The Board in control of the Brown Memorial school have decided to make the school at this place a permanent institution, and in so doing, they will necessarily make many improvements in the way of buildings. The work of adding another wing to the present dormitory will be started at once, which will mean an expenditure of something over $3,000 this year, and the plans are to erect a handsome brick school building next year. In order to get all of this it is up to the people of Mt. Vernon to furnish a little piece of land. As a meeting held in C. C. Williams' office Monday evening a good start was made toward fixing the amount and which amount we want to say will be raised, but there is yet a deficiency, and feeling that every citizen is the town who cares for improvements and for education will cheerfully contribute to this fund according to his means we make, as an announcement and ask all who want to give anything to signify their desire.

THE DEATH OF GOV. KNOTT.

The death of J. Proctor Knott, former Governor of Kentucky was announced Monday morning. Governor Knott died in his eighty first year, but long since he retired from all public activities, reflecting as a philosopher on the great activities of a past age, in which he had borne a most conspicuous part.

Today the country will turn for a moment to read again the Duluth speech of Gov. Knott, falling to recall the great oratorical talents of a man delivered in the House. Gov. Knott's denouncing the disputed election of 1876. On these speeches Gov. Knott preferred to rest his claims to re-election. The Duluth speech is a great and effective satire, and it closed an era of Congressional subsidy which had long been a national scandal. To few men is given such an opportunity to render signal service to his people by one speech. It came unannounced to Gov. Knott as it was fully ready for all its demands. In immediate aid in practical and in fact, reaching the few species in Congress equal the address of 1871, for its petra's station of the government to the railroad builders and land grabbers of the West.

Yet Gov. Knott believed that this speech obscured all his other work in Congress; that it gave to his fellow citizens a misconception of his character, and that when he spoke seriously on serious questions the echoes of that speech made it impossible for him to get a candid hearing. And yet that satirical argument against subsidy and privilege and graft was based on constitutional principles and was the expression of Gov. Knott's lifetime convictions.

In personal qualities Gov. Knott was a most interesting man. He was all of his life more attracted to quiet pursuits than by the noise of political battle. He sought his study as a relief, and renewed his strength in the companionship of books.

In Kentucky Gov. Knott will be remembered for his services to the State and nation, for his upright character and for his great charms in social intercourse.—Times

PARAGRAPHS FROM THE GOVERNOR DULUTH SPEECH

Gov. Knott won wide fame by his speech delivered in Congress on January 27, 1871, overflowing with wit and humor. It was an attack upon a measure for valuable concessions to a railroad project and came to be known as his "Duluth speech," that then modest utterance being made to appear—"The Zenith City of the United States." The bill under discussion was known as the St. Louis & Bayfield railroad bill.

"Who that is not as incredulous as St. Thomas himself will doubt or a moment that the Goshen of America is to be found in the sandy alleys and pine clad hills of the Ohio? Who will have the audacity to rise in his seat and assert that, excepting the prairies, the entire region would produce vegetation enough to tten a grass hopper?"

"Duluth! The word fell upon my ear with a peculiar and indescribable charm, like the gentle murmur of a low fountain stealing forth in the midst of roses or the sweet accents of an angel's whisper as the hart panteth for the watering innocence."

"Duluth! Was the name for which my soul had panted for years, as the hart panteth for the waterbrooks?"

"But where was 'Duluth'? Never in all my limited reading had my vision been gladdened by seeing the celestial word in print. And I felt a profound humiliation in my ignorance. What an delicious syllable had never before ravished my delighted ear."

"Had such been my melancholy fate, I had no doubt that with the last feeble pulsation of my breaking heart, with the last faint exhalation of my fleeing breath, I should have whispered, 'Where is 'Duluth?'"

"But I see it is represented on this map that, Duluth is situated half way between the latitudes of Paris and Venice, so that gentle men who have 'inhal'd the exhilarating air of the one, or basked in the golden sunlight of the other, may see at glance that 'Duluth' must be a place of untold delight, a terrestrial paradise, inned by the balmy ephrys of an eternal spring, clothed in the gorgeous robes of ever-blooming flowers and vocal with the silvery melody of nature's choicest songsters."

"Nevertheless, sir, it grieves my very soul to be compelled to say that I cannot vote for the grant of lands provided for in this bill.

"Ah, sir you can have no conception of the poignancy of my anguish that I am deprived of this blessed privilege. There are two inseparable obstacles in the way. In the first place my constituents for whom I am acting here have no more interest in this road than they have in the great question of culinary taste, now, perhaps, agitating the public mind of Dominica as to whether the illustrious communication, who recently left this capital for that free and enlightened republic, would be better fricassee'd or roasted; and in the second place, these lands—which I am asked to give away, alas, are not mine to bestow! My relation to them is simply that of trustee to an express trust. And shall I ever betray that trust? Never, sir! Rather perish 'Duluth! Perish the paragon of cities! Rather let the freezing cyclones of the bleak west bury it forever beneath the eddying sands of the raging St. Croix!"

Gov. Woodrow Wilson, of New Jersey recently addressed some prominent Democrats of California and during which address he made the following statement:

"It is interesting to me as a Democrat to learn that, while we have had a great deal of talk about insurgent republicans we have heard very little about insurgent democrats. Insurgents are those who throw off authority. It must be that the insurgent republicans are throwing off their authority of the major portion of their party, while democrats are free to be progressive without being insurgents. If it would seem that to be progressive is not to deny the general authority of their party colleagues, I should like to believe that this meant that the Democratic party as a whole is naturally progressive, and that it is easier through the instrumentality of that party, to accomplish the new purposes of the day than through the instrumentality of the Republican party."

Druth of many weeks in the county was broken by rainfall Saturday night. The rain came too late, however to help the crops. Much damage and high cost of living are entailed by the dry spell.

In a statement Mr. Berlin Charles McElwell, president of the Armour Fertilizer Works of Chicago, says the potato controversy is far 100 settled.

Ambassador Whitelaw Reid is said to be greatly improved and expects to be able to take part in the coronation festivities of King George.

DEAFNESS CURED BY

local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed, you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, Deafness is the result and unless the inflammation can be taken out and the tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by Catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of Deafness (caused by catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars, free.

WE HAVE ACCOUNTS

As small as a dollar, as large as thousands of dollars. And no matter how large an account may be, we realize that it is made up of a certain number of single dollars. This fact ought to encourage those who earn moderate incomes. It ought to induce them to do something toward accumulating a worth while provision for the future. We maintain that a savings account at this bank (an account in which the owner is REALLY INTERESTED) is an investment hard to beat.

FACTS FOR KENTUCKY'S PEOPLE.

The pamphlet prepared and published by Mr. William A. Robinson on the subject of taxation, comes at an opportune time. The great majority of the members of the next General Assembly are still to be nominated. There remains a period of something more than four months in which every candidate can and should be made to declare just what he proposes to do, if elected to remedy certain conditions which Kentucky, and the rest of the world for that matter, know to exist.

In but one State and one Territory, is the native white born population more illiterate than that of Kentucky. Eighty-nine of Kentucky's 119 counties are pepher. In sixty-five of them, there is no good road and no tax imposed for road maintenance.

The last census, as stated in Mr. Robinson's pamphlet shows that between 1900, and 1910, Vermont, New Hampshire and Iowa were the only States in which there was a smaller increase of population than in Kentucky. It shows further that the number of Kentuckians who have gone outside the State to search of opportunities denied them at home is almost a third of the total left at home.

The number of men employed in Kentucky's manufactures is 66,000; in Indiana it is 151,000; in Georgia, 94,000; in Maryland, 92,

000; in Virginia, 80,000. Kentucky produces more tobacco than any other State. It stands third in the manufacture of tobacco. Coal underlies one third the total area of Kentucky. The State of Illinois mines five times as much coal as Kentucky.

The number of savings bank depositors in Virginia, Georgia and Tennessee is twice as large, in Louisiana it is three times as large as in Kentucky.

With the exception of Washington, Kentucky's average of 3.97 miles of railroad to the 100 square miles of territory, is the lowest of all the States.

Kentucky's banking capital is less than half of that of the city of Pittsburgh.

Under Kentucky's present system, less than five per cent. of personally is returned for taxation. In Louisville the tax on savings bank deposits yielding $20 on a $1,000 is 26.60; in Paducah it is $3. In Kentucky farm lands pay forty per cent. of the revenue and both lands and farm mortgages are taxed.

These are known conditions. The next General Assembly can either remedy them or continue them. It is to be a repetition of past General Assemblies, more concerned in playing politics and doing the will of the third house than in the good of the State, it will continue them. If it is not to be a repetition of past General Assemblies the people must take upon themselves the burden here-tofore obligingly carried for them by the lobby and the politicians and do their own selecting and electing.

Mr. Robinson is to be thanked for adding so materially to the number of reasons why the people of Kentucky in the coming campaign, should think and act with the single purpose of serving the State—Louisville Times.

MAKE THEM SAFE AND SANE.

A considerable number of Kentucky cities and towns are making preliminary arrangements for Fourth of July celebrations. It is to be hoped they are also exercising the needful precaution toward making them safe and sane.

The Fourth of July is a good day to celebrate. There cannot be too many celebrations of the kind provided the dangerous fireworks are "cut out" and Young America can be induced to confine his pastimes to such diversions as cycling and bicycling. There is no reason why the occasion should have come to be an annual slaughter with the inevitable list of read and injured in the papers of the day.

For some years there has been an effort to reduce the Fourth of July casualty list. To some extent it has been successful. In a large number of localities the people have been brought to see the useless and economic waste of allowing this Independence Day gatherings to become a chief noted for the loss of life and the destruction of property. The Fourth of July death roll has been large and the fire bill has been enormous. This fact is of no credit to a civilized country. If we were a nation of economists there might be some excuse for it. As we happen to be leading the vanguard of civilization there is none.

Kentuckians as patriotic as are the people of other sections of the country, but patriotism can be manifested in other ways than by methods which are a menace to human life, human possessions and human happiness. Every resident of Kentucky who wants to celebrate the glorious Fourth should enjoy that privilege, but those who celebrate should follow the safe and sane plan. By so doing they may save trouble for themselves and for others.—Courier Journal.

The uniform success that has attended the use of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea has made it a favorite everywhere. It can always be depended upon for sale by Chas. C. Davis.

MARSHAL MULLINS RESIGNS.

Mr. Frank Mullins, who has been a deputy marshal of London for several months, has resigned from the police force. He was immediately sworn in as a deputy under Sheriff Scoville. Mr. Mullins was the best marshal London had, and it is to be regretted that he could not serve London to the end of his term.

Fifty thousand women marched in the coronation parade of the suffragists in London.

If your neighbor is prosperous let him prosper. Don't growl, grout or grumble. Say a good word for him and let it go at that. Don't be a kicker. Your time will come. No one is the whole show. If you see that the town is moving along rapidly, feel good about it. Help things along, shows a little push. Try to get so one of the benefit yourself. Don't stand around like a wooden saddle and waste your time feeling sure because some one else's more success and cause than you have. Do a little bit for yourself, and if you can't say a good word for your town or people say it once a price. If you are full of bile and disposed to say something mean, put a padlock on your mouth and keep it there.—Exchange.

THINGS THAT WERE AND WERE NOT IN 1877.
(By J. M.)
Tankard shipments was at average of ten cars per day.
Candle molds had about disappeared.
But few wagons continued carrying a large load of cuppling pole.
Tar making had almost ceased.
Horses, hogs, goats, sheep and cattle run at large upon the streets when not tramping up front yards or destroying gardens also scattering mud and fleas onto the pavements and houses. It is otherwise today.
All or nearly all, hemp or flax bales and scutches had been put to rest. A majority of the people today under the age of thirty-five wouldn't know either of above articles if shown them.
Many older ones are in same fix.
Some cotton was grown in the early 60's and clothing made of its cloth.
The capacity of railroad cars run from 30,000 to 40,000. To-day 100,000 capacity cars are common. Some run even higher.
It was but a few years before this date that the L. & N changed their locomotives from wood to coal burners.
Many other items of interest could be mentioned but space will not permit present article.
An American exhibitor won the main event in the day's contests in the International Horse Show at London.
