THE WHISKY TRUST.

24 Bridges Built at Louisville, Alleging That Certain Distillers Did Not Fill Their Contracts.

LOUISVILLE, Aug. 12.—The Kentucky Distillers and Warehouse company has brought suit in the United States district court here against the proprietors of the W. R. Saffell distillery, near Lawrenceburg; the Waterfall & Frazer distillery, near Frytown, and the D. L. Moore, near Burgin. The allegations are that the plaintiff company, after securing option on these plants, was forced to defer payment because of what was considered an attempted gouge on the part of the defendants. The suits filed show that the trust was slow to secure the plants, and made several attempts after securing the option to get them at what was considered a just price.

The largest suit is against W. R. Saffell, of Lawrenceburg. The price to be paid in case the option was accepted was $33,000, exclusive of the price of the whisky stored in the distillery, a special price being placed on the price fixed on the plant, of D. L. Moore, it is alleged, was $20,000, and on that of Waterfall & Frazer $25,000.

THE STORM'S VICTIMS.

Secretary of War James an Apprehensive Concern of the "Transport" sent to Porto Rico With Supplies.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 13.—The secretary of war Monday afternoon issued the following appeal to governors of States for aid for the storm sufferers in Porto Rico:

"Sir: I inclose herewith copies of two telegraphic dispatches received Sunday evening from the governor general of Porto Rico, by which it appears that the devastation wrought by the recent hurricane in that island is even greater than was at first supposed. It is evident that a great multitude of people, rendered utterly destitute by this awful calamity, must be fed and cared for during a considerable period, until they can have the opportunity to produce food for themselves. enormous quantities of supplies of the kinds indicated by the governor general must be procured.

"The magnitude of the work to be accomplished leads this department to supplement the appeal already made to the mayors of the principal cities of the country by a more general appeal, and I beg you to ask the people of your state to contribute generously to the relief of the people of Porto Rico.

"Swift steamers have been provided to leave the port of New York to carry supplies directly to Porto Rico as rapidly as they can be collected.

"Contributions should be either in supplies of the character indicated or in money so that the supplies can be purchased. The supplies should be sent to Col. F. B. Jones, army building, foot of Whitehall street, New York city, in packages plainly marked 'Porto Rican relief,' and should be consigned to the time of shipment. Money should be sent to the National Bank of North America, New York city, which has been designated as a depository for the relief fund.

Very respectfully,

ELIOT BROWN,

Secretary of War.

Acting Secretary of the Navy. Monday wrote Secretary Root that the navy desired to co-operate in every way it could in rendering assistance to the storm-stricken people of Porto Rico, and tendering a warship to be placed at the disposal of the war department, if it was desired to convey supplies to the island. The offer, doubtless, will be accepted, as every available means is being adopted to bring the great stock of supplies, which is imperatively needed, Mr. Allen is in telegraphic communication with several naval stations with a view to having a ship ready as soon as the war department wants it.

New York, Aug. 13.—The transport McPherson with a cargo of supplies for the storm sufferers of Porto Rico, left her pier in Brooklyn Monday afternoon. About two-thirds of the original cargo of army supplies were left behind to make room for the quantities of rice, beans, grain, clothing, lumber, etc. required for the immediate necessities of the sufferers. Up to within a quarter of an hour of sailing voluntary donations kept piling in. It is expected that San Juan will be reached not later than Friday night.

DIFFERENCES RIGHTED.

Mayor James G. Woodward, of Atlanta, Ga., and the City Council Have Come to an Agreement.

ATLANTA, Ga., Aug. 13.—Mayor James G. Woodward, against whom impeachment proceedings have been contemplated for some time by the city council and whose resignation has been asked for by that body, has made a solemn promise to the councilmen and aldermen at a meeting Monday afternoon, that he would not take another drink during his term of office.

He further stated that he would cease his indiscretions and if he could not sustain his promise, he would resign. Acting upon these avowals the council has dismissed the committee appointed to investigate the mayor's conduct, and all differences between them have been righted.

The Boltoerats met Wednesday at Lexington and nominated a full ticket. Brown for Governor and Johnson for Lieut. Governor

JOHN YOUNG BROWN'S convention here last Saturday did not convene to any great extent. If there were any dissatisfied Democrats they didn't show up at the court house. To the credit of Rockcastle county, no meeting was held.

At a late hour Major P. P. Johnston claims that he is the recognized chairman of the State Democratic Committee. When his successor, Allie W. Young, was chosen at the Louisville convention, Major Johnston recognized the proceedings as legal and turned over to Mr. Young all the records, fixtures and furniture of the Democratic party of Kentucky. Why if he still thinks he is the chairman, did he do this? If Johnston is chairman of anything, he is chairman of the 'Brownies' and we know of no kick against this unenviable position.

In Cincinnati a few days ago John B. Thompson, of Mercer, declared that he is no bolter, and that he will vote the Democratic ticket from top to bottom. With reference to the bolting element and John Young Brown, who wants to head the ticket, Mr. Thompson said:

"I believe that John Young Brown is the weakest man they could put up. Granting that Goebel is everything said of him by enemies, he is a better Democrat than Brown; Goebel never was accused of disloyalty to his party. I should never have voted for Brown in the convention under any circumstances. He helped to throw Wat Hardin down in 1895. He was throwing sninkpots at Hardin all the time, and much of the ammunition of the Republicans is said to have been furnished from his office. He is in no shape to call for Democratic support, especially from Hardin men."

WHAT GOEBEL DID IN 1896. When everything else fails to pull a Democrat away from Goebel, some bolter asked what Goebel did for Bryan in 1896. Mr. Harry Sommers, the editor of the Elizabethtown News, was then Chairman of the Campaign Committee for this State. Before the State convention he was for Hardin. Read what he says Goebel did for Bryan: "In 1896 when I had charge of the campaign in Kentucky, I know of my personal knowledge that Senator Goebel was very solicitous for the election of Mr. Bryan, that he tendered his services to me to do all in his power and raised me more money and contributed himself more money to elect Bryan than any other man in the State. His own county, the home of Carlisle, gave an increased Democratic majority, due largely to his personal efforts. In the campaign for the nomination for Governor he declared in every speech he made that he was for Bryan, Blackburn, and that he would not accept the nomination unless the Chicago platform was affirmed. With this plain statement of facts I can't see how any one can call Goebel a goldbug. Mr. Bryan believes in him as a bimetalist. Mr. Blackburn believes in him and I add my belief to theirs."

Land, Stock, Crops

and of J. H. Baughman a bunch of hogs at 3 1/2c.

Pence & McGuire sold in Cincinnati a car-load of mountain lambs at an average of 4 1/2c. They sold to J. C. Fox 125 wetherats 3 1/2c. — [Interior Journal.

CURRY DAY.—47 wagon loads of shingles and locust posts were on sale on the square in front of the courthouse. Six miles sold at an average of $1.00 and 27 horses at an average of $80. 600 cattle were offered, but few sold; prices a little off from those of last Saturday. 1,500 head of sheep were sold at prices ranging from $3 1/2 to $4 per head. — [Richmond Register.

Messrs. Alvin and J. W. Major sold to S. Weil, of Lexington, 36 steers at $4.65 per hundred pounds. Eighteen of these belonged to the former and averaged 1,372 pounds, and the remainder belonged to the latter, and averaged 1,428 pounds. Messrs. Boyd & Crossfield shipped to Louisville last week a load of fat heifers which they sold at $4.60 per hundred pounds, being the highest price paid during the year at that bank for that class of stock. — [Lawrenceburg News.

A dispatch from Mt. Sterling says: Within the past seven days there has been sold in this county to Captain Gillispie, John B. Embury and L. Joseph 700 export cattle, averaging 1,400 lbs. They averaged in price $4.80 per 100, making a total of over $75,000 which has been paid into the hands of the farmers of this county. These sales are the largest that have occurred here in years, and it is freely predicted that the total sale of fat cattle in this market will reach $200,000.

Milch cows that formerly sold in New York City for $30 and $40 cost $50 and $75 now. The new quarantine law regulating cattle is in effect, and all cows brought into the State of New York are quarantined until they have been thoroughly examined by a veterinary. It has been the custom of dealers in fresh milk cows in New York to purchase by the car load in other States and take them to that place at the risk of the purchaser. With the new quarantine law in effect the venture is too uncertain. "Fresh milk cows are very scarce," said Leopold Weil, a large dealer, whose main office is in Williamsburg Ky. "Cows that came with a guarantee of 12 quarts of milk a day have sold for $20 and $30, but any kind of a cow will bring $50 now. The demand is so great that I can scarcely fill orders. Dealers are shipping cows to Cuba, and this has also helped to make them scarce and high." — [Glasgow Times.

From the Times, Hillsville, Va.

I suffered with diarrhoea for a long time and thought I was past being cured. I had spent much time and money and suffered so much misery that I had almost decided to give up all hopes of recovery and await the result, but noticing the advertisement of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy and also some testimonials stating how some wonderful cures had wrought by this remedy, I decided to try it. After taking a few doses I was entirely well of that trouble, and I wish to say further to my readers and fellow sufferers that I am a hale and hearty man to-day and feel as well as I ever did in my life.—O. Your attention is called to the ad of C. C. Davis & Co., proprietors of the Green Front Drug Store. C. C. Davis the head of the firm is one of the nicest young men in the county; strictly honest and sober, and by hard knocks has slowly but surely, made himself what he is today. He studies hard and diligently, and is fast becoming a successful pharmacist. Charley is one our boys said needs to be encouraged. Their drugs are all fresh, and they are constantly adding to their stock. Help the worthy young man along.

A. H. Bertin sold his Crab Orchard stock of goods to William Ward. The invoice amounted to about $4,000. Mr. Bastin's time is so much taken up in telephone business that he thought he would get out of the goods-business. We understand now, that he is putting in a new stock. It's been but a few years ago when Mr. B. went to Crab Orchard with a few dollars and big chunks of experience. Now, he has both in chunks and we are glad of it. He deserves it. In less than eighteen months, with all the varied enterprises on hands, he has built up one of the best working telephone systems in the State. His company has spread out in both mountains and Bluegrass. New lines are being built, old ones bought and overhauled and better service being given than ever before.

JUST A DREAM.

In the dreamland of the wild flight of fancy, in the agony of rhapsomania, lingering between time and eternity, I stood on Main street, in Mt. Vernon in 1950.

The people of my generation had been swept away by Ford Father Time. Where once stood the then fine brick store home of the writer, the now famous mammoth glass and concrete building twenty stories high, Fred Baker, the proprietor, built and owned the one hundred departments with 500 clerks. U. B. Baker and Ed Cox were no more, but life-size portraits of them adorned the walls of this great colossal edifice. Employees were taught to tip their hats each morning to these portraits and say: "You were the merchants of your day."

We went to see Jim Maret who was still living. He neither ate nor drank. He lived by the aid of electricity alone, furnished from an electric machine of his own invention. He was making arrangements to connect the moon and the earth by telephone.

The old court house had long ago given place to a temple of Justice which seemed to touch the sky and covered the whole court square. The old jail was no more, but in its stead, stood the House of Reform, where the boys were taught not to attempt to climb another pneumatic car which traveled at the rate of five miles in 41 seconds. The old brick hotel had given away to a mighty building of iron, stone and steel, 500 feet high; a great sign, beautifully lighted and adorned with intense dazzling electricity, hanging in front of the building read: "The Twice-a-day Signal, one cent per copy—Lloyd Maret, Editor and Proprietor."

Main street, now extended from the old D. N. Williams place to the creek at the spot where Brad had stood many years ago. The streets were beautifully paved. Many great business houses and mansions stood in splendor on either side of Main street from one end to the other. Pneumatic cars were whirling through these parts every ten seconds. A factory out where Bob Livesey once lived, covered seven acres of ground and was 500 feet high. On top of the mountain east of town stood a magnificent structure 400 feet high owned and used by S. C. Franklin, who was still living, as a watch and clock factory. In the Northern part of town stood a grain elevator 1,000 feet high which bought all the corn brought to town. The successors to W. F. Champ had built a produce and commission house and bought ten thousand chickens a day and seven tons of butter. This holste was seven stories high. The beautiful eighteen story granite brick building at 1329 to 1349 Main street, was owned by C. C. Davis' Sons, wholesale and retail druggists. (S. C. Davis, deceased.) Twenty beautiful churches, the steeples of which seemed to touch the skies, decorated the city in twenty different parts thereof. An opera house exceeding grandeur and glitter King Solomon's temple, stood where Krueger's brick yard had been many years ago, and was used exclusively by Cake Walkers. Vast and sweeping changes had transformed the entire universe. The Peace Conference at the Hague had just adjourned, "Urie Sam" had annexed Canada, Mexico, South America, Spain and all her former possessions. England, Germany, Russia and Italy had abolished monarchial forms of government and were right up to date in all things. National disputes were settled by the Congress of Nations; not a soldier stood upon the land; not an armed vessel floated upon the seas. The English language was universally spoken, air ships had taken the place of the "iron horse" and electricity moved heaven and earth. The law to stamp your checks had been repealed. A cent stamp would carry a letter to any part of the World and light legs to pants were no more. The girls all had plenty of fine boxes. There were no widows and orphans; no bald headed men and the millennium was near at hand. Just at this point I was interrupted by my good friend, Dr. Monroe Pennington, who told me to wake up and take my Tongalease.
