Frankfort Ky., Nov. 7 1908 Dear Superintendent: I am planning a week's campaign for education throughout Kentucky.

I mean a whirlwind campaign that will reach every county. I have secured speakers, both at home and abroad, to spread a contagious gospel. The campaign will begin Sunday, November 29th, and will close Sunday, December 6. All speakers will be talking education for these eight days.

It is a great opportunity to help schools and the cause of education in our State. Twenty-five or thirty men and women have made a sacrifice for the cause we love, in order to go into the field for these eight days. They do it without money and without price. I will pay all necessary expenses, and for this purpose some friends of education have placed a fund at my disposal.

I am sending to your section Dr. A. J. Kineman, as speaker. I suggest, in your county, that you have a mass meeting of men, women and children at Brodhead Monday Nov. 30 at 10 a. m. Mt. Vernon, Monday, Nov. 30 at 11 p. m. Livingston, Monday, Nov. 30 at 7 p. m. J. C. CRAMER, S. P. L.

Let the Rockcastle teachers, ministers, patrons and all interested in education be on hand on the above dates. I will arrange later an elaborate program for the occasion, places of meeting etc. We wish the churches in each town to all to unite and furnish plenty of good music. The best mechanics we have ever seen is in your particular. A useful and good citizen to have in a community and we heartily welcome him as one of our own.

G. M. HAYLAND, County Superintendent.

Rev. Conroy filled his regular appointment at the Chapel Sunday last. Relatives, friends and neighbors of Mrs. Ellen Brown of this place gave her a surprise party at the home of her birthday. Old and young were there, all bringing a basket filled to the brim with everything good to eat. The party was passed pleasantly, the older folks discussing reminiscences and the younger ones engaging in modern games.

Brook Hammons, of this place who has been confined to his bed for two years, from cancer of the eye, and from which he suffered blind agonies passed away last Friday and his name was laid to rest in the Raspberry graveyard Sunday. The farmers of this vicinity are now busy gathering corn. Wm. F. Deaton is filling his coal house while the weather will permit. Stock trading at this place has been quite successful since the election. It is especially noted, evidently it will be cheap for the next few years, and from all signs and indications it will be badly needed. "For fifteen years I have watched the workings of Beckley's Kidney Pills. They are the best medicine I have ever used. They are the only pills that will cure the most stubborn cases of kidney trouble. Chas. C. Davis.

CHILLEGES AND CITIZENS SHIP.

I would be strange if in the special progress of civilization and the vast and varied improvements in the way of doing things in this advancing age educational institutions had remained a thing of the past. They that have no evidence by the constant discussion of things relating to the education of a citizen almost destroyed in its extent of things as they are. While the institution known as the American college has maintained its high standing in public esteem as a place for general training of the powers and the teaching of the humanities, there have not been lacking those who insist it is inefficient and productive of no good at all commensurate with the expense and outlay involved in maintaining it. It is insisted that as in the four college years are so much time wasted, and that the young student is passing directly from high school into active life, or into professional training. Harry A. Garfield, in his recent address when inaugurated as President of Williams College, took up the question, his subject being "What is the chief end of the American college?" and incidentally whether the high standing of its continuance. The high standing of the college in the presence of the most notable gathering of college instructors ever brought together in this country, and Mr. Garfield's success as a teacher at Princeton, give special interest to the address.

He begins by asserting that the existence of the college can be justified, not as it has been generally believed, by its relation to preparatory and professional schools, but by its end or object and the degree to which it fulfills them. He believes that the charge of vagueness brought against the American college is in part at least, well founded, and contrasts the vagueness of aim and consequent expense often thrown into it with the hard work and distinct purpose of professional schools. "What is needed he says, is an object, 'but' will appeal to every student, whatever his life work is to be. "This object must meet the requirements of the times without sacrificing the rich heritage of the past. It must enlighten and inspire men to new and higher conceptions of life with, and rendering them less, but rather more, efficient members of society. Such an object is expressed by the word 'citizenship.' America's greatest need is that the men and women of the United States comprehend all that citizenship imports and live up to its obligations. Hence I venture to assert that the chief end of the American college is to train citizens to citizenship."

He then goes on to state what citizenship is, and what its requirements are, and continues: "A nation will be great and strong whose citizens, bound together by common traditions, inspired by high ideals, march forward with vigor and steady trend toward a goal which ever is advancing. To attain to that standard requires long and arduous effort, for it means that the vast majority must be brought up to the highest level of well-trained, high-minded, efficient manhood. More specifically, it means that citizens must be trained to exercise control of their mental faculties as well as of their bodily powers—trained to distinguish between scientifically determined facts and loosely reasoned opinions; to discriminate between things and conditions of varying value; to be coolly and evenly minded in the face of the advancement and welfare of the whole body; it means that the vast majority must be keen to know, constant in service, quick to sacrifice their own for the common good, possessed of a sympathetic understanding of all sorts and conditions of men, and not merely of those of the particular class with which they work and play; it means that the majority must come at last to realize that a nation's highest welfare is something and always inextricably part of the highest welfare of mankind everywhere."

AGRICULTURE IN SCHOOLS.

The teaching of Agriculture in the country schools is not only of decided advantage to the rising generation but will be of benefit to farmers in the present day. The book-teaching at the school to be effective, must be supplemented by practical demonstration at home, or, better still, by practical application in school farms. The country is overburdened with theoretical farmers and agricultural spell binders, some of whom talk to the farmer as though he were the echo of their voices. They are doing more harm than good. Attach a small field to each country school and have the boys put in practice that which they learn from the books and an interest will be evoked which will result in better farmers for the future and an improvement on farming of the present.—Bamberge.

IMPORTANT TO TOBACCO GROWERS.

At a meeting of the Executive Committee, November 11th, it was decided to price the different grades of the 1907 tobacco not later than November 17th, and that this tobacco be put on sale November 24th.

After expressed to constitute the balance of the 1907 crop and a large part of the 1907 crop. All purchasers must take one bag of the old crop with every four bags of the new crop.

VALUABLE TIP.

After expressed of when you feel a cold coming on take a few doses of Polley's Honey and Tar and it will expel the cold from your system. It cures most stubborn coughs and colds, and prevents pneumonia.

HOW IS YOUR DIGESTION?

Mrs. Mary Dowling of No. 228 3rd Ave., San Francisco, recommends a remedy for stomach trouble. She says: "Gratitude for the wonderful effect of Electric Bitters in the case of acute indigestion, prompts this testimonial. I am fully convinced that for stomach and liver troubles Electric Bitters is the best remedy on the market to-day." This great tonic and alternative medicine invigorates the system, purifies the blood, and is especially helpful in all forms of female weakness. See Chas. C. Davis' drug store.

REV. W. WILLIAMSON TESTIFIES

THE HAUNTED WILLOW.

In Rockcastle county, in this State, on the loftiest portion of the dreary road leading from Broadhead to Negro creek, in the field and wide-spreading willow tree. This tree and its immediate vicinity are said to be haunted, and many are the weird tales told by some of the most reputable people of the county of the supernatural occurrences that transpire there, and so uncanny is its reputation that few will pass the lonely spot after dark if it can be avoided.

Two of the atrocious murders that stain the annals of Rockcastle county were committed under this tree. The first of these was the assassination of Jim Ross by Steve Adams. This affair created a good deal of interest at the time and was frequently discussed on account of the alleged supernatural persecution of the murderer. The killing occurred shortly after the civil war, the assassin being concealed in the thicket surrounding the tree.

MURDERED AT HIS PLOW. The two men were plowing on Adams' farm, Adams' hope, which was often called a "number one" frequently broke into Ross' fields and destroying his growing crops. When Ross spoke to Adams about the latter was angered and a violent quarrel ensued. After this Ross became a merciless warfare on the man who had murdered him. Adams' hope, which was often called a "number one" frequently broke into Ross' fields and destroying his growing crops. When Ross spoke to Adams about the latter was angered and a violent quarrel ensued.

At the trial for the murder Adams was acquitted. Shortly after this Adams began exhibiting strange antics of his peculiar by the spirit of the man he had murdered. On one occasion he said, as he was riding along the roots of the tree above referred to, he was struck a heavy blow on the back of the head, which nearly fell him from his horse. When he looked around to ascertain who or what had inflicted the blow he was horrified to see Jim Ross disappear in the bushes near the foot of the old tree.

At another time, as he was returning to his home from Broadhead after dark, he was startled to feel a heavy body mount behind him. This was followed by a pair of strong arms encircling him much to clothe for comfort.

KILLING OF ALLEN HAGGARD.

Several years after the Ross murder, Bill Powell assassinated Allen Haggard near the haunted tree. The murdered man's body falling in the thicket, spot where Jim Ross had been killed by Adams.

cloudy, a light as if from a large fire can be distinctly seen burning clearly and brightly in the branches of the so-called "haunted" tree. So bright is the light that objects within a distance of twenty feet of the tree can be clearly discerned. The triangular part of this manifestation, however, is that when parties which have gone to investigate the strange appearance were within a short distance of the locality the light would be invisible to them and all would be dark as pitch white to others, who would be stationed farther away, the light would be distinctly visible as ever. Many other gross-ouletes are told of the old tree, and a brave man is he who will willingly be caught in its vicinity after dark.

FAMOUS TOM KENNEDY FARM.

Over in Garrard county, a short distance from Lancaster, is situated the "Tom Kennedy farm," celebrated as having figured in Mrs. Stowe's "Uncle Tom's Cabin." This old farm was the scene of a bloody tragedy shortly before the outbreak of the civil war. As the story goes, a deadly feud existed between General Wm. Knott and James Gillespie, a wealthy planter of the neighborhood, as the outcome of an insulting epithet passed by Kennedy during a quarrel between the two men. Kennedy was a man of robust stature, quick to quarrel and quick to anger. He was much the same kind, and every body knew that when a meeting of the men occurred the death of one or the other was assured. Finally the meeting took place right in front of General Knott's quarters. Gillespie, growing impatient for satisfaction, for the deadly snarl offered him, had sought his home; a few hot words were passed, shots were exchanged, and Gillespie fell mortally wounded. Kennedy had the dying man conveyed to a nearby house, where he lay for some time, but he died.

LANGFORD

Letter Clerk who died Saturday week from influenza received by a fall at Brecken, Colo., was born April 18 1832. His remains were brought home Saturday November 14th, and was laid to rest on Sunday beside his little brother - to await the great resurrection morn-

He leaves a father, mother, sister four brothers and a host of friends to mourn the loss of a devoted son, brother and friend.

Most unfortunate and sad indeed seems his death coming as it did so suddenly. Stricken down in the bloom of youth, when his prospects were so bright. By his death the county has lost a splendid young man. Never was there a boy in the county who had more friends than Lester. He was honorable, upright and noble. When about sixteen years old he became a member of the church of Christ at Buckeye of which he was a member when he died. He was always a faithful attendant at church and Sunday-school when here. He has been away about five years, but would often write back expressing a desire to be here, to attend services.

To the heart-broken family I will say you have the sympathy of the entire neighborhood. Through Lester can never come back to you, you can go to him.

FARM NEWS.

Dusty feeding places are very injurious and lack of sunshine for early pigs is very detrimental.

It is not so much what we get over and above the cost of production that tells the story.

The world has never yet had enough good butter, prime mutton and strictly fresh eggs. There is always a market for choice products.

Most of us know what our cows are producing, but do we know what it costs to make them produce? This is the thing that counts. Remember that the winter success depends in a great measure on the management of the fowls in the fall and do not grudge the time and work you are giving them now. It will pay in the end.

Sift a quart of fine slacked lime into a barrel with your cover, stir up a big dust and drop the gray, pebbles into it. Pull them out after you have counted fifteen and they will squeeze the worms into the hereafter.

To keep apples through the winter store them in a well-ventilated room where they will be as near the freezing point as possible and not the frozen. Do not follow the barrels until the apples are wanted.

The famous Lookout Inn and several cottages located on Lookout Mountain near Chattanooga were destroyed by fire Tuesday afternoon. Forest fires are still raging along the mountainside and threatening the destruction of timber and houses.

WILSON TO SHOW HIS HAND.

Governor Wilson will likely have to show his hand in the Taylor for Finley indictments in a short time, for Arthur Crook and Commonwealth's Attorney Robert Franklin the other day said, and it is understood will ask for a requisition on the new Democratic Governor of Indiana, Thomas Marshall for them.

Governor Wilson made a statement a month ago that he desired the indictments taken up and tried got off the dock by the first of the year. If the requisition is honored, it is certain that the Governor will demand that the prisoners be given bail or he will probably not ask for it.

Commonwealth's Attorney Franklin will not consent to bail, says he must be treated like other prisoners charged with murder.

Mrs. Agnes Leitner, wife of a glass-blower, cut the throats of her two children, aged 6 and 3 years, respectively, then her own, at Frankfort Sunday afternoon. It is thought the deed was done in a fit of despondency brought about by financial trouble.

A crisis in the history of China, and especially in that of the Manchurian dynasty, has come to a head in the death of both the Emperor, and the Dowager Empress. An hour's shift of sentiment might precipitate a revolution and the upsetting of the present Manchurian dynasty, but the population seems to view the situation with characteristic unconcern. There are semi-official assurances from Tokio, justifying belief that there will be no effort on Japan's part to make the emergency an occasion for aggression.

Fairly beaming with good nature and contentment, John D. Rockefeller took the stand in New York to testify in the suit which the Government has instituted to compel the dissolution of the Standard Oil Company. Mr. Rockefeller began with his first ventures into the oil business, and detailed the various changes that took place in his business connections. He was still on the stand answering the questions propounded by his counsel in direct examination when court adjourned for the day.

FAMOUS OLD LOOKOUT INN

REDUCED TO ASHES AND FOUR COTTAGES ALSO BURNED.

Merle E. Miller, Made To Give Timber and Cottages to Home from C. H. Hargrave.

Chattanooga, Tenn., Nov. 18.—The famous old Lookout Inn, on the crest of Lookout Mountain, was burned to the ground late Friday together with all its contents. The managers, Messrs. Jung and his associates, stated that a fire had been consumed for a considerable time. The inn, which was valued at $15,000, and but for the fire the most valuable view on the coast Tuesday. There was but $25,000 insurance on the hotel and its furnishings.

The Meridian Brewing Co., of Cincinnati, was the chief stockholder of the company which owned the inn. Aside from the hotel four cottages and their contents were destroyed, including a fine estimated at $10,000. The incline power house was badly damaged and the electric on the face of the bluff was ablaze for a considerable time. Monday night there was a slight rain, blowing from the top to the base of Lookout mountain along the line of the incline, and a force of men were fighting it to prevent its spreading to the timber and the many cottages which dot the slope of the mountain.

The fire started in the south wing of the hotel building, but the exact cause has not been ascertained. The general theory is that a defective fuse is responsible for the fire. The cause was an iron tin, and a high wind which was sweeping across the mountain from the west, quickly lit the flames the entire length of the building, and the structure was consumed in a very short time.

From the city the fire was a spectacular one during its early progress, but the building was completely enveloped in a dense cloud of smoke and all that could be seen from high points in the city was what appeared as a terrible storm cloud rolling from the southwest. With the coming of darkness, however, the smoke cleared and the crest of old Lookout was marked by a rim of red fire, with the downward mark resembling a huge bonfire.

The hotel was completed in 1889 and has since been well known as a resort. The hotel was following its opening it has been visited by persons of note from all over the world. Prince Henry of Prussia pronounced it the most ideal he had ever visited, and the scenery most gorgeous than that of the Swiss Alps.

John D. Sharp, former Sheriff of Davidson county, was arrested at Nashville Thursday charged with aiding and abetting in the murder of former Senator B. W. Carmack.
