THE Kentucky Press Association will hold its Mid Winter Meeting at Frankfort, on January 25th, with all the scribbles, law makers and general roustabouts, who are always on hand during the Legislative Sessions, it would be a bad time to start a rough house. For one thing it will be entirely too cold, and nothing will be able, and the entrance through the front would be entirely too small to accommodate the stampedes.

HON. R. W. MILLER was rather an easy mark in the Speakership race, but in the coming Congressional fight he will travel in all together a different style.

UNJUST AND UNCONSTITUTIONAL.

That the bill for the regulation of railroad rates drawn up by members of the Interstate Commerce Commission and submitted to the Senate Committee on Interstate Commerce as a substitute for the Foraker bill is unconstitutional in certain of its provisions, is the opinion of some of the foremost lawyers of the country. In an interview in the Washington Times, Mr. Robert Mather, whom that paper describes as one of the greatest corporation lawyers of the country, points out some of the unjust and unconstitutional features of this bill.

His statement follows: "As an expression of the commission's desire for increased power, the bill is adequate and ample. As an attempt to meet the desire of the President that one administrative body be given the power to prescribe the rates in the privately owned lines it also goes the limit. It may be considered as a statement of the extreme to which Congress will be asked to go on this subject."

"It is difficult to believe, however, that the bill is in any real sense the measure of the Administration. For it is condemned as unconstitutional by a published opinion of the Attorney General, so that it cannot receive the professional and official approval of that officer. And it seems to do violence to the President's expressed determination to secure a 'square deal' for the railroads. So it can't meet with the entire approval of Mr. Roosevelt."

WIVY ILLEGAL.
 "As to the unconstitutionality of the bill. It clearly confers upon the commission:
 "First—The conceded judicial function of determining whether a given rate is or is not reasonable and
 "Second—The confessedly legislative function of establishing a rate in the place of one condemned."

"Of such legislation Mr. Moody has said: 'The nature of legislative and judicial powers is such that they cannot be joined together and vested in the same body consistently with the theory which underlies the Constitution.'"

"The situation that will be presented if the bill becomes a law will be more obnoxious than that denounced in the opinion of the Attorney General for the commission already possess and exercises many executive functions."
 "So that under the proposed bill there will be combined in one body, for the first time, the executive, judicial and legislative power. Mr. Moody cannot approve of this jumble of Governmental functions."

"The case made by the bill is even worse than this. For it not only vests in the commission powers pertaining to all three departments of the Government, but seeks to limit the courts in the exercise of their accustomed functions. The courts are forbidden to restrain the enforcement of an order of the commission fixing a rate for a longer period than sixty days from the date of service of the order upon the carrier, unless it plainly appears that the order is unlawful."
 "Courts of equity possess and have always exercised the inherent power to restrain the performance of an act or the enforcement of a right upon good cause shown in Oregon, Wis., and was taken into consideration. H. D. Parsons, of Brook Park, Ohio, came here Saturday to accompany the family and the body home. He desires to thank the good people of Livingston in general, but more especially H. D. Magee, L. M. Westerfield and the dispatchers, who so nobly assisted the family during the illness and death of his brother, C. H. Parsons. They will always have a warm spot in his memory, and the only way he can repay them is to pass it on to some stranger in distress and far from home.—Mr. and Mrs. Roy Mullins moved to Lebanon Junction.—W. N. Kiger has been appointed Coal Inspector for the L. & N. with headquarters here. A good man to have in that office.—H. D. Magee was sick Monday but able to be out tonight and early Tuesday morning.—Mrs. Ella Stanley is visiting relatives in Laurel county.—Born to Mrs. J. H. Oliver Dec. 24th 1905, a handsome little son.

NO SQUARE DEAL.
 "The provision of the bill also gives ground for the claim that it denies a 'square deal' to the carriers. The basis of a legislative act by which the commission establishes a rate is the judicial proceeding by which it determines that the rate complained of is unreasonable. That judicial proceeding necessarily takes a wide range—involving the effect of the proposed reduction not only upon the revenues of the carrier but also upon its other rates, and upon the welfare of the industry and communities effected by the change."
 "A rate that seems on its face to take much more from this or that individual, from this or that commodity or industry, or from this or that locality, is often justified by circumstances that lie entirely outside the mere question of the amount of the charge. By all these considerations the reasonableness of the rate is judged. And the commission in inquiring into the reasonableness of any contested rate does or should go into all these circumstances affecting the rate."
 "But a court confined in its authority to the suspension of the order of the commission only, if it plainly appears that the order is unlawful, but not otherwise, as says the bill, is shut out from a consideration of these collateral circumstances, which, in nine cases out of ten, are the really controlling influences in the making of the rate. The sole inquiry of the court must be: 'What is the effect of this order upon the carrier's revenues?' If, in spite of this order, the carrier can still earn the reasonable return upon its investment, to which, under the law it is entitled, it does not plainly appear that the order is unlawful, and it will not, therefore, be disturbed."

"These quoted words are designed to deprive the carriers of any effective review by the courts of the process of investigation by which the commission may reach the conclusion that any challenged rate is unreasonable, and the words are potent to effect that design."
 "If the carriers are to have a 'square deal' in this proposed legislation, it is essential that there should be clear and adequate provision empowering the courts, on review of the commission's order, to take into consideration all the circumstances and conditions which the commission could consider, and to determine the very question, determined by the commission, namely: Is the rate complained of, under all the circumstances controlling or affecting it, fair, just and reasonable? Otherwise, rates established by the commission upon a reasonably low basis themselves, with reference to controlling conditions, but not amounting in their effect upon the carrier's revenues to a deprivation of property, would not be subject to any adequate judicial review."

"In the absence of opportunity for a more careful consideration of the other features of the bill, I prefer not to speak of them now."

LIVINGSTON.
 W. C. Mullins has been on the sick list for a few days.—J. F. Cooper returned here from Las Vegas N. M. Sunday a little improved in health. Says there is no place like home.—John McFerron, after a siege of typhoid fever at the home of his sister, Mrs. W. J. Childers will be able to visit his parents at Pine Hill.—Emil Geiszi, son of Mr. F. J. Geiszi of the East End, and Miss Sallie Dickerson of Broaddus drove to Eld. J. G. Livingston's Thursday and were heart and hunt. A reception was given them at the groom's parents that night. Mr. Geiszi is a prosperous young farmer and his bride is one of Broaddus's most popular young women. She is a daughter of Prof. Dickerson.—Interior Journal. Mrs. Geiszi is well known in Livingston and her many friends wish her happiness in her new life.

—Chas. D. Parsons died Friday morning January 5th of typhoid fever, age 41 years. He is survived by five children. He was born in right upon good cause shown in Oregon, Wis., and was taken into consideration. H. D. Parsons, of Brook Park, Ohio, came here Saturday to accompany the family and the body home. He desires to thank the good people of Livingston in general, but more especially H. D. Magee, L. M. Westerfield and the dispatchers, who so nobly assisted the family during the illness and death of his brother, C. H. Parsons. ## BAPTISM OF BLOOD

Heavy Fighting in the Streets of Moscow With Main Squad on Both Sides.

THE GOVERNMENT IS HOPEFUL.
The Revolutionaries Made Good Their Threats to Transfer the Strike Into Armed Rebellion.

If a Footfall Can Be Secured It Is the Revolutionists' Intent to Set Up a Government and Proclaim a Republic.

Moscow, Dec. 25.—Severe fighting took place in the streets in this city Saturday. The ancient capital of Russia was converted into a city of blood. Arsenal cantons and machine guns of English make were used. Many troops were cut to pieces by the hail of bullets from the muskets. The killed and wounded on both sides number thousands. Twenty-five thousand troops were used against the armed revolutionists.

St. Petersburg, Dec. 25.—With Moscow's baptism of blood, the revolutionaries made good their threat to transform the strike into armed rebellion, and the next 48 hours should determine whether the revolution will be sufficient strength to plunge the country into an actual state of civil war and seriously threaten the imperial government.

The government professes confidence that the whole attempt will fail owing to the wretched insincerity of those in possession of the proletariat, and by reason of the loyalty of the army as a whole; but its calculations might again be rudely upset. A few arsenals might be seized to furnish arms or the open support of a few regiments might start a landslide in the army. Certainly the above-mentioned revolutionary leaders fully appreciate that the issue must be decided by the attitude of the army, which is yet to cast its vote.

While the military succeeded everywhere in driving the insurgents from their barricades in Moscow Saturday night, the defeat evidently was not a decisive one, as hundreds were again thrown up in dozens of places Sunday morning and fighting was renewed before 11 o'clock.

London, Dec. 26.—The correspondent of the Daily Telegraph at St. Petersburg in a dispatch dated Dec. 25, p. 1, December 25, 1905.

"At an early hour this morning the casualties at Moscow were estimated at 5,000 killed and 14,000 wounded, while the fighting still proceeded. The revolutionists of Moscow have been forbidden to leave their dwellings after 7 o'clock in the evening. It is impossible to determine the city in consequence of the frequency of stray bullets. Many innocent persons have been accidentally killed. A scarcity of provisions is threatened."

"The driving force behind both the troops and the rebels is no longer that of enthusiasm or of any human impulse. It is the force of superhuman hate, and hence the deeds reported are not the acts of patriots, soldiers or otherwise, but the enormities of maniacs."

"For every barricade destroyed Sunday two or three times as many were placed. Orders were given by the revolutionists to shoot only when there was good reason to believe that a man down, but otherwise to tire the troops until they lost patience."

"In the meantime in these houses the bulk of the population covers in the narrow recesses of kitchens and cellars, striving with their trembling at every boom of the cannon or the explosion of a bomb."

"The most surprising thing of all is the loyalty of the troops, which nobody here anticipated."

"Talking with an intelligent group of St. Petersburg revolutionists I was informed that while they believe that strikes would be victorious, they fully realize that they were making every thing upon the issue, and that failure would set back their cause for several years. They said they were devoting their efforts to making the revolution of Russia finance, in full confidence that once the existing regime was overthrown they could get the money and that foreign nations would be as ready to advance money to a democratic republic as to the monarchy. They emphatically denied that they were inclining the peasantry
