The City Council of Louisville, Ky., adopted a dramatic ordinance prohibiting the use of tobacco in any form by minors in public places and forbidding anyone to furnish tobacco or cigarettes to minors. The penalty for minors using tobacco is $10 fine and that of persons furnishing tobacco to minors is from $25 to $100 fine. The ordinance also makes it a misdemeanor for any person connected with the public school, either student or teacher, to use tobacco in any form.

It would be a great blessing if Mt. Vernon had such an ordinance. It is absolutely disgusting to see what we often have to witness, small boys, with a cigarette stuck in one corner of the mouth, inhaling the smoke carrying, to the lungs, enough impurities from the conglomeration of trash in one sack of a "Dukes Mixture", to kill a mule. These same boys beside stinking worse than a skunk, are moping about the streets, no life about them no vitality or get-up, and when suggested that cigarettes are injurious to their health, will resent the statement and simply insist; "they do not hurt me." Of all habits that young men acquire, none can be made worse than the cigarette habit, unless it should be a girl's habit dipping snuff.

KENTUCKY'S VICTORY.

The Court of Appeals, in upholding the constitutionality of the new school law, holds that the right to determine what amount of money is needed by the schools, what is more to the purpose, it provides the means whereby the Fiscal Court can be made to supply the money. The money so raised is to be applied to the needs of the schools themselves, the State making liberal provision for the pay of the teachers.

The value of this decision cannot be overestimated. The Sullivan law, which embodies the best features of the common school laws of those States which have made the greatest advancement in common school instruction, provides in theory for an educational system, the district school leading to the county high school, and the high school in turn leading up to the State university and the State normal schools, which give to every white child of school age in Kentucky the opportunity to obtain within the State a rounded education that will fit him for the trained and intelligent discharge of all the duties of citizenship and give him a marked advantage over his uneducated competitor in everyday life. The decision of the Court of Appeals makes of this theoretical system an established, self-maintaining and self-perpetuating fact. Kentucky actually has every opportunity that the leaders in the educational movement have asked for it.

What the decision means to every county, to the State, to the South and to the country cannot be forecast or even reduced to figures. It does mean the setting at work of ever broadening forces for good whose influence will make itself felt for all time. Kentucky has won a great victory. The duty remaining is to make the best use of the fruits of it.—Courier Journal.

CARRER-HICKS.—On yesterday afternoon at 4:30 o'clock a quiet but pretty wedding was solemnized at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Larkin Hicks, when their daughter Miss Betty B. Hicks became the bride of Dr. W. F. Carter. The ceremony was impressively performed by Rev. J. W. Carter, of Lexington, brother of the groom in the presence of relatives and many friends. The bride was attired in a most gorgeous old rose traveling suit. The veil was fastened with a wreath of Lillies of the Valley, while in her hands were held a bouquet of white roses. The bride is accomplished and attractive, having a host of friends here and elsewhere, while the groom is no less liked as a gentleman, being located here the past two years. His skill as a physician has for him a reputation that the happy two, who compared by Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Hutcheson led immediately after the ceremony to spend their honeymoon, their first stop being in Louisville, where they will remain until 3:30 this afternoon. A handsome suite of rooms was reserved at the Seelbach Hotel, where an elegant nine o'clock dinner was served immediately after arrival. FELL SEVEN STORIES

CROWDED ELEVATOR PLUNGED DOWN SHAFT WITH LIGHTNING SPEED.

ONE KILLED AND SEVEN INJURED

Accident Occurred in Murdoch Building Just as Last Workmen Were Coming Down—Cause of Accident a Mystery.

Chincinnati, June 22—When eight employes of the James Murdoch, Jr., Electro-Engraving and Stamping Co., crowded into the shafty little passenger elevator cab at the seventh floor of the Murdoch power building, 116 1/2 Opera place, a few minutes before 6 o'clock Monday evening, the building had been almost emptied of its night workmen and it was to be the last one load for the night.

A second after the old elevator man, William Orr, had started the cab on its descent, as he had done thousands of times during his many years of service, something went wrong about the elevator, but what it got positively known and the cab, with its cargo of passenger crowded in so they could barely move their hands, plunged down the shaft with lightning speed.

The fearful drop of seven stories ended at the ground floor, and down upon the splintered cab and its passengers alighted the wreckage dropped in a instant. Later the balance weights and the big iron cable sheave or pulley wheel, weighing 200 pounds, with a fine network of steel cables.

The life of one man, George Delin, foreman of the packing department at one of the oldest employes of the company, was crushed out almost instantly, while the seven other occupants of the cab were injured either by the terrific fall of the cab or the weights that plunged down upon the mangled straggle and left stunned men. The fall force of the big cable wheel struck upon Delin's head and body, and at the sacrifice of his life others were saved from being instantly killed.

The injured: William J. Orr, compound fracture of left thigh, contusions; Ed. J. Langling, broken hip; Ed. Lorena, broken instep; John Flanagan, bruised; Jacob Schoenfeld, bruised; Henry Yeager, broken instep, and William Goret, bruised.

The only one of the eight men in the elevator who escaped, "Bill" comparatively no injury to speak of, was the superintendent of the Murdoch plant, William Vogel, who was bounced clear of the floor when it struck the bottom floor.

While handling an acetylene gas machine in Masonic hall last Monday night, the machine exploded and S. C. Franklin was rather severely burned about the face and hand. George Owens was also slightly burned on one side of the face. We are glad to be able to say however that neither one is at all serious. The explosion, was due to a reckless handling of the machine, allowing a small amount of the gas to escape, which readily caught on fire. Messrs. Franklin and Owens, who have been handling the machine for years and were considered some what experts, have agreed that henceforth there will be no more experiments on their part of handling an acetylene gas machine.

M. G. FISH, PRES. Mrs. A. H. McFERRON, Sec. The etiquette of the telephone requires that the one who calls up a friend must be the one to put an end to the conversation. It is not considered good form to say "hello" over the telephone, but one must address the person at the other end of the line as he would if they met, with a "good morning" or other appropriate phrase. It is considered very bad form for a young woman to call a young man up at his place of business, and, indeed, it is probably better for the young man to do the calling himself. It is "very impertinent" to use the word "hello" referring to the instrument of talk.

SCHOOL BOOKS.

The American School Book Company last Monday secured the contract for furnishing for another five years to the children of the common schools of Kentucky their text books.

The contract was awarded by the State Book Commissioners, composed of Governor Wilson, State Auditor James, Treasurer Farver, State Superintendent Crabbe, Alternate General Bratcher, Secretary of State Bruner and Appellate Court Clerk Adams.

The text books adopted are largely the present State list and contain books which the commission in submitting to the county boards classed as "antiquated."

The books adopted are: Practical Primer, McGuffey's series of Readers, Modern Speller, Ray's Arithmetic, Harvey's Grammars, Steps in English, Maxwell's Compositions, Natural Geographies, Willis' Physiology, Peterman's Civil Government, Electric Elementary, Kincaid's History of Kentucky and Complete History.

The Copy Books are to be furnished by the Transylvania Company of Lexington. These and the language and physiology text books are the only changes from the present State list. The biddings for the five years contract was almost wholly without competition, and the American Book Company had easy sailing.

It was the only publisher to offer a complete list of text books, most of the great publishing companies of the country declining to bid at all under the present law, revision of which was attempted by the last General Assembly, and would have been accomplished but for the veto of Governor Wilson.
