FOR CONGRESS

We are authorized to announce JUDGE JOHN W. HUGHES, of Meigs County, as a candidate to represent the Fifth Congressional District in Congress, to succeed Hon. G. O. Gilbert, subject to the action of the Democratic party.

That the bill rec'ds. reported from the Committee on Revision of the Laws, containing a codification of the criminal laws of the United States, may receive consideration. A proposition is to be advanced in the next issue for night sessions, when this bill may be read. The measure is a very long one, and reading will require several hours. By a revision of the Code the Federal Courts and to await this action of Congress. Powers attorneys will if possible say of a trial in the State Courts.

HON. FLECK R. LAWRENCE, Editor of the Cadiz Record, three times the representative of his county and Speaker of the House at the last session of the Legislature has been appointed by Gov. Beckham as Adjutant General. This is an honor justly bestowed and one which carries with it the newspaper craft of the state, meets with a hearty approval.

When the probable election of the Hon. Richard Rose, of Whitley county, Ky., Senator Baily of Texas, has been established, the claim to being the greatest Constitutional lawyer in the country. Cadiz Record.

POLITICS AND POLITICIANS

Bill Owens has announced as a Republican candidate for Congress in the Louisville district. Let us see who is this fellow any way? Didn't he misrepresent this district for one term in Congress previously as a Democrat? Or is he the notorious black-leg whom Governor Beckham skinned alive in his home town of Georgetown a few years ago?—St. Journal.

Senator McCreaty, who is in Kentucky on a brief business trip, stated in a newspaper interview that he was a candidate for re-election and expects to win. The Senator says that this is the last race he ever expects to make. "I have always tried to be a faithful servant of my constituents, and think I have been. I was elected Senator and have done all I could for my country and my State, and what I want is an adjournment."

TARIFF FOR REVENUE

Is the ideal condition for Southern Planters and Farmers.

There is no crop raised in the Southern States that is protected by the tariff from foreign competition, except a little sugar and rice. There is a tariff tax on tobacco, but it does not protect the grower for like wheat and corn, the price is fixed by the export demand, there being a surplus raised of all these products, which must also be sold in the markets of the world in competition with other countries which also raises surplus. The price of these products for home consumption is therefore largely fixed by what the surplus exported will bring. Cotton, the money product of the South, is on the free list and there is absolutely free trade in that staple.

But every thing the Southern planter lays is protected by the tariff and is taxed from 25 to 75 per cent, which prevents most people from buying the imported goods on account of this tariff tax being added to the price the imported goods cost abroad. The trusts and companies that manufacture similar goods here take advantage of this tariff taxation and add to the profits they charge for their products nearly what the tariff tax would be on the imported articles over and above what would be a fair profit. So the American consumer, be he planter, or whoever he is, is compelled to pay the trusts and corporations pretty nearly the same tax that would be paid on the imported goods. The difference being that instead of the government getting the tax the trusts and corporations collect it in increased profit.

As some of the border Southern states elected Republicans to represent them in Congress, the voters must have been led to believe, that the protective tariff was an advantage to them and that trust high prices were a blessing in disguise. But with wheat, corn, tobacco and cattle all protected by the tariff and yet selling at a low price, while cotton unprotected selling at a fairly good price, the Republican argument that the tariff protects the planter and farmer is shown to be but campaign talk and not borne out by actual conditions. The ideal condition for the planter and farmer is to have the unobstructed right to sell in the domestic markets and buy in the cheapest markets. That can only be brought about by the Democratic plan, of a tariff for revenue only, to produce enough money to run the government, when honestly and economically administered.

MOKE ABOUT BEES

For the first six weeks after the bees have moved into their new home the daily routine of work is unbroken even by the queens. Then her majesty ceases to lay work eggs, and begins to lay large eggs, which in about twenty days develop into drone daddies. As soon as the queen makes this change in her daily work, the watchful little workers begin building a new kind of cells—curious, thimble like structures. Every third day an egg is slipped into one of these cells, on that day no other eggs are laid. Most caretakers tend to these treasures, for if properly fed, they will develop into princesses. So the nurses fill the royal cradles with sweet, pungent jelly—very different from ordinary bee food. But despite their queenly future these infants are shut up alone in the dark for a number of days, just like common working bees. As soon as the coverlets are spread over the cell lids, the princesses following the example of their plebeian sisters, wrap themselves up in cocoons—the royal children always leave a hole in the top of their blankets.

Two things happen at the end of between eleven and the laying of the first royal egg. The eldest princess begins to try to eat her way out of the cell, and the queen stops work and wanders about distractedly. Poor mother! she knows well that two queens can never rule in the same hive, and soon her daughter will try to usurp the throne. She is a very sensible creature, she finally decides to fight for the kingdom but to take a new home. The observant subjects understand the plans of their ruler and those who are loyal to the old queen now begin building round cells in clusters to give their honey a chance to turn into wax so they may be ready to start building new comb houses. Meanwhile the queen is watching for a clear sunny day on which to swarm—rain would clog their wings, and spoil their wax. Sometimes a pleasant day is long in coming and the young princess grows impatient and tries to get out of her cell but the wise workers drive her back in for well they know what a terrible fight there would be should the new queen meet. When a favorable day arrives the queen and her subjects start out to find another home. The young princess then finds herself queen of a most progressive and loyal commonwealth. Still she does not appear happy and her royal sisters seem to be the cause of her discontent. She tries hard to get at the princess cells, but this her subjects will not allow her to do although they obey her every whim in all other respects. At last in her despair she stands still, and beating the air with her wings, gives forth a loud piping noise, a low hoarse sound answers her. The response comes from the younger sister. Since the queen has no other bees to let her do she will let her younger sister, there is nothing left but to follow the old another sample and go in search of a new home before her rival comes into power. The third queen takes the scepter, but she is happier than her predecessor, for there are still young princesses. If there are no longer any disappointed bees who are anxious to seek new homes, the workers let her have her way with the rest of her sisters. Hereupon the jealous queen visits all the royal cells, and gnawing a hole in each, throws her sting in through the unfortunate hole left in the queen, and kills each little princess in its cradle. Now she can reign in peace, knowing that her rivals are dead. She accordingly settles down to every day work.

EXORDIUM that EXORDIATES It is a man at the head of the Government of Russia. It is a man at the head of the Government of Great Britain. It is a man at the head of the Government of the United States at Washington. It is a man at the head of the Government of Kentucky at Frankfort. And, boy, it is a man at the head of our common school system at Hyden, Ky.

By the exercise of power we're in King Edward, England and her provinces are prosperous. By the efficiency and Knowledge of President Roosevelt we can boast of having a great good man at the head of our Union. By the ability and honor abiding in Governor Beckham our State is anchored in the harbor of safety. And by the knowledge, power and honor vested in our Superintendent Valentiug at the head of our schools our county is growing more moral, more educated and more prosperous.

Now Gentlemen, I am about at the zenith. All the great men of whom I have spoken are no illiterate, nor half learned, but educated men. And I might mention as many great and useful women, and they are educated also. See?—Hyden, (Ky.) Thousands and thousands.

SAN FRANCISCO DESTROYED

Scenes in the early hours of Wednesday, which marked the transformation San Francisco, the gayest, most carefree city on the continent, into a wreck and a hell to open can describe now. It was a pandemonium, restless, appalling, in which tens of thousands fell into the streets...

The first shock was felt at 5:13. People woke with a start to find themselves floundering on the ground. They stumbled out of the houses to find that even the earth was swaying and raising and falling so that the sidewalks cracked and great rents opened in the ground. Persons hid in pure fright in just three minutes.

There was a roar in the air like a horse's whinny, and from all above came the crash of falling walls. It died down at last leaving the earth quaking and quivering like jelly.

People would run forward, stop as another shock, which might be the last, or a minute, and then take the earth from under their feet and throw themselves headlong toward the ground in a perfect agony of fear. Then followed the screaming of women beside themselves with terror. With one impulse people made for the parks, as far as possible from falling walls. These soon became packed with people.

The gas and electric mains were gone, and the street lamps were all out. But before the dawn was white there came a light from the East—the burning of the warehouse district. The heavy men and those without families to watch over struck out, half dressed as they were. In the early morning light they could see the business district below them all in ruins. The streets from every direction were filled with firemen and engines.

The Chinese came out of their burrows like rats and scurried into the square beating gongs and playing such noise-instruments as they had snatched up. They were met on the other side by the refugees of the Italian quarter. The panic became a madness. At least 200 Chinese were taken to the morgue dead of knife wounds given for no other reason than the madness of panic. There are thousands Chinese in this quarter and thousands of Italians, Spaniards and Mexicans on the other side.

Calmer, drier of express wagons and truckmen, hired at enormous prices, began carting away from the lower city the valuables of the hotels, which saw their doom in the fires, which were breaking out every where in spite of geyser mains. Even the banks began to take out their bullion and securities to send them to the hills, whence came the salvation of the city.

Men pulling corpses of injured from fallen buildings could be seen in almost every street. The day began to loathe the city and Mayor Schnitz and Funston gave orders to the police and soldiers to shoot all caught in the act of looting. Several were shot during the early hours. And all this time, and continuing, the earth was shaking with little tremors, and the clouds brought down rain and lightning. At each of these the rescuers would stop for a moment—paralyzed.

The 8 o'clock shock, the heaviest after the big one, drove every one who had determined to stay by the strictest city to look for means of escape by water. There are only two ways out of San Francisco—on by rail to the South or down the Santa Clara Valley, and the other is by water to Oakland, the overland transport. Most of the Californians trying to get out of the quaking, dangerous city, made by instinct for the ferry, since they knew that the shocks always traveled heavily to the South down the Santa Clara Valley. The earth trembled to quiet down by noon. Troops stationed in the banking district of Montgomery street dispersed the lines of people and prevented runs on the banks. The troops drove them away and the banks went on with the work of getting out valuable.

Mayor Schnitz organized a board of Supervisors of 50 substantial citizens. Subscriptions were started and plans for caring for the stricken and dead.

The Mechanics' Pavilion, an immense frame building, was transformed into a morgue and hospital, and used until Thursday when the wind veered and the building with many dead and wounded was wrecked up in flame. The greatest loss of lives from the earthquake was in the teaming district and on the water front. The greater part of the business section including the fine office buildings and skyscrapers was wrecked by the first and second shocks and what remained was destroyed by fire.

The Cliff House, far famed as a pleasure resort and show place of the city, built on a foundation of soft rock and overhanging the coast, was toppled into the sea.

All of Frisco's playhouses and newspaper offices were destroyed. The quake demolished them for all practical purposes except the Bulletin and fire-wiped that out just as the Examiner, Chronicle, Call and Bulletin were preparing to issue one paper.

Every hotel in the city was destroyed and up to last Thursday the quake demolished them for all practical purposes except the Bulletin and fire-wiped that out just as the Examiner, Chronicle, Call and Bulletin were preparing to issue one paper.

The Mayor ordered that express wagons, for which $550 a load was being charged, be seized and made use of for public goods.

One man, A. W. Hussey, came to the police station in the Hall of Justice, telling a story that made the officers shudder. He said a policeman had shot a man pinioned beneath the ruins of the St. Katherine Hotel, who was begging to be freed and relieved of his pain. The policeman's bullet went into Hussey's side, and the officer gave him a knife, commanding him to slash the sufferer's wrist. Hussey said he did as directed and the victim thanked him before he died. Hussey was locked up.

Highly insurance companies carrying risks on San Francisco announced they will pay dollar for dollar, with no deduction between fire and earthquake.

Santa Rosa was destroyed, and 10,000 persons are homeless. Not a business building has been left standing. One street is one line of charred ruins. The buildings not destroyed by the earthquake were consumed by fire, the water system being destroyed. People fled to the hills and to the fields.

San Jose, 25 miles south of San Francisco, was more than half ruined. Oakland and Alameda, across the bay, were more fortunate than their neighbors. Berkeley, which suffered severely, Congress has voted $1,000,000 to the sufferers. Rockefeller headed a $500,000 fund-raiser in New York with $100,000. More than $2,000,000 is contributed by the local business of Frisco, and every city in the country will add to the list. The government put Gen. Funston in charge and ordered every thing possible to be done for the sufferers. Mayor Schnitz was ordered to draw checks for any amount necessary, and the city will raise from the stores like all that have met like fate.

CAUGHT COIN WHILE HUNTING A BIRD. Mr. Wm. Ross, Longwood, principal constable at San Jose, California, says: "I caught a severe cold while hunting a burglar in the San Jose swamps and directed Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. I tried it, and, using only two small bottles, my cold was completely cured. This remedy is equally effective for coughs and colds. It will loosen and relieve a severe cold in less time than by any other treatment and is a favorite wherever the superior excellence has become known. For sale by Chas. C. Davis, the leading druggist."

WANTED: By Chicago wholesale and mail order house, assistant manager (man or woman) for this county and adjoining territory. Salary $750 and expenses paid weekly; pleasant position permanent. No investment or experience required. Spite time valuable. Send at once for full particulars and self-addressed envelope.

GRIP QUICKLY KNOCKED OUT. "Some weeks ago during the severe winter weather both my wife and myself contracted severe cold which speedily developed into the worst kind of a grippe with all its miserable symptoms," says Mr. J. S. Estleton of Maple Valley, Pa. "My knees and joints aching muscles sore, head stopped up eyes and nose running, with alternate spells of chills and fever. I tried Chamberlain's Cough Remedy, adding the same with a double dose of Chamberlain's Cough and Liver Tablets, and by its liberal use soon completely knocked out the Grip. Sold by Chas. C. Davis, the leading druggist."

Throat Coughs. A tickling in the throat; hoarseness at times; deep breath irritates it; these are features of a throat cough. They're very deceptive and a cough mixture won't cure them. You want something that will heal the inflamed membranes, enrich the blood and tone up the system.

Scott's Emulsion. It is just such a remedy. It has wonderful healing and nourishing power. Removes the cause of the cough and the whole system is given new strength and vigor.

MAKING HOME CHEERFUL.

AN EASY WAY OF PROVIDING AMUSEMENT FOR YOUNG AND OLD.

Fan and Entertainment for All-A-Fun and Minstrel Show at Your Own Risk.

The editor of this magazine has frequently traced the race to do all as cheerful as possible for all the family.

Now I want to tell you how you can cheer and brighten your home in a simply wonderful way.

Read what Thomas A. Edison the world's greatest inventor "the wizard of the 20th Century" has to say.

"I want to see a phonograph in every American home."

If you have never had a genuine phonograph in your home you cannot imagine what a wonderful pleasure it will be to you.

"What pieces can I hear on a phonograph?" some may ask.

Well, you can hear almost anything. There are 1500 records on Edison gold-moulded records and you can have your choice of these.

Suppose you got some valuable records reproducing to absolute perfection the greatest comic artists. Then take some hand music, Sousa's Marches, Waltzes, Rag Strips, soul-stirring lively music; then grand opera concert pieces as well as the finest vocal solos; also comic songs, ragtime, dance, comic recitations, piano, organ, violin, harp and of instrumental music; all kinds of sacred music, duets, quartets, full choruses.

The Edison records are perfect—absolutely natural and unlike the inferior though higher priced records of others the Edison records never become raspy and scratchy.

The smooth, round sapphire point of the Edison Record does not require changing. It does not wear itself or the record with which it comes in contact. Consequently your Edison Gold Moulded Records last for years.

This is a feature that merits the special attention of the prospective purchaser.

Possibly you have heard "talking machines" and have not done much for them, but remember that there are machines that produce a perfectly sound and noise, the sweetest, and the perfect expression for which you like music are reproduced only by the modern Edison Phonograph and the Edison Gold Moulded Records.

These qualities distinguish the Edison Phonograph from all its imitations.

Mr. Edison's pet and hobby. Though he has invented hundreds of other wonderful inventions he is interested only in the Phonograph Company, of which he owns practically the entire share of stock.

His instrument has provided amusement for thousands of homes.

HERE IS YOUR OPPORTUNITY! If you love music, if you like to entertain your family and visitors, if you want to make your home more comfortable and enjoyable, read every word of this great offer!

With an Edison Phonograph in your home you can arrange a concert at any time with just such success as brings $1 and $2 a seat in the opera houses of a big city.

Following are some specimen programmes for entertainments, hundreds of others may be made up from the catalogue that Mr. Edison will send you free on request.

OLD MAINS NOW YOUNG.

The farmers as well as the paper-mill workers and others in moderate circumstances are intelligent, thrifty people; many of them owning and occupying their homes with pride and care of their kind.

At Rumford Falls, Idaho, also referred to, almost an ideal condition exists, according to a writer in the Review of Reviews. Beautiful winding streets have been laid out and attractive cottages with splendid lawns and shade trees erected for the paper-mill employees.

These cottages are rented for an amount that little more than pays taxes, interest and a charge for maintenance, and should the amount paid more than meet these requirements the surplus is returned to the tenant at the end of the year.

HAULING A BIG FELLOW TO THE MILL.

people of means and built the great paper mills of Rumford Falls. The Falls at this point are ten feet higher than those of Niagara and as has been said, develop a magnificent amount of power.

der this arrangement every man has a personal interest in keeping the tax rate of the town down to the lowest possible figure and also in taking the best care of his premises.

But one man is responsible for this beautiful city which is situated upon an island in the Androscoggin River, and he owns almost the entire business section of the town.

Less than twenty years ago Hugh A. Chisholm saw the immense possibilities of Maine, and although without money at that time he managed to interest banks and public buildings. Many of the persons employed in the city reside in the "suburbs" which are reached by means of bridges.

Were it not for the fact that Rumford Falls is an up-to-date busy, bustling place with all the life and activity of a modern city, one could almost imagine himself in Venice.

From your window, looking toward the river and canal with great quantities of logs floating down, it is not hard to see the mills and later to be sent out in the form of newspapers.

The city contains about 7000 inhabitants and almost all available space is taken, but beyond good new sections will be constantly opened and streets are constructed by bridges.

New Golf Rule. Dennis O'Flannigan was walking about a round house a golf link when he was suddenly struck between the shoulders by a golf ball.

When he recovered he observed a "coffer running toward him." "Why didn't you get out of the way?" "An' why should I get out of the way?" asked Dennis.

"But I called 'Fore,'" said the player, "but the ball was 'fore' a sign for you to get out of the way." "Oh, it is it," said Dennis.

London Town is very much interested in six small human beings who have recently arrived from Africa.

Colonel Harrison went last year into the forest of Iuri, a party of six men, being to capture one or more gorillas. On the other hand, he succeeded in living four months and he accompanied him to Europe.

The Compo Pygmies are very strong and also brave without being generally aggressive, although Colonel Harrison reports that last winter, during his stay in the forest of Iuri, a party of pygmies attacked a Belgian caravan, killing seventeen carriers and plundering the goods.

They are absolutely no religious instincts and believe in neither God nor devil. They generally practice polygamy. As with the Chinese, the birth of a girl is regarded as a calamity.

They are remarkably intelligent, that they appear to have the gift of language and to be able to do much of the work of the more advanced races.

It will be possible, for instance, to supply them with light and power to the extent of the city of Paris with electricity generated by the waterfalls of Switzerland at a price that would be the present electrical companies out of business.

An American syndicate is said to have presented the inventor $10,000,000 for the American patent, but the offer has not been accepted.

IN JCT GREENLAND.

Boyhood Customs in the Cold North—A Good Hunter at Six Years of Age.

Truly it fares strangely with the "little man," beyond the boundaries of the Arctic circle.

Just when the first son of a west coast of Greenland Eskimo had been weaned, in his fourth year, his father set his hands to bird traps and harpoons.

For the next five years the child, with a summer break in his training, to no one knows how many hours, except noiselessly upon small birds, even those that were so small that when he tired of plucking his birds, he still in this direction grew so wonderfully that his little hands had learned to throw unerringly his diminutive harpoon at birds swimming in the inland sea.

The boy is now eleven years old. For two years he has spent a large part of his time in the mountains of his father's kaalik. Now his father has decided to have a kaalik built for the boy.

So the father takes his son to the shore where he walks along for a distance of several miles, gathering drift wood, the boy meanwhile being instructed in the proper kind of the proper kind of material for the frame of a kaalik.

The father is mightily pleased, and shows it by passing around hot coffee to almost all who worked on the kaalik. While this is being drunk, the child struts into their midst a veritable wonder of the world.

AFRICAN PYGMES.

London Town is very much interested in six small human beings who have recently arrived from Africa.

Colonel Harrison went last year into the forest of Iuri, a party of six men, being to capture one or more gorillas. On the other hand, he succeeded in living four months and he accompanied him to Europe.

The Compo Pygmies are very strong and also brave without being generally aggressive, although Colonel Harrison reports that last winter, during his stay in the forest of Iuri, a party of pygmies attacked a Belgian caravan, killing seventeen carriers and plundering the goods.

They are absolutely no religious instincts and believe in neither God nor devil. They generally practice polygamy. As with the Chinese, the birth of a girl is regarded as a calamity.

They are remarkably intelligent, that they appear to have the gift of language and to be able to do much of the work of the more advanced races.

It will be possible, for instance, to supply them with light and power to the extent of the city of Paris with electricity generated by the waterfalls of Switzerland at a price that would be the present electrical companies out of business.

An American syndicate is said to have presented the inventor $10,000,000 for the American patent, but the offer has not been accepted.
