R. H. MARTIN.

The Rockcastle tobacco manufacturer, who was awarded a diploma and the medal on tobacco at the World's Fair, St. Louis in 1904. Below are descriptions of the diploma and medal which he is soon to receive:

Description of the Design of The Diploma Awarded to the Louisiana Purchase Exposition to R. H. Martin on Tobacco.

The central figure of the composition, a robust, clear-eyed maiden in her first youth, Columbia, looks forward with unclouded brow intent on a future beyond the sea which she represents, placing one hand in sign of possession upon the globe signifying the territorial acquisition, which is offered by her sister France seated at her right.

Simultaneously from the other hand she passes on the torch of progress to her messenger the youth of her country who with winged feet stands ready to depart on his mission of civilization toward the Western sun which irradiates the sky. Columbia is draped with the flag chosen as a symbol above all others which is recognized to the farthest limits of the world and legitimates the country where was the Exposition that issued the diploma. France wearing the costume of the period of the cession of the Louisiana Territory is by a voluntary arrangement depicted with the Archangel Gabriel while the globe was being inscribed in the emblem of the Exposition it was a step in the progress of Napoleon, an Imperial France remains in our memories to-day as relinquishing the territory which our younger nation has notably developed.

The border of a Classic Empire design encircles the names of the States of the Union, prominence being given to those comprising the territorial acquisition, while the four stars in the tablet below still further emphasize their importance.

The diploma is 6 1/2 inches in size. It was designed by W. H. Lock and is made of the finest quality of paper in a square shape. Imperial Japanese paper, 2 1/2 inches in size.

Description of the Design for the Medal of award to the Louisiana Purchase Exposition, Awarded to R. H. Martin, the Rockcastle Tobacco Manufacturer.

In the composition of the obverse of the medal are shown two figures one of which, Columbia, tall and stately is about to envelop the youthful maiden by her side, typifying the Louisiana Territory, in the flag of the stars and stripes, thus receiving her to the sisterhood of States. The other figure is depicted in the act of divesting herself of the cloak of France, symbolizing in the emblem of Napoleon, the busy bee, embrodered thereon. In the background is shown the rising sun, the dawn of a new era of progress to the nation.

The reverse of the medal shows an architectural building bearing an inscription giving the name of the medal. Below the tablet are two dolphins symbolizing our Eastern and Western boundaries, the whole surrounded by an American Eagle spreading its wings to ocean.

On the gold medal there are three distinct scenes, each containing a wreath and a monogram or emblem, and each of these wreaths is surrounded by fourteen stars, representing the Louisiana Purchase States and Territories.

riorities. On the Grand Prize design there is the same number of stars in the upper field of the shield and there are thirteen bars in the lower field, representing the original States. On the design of the silver medal the artist has used the cross of the Order of Saint Louis.

The medal was designed by Adolph W. Winman. The design was approved by a committee composed of J. Q. A. Ward, Daniel C. French and Augustus St. Gaudens. The dies were engraved and the medal struck by the United States Government Mint at Philadelphia. The weight of the medal is about three and one-half ounces. The alloy for the medal was made especially for the Exposition after samples were submitted and passed upon by expert metallurgists.

A HINT TO TRAVELERS.

While in Suffolk, Va., Henry Croll, Jr., proprietor of the Beaver-ton, Mich., Hardware Co. was taken very sick with bowel trouble. A traveling salesman from Saginaw, Mich., advised him to take a bottle of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy, which he did. It relieved him, and he took pleasure in recommending it. He says: "No one should leave home on a journey without a bottle of this remedy. It is almost sure to be needed and is not obtainable while on steamship or sea. Sold by Chas. C. Davis, druggist here."

After much delay, the extra session of the General Assembly Monday afternoon reached a compromise on the Beecher's Tax Bill, fixing a tax of one and one-fourth cents a gallon. The House at first refused to accept any thing but a tax of one and one-half cents and the Senate was barely prevented from enacting a law without giving the House an opportunity to reconsider.

FORTUNE BY SAVAGES.

"Speaking of the torture to which some of the savage tribes in the Philippines subject their captives, reminds me of the intense suffering I endured for three months from inflammation of the kidneys," says W. STRAVENE—A black pig hog with a few gray spots, weight about 170 pounds left my place a week ago. No mark except a large wart on belly. Liberal reward for return to farm.
J. Fish, Mt. Vernon, Ky. March 30-31.

Joe Ramsey reports 500 cattle on the market with but few good ones. One lot 650 lbs. steers brought $2.00 which was probably the highest price obtained. Light yearling steers brought $2.00 and quite a number of heifers brought from $1.50 to $2.00. Many cattle over unsold.—Richmond Signal.

Mr. Sterling Court, The Gazette says: "About 1,500 cattle on the market. The quality was common with no heavy cattle, all the offerings being light weight. Trade was dull for the reason that we had one of the worst days of the winter. The best 800 pound steers brought 4 to 4 1/2 cents, according to quality, selling by the head; common steers at 6 1/2 cents; heifers at 10 3/4 cents; cows at 2 1/2 to 3 cents. More than half of the cattle were left over unsold. It was a hard one on cattle traders to bring stock for three or four days in the rain and then have such a day of sales. Not more than a third as many mules for sale as last week. Trade was a little slow. Some 167 hand mules sold at $100; 12 1/2 hand mules at $165 to $175; 15 hand mules at $140 to $150; small mules at $90 to $110. Demand for mules was good. Greer-Wade & Co. sold some road horses at $200 to $250. Good horses brought $500 to $600; medium horses at $225; pligs $50 to $80.

Theo, the 14-year old son of Jesse Polly, who lives on Rockcastle, Thorne and Pine Creek, was drowned last Thursday by getting into a dug out loaded with wood. The Croan dog law provokes a good deal of discussion among the farmers over the State. The sheep raisers say the people of Kentucky should provide the author of the law with woolen clothing the rest of his life, while the friends of the dog declare that they or any of their descendants will ever vote for a man who is neas or remotely kin to Croan. If the law results, as it should, in the raising of future sheep, but for the deprivation of dogs, the most profitable thing, can a farm, the law will soon be acknowledged as a blessing.—Somerset Journal.

A letter from Emmet M. Dickson, District Deputy Grand Exalted Ruler, Paris, Ky., says that the Somerset Elk Lodge, No. 1021, will be instituted Wednesday, April 4. Grand Exalted Ruler R. W. Brown, of Louisville, has expressed himself as desirous of participating in the installation. There will be about thirty taken through on the night of installation, which, with something like eight resident Elks, will give Somerset a lodge of thirty-eight to begin with. Preparation will be pressed to appropriately entertain the visiting Elks, who will be principally from Danville as the Danville Lodge will furnish the installing team. Among other visitors will be Exalted Ruler R. C. Williams, of the Covington Lodge.

LEGISLATIVE.

The friends of Lieut. Governor Thorne in the Senate presented him with a handsome silver tea service as a token of esteem. In accepting the gift, Gov. Thorne said it was his first realization of the long struggle he has been making for "free silver." During his remark he apologized for using "cuss" words in the Senate several days ago. He said he was extremely sorry for having used such language, but there was compensation in knowing from the newspaper that "play" up the story that some of the editors never heard of "hell!"

Gov. Beckman approved 120 bills and affixed his signature. A number of milder bills became laws of the State with his signature. Only three bills and one resolution was vetoed. One of these contained a clause which in the Governor's judgment, virtually repealed the local option legislation of the present session.

The good year of 1906 is indeed proving a fruitful one for the temperance workers, throughout the land. The County Bill passed by the Kentucky Legislature and the passage of a bill by the Ohio Legislature, changing the saloon license from $350 to $1000, means the doing away with of many a rum counter.

The 1906 session of the Legislature was worth more to the State than the whole of the regular session put together and yet only one law was passed—the rectifiers' gallon tax on whiskey.

There would be less trouble impending in China if a lot of the papers would call home their special correspondents who make their living writing about it.

POLITICS AND POLITICIANS

Gov. Beckham you his point, Kentucky is now the only State in the Union that puts a gallon unit tax on rectified whisky, says the Louisville Herald. It is another feather in the cap of Kentucky's model Governor and will further endorse him to the people, when they realize that he will result in over one hundred thousand dollars gain in taxes and the consequent lightning of the burdens of other tax payers.

No man in the General Assembly made more true friends, and came out with acclamer record than Senator Jack Chinn. The impression prevailed, with some at least, that he was a swash buckler and a bluffer, fit only to fight, boogie and handle knives and pistols. Instead they found him a mild mannered man, always on the side of morality and the good of the State and society. He not only surprised those who didn't know him but he surprised those who did know him by his splendid work and achievements. He grew in the public estimation every minute of the time from the beginning to the end of the session, and went home carrying the praises of every one who watched his course. We have known Senator Chinn for many years, and while we were aware of his many noble and excellent traits we were not prepared to expect the power of good he accomplished. The temperance people, especially one him a debt of gratitude, for his efforts in behalf of the County Unit Bill, for which he did so much to enact into law—Kentucky State Journal.

FROM THE SCIENCE CLASS.
Liquid air is a clear sparkling liquid, resembling water in appearance, yet it is wet to the touch. It is produced by substituting air to great pressure. By this terrible pressure a whole room full of air can be reduced to the space of a good sized bucket.

Twenty years ago its existence was unknown. Prof. Dewar of England, produced the first ounce that was ever made at a cost of $3000. Mr. Triples of New York City now manufactures it at the rate of 20 cents a gallon.

If a pot of liquid air is placed upon a block of ice, the air will boil like a tea-kettle, so much warmer is the ice than liquid air. It freezes alcohol—and it is remembered that alcohol does not freeze this side of 202 degrees below zero. Mercury, if poured in a vessel of liquid air, immediately freezes into a block so hard that it can be used for driving nails. Other metals also, are froze by liquid air. All the precious metals, such as gold become so flexible that they are easily bent by the fingers. Iron and steel, on the other hand, are made brittle and will shatter like glass if dropped on the floor.

Of course, a large amount of oxygen is present in this compressed gas, indeed, so much oxygen is there, that if one end of a splinter of steel is placed in a tumbler of the liquid, and a lighted match is applied to the other end, the steel will burn like wood.

This peculiar product has great value in the presence of such explosive gases, such as nitro-glycerine, but so long as it is not shut up tight, it can be handled with perfect safety. As it evaporates very rapidly when left open there arises the disadvantage of not being able to ship it long distances or store it away.

Its value in the future will be pend largely upon the possibility of its utilization as a power for running machinery. The advantages of using it are numerous: it is cheap; it has about one hundred times the explosive power of steam and finally the inventiveness of the machinery necessary for its manufacture, is a very big argument in its favor.

Mr. Dippler also predicts other uses for this strange discovery. "Ten years from now," he says, "hot air engines will call for cool rooms in summer, with as much certainty of getting them, as they now call for warm rooms in winter." "I will, furthermore, be a great aid to the physician on account of his dis in fection and cause of the power."

Still there are many disadvantages, and these are much harder to get ahead of the inventors before it can be used practically.

The Rockcastle Bronze Company whose "ad." appears in another column, calls attention to the fact that White Bronze is fast displacing marble and granite in the making of monuments and cemetery work generally. It costs less, is better and lasts for untold lengths of years. Never changes color or becomes moss grown. More than 400 designs to select from. When in town call at the store of J. Fish and see samples of the Bronze, medals, lettering, literature and testimonials. Man. J. Francis, J. Bradford, will give any desired information and make sales.

Call phone No. 100, without cost from any point on Home Co's. lines if Rockcastle, when you wish to talk on Bronze matters.

The school interest in the Kentucky mountains is thoroughly awakened. Monaghan recently adopted the graded system and is putting a $20,000 high school in Somerset. The Board of Education here has also adopted the $20,000 Carnegie library connected with the high school building. London recently adopted graded schools and will erect a $120,000 building at once. Middleboro will build a $330,000 school building the coming summer. Elizabethtown will build a $100,000 high school building this year and plans are on foot to spend $200,000 on a new dormitory at Union college, while a mechanical hall is a possibility. It is now in order for Mt. Vernon to convert the public school into a graded school, the thing which long since should have been done.

Traffic on this division of the L. & N. was delayed about ten hours Wednesday on account of a wreck of the Cincinnati and Knoxville train one mile south of Livingston. The engine jumped the track and plunged over an embankment completely demolishing it. The express baggage and mail cars were considerably damaged. Engineer Ed Manson was thrown from his engine, receiving a rather severe cut on the head and several bruises about the body but his injuries were not at all serious. The fireman, express messenger and both mail clerks received slight injuries. Not a single passenger was injured in the wreck, in fact one of the passengers riding in the ladies' coach told us that he did not know there was a wreck until it was all over. It was by no means as serious as the report first given out would indicate.

Cashier, W. Hutchens, of the Citizens Bank of Broadhead, in forum as that the Peoples Bank of Mt. Vernon will open for business Tuesday, April 10th. It was intended to open on the 21st, but the delay is due to failure in getting furniture of safe in on time.

Louis L. Harman, the editor of the Lancaster Record, hit the nail on the head when he wrote the following on patronizing home industries, which is worthy the perusal of every home citizen:

"Should time industries be protected? Are open houses, high schools, hotels, libraries, churches, doctors, etc., desirable in your immediate neighborhood? What is the opera house for? For public gatherings and entertainments. Good entertainments cost money. Destroy the home town libraries and the home town spirit languishes and dies. With the town gone the people go.

Who will then support the high school? Who will patronize first class hotels? Who will keep up the churches? What if the sinner preacher or doctor will come to a dead town? They go where the people are. Where are the people going? To large cities. Why? Because so many preachers are sending their flock to the cities.

When we go to large cities the good teachers, good preachers, good doctors follow to get the money—your money. The result will be poor teachers in your home schools, poor preachers in your churches, doctors that you are afraid to employ, druggists who can't fill a prescription safely.

J. S. REPPERT ON THIS NEED OF A BRIDGE OVER ROUNDSTONE.

Editor Signal:—I am greatly pleased that our community has been found worthy of honorable notice in your paper. I will write his, for to your years past in season and out of season, and the necessity and importance to the whole county of good substantial bridges over Roundstone, the Orleans and Quill courts and county authorities have invariably regarded the proposition with favor. The young men at present composing the committee are highly in favor of this needed improvement, but some who stand out in the back of the large men progress, who are found every where and especially in the mountain communities.

It is becoming apparent to all acquainted with the conditions that the Roundstone region and the portion of the county lying east of Roundstone are becoming through the great lumber and mining sections, the most important hot spots of the county. The vital consideration to the Emerald belt and Brush creek regions is their communication with the rest of the county. During a severe winter portion of the year the roads are virtually cut off and the side of Roundstone is a dead end of experience. Two feet of mail and other necessary matters required a trip to Oranoro.—Roundstone and Brush creek cut off banks. How shall I get there? Two miles ride over a mountain path and a five mile walk on the ice across a dangerous bridge and I get to Oranoro. In this condition it requires about two days before the creek is safely fordable. In case court is in session or any important matter to be attended at Mt. Vernon, we are water bound.

Now by the great expense of the roads from Brush Creek and Crooked Creek can be brought together on the left bank of Roundstone, and a bridge made to accommodate both regions. Why shall not this be done? It is evident that it ought to be done. Several things you have made inquiry in your paper: "How best to advance the interests of the county?" I have given no attention to these matters since my ideas are somewhat radical. I do my own thinking and express my own opinions; hence moss back orientals at extra charge. I am not more public, more public improvement, yes and more public expense. High taxation hurts nobody if properly and honestly applied to public use.

CHEAPER FARM LAND:—SOUTHWEST OFFERS BEST OPPORTUNITIES FOR SECURING HOMES.

Many farmers in the Northern and Western States are selling their sight priced lands and locating in the Southwest. Many who have been unable to own their homes in the older country, are buying land in this new country.

Unusual opportunities exist along the lines of the Missouri, Pacific and Mountain Route. The rich alluvial, delta lands and river bottom lands of Southwest Missouri, Eastern Arkansas, Louisiana and Texas, capable of producing cotton, corn, a bale of cotton, 4 to 6 tons of straw, 50 bushels of potatoes, and other grains, vegetables and hay crops, can be bought for $75 to $150 per acre. When cleared slightly improved will rent for $40 to $60 per acre cash.

Unplanted more rolling, higher soil, adapted to fruit growing—peaches, pears, plums, grapes, berries, strawberries, tomatoes and other vegetables can be bought for $50 to $100 per acre in an improved state. Many places with small clearings and some improvements can be bought very cheap.

This is a fine stock country. No long wait for feeding. Free range, pure water, mild climate. A healthy, growing country, with a great future.

Write for map and descriptive literature on Missouri, Arkansas, Louisiana, Texas, Kansas or Indian Territory. Very cheap rates on first and third Tuesdays of each month. Address: R. T. G. Matthew, T. P. A., Louisville, Ky. or H. C. TOWNSEND, G. P. & A., St. Louis, Mo.

Stubborn Coughs and Colds

Obstinate racking coughs that settle on the lungs and may develop into Pneumonia over night are quickly cured by

FOLEY'S HONEY AND TAR

It soothes and heals the inflamed air passages, stops the cough, and cures the cold. Remember the name—FOLEY'S HONEY AND TAR—is so safe or as certain in its results.

Given Up to Die With Croup.
 Mrs. P. I. Corlier, of Manning, Ky., writes: "My three-year-old girl had a severe case of croup; the doctor said she could not live, and I gave her up to die. I went to the store and got a bottle of FOLEY'S Honey and Tar. The first dose gave quick relief and saved her life."

Three sizes—25c, 50c, $1.00. The 50-cent size contains two one-half tins, and the $1.00 bottle also contains two one-half tins, as much as the small size and the Refuse Substitutes.

Editor Cured of Lung Trouble.
 W. L. Straub, Editor of St. Petersburg (Fla.) Times, writes: "When coming across the bay from Port Tampa I got wet and caught a cold that affected my throat and lungs. I was excited, thinking I would never recover, but I kept trying, until I bought a bottle of FOLEY'S Honey and Tar, and it cured me completely."

HOMECOMING WEEK OF FORMER KENTUCKIANS.

The Louisville Commercial Club is this week sending out to the General Passenger Agents of every railroad in the United States printed copies of the 15,000 names of former Kentuckians to whom invitations for homecoming week have been sent. The list will go into the hands of about 150 General Passenger Agents, who in turn will furnish the District Passenger Agents of the roads the names of the former Kentuckians in their respective territories.

The Traveling Passenger Agents of the City Passenger Agents and other officials of the railroads will personally call many of these former Kentuckians and will do much to bring the attendance to Louisville for the homecoming week. Many of the railroads are getting out handsome folders especially advertising homecoming week, and in many other ways are giving wide publicity to Louisville and the reunion.

A list of 2,000 names, if printed in an ordinary eight-column newspaper, will require more than a forty-page newspaper with columns three inches wide to print all the names. The Commercial Club has the names printed on 100 pages of green columns of nine and ten lines, and 550 columns in a compact type. This list supplemented by lists of additional names from the Kentuckians who were received at the Commercial Club, and by the names of probably 150,000 former Kentuckians will have been printed and sent to the railroads.

MANY WOMEN Who Have Influenced History and Figured in Fate of Nations.

(Washington Post.)

It is curious that no picture gallery has been made of the beautiful women who have influenced history. From the days of the great Egyptian Queen many a dull page of history has been lighted up by some fair face that has brought a little human interest into the dry and cold calculations of Kings and politicians.

Batony was not the last politician whose course was influenced by beauty. Think of the beautiful Louis of Prussia jesting with Napoleon for a kingdom. "I knew that I was to see the most beautiful Queen in existence," said Napoleon to Talleyrand after a banquet given in her honor, "but I have found the most beautiful Queen, and at the same time the most interesting woman in the world." And Louisa had won from him the restoration of Silesia.

It is said, indeed, that she laughingly offered him a rose in exchange for the fortress of Magdeburg, but Napoleon was one of the iron men of the world who kept the flower—and Magdeburg.

A book of "Beautiful Women" has been recently produced by Mr. Hallett Hyatt with pictures of some of the most beautiful women that ever lived, and Mrs. Stewart Eskrine has gathered their romantic stories.

One comes upon the picture of Eliza Farnham, the actress, who became famous by playing childlike parts in a strolling company, and advanced to fame in London as Miss Hardcastle in "She Stoops to Conquer." She became a favorite in society, and married the two-time Lord Derby, when she lived "happily ever afterward," taking her place at court and in society. Her barriers are insurmountable to the career of beauty.

Here is the picture of Madame, the beautiful Hortense Sturmer, youngest daughter of Charles I, who married the two-time King of France. The features seem kind and good, and the expression somewhat stately; she would appear a woman more of brain than tenderness. In reality she had a sparkling wit, with that wonderful gift of personal magnetism. "All men loved and almost women adored her," wrote a gallant Frenchman in his memoirs.

Life in the French court was a continual round of pleasure, and the days were passed in ballets and theatricals. In the morning Madame would drive out with her ladies, to be escorted on their return by King Louis XIV, and his court would all drive out, accompanied by Lully's violins, to watch the moonshine of lovers.

Five years later "Madame" was the King's trusted adviser, and the twin kim and her brother Charles II. It was in the spring of 1670 that she brought about that some what infamous Scotch Treaty of Dover that made Charles a Roman Catholic and plunged England into war with Holland.

"That was the summit of 'Madame's' power. The sequel was gusty and dramatic. A few weeks later she was at St. Cloud in the flush of high spirits at her success. A glass of ice Johory water was brought of her request, and she drank it off quickly. Five minutes later "Madame" was no more. All the power of her fascination and beauty were ended by a secret poison.

As the pages are turned the portrait of a lady in a broadened dress appears, a face with a very deep forehead and expressive lips. This is the famous Madame de Pompadour. Her birth was very humble indeed, but she came in the way of Louis XV, who gave her unlimited influence till she became a recognized power in Europe. For many years she conducted the foreign policy of France, interviewing Ambassadors and treating with Kings. Rebuffed by Frederick the Great, this amazing woman made overtures to Maria Theresa of Austria to divide his kingdom between them, and, sitting in her summer house, she gaily arranged with a couple of diplomatists the repartition of Europe.

Moreover, but for the freedom she gave to her personal likes and dislikes, it is not improbable that she would have accomplished some of the less wild of her schemes. Her dramatic end has often been told. In the midst of a banquet on affairs of state, she sat, roged and powdered in her chair, the cure who was with her rose. She detained him. "One moment, Monsieur le Curé," she said, "we will take our departure together." And abateful diplomatist was off.

The portrait of the unhappy Marie Antoinette, frank, queenly, superb, of whom Robespierre rapturously wrote: "Glittering like the morning star, full of life and splendor, and joy," is here, too. Recall her life as the "Petit Trianon," that imitative palace with its garden and its fountains, where she wandered about unguarded, and no one rose at her approach. It is always grimly pathetic that the one French Queen who little fulfilled the part that she had been taught to expect from a Queen should have to be sacrificed to the mad rage of the revolution.

Angelica Cathman was the child of a Tyrol peasant, who made her way by the loss of her artistic gifts as well as her beauty. She was one of the original members of the Royal Academy. Like many a beautiful woman who never became famous, she was married secretly to an adventurer, who passed himself off as Count Frederick de Horn. Too late she discovered that he had been a footman to that person and no more, and for some years she was blackmailed by this adventurer.

A beauty of the late Georgian era was Lady Palmerston, whose portrait was painted by Sir Thomas Lawrence. It is scarcely necessary to recall the career of this famous beauty. Too few years have passed for it to have faded from the general memory.

and she drank it off quickly. Five minutes later "Madame" was no more. All the power of her fascination and beauty were ended by a secret poison.

As the pages are turned the portrait of a lady in a broadened dress appears, a face with a very deep forehead and expressive lips. This is the famous Madame de Pompadour. Her birth was very humble indeed, but she came in the way of Louis XV, who gave her unlimited influence till she became a recognized power in Europe. For many years she conducted the foreign policy of France, interviewing Ambassadors and treating with Kings. Rebuffed by Frederick the Great, this amazing woman made overtures to Maria Theresa of Austria to divide his kingdom between them, and, sitting in her summer house, she gaily arranged with a couple of diplomatists the repartition of Europe.

Moreover, but for the freedom she gave to her personal likes and dislikes, it is not improbable that she would have accomplished some of the less wild of her schemes. Her dramatic end has often been told. In the midst of a banquet on affairs of state, she sat, roged and powdered in her chair, the cure who was with her rose. She detained him. "One moment, Monsieur le Curé," she said, "we will take our departure together." And abateful diplomatist was off.

The portrait of the unhappy Marie Antoinette, frank, queenly, superb, of whom Robespierre rapturously wrote: "Glittering like the morning star, full of life and splendor, and joy," is here, too. Recall her life as the "Petit Trianon," that imitative palace with its garden and its fountains, where she wandered about unguarded, and no one rose at her approach. It is always grimly pathetic that the one French Queen who little fulfilled the part that she had been taught to expect from a Queen should have to be sacrificed to the mad rage of the revolution.

Angelica Cathman was the child of a Tyrol peasant, who made her way by the loss of her artistic gifts as well as her beauty. She was one of the original members of the Royal Academy. Like many a beautiful woman who never became famous, she was married secretly to an adventurer, who passed himself off as Count Frederick de Horn. Too late she discovered that he had been a footman to that person and no more, and for some years she was blackmailed by this adventurer.

A beauty of the late Georgian era was Lady Palmerston, whose portrait was painted by Sir Thomas Lawrence. It is scarcely necessary to recall the career of this famous beauty. Too few years have passed for it to have faded from the general memory.

RESCUED THE ALAMO.

FAMOUS TEXAN STRONGHOLD SAVED FROM DESTRUCTION BY A WOMAN.

Miss Clara Driscoll Prevents Catastrophe—Alamo Was the Scene of the Most Terrible Fight of Early Days of Texas.

Through the command of a considerable sum of money a Texas woman has been enabled to save to her native state and to the United States one of the most noted relics of Texas and Mexican War times. The historical Alamo, an old fort, originally a monastery, and the scene of one of the most thrilling incidents of the Mexican War, was about to be sold, and the ground utilized in the erection of a modern hotel.

The lesson taught by the action of Americans who held the Alamo towered so high that it was a source of surprise to Miss Clara Driscoll, a successful author of magazine stories, and she made an offer of sixty thousand dollars for the property and it was accepted. In speaking of this purchase Miss Driscoll said that if the Alamo, a soldier, had been destroyed it would have made it impossible for her to live in the Alamo, as she is to be married immediately after the historical fort came into her hands the people of Texas voted up to the situation. A bill was passed by the state legislature authorizing the purchase of the property from her and at the same time appointing her honorary custodian of the Alamo.

For some time Miss Driscoll has been writing short stories concerning Texas and Mexico life, her first book

Serpent rakes, snakes, bangles and necklaces are to be the fashion in the big cities this season, dealers having already received many orders for jewelry of a "snaky" description. Plan For Salvation of Louisville.

Some days ago the postmaster at Louisville, Kentucky, received a communication from a man in Ballston, Vermont, who, having learned, he said, of the wickedness in Louisville, and desiring to do missionary work, he wanted a list of the unscrupled men and women of that town. Postmaster Barker is stated, forwarded a city directory.

CLERKS REDUCED.

Discharged employees will have spent best years of life in serving Uncle Sam.

The blow, which the older government clerks at Washington have for some time feared, is about to fall, and the House of Representatives follows the apparent intention, the clerks of 65 years old and over, will have their pay cut from 25 to 50 percent.

Investigation carried on by the Appropriation Committee, shows that over $2,000,000 is annually paid to over 65 of the clerks of the government if the plan proposed is carried out, over 50 percent of these will be reduced. The bill means that many faithful employees of the government, who have spent all their lives in the service of their country, will suddenly find their incomes cut sharply in half.

It is often stated that the average government clerk is a man of single hours and good pay, so that there is something of a disinclination about the country to feel or express much sympathy for the government clerk who is reduced, or perhaps dismissed for any reason.

It is a matter of fact, however, that the clerks in Washington, are most trying and unprofitable (unpaid) for the government, in which the work is technical, and the possibility of leading to other things outside of the government world, and after a few years the clerk, who is incumbent with the responsibility of managing the government, if suddenly thrown upon his resources.

Most of the government bureau offices, where a clerk may be employed for years in a single line of work, his knowledge and experience, which narrow and circumscribed, are becoming valuable to the government. In the meantime, his salary has become commensurate with his responsibilities, and although some government employees with thirty years may have been able to look after their own affairs, the proportion is not large.

At an age, after twenty years of working in a government office, a clerk may have accumulated a considerable sum of money, and he finds himself completely out of touch with all other work. He has no knowledge of the outside world, and he is unable to do any work in a new line of life. He could only hope to be able to do some of the work he has done in the government service, in a private business, and he is unable to do so.

Further descriptions of a delightful trip from St. Augustine through the Lake Region of Florida, including Spanish Moss.

The next morning, after four days visit, we had to say goodbye to this fascinating old city. It contains so many superb hotels with their wealth of beauty and luxuries that it is almost impossible to describe them.

The St. Johns is quiet and monotonous, but the beauty of the Oklawaha is extremely fascinating—a narrow river which hurled all night long at right angles with itself, the great tall cypress trees full of waving ferns, and the Spanish moss swaying in the water, which is of light blackness.

Now sun is in the sky and the steamer stopped at the upper wharf to take on wood, and we lunched at dusk, pipe torches were lit and each of us had a night-fairy illuminating each side of the river and creating most fantastic shapes and shadows. About 8 o'clock in the evening, we heard the whistle of the down boat, and the river wide enough as a part of the river wide enough for her to pass. It was a beautiful sight, which I shall never forget.

On the last day when we spent in Augusting, the sun came out, the air was warm and balmy, the sky clear without a cloud, and I had my desire of seeing St. Augustine in the winter sun. The carriages were being driven everywhere, the sidewalks were crowded with people, and the plaza, and even the hotels were looking so beautiful I wished I might be a part of it all for a month.

Mr. Berger states that he, himself, received more volts than are supposed to be necessary to kill a man and that he knows of cases where as high as 1000 and 4000 volts have gone through men's bodies and they have been restored to life and health.

He cites as an illustration, the case of Joseph Averell, Baltimore, a man who was caught in an alternating current of 2000 voltage and thrown from a pole in the middle of the street. His arm was removed at once to the hospital and emergency treatment was given almost immediately. Both of his hands were burned to a crisp and his skull was fractured by the fall to the street, but he recovered.

MISS CLARA DRISCOLL

WHOSE ENTHUSIASM SAVED THE ALAMO.

The girl of La Gloria, lying place on the market within the year.

A Mexican Opera.

Parly on account of her letters in interest in the Texas country, and she subject hereof untouched in either country or drama she conceived the idea of writing an opera in which there should be only Mexican scenes and characters.

Through the cooperation of men well versed in methods of producing operas, the whole story was put into shape. Miss Driscoll had collected a number of Mexican songs and dances and folk lore music of a suitable value in the arrangement of a suitable musical setting. Inspired by these, she wrote the libretto, and she had the actual character of the music as well as the costumes and scenery makes the opera typically Mexican.

Both of his hands were burned to a crisp and his skull was fractured by the fall to the street, but he recovered.

Mr. Berger states that he, himself, received more volts than are supposed to be necessary to kill a man and that he knows of cases where as high as 1000 and 4000 volts have gone through men's bodies and they have been restored to life and health.

He cites as an illustration, the case of Joseph Averell, Baltimore, a man who was caught in an alternating current of 2000 voltage and thrown from a pole in the middle of the street. His arm was removed at once to the hospital and emergency treatment was given almost immediately. Both of his hands were burned to a crisp and his skull was fractured by the fall to the street, but he recovered.

THE STANDARD BIRD.

Greatest Profit in Pure Breeds of Fowls.

The Bureau of Animal Industry has just prepared a short bulletin embracing a number of useful hints to poultry raisers.

In order to obtain eggs, it is necessary to have healthy, vigorous stock, properly fed. To do their best, hens should be fed grain, animal and green food. They should be fed enough to keep them in good condition but not overfat, and should be induced to take fowls which will produce carcasses and eggs of many more uniform shape, color, and size than will mongrels, all of which aids in finding a ready sale. If one already has a flock of mongrel fowls and cannot afford to buy pure-breds, he should choose a purebred male bird of the breed preferred and mate him with a few of the best mongrel females. This system, if carefully followed for a few years, will give a high-grade flock that will be practically as good as purebreds, so far as market conditions for dressed fowls and eggs are concerned.

Egg Birds.—Nonsitters and producers of white-shelled eggs—Leghorns and Minorcas. General purpose breeds—Sitters and producers of brown-shelled eggs—Plymouth Rocks, Wyandottes, Game Fowls, and Rhode Island Reds.

What Kind of Houses. Location.—Select an elevation having a natural drainage away from the building, a dry, porous soil, such as a sandy or gravelly loam, being preferable to a clay soil.

Exposure.—As sunlight and warmth are essential to the best success with poultry, the buildings should face the south. A southeasterly exposure is preferable to a southwesterly one, and direct southern exposure cannot be obtained.

Size of House.—The size of the house will depend almost entirely on the number of birds to be kept. It is a good idea to have a few extra roosts for a few extra birds, as they are not expensive.

Another man may be mixed as follows, in the proportions indicated: 100 pounds corn meal, 100 pounds wheat middlings, 100 pounds linseed meal, 100 pounds ground oats, 100 pounds wheat bran.

Young chickens should be fed a little less than adults. If they are given ground food alone, there is a great danger of overfeeding. Very good results may be obtained by feeding entirely of cracked grains from the time the chickens are hatched until they reach maturity. There are on the market many prepared chick feeds, consisting of different mixtures of suitable cracked grains. After the chickens are five or six weeks old, the prepared chick feed may be dropped and cracked corn, cracked wheat, bulled oats, etc., fed to them instead.

If the chickens can not get grass, provide green food such as lettuce and cabbage which are very good for this purpose. Some kind of meat, such as green corn or meat scraps, is valuable as a food and it is well to keep in a box where the chickens can help themselves at all times. Water should be provided from the start, placed in such a dish that the chickens can not get into it and get wet.

Interior Arrangement. The roost platform should be placed in the rear of the house and extending its whole length. The platform should be about 3 inches high and 3 feet from the floor, with the perches arranged about 2 or 10 inches higher. The nest

THE GREAT AMERICAN HEN.

Rightfully come she by the title, for according to statistics the American hen yields more annually than any other farm product. With eggs so low as a cent a piece—a very cheap and nutritious food—well bred laying about two hundred eggs a year has a value of $2. An estimate is made that $1 a year will keep her in comfortable if not luxurious quarters. The trouble is that the yield of hatched chicks does not yield a hundred eggs a year.

According to Government authorities the earnings from the egg and poultry industry amounts to about $250,000,000. Cotton, the king of crops with a value reaching up to $250,000,000, thus dethroned by the magnificent earnings of the fowl.

The great crop, considered the most valuable of all agricultural products, has a value in the same period of $250,000,000. The great American hen, consumed at home and abroad, was valued at about $186,529,635. The present production of the country was only $200,000,000. The industrial little gallin domestic produces enough eggs to require a train of refrigerator cars 400 miles long and with 2,000,000 eggs, each of which holds 300 eggs. The value of the eggs as a food product is equal to that of any food stuff of its size.

WHITE COCHIN COCK. First Prize Bird at New York Show 1902. 'But I'd like to be sure of showing my cherished name on a good one. I'd like to have a bird of my own name. My friends of racing turn would be giving me a fine time about my own name's performance.'

Well, here are two of my cracks in these two stalls. I'll have you led one by my padlock by one of the stalls, and you can look them over and take your pick of them. Whichever one you like the better I'll give it to you. Don't mind Mr. Longworth, you're a pretty good judge of a race horse yourself. Well, I'd like to be sure of showing my cherished name on a good one. I'd like to have a bird of my own name. My friends of racing turn would be giving me a fine time about my own name's performance.

Booker T. Washington Says He is at the head of the Negro race. He is a leader in the class room and the factory was tremendous; but more crossing over the domain from the best white people of that section for negroes to take charge of their farms, dairies and other industries. This man is shown, he said, by the fact that every one of the 525 students who left Tuskegee last summer had been engaged before the end of the term. Washington is solicited by mail, telephone and in person to train and train negroes, and could have found places for twice the number had they been better and want the service.

Association with the white people has given the negro new wants, desires and ambitions, said Mr. Washington. To these, education is necessary, for to appreciate fully the newly awakened feelings and to realize the means for their relief and progress, the right kind of education is beneficial for the negro.

The negro is not naturally an idler is shown, the speaker said, by the tribling of the South's industrial revolution in the last twenty years. With-out any appreciable increase in immigration. This advance is due, he thought, in great measure to the skill directed labor of the negro.

Cork, in spite of its buoyancy, will not raise to the surface again from a depth of 200 feet below the ocean's surface. It will eventually sink to the bottom. In any depth about 10 feet it will gradually work its way back to the surface.

Not the Laying Kind. A few days ago a rather bashful young man went into a Southern grocery store with some chickens to sell. He inquired the price of fowls, and at the same time put hers on the counter. The clerk didn't notice that the chickens were wet, and asked her if they would lay there the better shekerchief, turned her head, and said, "No, sir, they are roosters."

Extending the Weather Service. In order that the work of the Weather Bureau may be of greatest possible benefit to the states of the United States, and especially to that class which is dependent upon the weather, Prof. Willis L. Mendenhall, chief has been making arrangements by which such agriculturists as have land and want the service, may obtain weather forecasts within a few minutes after the announcement of predicted weather to the state of weather bureau. This is operating in New York, Pennsylvania, Indiana, Michigan and Ohio states. Recently the Weather Bureau made arrangements for an extension of this service in Maryland, Virginia and West Virginia.

The Nevada usually live longer than other fowls, while those born in the spring have longer constitutions than those during the other seasons.

WOODHOUND. The woodhound is generally thought to be very ferocious, while on the contrary it is really as gentle as almost any other kind of dog.
