COURT OF APPEALS AFFIRMS.—The case of Hilton etc. vs. J. D. Hamm administrator sent up from the Rockcastle Circuit Court has been affirmed. The history of the case is that Hamm was appointed administrator of young Helton, who was killed in the Louisville wreck about two years ago, when four of the Brodhead boys lost their lives. Helton's parents who are very aged claimed that Hamm used unfair means to secure his appointment as the administrator and a suit was instituted to have him removed but lost in the lower court and that decision has now been affirmed by the Court of Appeals. It is very probable that a new hearing will be asked.

Papers have been placed in the hands of the merchants and business men of our place for the purpose of soliciting subscriptions to a fund for purchasing a mill here near Spout Springs. Individual citizens have already pledged $15. The lot costs $200. Owing to the many benefits that will accrue to the county as well as to the town it is thought the farmers and other citizens out in the county will be willing to contribute something toward the fund for paying for the lot. On the account of the establishment of this enterprise much more wheat will be raised throughout the county, as a ready market will be found for it. The grain will be ground and sold in the home market thereby keeping a considerable amount of cash in circulation in the locality that would otherwise be sent to foreign mills for flour and mill products. A good illustration is shown by the two mills at Walnut Grove, Pulaski county, where before a mill was established but little wheat was raised. Now the surrounding farms furnish enough wheat to keep the two mills busy the year around.

JOHNSON ON ISSUES

MINNESOTA GOVERNOR OPPOSED TO EXPEDIENTY IN POLITICS.

SPEECH AT LOUISVILLE

Is Given a Wonderful Ovation at the Jefferson Day Dinner in the Kentucky City—A Promise of Victory.

Gov. Johnson of Minnesota, who was a specially invited guest at the Louisville Jefferson Day dinner, and who really made the principal address, was given a splendid ovation by a man of his ability and his high station. He was cheered and applauded when he entered the banquet hall, the big gathering stood on its feet, cheered and waved napkins as he was introduced, and he was dramatically delivered speech and gave him what must have been a most gratifying ovation. He concluded his prayer that the times might bring forth another Jefferson to the faith of the people of the north and prevent the leaders of today from going into the desert of unknown situations. He said that he sometimes viewed with alarm the conditions of the present generation, but he believed in the future of the people would be bright and the principles of equality and justice and the Democratic party would be the best.

The latter part of the governor's speech was as follows: "I realize, my friends, that on the grounds of expediency executives are sometimes prone to temptation to do things which are not in the spirit of the written law of the country. I believe that the written law of the country has a mastery which the expediency of every man who lives under the government, and I should like to see the time come when it is expedient again when we were willing to abide by the constitutional forms of government and not be ruled by those expedients which change with the ideas. I remember in the history of Henry of Navarre, that plumed with the host and the host from one camp to another fighting for a sacred cause. When he became king of France on the ground of expediency, he renounced the old faith and took up a new which had been fighting all the years of that turmoil and trouble which he is regarded as the law before the morning sun and the Hugenots had come to America in 1700.

"Expediency never got a nation anything. It never got a people anything. It never got a party anything. It never got a man anything. When the Democratic party, in its national platform, defines its cause upon the ground of expediency and adopts a platform based on expediency, it is not win and it ought not to win. What we want today is to go before the people with the old platform, a plain declaration and ask for the concurrence of the people in that declaration. The Democratic party has not always been worthy of Thomas Jefferson, but there have been times when it has been worthy of the Democratic party. He was worthy of it because he was a man of the highest character in politics. He was there yesterday and to-morrow, and if the Democratic party has not always been worthy of the Democratic party, it will stand by Thomas Jefferson and the things he stood for and we will stand by the wrong wherever it might exist.

"I know it may be a long road to the victory which we all want to see come, if we have the patience to endure it; if we have the faith that ought to be in us, and if we have the integrity which ought to be characteristic of a Democrat we will get there. I remember a few years ago that I stood with my wife overlooking Pikes Peak. I heard much of the great mountain and I wanted to see it, first from the Mount Ranier side and then from the Mount Pelee side. We went over there one of those misty days when the bay was overcast. We hadn't anything to eat and we were hungry and we went and stood and looked at Mount Ranier. A half hour, an hour, perhaps, had passed and we were about ready to give up and go back to town, when suddenly the clouds began to separate. My wife said, 'There is the mountain.' I said, 'No, it is not in that direction; it is over here.' She said, 'You are mistaken; it is there.' I said, 'It is not; it is there, and I said to the driver, 'Where is Mount Ranier?' He said, 'Over there.' I felt indignant. "Suddenly the clouds began to break away, the sun disappeared and the sun broke through and sent its light upon the light on the snow-capped peaks of the Olympian mountains. Five miles away. We saw the glory of heaven reflected upon the mountains of Olympus, and they were brighter and brighter than these over yonder. If I shall stand long enough and look for the first rays of the sun through the clouds of gloom and do our share to lift the clouds we will see the mountain of Olympus and we will be able to get up there on the summit and look down into the caves of gloom where we once had lived and we will see bright and glorious the heavenly triumph of the democracy of a united nation.

When you think of Indigestion think of Kodol. For it is without doubt the only preparation that completely digests all classes of food. And that is what you need when you have indigestion or stomach trouble—something that will not prompt that thoroughly. Kodol is a perfect remedy for the trouble and do the very work used for the stomach by digesting the food that you eat and send it to the stomach to be used.

CHAMBERLAIN'S COLIC, CHOLERA AND DIARRHOEA REMEDY. This is probably no medicine more widely known than Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy. During the last century in which it has been in use people have learned that it is the only remedy that never fails in any case of cholera, cholera infantum, reduced with water, or for sale by Chas. C. Davis.

MAN THE NATION REQUIRES.

John A. Johnson the Ideal Occupant of the President's Office.

ROCKCASTLE CIRCUIT.

As president, Gov. Johnson would have the qualities that might describe as logically and historically useful at this time, representing both in thought and by concrete action, all of the progressive reforms to which the American people are now thoroughly committed. His personal life and his methods are such that, coming into office after the strenuous and even trying political and social experiences of recent years, he would be prepared to hold all that has been gained and to steadily and smoothly prepare the way for such additional advancement legislation as the times require. The word, Gov. Johnson is precisely the kind of a leader the nation requires at this time, ready to lead and to inspire his people to the highest and best citizenry that has made Gov. Johnson so popular in the state. It is absolutely no question that he could carry the state as the Democratic party, which will make the national popular with the voters of the nation, once they have an opportunity to become acquainted with him.

Every political campaign has its incentives and temptations. In this contest that Gov. Johnson possesses a strength peculiar to him alone and which leads to the popular. The Democratic party upwards of a million votes in the middle west that have hitherto been won by the Republican party. The support of the Democratic party beyond a reasonable doubt victory for Democracy and Gov. Johnson in the following states: Minnesota, North and South Dakota, Illinois, Wisconsin, Iowa, Kansas, Nebraska, Colorado, Montana, Washington and Michigan.

PLATFORM BROAD AND STRONG.

Declaration of Gov. Johnson All Democratic Will Indorse.

"The Man from Minnesota" believes in the "immediate reversal of the tariff to the benefit of the people controlled in America by illegal and immoral combinations may be dropped of their right over to the community." He believes that tariff revision is one of the most important works that lie before the nation that are plaguing the country.

He believes that the maintenance of the least interference by federal power with the domestic affairs of the states consistent with efficient national administration.

"He believes in the constitution. For a president," he says, "to go outside the constitution, even to accomplish a noble purpose, is to enter the realm of expediency. It is the duty of the people to oppose to the government ownership of railways, by state or nation, but, as his case shows, is a strong supporter in just and vigorous resolution."

He is opposed to excessive expansion. He is opposed to any limitation of the constitution of Panama to the Arctic circle. He is in support to great military establishments, but believes that the size of the American navy must necessarily be determined by some standard by the naval activities of other countries.

He is opposed to ship subsidies. You can't kill combinations," he says, "but when they come in the way of the individual, they must be opposed as evil."

He believes in an income tax. He believes in the just and equal enforcement of law, and that the observance of the law is an incubator upon the rich and powerful as upon the poor and weak.

Relief from Rheumatic Pains. Among the troubles that beset mankind rheumatism is one of the most aggravating. "I suffered with it for over two years," says Mr. Rollan Curry, a patrolman, of Key West, Fla. "Sometimes it settled in my knees and lamed me so I could hardly walk. At other times it would be in my feet and hands so I was incapacitated for duty. One night when I was in severe pain and lame from it my wife went to the drug store and came with a bottle of Chamberlain's Pain Balm. I was rubbed with it and found the pain had nearly gone during the night. I kept on using it for a little more than two weeks and found that it cured the rheumatism away. I have not had any trouble from it since for over three months." For sale by Chas. C. Davis.
