken advantage of the law giving State aid. More than this we are so geographically situated as to make us a gateway to the South.

We have the rarest scenery in Kentucky along the picturesque Cumberland, the ideal contemplation of the tourist, and if Pulaski and her adjacent sister counties complete their network of roads, we are safe in predicting that all is lost to us. Should Bell county build this year a road from Midlesboro to Pineville, which is the road designed first for State aid, thence to Flat Lick, Ky, it is safe to predict that Knox county will join us from Barbourville and by the ending of 1915 this much talked of Booneway will have become a reality.

Although the importance of waking up on the subject of getting down to real action, is admitted by most of us, yet we are contemplating the chasing of the weaver's wolf's bark—to go worshipping after strange gods. Such a disposition is very much deplored by The Pinnacle News. We feel more keenly the sting and more deeply our chagrin, in that we have boasted since the inauguration of our present administration that we would have progress and that our county, under the present management, would arise from the commonplace of our fathers.

FARM BOYS' ENCAMPMENT

The Farm Boys' Encampment at State Fair, Louisville, will again be an interesting and important feature and every county will have a juvenile delegate as representative of the district in which he lives. These boys are chosen by competitive examination blanks for which may be obtained from Secretary J. L. Dent, Kentucky State Fair headquarters, Paul Jones building, Louisville Ky. Winners in this contest are provided transportation, board and entertainment for the week of the fair, and W. A. Burnett, of the Bourbon Stockyards, has offered additional prizes of two handsome gold watches to the winners in the beef and dairy cattle judging contests. A new ruling for this season is the privilege accorded the boys of entering either class as a contestant.

If we had a nice pike road to the Blue grass not a day would pass but that we would have tourists and sight-seers thru this country who would never come on a train:—Three States.

A man can be known as a good fellow all over town without his wife ever suspecting it.

FOR SENATOR

CANDIDATE SUCCESSFUL LAWYER
AND BUSINESS MAN OF HIGH STANDING.

NATIVE OF OLD KENTUCKY

Graduate of "Old Centre" College Elder in Presbyterian Church, President Y. M. C. A., and Largely Interested in Educational and Industrial Work Throughout the State.

Covington, Ky.—(Special.)—Richard P. Ernst, who is a candidate for the Republican nomination for United States Senator, is a native Kentuckian having been born in Covington in 1855, where he has lived all of his life, and where his parents lived.

Richard P. Ernst.

He received his primary education in the schools at Covington and afterward graduated from "Old Centre" College at Danville, with the Class of '73, winning the valedictory honors of his class. Later he graduated from the Law School of the University of Cincinnati, in a class of which William H. Taft was a member. Shortly after completing his studies he married Miss Susan Brent, granddaughter of Chas. Brent, who was for many years a prominent citizen of Paris, Ky. They have two children, one son and one daughter, now grown.

Mr. Ernst, because of his splendid business ability and attractive personality, early in life became prominently identified with the business interest of Northern Kentucky, and through his Covington and Cincinnati law offices has achieved great success in his profession.

Life-Long Republican.
Politically Mr. Ernst has been a life-long Republican. For many years he has devoted both his time and his means to a very liberal degree for the success of his party. He was for many years a member of the State Central Committee, was its chairman when the party achieved its most notable triumphs in the state, has been delegate to several national conventions, and in many other ways has served his party, often at great personal sacrifice. He has been able to maintain terms of friendship with all elements and factions in his party, and if nominated will receive the support of Republicans and independents without regard to any former personal prejudices or factional differences.

Interested in Church and School.
Mr. Ernst is a member of the First Presbyterian Church of Covington, and an elder in that congregation. For many years he has been President of the Covington Young Men's Christian Association, which is one of the most successful and widely popular institutions of its kind in the country, as it appeals to boys of all denominations.

Strong With Workingmen.
Mr. Ernst has always had many warm friends among the working boys of Covington, and enjoys great popularity with them. He has always aided them in their troubles, and has been a very influential factor in his work of making their relations with their employers pleasant and profitable.

Mr. Ernst's candidacy will appeal strongly to the business men of Kentucky. Successful himself and identified with men who have succeeded in commercial and professional life, he offers his services to the state at a time when there is a wide-spread demand for high-class business men to take a part in politics, and to offer to the state and to the country that degree of business skill and experience which is so necessary to success in private life.

Mr. Ernst, if nominated and elected, will take to his Senatorial office not only a mind trained by education and experience, but that wide, practical viewpoint which will enable him to act at all times to the best interest of the farmer, the manufacturer and the consumer. It may be stated in this connection that Mr. Ernst, in his political management, has always treated his Democratic opponents with such a spirit of fairness and courteous consideration that he has the confidence and respect of members of that party to a most unusual degree.

A WHOLE LOT OF MONEY has been spent for your information, entertainment and recreation at the MT. VERNON FAIR. It's easily the biggest and BEST Fair in all this region and you just can't afford to miss it. COME.

Mr. H. O. Cable, aged 84, one of the county's very oldest and most highly respected citizens, died Monday after an illness lasting several months of a complication of diseases. The burial took place Tuesday at the family burying ground near the home.

COME to the MT. VERNON FAIR and you will learn a lot of wrinkles that will mean money to you. We want you to come and hear the Band play—mix in the mirth and merriment, and you'll return home healthy, happy and hearty.

During the electrical storm Tuesday night Geo. Proctor left his pony rig standing for a minute until he could get an umbrella to shield his lady companion and when he returned for his rig he found it missing. He chased it a mile or so out the Brodhead road and finally returned giving it up as a bad chase. The rig was located next morning between Brodhead and Crab Orchard with every thing in good shape.

Clean up day proved to be a big day at the Mt. Vernon Fair grounds last Saturday. The floral hall and dining room were given a ceiling to keep dust from falling thru from the grand stand seats. The track was put in order and the weeds were nearly all out. There are only a few little things to be done now to get things in fine shape for the big MT. VERNON FAIR Aug. 5, 6 and 7 and a final clean-up will take place Saturday July 25th. There are several stock holders who were prevented from coming last Saturday that are anxious to lend a helping hand. Everybody will be given an opportunity Saturday July 25th.

Mrs. Elizabeth Sowder died at the residence of her daughter, Mrs. W. W. Owens, near here, last Friday after a short illness. She had been an invalid for some 15 years, being paralyzed in her lower limbs, never able to walk during all this time. Her remains were laid to rest in the Baptist cemetery, after short services, by Evangelist Miller. She is survived by two daughters, Mrs. W. W. Owens and Mrs. J. H. Soard and one son, W. H. Sowder a prominent merchant of this place.

Mr. and Mrs. Brack Durham were down from Sparks Quarry from Saturday until Monday the guests of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. D. B. Albright. Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Fish were down from Mt. Vernon, Sunday afternoon, and while here visited the new fair grounds—J. H. Jarrett returned Monday from a few days visit to his son O. V. Jarrett in Berea. He also spent a few days at Salt Lick springs near Conway, and says the trip was very beneficial to him.

J. F. Watson and his son, Everett, celebrated their sixtieth and nineteenth birthday respectively last Sunday. On account of their birthday being the same day a big dinner is usually prepared. Among those partaking of this sumptuous repast, were Mr. and Mrs. Karl Prewitt, of Lancaster, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Durham, of Mt. Vernon, Miss Ella Carson, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Robins, Mrs. Eitel Thomas, and Mr. and Mrs. John Robins—Squire H. O. Cable died at his residence last Sunday night, and was buried in the family burying ground near his home Tuesday afternoon. On May 22, last he celebrated his 84 birthday, all his children and a great number of grand children and great grand children being present. He served several terms as magistrate of his district and had been a very useful citizen. The children that survive him are Mrs. Russell Thompson, of Louisville, Mrs. Dave Thompson, of Lexington, Mrs. J. K. Thompson, of Crawfordsville, Ind., P. F. Cable, of Dayton, Ohio, W. B. Cable and W. W. Cable, of near this place, all of whom were present at the funeral. Squire Cable is County Attorney E. R. Gentry's grandfather. Others attending the funeral, were Russell Thompson and children, of Louisville, Dave Thompson, of Lexington, Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Gentry, of Crawfordsville, Ind., Mrs. W. C. Cable, Mr. and Mrs. R. H. Hamur, and others of this place. Funeral services were conducted at the residence by the Rev. A. J. Pike.

Mr. and Mrs. John Robins and daughter, Mildred, were the guests of Mr. and Mrs. J. Thos. Cherry at Crab Orchard Thursday of last week. Mr. and Mrs. Walter Robins were visiting his sister, Mrs. W. P. Rigby near Preachersville during the week. J. H. Jarrett was in Mt. Vernon Tuesday between trains—Miss Ella Carson was in Mt. Vernon during the week. Mrs. John Robins and daughter, Mildred, and Miss Clyde Watson are with relatives near Lancaster this week. Higgle Baker moved to what is known as the fair ground house the first of the week, and has been appointed marshal. I. M. Adams is in Cincinnati this week. Rev. Allen, of Mt. Vernon, filled his regular appointment at the Baptist church last Sunday. The management of the Brodhead Fair decided to build a floral hall and dining room 22x50 feet each, and the buildings are now under construction. The finishing touches are being put on the grounds and in less than ten days everything will be completed. The catalogs are in the SIGNAL man's hands and will be out in the next few days. Write the Secretary for one, look carefully through it, and then tell Bill Fish it is the biggest fair catalog you ever saw put out by any fair, except the State Fair. Rev. A. J. Pike filled his regular appointment at Scaffold Cane last Saturday and Sunday. Miss Etta Sowder is assisting in John Robins' drug store.

The Mt. Vernon Baptist S. S. picnic July 4th was a pronounced success in every respect.

Lemonade and fun and more lemonade and fun then for a change, fun and lemonade. After we had thoroughly sharpened our appetites, the women spread a beautiful feast. There was so much of it we could not make as great an impression on it as it did or us. Most of us were able to get home without the ambulance.

Four gentlemen from Detroit, Mich., have been here during the week looking over the coal land optioned by Franklin Allison in the Southern part of the county. The rumor is that a deal is on for the entire boundary and that as soon as the papers are prepared the money will be paid over. Bethuram & Lewis are preparing the abstracts and by August 1st it is claimed the deal will be closed. The deal calls for 150,000 acres of land in Rockcastle, Pulaski and Laurel counties. By next week we hope to be able to give something definite on the situation.

If you produce 40 bushels of corn to the acre your cost per bushel is less than that of your neighbor who raises only 20 bushels. Therefore, you could sell more corn for a dollar than your neighbor. The same principle applies to shoes. Roberts, Johnson & Rand make more shoes than any other manufacturer. The more they make the less they cost to make. This saving goes into extra quality. There are lots of good shoes, but— "Star Brand Shoes Are Better" Made in all styles, grades and sizes—all prices—for men, women and children. Every pair is made of honest leather. BECKHAM OF KENTUCKY

Personal Characteristics and Remarkable Career of the Most Popular Man in Kentucky—The Candidate Most Likely To Succeed the Late Senator Bradley As the Choice of the Democrats At the Primaries To Be Held August 1st

(By C. P. Connolly, Staff writer Harper's Weekly.)

J. C. W. Beckham, of Kentucky, the man of the hour in this crucial year in Kentucky Politics.

This remarkable sketch concerning J. C. W. Beckham is reprinted from Harper's Weekly, the national weekly publication that is supporting President Woodrow Wilson and his policies in the present administration at Washington.

THE candidate most likely to succeed the late Senator Bradley as the choice of the Democrats at the primaries to be held August 1st, is J. C. W. Beckham. Beckham was the choice of the Democratic party six years ago, when a Democratic legislature elected the late William O'Connell Bradley, a Republican. There was a majority of eight Democrats in the legislature, but the Whiskey Ring controlled enough of these to defeat Beckham and Bradley was elected.

Kentucky is replete with romance and tragedy, political and other. If there is anything native about literature, it may account for the professional success of James Lane Allen and John Fox, Jr., who have both largely drawn on Kentucky for their material.

In business adventure there was James B. Haggin, the mining magnate who, peevish because of his failure of election to some petty office when a young man, emigrated to California, became fabulously rich, and returning in his old age to his old home at Lengton, established a great stock farm, which is one of the show places of Kentucky. At Frankfort, thirty miles from Lexington, Henry Clay appears as the attorney for Aaron Burr in his first trial for treason, much to Clay's subsequent chagrin. Here, too, a Lebanon, lived Proctor Knott, one time governor of Kentucky, who delivered in Congress his famous parol on Duluth. Mountaineers and valley men have their feuds and wars, but at bottom there was usually some elemental instinct of justice. At Frankfort, the capital in 1900, William Goebel was shot from ambush as he was about to be declared the duly elected governor of the state. Out of this last drama issued the career of J. C. W.
Beckham, a mere stripling at the time, just past the age of eligibility for the governorship.

The assassination of Goebel was the climax of a great political contest. Not in modern American history anywhere was there a more heroic or tragic struggle. That it left its sting is evidenced by the fact that it is difficult to wnan a Kentuckian from his dis-relish of the subject.

Every one will remember how Goebel fought so valiantly against the politically entrenched Louisville & Nashville Railroad—of how he was sworn in as governor on his death bed, and died with words of pardon for his enemies on his lips.

Goebel, who was the pioneer progressive of the South—he was the pioneer of railroad rate regulation in the country—was the most maligned and misunderstood character in American history. He fought his way bitterly through prejudices strong enough to deter most men, and waged war against the old aristocracy of Kentucky and the Louisville & Nashville railroad ring at the same time.

It was not to Beckham, as the successor of Goebel, to smooth out the wrinkled front of this issue. He followed the even tenor of his way, neither compromising nor bullying, but doing all things with an even-tempered justice which won the people of Kentucky, and reconciled the enemies of Goebel.

Beckham comes of gentle stock. His mother has occupied the Executive Mansion at Frankfort both as daughter and mother of a governor. An uncle, ex-Senator Yulee, of Florida, entered Beckham in the Central University at Richmond, Ky., but Senator Yulee shortly afterwards dying, young Beckham, then seventeen, was compelled to leave college to look after the farm of his widowed mother. Meanwhile he taught school.

Beckham did not falter in the policies for which Goebel was assassinated. He got through the law advocated by Goebel, allowing the State Railroad Commission to regulate rates. Under his administration Kentucky's new capitol was built. He showed courage in this. Others had recommended a new capitol, but no governor cared to put the power of his administration behind it, because Louisville, on the one side, and Lexington, on the other, both coveted the honor of the capitol.

He collected from the Federal government an old war debt of $1,300,000.
He secured legislation fixing a maximum price for school books. He established two normal schools, and he lengthened the school term in the country districts from five to six months.

But it was in a bitter struggle for the supremacy of the law that Beckham ran against Judge Ben Lindsey's "Beast." He believes that the law should keep pace with the growth of public sentiment, and that when enacted it should be enforced.

The South, topographically the most beautiful section of the country, has had its hurts and its heart-aches, which it has borne without sentimental appeal and with heroic soul. Its people are grappling with everything that stands in the present way of its welfare. One of these evils is the liquor traffic, which has been peculiarly wretched and sinister in its effects on the South.

If you travel through certain portions of the South, you will rarely pick up a local paper which does not descant on some tragedy that can be traced, directly or remotely, to strong drink. So the anti-liquor crusade is sweeping over the South. Yet it was not in any spirit of crusading that Beckham locked horns with the liquor interests of Kentucky. It was rather the thing that fell in his way as a public duty.

The constitution of Kentucky, adopted some twenty-five years ago, contained a provision that required the legislature to enact a law giving each county of the state the right to vote itself "wet" or "dry." This constitutional provision, like the one that prohibits railroad passes, was honored in the breach. Indeed, Kentucky legislators have been prone, in matters of reform, to adopt the policy of the Vermont Fathers, who resolved "that the laws of God and Connecticut be adopted until we have time to frame better."

Beckham obeyed the Constitution and recommended the enactment of a law in conformity with it; but the liquor interests succeeded in having emptied the larger cities.

Then there was a Sunday closing law on the statute books, which was penally violated in the cities, notably at Louisville. Beckham was appearing, but he had no power to remove credit city officials, and could make only a moral appeal to the mayor of Louisville to enforce the law, which was unsuccessful.

It so happened that shortly after the Kentucky Court of Appeals decided that the election of all of Lou-ville's officials had been procured by fraud. The offices were by the court declared vacant, and the governor was empowered to fill them by appointment. Beckham went over the heads of the party machine and appointed himself mayor with the understanding that the Sunday closing law would be enforced. It was enforced and is enforced to-day.

The "rectifiers" of Kentucky make product that is sold as whiskey, but which is made up of various occult in-redients. They were doing an immense business in Kentucky, and paying very little in taxes. Beckham secured a law that taxed these "rectifiers" a cent and a quarter a gallon on their product. Also, he secured the passage of a law prohibiting the shipping of liquor into "dry" territory; but the Supreme Court of the United States held that this was unconstitutional, so far as it affected interstate shipments. The Louisville man, therefore, could take his whiskey across the river to Jeffersonville, Ind., and from there ship it to any point in Kentucky, wet or dry. The Webb law, later passed by Congress, is intended to remove these illicit accommodations and stop the traffic.

Beckham hardly had time to formulate his policies, after Goebel's death, when he was obliged to stand for another election. The politicians were against him, but the people were with him, and he received the votes of 700 out of the 900 delegates.

It was in the palmy days of Mark Hanna, and that astute leader, under whose auspices Kentucky had gone Republican in 1896, believed Beckham could be beaten. The Republicans, therefore, put up their best man and their stoutest purse, but Beckham won by nearly 4,000 votes. Three years later there was no opposition to his renomination, and he carried the State by 27,000 plurality.

Towards the end of his second term as governor, Beckham, in 1906, became a candidate for the United States Senate. His candidacy aroused intense feeling in the camp of the liquor interests. In the primary election for the senatorship, in 1907, with the combined opposition of the party machine and the daily newspapers in Louisville, Lexington, Covington and Newport, the four largest cities in the State, Beckham carried 91 counties out of 119 in the State, with the liquor interests furnishing a plerotic purse toward his defeat. Beaten at the polls, the liquor interests retreated to the legislature, and four Democratic legislators voted at the beck of the whiskey ring for a Republican.

By agreeing to abandon the temperance cause for which he had stood, Beckham could have won; but he refused to trade—once more showing his courage and his devotion to principle.

In my opinion, gained after a four year last summer through Kentucky that sacrifice of Beckham for a principle, will make him the next United States senator from Kentucky as sure ly as it defeated him then. If there is anything in political justice, if there is any atonement for political wrongs if a people are not ungrateful or indifferent, Beckham will be rewarded.
Not that he looks for reward. "Victory is not always the true test of an honest and righteous cause," he said in a public speech after his defeat in 1908; "success may have its pleasures but failure may have its honor."

And let me add that, whether you believe in prohibition, or in the enforcement of the law, or whether you side with the liquor interests in Kentucky, the whiskey ring of that state has exercised more political power o-late years in the state than all other corporations put together; and it is far more violent and autocratic.

If he should go to the senate, he will add to the dignity and the worth of that body. He is one whom the country at large will welcome to the councils of the nation. No man in Kentucky is hardy enough to question his integrity. The charge has been made that, since his return to the practice of law, his law firm has acted as local attorneys for the Louisville & Nashville railroad. Whoever his client, he is of that type of lawyer whose con-flictions are not for sale with his services. His popularity is based largely upon his integrity, and he is the most popular man in Kentucky.

HUSBAND RESCUED DESPAIRING WIFE

After Four Years of Discouraging Conditions, Mrs. Bullock Came
Up in Despair. Husband Came to Rescue.

Patron, Ky.—In an interesting letter from this place, Mrs. Bettie Bullock writes as follows: "I suffered for four years, with womanly troubles, and during this time, I could only sit up for a little while, and could not walk anywhere at all. At times, I would have severe pains in my left side.

The doctor was called in, and his treatment relieved me for a while, but I was soon confined to my bed again. After that, nothing seemed to do me any good.

I had gotten so weak I could not stand, and I gave up in despair.

At last, my husband got me a bottle of Cardui, the woman's tonic, and I commenced taking it. From the very first dose, I could tell it was helping me. I can now walk two miles without its tiring me, and am doing all my work."

If you are all run down from womanly troubles, don't give up in despair. Try Cardui, the woman's tonic. It has helped more than a million women, in its 50 years of continuous success, and should surely help you, too. Your druggist has sold Cardui for years. He knows what it will do. Ask him. He will recommend it. Begin taking Cardui today.
