

QUAIL

Mrs. A. W. Brown expected to be a smart time...

Thomas Nicely bought of C. C. McClure, a marriage...

G. B. Sutton entered school at Mt. Vernon Monday to prepare for the examination in May.

Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Brown, of Prichardville, were here last week visiting relatives.

Gillis Craig has been suffering considerably from neuralgia and sore throat. John Craig is on the sick list.

Elmer Logsdon has returned from the mountains. Young Stringer returned but made good his escape again to unknown parts.

Old Martin Owens is improving slowly. John A. Owens is able to be up again. Mrs. Barbara Reynolds has been very sick.

Oats sowing is over and some crop planted in this part, but it seems as though it could just as well be left alone.

The road leading from W. C. Brown's store to Robert Taylor's has been made a county road.

A letter from D. R. and D. A. Gentry now of Indian Territory states that they had considerable corn planted some time ago and we presume the gentlemen are getting well.

A. G. and J. M. Craig sold to Jack Stanton a horse for $75 and bought of Rite Cochrane a combination horse for $18.

Dead.—Mrs. Steve Thompson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Alex Wells, died Sunday morning after an illness of only a few days.

BOBBED THE GRAVE A startling incident is narrated by John Oliver of Philadelphia...

George W. Brown, one of Nelson county's best men, and who was in Gen. John Morgan's cavalry during the Civil War, is dead at Bloomfield, Ky.

BROODHEAD

Wm. Watson is very sick. Mrs. D. Gravelly is on the sick list.

Well, it does seem that winter will never break.

Letter Hinton is now working nights at this point.

C. C. Cable visited his best girl at Danville last week.

Charlie Hart went to Pittsburg Tuesday to work as night agent for a while.

Mrs. Charlie Keating and sister left last week for Knoxville to visit relatives.

The peach crop is certainly killed on this point and in fact all the early fruits.

J. B. Bower, Jr. of Lexington, was shaking hands with friends here Saturday.

Mrs. Lizzie Swainford, of Livingston was with her mother Saturday until Monday.

Mrs. Belle Henderson, of Lowell, is the guest of her daughter, Mrs. E. B. Newland.

L. L. Vernon Jarrett has returned from a several weeks visit to her aunt at Livingston.

It was a mistake in last week's fertilizer, and from all prospects there will be a large crop planned in this section.

The editors of the Interior Journal and Signal are on the warpath. Be quiet, gentle, family quarrels are out of date.

The farmers are buying lots of fertilizer, and from all prospects there will be a large crop planned in this section.

Mr. Smith is helping Miss Ellen Deuter talk insurance to the people. Middle and Farris, of Crab Orchard were visiting Mrs. R. L. Colyer last week.

GOOD FOR CHILDREN. The pleasant pleasant to take and harmless, One Minute Cough Cure gives immediate relief in all cases of cough, croup or LaGrippe because it does not pass immediately into the stomach, but takes effect right at the seat of the trouble.

An Undeveloped Negative—"I have been courting her for two years," said the disconsolate one, "and I am certain that she will refuse me when I propose."

"Ab, that is interesting," said the amateur photographer, "of what sort of undeveloped negative?"

Drugs for Sleeplessness.—The use of narcotic drugs to quiet nerves and overcome sleeplessness is a dangerous practice, and too much cannot be said in depreciation of a resort to such things.

Written on a Brick.—The oldest loveletter in the world is in the British Museum. It is a proposal of marriage for the hand of an Egyptian Princess, and it was made 3,500 years ago. It is in the form of an inscribed brick.

CONWAY

Tas Huff has moved from his farm to Conway.

Leonard Watkins and wife, of Berea, were here Sunday.

The fruit in this section is reported as about all killed.

Mr. P. S. Calahan, who is in bad health, went to Knox county this week, to spend a few weeks with relatives.

Harvey Chennutt, J. J. Wood, J. H. Sigman and others, of this place, attended court at Mt. Vernon Monday.

Some of our farmers are trying the same old plan this spring; to guard their crops with cur dogs, instead of patching the fencing to keep out stock.

Evidently the new depot at this place is complicated from the fact that Capt. Mallock, passenger conductor and one of the best all round railroad men on the line, is yet in motion to go to get it.

We would suggest that J. J. Wood, the clever agent would invite the Captain to take a lay off and come down and he would take pleasure in showing and explaining the different departments of the depot.

Mrs. Pauline Shockley, of Berea, was badly hurt by the south bound passenger train at this place on Friday evening of last week.

She stepped from the train while it was in motion and was thrown on her head on the platform, dislocating her right wrist and ankle and cutting an ugly gash on her chin.

She fell against D. C. Pullies, who was standing near by, who protected her from falling so hard.

Had he not been there, probably she would have been seriously hurt.

Mr. A. Martin, of Louisville, law agent for the L. & N. W. was here Saturday after the accident, to investigate the matter.

Later: Mrs. Shockley is growing worse from her injuries and doctors have been telegraphed for this (Tuesday) morning.

A GREAT SENSATION. There was a big sensation in Leesville, Indiana, when W. H. Brown of that place, who was expected to die, had his life saved by Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption.

He writes: "Endured insufferable agonies from Asthma, but your New Discovery gave me immediate relief and soon thereafter effected a complete cure."

Similar cures of consumption, pleurisy, bronchitis and grip, are numerous. It's the peerless remedy for all throat and lung troubles. Price 50c and $1.00. Guaranteed by all druggists. Trial bottle free.

"George didn't keep his engagement with me last night," said the girl who was betrothed to him.

"I'd give him a piece of my mind," said her mother.

"Just a little sample of married life," suggested the father.

LEVEL GREEN

Moses said: "It is written that brethren shall not strike with or against each other."

We hope, therefore, that our neighboring editors will heed this in a holy bit of warning, and call in their paper.

Big Lick, Ky. The lock, has a position in the town of Berea with a saddle and harness firm, located, I think, in Loxleyville, as he calls it, and his territory is in the roughest part of Kentucky, which makes it very hard on a horse to carry 250 pounds of humanity and all his supplies from store to store, and forgoing to purchase him a buggy, which he accordingly did, but before starting on his "rounds" he also concluded to give Billy, his horse, a little practice, by way of a few short lessons in his new occupation.

Therefore he hitched Billy in after fitting to him a well made and stylish set of harness, laid a lot of samples loosely in, and after putting Billy off, arranging his foretop and telling him how becomingly beautiful he looked, rolled in himself, and with no checks in the lead and a big black-snake whip in the right hand, he started for home, down Dry Fork from Neeley's store.

After proceeding a short distance at a slow pace, and forgetting as he supposed, the formidable character of the terrain, he held in his paw, he struck Billy such a blow that it aroused great bit of animal heat and hyperside that was in his veins, body, and limbs, so he concluded that something had went wrong with his master and he started with the speed of an airplane, pursued by the hunter's bounds on the western plains.

Tubby draped his lines, halloed "whoa Billy" at the top of his stentorian voice, but, alas, there was no "whoa" to Billy, on the republican side in every direction like dry leaves before a whirlwind.

Tubby lay full on his buggy and too badly scared to jump, so there he sat as if glued to his seat until Billy made a sudden turn, upset the vehicle and left him laying on his back still holding his whip and shouting "whoa Billy, whoa Billy."

But Billy, not leaving a hind wheel here and a fore wheel there, the top torn to shreds lodged high up on a limb, bits of the belt and pieces of harness "like fragments strewn the road."

Billy arrived home with the collar, throat latch and a small piece of broadsword still clinging to him.

The family took Billy's back track, expecting every minute to find Tubby a horribly mangled corpse, but to, in due time, to their great joy and utter astonishment, found him sitting in the middle of the road able to talk and still holding his "black snake whip."

The asked if he was badly hurt, and he claimed that his back bone had been fractured, and that he couldn't stand, but this proved false.

The crowd came down from Neeley's store that had heard the roar and clatter of the wagon and thought it to be another cyclone, and began a search for the lost wagon, "sampled" as they soon collected enough of the "doctors" of the buggy to make a new one, a car and a log-wed and had many baskets left over.

Tubby said he couldn't account for the strange action of Billy unless he got scared at John Graves who was sitting by the road side and acting very strangely.

OUR NEXT CONGRESSMAN.

In a former article we had occasion to compliment a speech on imperialism made in Congress, by the Hon. George G. Gilbert.

Between Mr. Gilbert and the writer there is no bond of relationship, no ring influence, no personal interest whatever.

True, the very qualifications that make him eminent in the halls of Congress become, to some degree, sources of weakness among the masses.
