DEMOCRATIC TICKET.

For United States Senator—J. C. W. Beckham. For Governor—S. W. Hager. For Attorney General—John K. Hunt. For State Superintendent of Schools—M. O. Winfrey. For Commissioner of Agriculture—J. W. Newman. For Lieutenant Governor—South Trimble. For Auditor—H. M. Bosworth. For Secretary of State—Hubert Vreeland. For Treasurer—Bobby Lafont. For Clerk Court of Appeals—John B. Chennault.

We are authorized to announce G. T. ALBRIGHT as a candidate for Jailer to fill out the unexpired term of two years, caused by the death of his brother, L. L. Jarvis, to be voted for at the Nov. election 1907, subject to the action of the Republican party.

We are authorized to announce W. M. BARNETT as a candidate for Jailer to fill out the unexpired term of two years, to be voted for at the next November election, 1907, subject to the action of the Republican party.

We are authorized to announce JOSHUA F. BOSWORTH as a candidate for the nomination for State Senator for the Seventeenth Senatorial district subject to the action of the Republican party.

We wish a law could be passed prohibiting the barbaric custom of opening caskets in public at church funerals. It is a relic of dark ages and has no place in a civilized community. It jars on the sensibility of every tender cord, and is something that the churches and undertakers ought to combine and put to an end. In nine-tenths of the cases it's merely a pandering to a ghoulish curiosity. People who never stop at the deceased in their life parade around the church, gaze at the form of our loved one, they go out to the presence of death, not to talk of the good he did in his life, but to criticize the appearance of the poor clay that death has left for once at their mercy. Death is a sacred thing. If we are going on a long journey we do not make our adieus before a gaping crowd; we ought not to be expected to bid our dead a last good-bye while curious eyes fatten on our grief, and we ought not to be expected to sit in the house of mourning while people we never speak to, who have no claim on us or our loved one, jostle each other in their desire to view the remains, and they get together and gossip over what they saw or failed to see.

We believe that a majority of the people detest the painful funeral scene as much as we do, and are more than glad to see them ended out are afraid to break a "custom". But it is a duty the minister and undertaker owe to themselves and the long suffering public to put a stop to the exhibition, and they will find the public only too glad to uphold them with a hearty amen.

While the nomination of Augustus E. Wilson was unanimous and without delay by the Republican Convention which met in Louisville Wednesday, yet the Courier-Journal adds "by no means follows that all was sweet harmony which the Republican leaders of the State endeavored to proclaim before and during the convention. In the nomination of the minor offices the convention resented the efforts of the machine to force the state upon it. This was, shown in several instances, notably that for Attorney General, when Judge James W. Breathitt took the nomination, winning from John F. Locke and S. W. Hager, who by the "box-holding cabal". Not only this but there was trouble in the committee room and all along down the line with the minor offices. But however peaceful it may have been, it signifies but little in the wind up. This is Democratic year in Kentucky and S. W. Hager and those associated with him on the State ticket will go in by the usual old time Democratic majorities.

One of our exchanges tells of an old German who had a boy of whose was very proud, and decided to find out the trends of his mind. He adopted a novel method by which to test him. He slipped into the boy's room one morning and placed on his table a bottle of whiskey, a Bible and a silver dollar. "Now," said he, "when my boy comes in the takes dot dollar he's going to be a bezzinis map; if he takes dot Bible he's going to be a preacher; if he takes dot whiskey he's no good, and going to be a drunkard." Then he hid behind a door to see which his son would choose. In came the boy whistling. He ran up to the table picked up the Bible and put it under his arm, then snatched up the bottle, took two or three drinks, picked up the dollar and put it in his pocket, and went out smacking his lips. The Dutchman poked his head out from behind the door and exclaimed: "Mein Got, he is going to be a politician."

REMARKABLE WILL.

Justice Walter Lloyd Smith, who presides over the third department of the Appellate Division of the Supreme Court, brought with him to the dinner of the New York University Law School Alumni Association Saturday night what he said was the most remarkable document that ever came into his possession. Others who read the document, the last will and testament of Charles Lounsbury, who died in the Cook County Asylum at Danning, Ill., were disposed to agree with him. Here it is:

I Charles Lounsbury, being of sound mind and disposing memory do hereby make and publish this my last will and testament, in order as justly as may be to distribute my interest in the world among succeeding men.

"That part of my interest which is known in law and recognized in the sheep-bound volumes as my property, being inconsiderable and of no account, I make no disposal of this in my will.

"My right to live being but a life estate, is not at my disposal, but, these things except all else in the world I now proceed to devise and bequeath:

"Item: I give to good fathers and mothers, in trust for their children all good, kind words of praise and encouragement, and all quiet pet names and endearments and I charge said parents to use them justly and generously, as the needs of their children may require.

"Item: I leave to children inclusively, but only for the term of their childhood, all and every, flowers of the fields and the blossoms of woods with the right to pluck them freely according to the customs of children, warning them at the same time against thistles and thorns. And I devise to children the banks of the brooks and the golden sands beneath the waters thereof, and the odors of the willows did therein, and the children all good, kind words of praise and encouragement, and all quiet pet names and endearments, and I charge said parents to use them justly and generously, as the needs of their children may require.

"Item: I leave to children inclusively, but only for the term of their childhood, all and every, flowers of the fields and the blossoms of woods with the right to pluck them freely according to the customs of children, warning them at the same time against thistles and thorns. And I devise to children the banks of the brooks and the golden sands beneath the waters thereof, and the odors of the willows did therein, and the children all good, kind words of praise and encouragement, and all quiet pet names and endearments, and I charge said parents to use them justly and generously, as the needs of their children may require.

"Item: I give to boys jointly all the useful life fields and commons where ball may be played, all pleasant waters where one may swim, all snow-clad hills where one may coast; and all streams and ponds where one may fish, or where, when grim winter comes one may skate; to have and hold for the period of boyhood and manhood, and to have and hold the clover meadows and butterfields, the woods and their appurtenances, the squirrels and birds, the echoes of the strange noises, and all distant places which may be visited, together with the adventures there found. And I give to said boys each his own place at the bridge at night, with all pictures that may be seen in the burning woods; to enjoy life and hindrance and without any encumbrance of care.

"Item: To lovers, I devise their imaginary world, with whatever they may need, as the stars of the sky, the red roses by the wall, the bloom of the hawthorn, the sweet strains of the music and night else, by which they may desire to figure to each other the loveliness and beauty of their love.

"Item: To young men jointly I devise and bequeath all booster-isms, inspiring sports of rivalry, and I give to them the disdain of weakness and undaunted confidence in their own strength, though they are riders; I give them the power to make lasting friendship and of possessing companions, and to them exclusively I give all merry songs and brave choruses, to sing with lusty voices.

"Item: And to those who are top longer children or youths or lovers I leave memory and I bequeath to them the volumes of the poems of Burns Shakespeare and other poets, if there be others, to the end if that they may live over the old days again, freely and fully without thine or diminution.

"Item: To our loved ones with snowy crowns, I bequeath the happiness of old age, the love and attitude of their children until they fall asleep.—New York times.

What to do in Dyspepsia. Dieting has become a great fad in America, and just as, years ago, we, as a nation, over-ate, so now we are under-eating. The one is as bad as the other. Man needs food and plenty of it to maintain life and give strength to compete in this busy world. It is not, however, the fact that you eat too much that hurts you, but that you don't digest what you eat, and that results in dyspepsia you will do better to eat less than to eat more. If your digestive organs were eating the proper amount of matter and assimilating you would have no dyspepsia. To cure the disease you must create the conditions that are necessary.

Don't Neglect It

It is a serious mistake to neglect a weak liver. It is such a short step to chronic liver disease. When you notice irregularity of action, occasional short breath, palpitation, fluttering pain in chest or difficulty in lying on left side, your liver needs help - a strengthening tonic. There is no better remedy than Dr. Miles' Heart Cure. Its strengthening influence is felt almost at once.

"I have used bottles of Dr. Miles' Heart Cure and can truthfully say that I feel better than I have ever felt before. I have tried many other remedies, but they did not do me any good. Dr. Miles' Heart Cure, however, did me good, and while there is occasionally a twinge of pain, it is not enough for me to continue the use of the medicine. If I should get worse I would know what to take. Dr. Miles' Heart Cure is a blood purifier, and I believe, practically cured of my liver trouble." - Mrs. M. E. Smith, Lexington, Texas.

FAMOUS SUMMER. - While you are fussing and chewing the rag about the present summer, being the only cool one that ever happened, the records of the olden time tell us that the year 1816 had no summer at all June that year was the coldest ever known in this latitude. Heavy snows fell all over the New England States and frost and ice were common, almost every green thing that was killed July was also accompanied by frost and ice. The corn was nearly all destroyed August was more cheerless than the month that had proceeded. Ice was formed half an inch thick. Indian corn was so frozen that the greater part of it was cut down and cured for fodder. Almost every green thing was destroyed, both in this country and Europe. Farmers supplied themselves from the corn produced in 1815 for the seed of the spring of 1817. It sold at $4 to $5 per bushel. September furnished two weeks of the mildest weather of the season. Soon after the middle it became very cold and frosty and ice formed a quarter of an inch thick. October produced more than its share of cold weather and ice abundance. November was cold blistery. Enough snow fell to make good sleighing. The average price of flour in the Philadelphia market during that year was $15 per barrel. - Ex.

There is no case of indigestion, no matter how irritable or how obstinate that will not be speedily relieved by the use of Kodol. The great factor is curing the stomach. If disorder is rest, and the only way to get rest is to actually digest the food for the stomach itself. Kodol will do it. It is a scientific preparation of vegetable acids containing the very same juices found in a healthy stomach. It is found only at the Pure Food Drug Law. Sold by Chas. C. Davis, Druggist.

IN THE HOG LOT.

I always give the hogst plenty of coal, salt and ashes. This is what the pigs need to make bone and muscle. Good feeding is giving the hogs just what they will eat up clean and by no means allow feed to be left in the trough. Even if you are giving your hogs and pigs plenty of slop, you should give them access to fresh water, as it is a healthy giver. Keep your pigs growing, and the older the pigs the more the feed. But it should be increased gradually as the pigs grow. Do not fail to keep the salt and ashes by the hogs all the time. This is the time of year to keep after your pig bed. Use plenty of common salt on the ground before you put in fresh bedding. You should also be careful to clean out beds good before you use the salt.
