Why should not the state convicts be used in building up the county highways and thereby advance every interest of our Commonwealth? Such states as Colorado, Georgia and Florida have adopted this system with splendid results. We hope to see the next Legislature take up this question seriously and enact a law requiring our criminals to be worked by the state on our public roads. This is a great opportunity for our newspapers to do some valuable work for the growth of the state, for certainly it is a question worthy of their constant attention and best efforts.

The mule interest in Rockcastle is rapidly improving. Jesse Livesay, C. M. McKinney, W. H. Hysinger, Henry Mink, Virgil Martin and E. B. Burdette are taking a very active interest in this movement. They are being bred larger and better all the time and next year twice the number will be in the fair ring, contending for the premiums.

That stock law ought to win in Broaddus and Brown precincts. In progressive communities it carries easily.

The Kentucky State Fair will be held in Louisville, beginning Sept. 11th and finishing on the 16th. Some of the finest stock in the world will be exhibited. Every farmer in Rockcastle should get every body interested, as the fair is worth ten times more than it will cost you. Be certain to go and don't forget the dates.

The Democrats declare in favor of women voting in all school elections. The Republicans in convention refused to adopt such a party platform. Which is right? Certainly the good women of the state are vitally interested in the education of the young and should have a legal right to vote in all elections involving the education and training of their children.

A FARMERS Institute for this County will be held in Mount Vernon on October 12th and 13th. A well organized plan should be provided and a fine program had in order to get out a large crowd at this very important meeting. Each farmer and business man should constitute himself a special committeeman to arouse interest and rally the people for the coming institute.

JAMES H. Baughman, the Live Stock King of Lincoln, says that Rockcastle badly needs larger broodmares and better grade of stock. The farmers themselves are beginning to realize this, more than ever before and he is sure that they are endeavoring to improve them.

Issue bonds and build good roads, better highways we must have in Rockcastle.

Do it for Mt. Vernon and do it now.

THE TICKET AND THE PLATFORM.

The more the worst of the Democratic Convention is studied the more it appeals to thinking people everywhere. The platform adopted was an impression of the will of the Democrats of the State, the majority of delegates believe that the party should take an advanced stand on all public questions. It would have been an easy matter for the candidates to have dogged every troublesome issue that the campaign presented but they boldly faced every situation and frankly and sincerely put themselves on record so that there could be no question where they stand. Even the highest court in the land finds itself divided on important questions of law, and it naturally follows that more than a thousand delegates from every section of the State, all influenced by the condition of affairs in their particular locality, should hold different views on public questions. But after a thorough discussion in the Committee on Resolutions and upon the floor of the Convention, the majority of the Democrats adopted the platform that becomes the party doctrine and every true Democrat must feel himself bound to support it. The rule of the majority is a Democratic doctrine as old as the party itself. In no other party does the party speak, and a er it has spoken its enunciation becomes the inviolate law. Men will naturally differ as to what is wise or unwise in a strenuous campaign for higher offices. If there were unanimity of opinion there would be no interest, and the party would die of inaction. Vigorous discussion is necessary to not only reveal the merits, but the demerits of exact questions of public policy. A man looks better when he has fought a matter out with his friends or his enemy, and generous men are always willing to concede victory to the man who has overthrown them.

When the personal feeling that is always shown in political campaigns dies out, and it is happily already on the wane, there can be but one opinion about the State platform and the nominees of the Democratic party and this is that together they form the strongest argument ever made for Democratic success.

In the year 1513 the city of London contained only thirty-three surgeons and doctors all told. They were exempt from serving on juries and from bearing arms in time of war.

The Paris Louvre, now the finest art gallery, was originally a royal residence in the reign of Dagobert, about the year 628 of our era.

In Japan among the porcelains fully one third of the marriages end in divorce. Possibly America caught the divorce fever from Japan.

Wild silk in China is said to be practically indestructible. It can be buried in the earth and left there for a year or more, suffering no damage in consequence.

Italians never use the number 13 in making the number in their lottery—the superstition of the people is against it. The Turks are so prejudiced against the word thirteen that it has virtually been expunged from their vocabulary. No house in Paris bears the number "13" and persons called "quaranteennes" or "fourteenies" are held in reserve there to make up fourteenth guest at dinner parties. The Norwegians never allow thirteen persons at a table because Loki, the God of Malice in the Norse mythology, once made the thirteenth guest at a celestial banquet and occasioned confusion.

The priceless collection of paintings of Franz Hals, now the chief pride of Haarlem, lay rotting up in an attic for about a hundred years neglected as a bundle of rags.

Plan for hatching season.

Keep the hens busy these cold days. Charcoal is good stuff for the hen's digestive tract.

It's mighty poor policy to let the stock shrink in winter.

Don't feed your fowls so that they will eat too much at once.

Just because fat hens are not good layers, do not starve your fowls.

The best coveys are the coveys that will fill the pocketbook most quickly.

More cattle die from the effects of being drenched than from tuberculosis.

Potato peelings fed raw in not too large quantities are good for the laying hens.

Warmth should be supplied to all farm animals but not at the expense of fresh air.

When figuring up the profits from the cows for last year don't overlook the fertilizer.

Men love their families, but are inclined to neglect the crops that can be produced for the stable.

Exercise is good for the animals and they should get their share every day when it is possible.

A good dairy sire is one that produces daughters which give more but breed than their mothers.

Eggs should be gathered often, especially if the weather is cold and they are to be used for hatching.

Much of the success in poultry keeping depends on the vigor and vitality of the birds themselves.

A male bird that is gallant, always ready to share with the hen, is preferred to one that is too generous.

The by-products of the dairy can be made almost as profitable as the straight products if rightly handled.

A cheap separator is worse than none. Get one that does not waste each year more than the original cost.

Yearlings and heifers should be early taught to drink warm milked slop in winter, and cold slop in summer.

Get all the wood ashes you can and apply them to the garden and truck patch soon as you can, and then plow it.

The number of hens a farmer should keep depends on his interest in the business and the time he is willing to devote to it.

Unless a bird is nurtured and possesses size, vigor and a sound constitution, it should be barred out of the breeding pen.

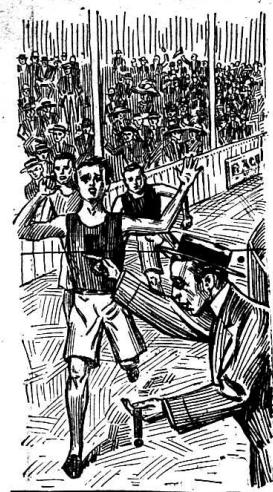

For little horses, straw and well cured corn fodder may take the place of hay, giving a half ration of corn morning and night.

A man who has a good quality of dairy products and a high-class dairy stock for sale seldom knows what competition he has.

The world is full of women who can amuse the ordinary man. Can sing, dance or recite for him; can paint, write or decorate in a manner most pleasing, but the poor man often goes begging for a woman who can sew on, but as a rule she is not to be had.

Announcements were received here this week of the marriage of James Jackson Ping to Miss Ruth Blevans, which was solemnized at Warrensburg, Mo., on Wednesday Aug. 16, 1911. They will make their home at Liberal Mo., where Mr. Ping is principal of the Liberal High School.

The expense which we have had to bear this summer as the result of the sickness of our little one has been very heavy and at no time have we ever needed what is due us worse than at this time. May we not have what you owe us. It is no fancy plea, we certainly need the money and need it badly.

A. H. Hamlin traded his farm known as the Dillingham farm near Mareburg to F. Krueger for the two story brick residence on West Main street and the concrete store room, which Mr. Krueger just completed. In event that the two story brick residence is not included, then Mr. Krueger is to pay Mr. Hamlin, $3000.00 in cash. Mr. Hamlin will probably move back to Mt. Vernon.

A beautiful girl is very likely to believe she was made to be looked at, and so she sets herself up for a show at every window, in every door, on every corner of the street in every company at which opportunity offers for an exhibition of herself. And believing and acting thus she soon becomes good for nothing else, and when she comes to be a middle aged woman she is that weakest and most sickening of human beings—a faded beauty.

When you pull down the town in which is your home, you are pulling down yourself, and when you build up you are building up yourself and your neighbor. Try and banish from your mind the mistaken idea that all good things are away off in some other locality. Give your towns all the praise you legitimately bear. It certainly will do you no harm and will cost you nothing, and above all patronize your home institutions including the printing office.

Have you any news, tell the editor and he will serve it in a la mode. In case you do not happen to meet him, use the telephone or the mail. You will be helping to make your town paper of greater interest and thereby serve the general community. Whatever news may interest you, must surely interest many others.

There are very few "House for Rent" signs to be seen in our town. This is proof of growth and prosperity, but also an indication that more homes ought to be provided for the people who would move here. If houses could be rented. A number of cozy and attractive cottages that can be rented at a reasonable figure is what we need.

Few people have any idea what an incentive it is to both teacher and scholar to know that parents and outsiders are taking a lively interest in their work. We believe the "little folks" at school appreciate such interest more perhaps than the larger one. Still it is a pity a not too many of them, and we hope every parent will take a hint from this and place the public schools on their status in the community.

O'REAR ENDORSES GOVERNMENT OR WILSON.

ART of criticism from Judge O'Rear comes July 27. Not a single word, although he howls at the reforms he proposes to inaugurate. His party endorses this imposition on the farmer by Gov. Wilson's appointments, and Judge O'Rear, standing on the extra plank of the Prox. H. I. platform, gives it his endorsement.

Although Gov. Wil on has only completed about three and a half years of his term he has been absent from his duties at an capital 25 days, and before he comes in on his regular day's work, he has had 60 days of feasting at the dining table, and has had 60 speeches, in some of which he has denounced Kentucky as one of the most lawless states in the Union. Wilson has fiddled while the tax-payers money burned, drawing his full salary all the time he was away. Acting Gov. Cox has drawn from the Treasury the sum of $4,250 to date, more money than all the other Lieut. Governors have drawn since Kentucky was a state.

Any word of condemnation from Judge O'Rear for the gross neglect of duty by the Republican party in convention is as much endorsed without qualification Gov. Wilson's administration and Judge O'Rear also gives it his approval.

NOTES FROM MEADOWBROOK FARM

By William Pitt

Ducks eat many bugs.

Goats will have free range.

The quickest returns are from baby beef.

Exercise is essential to the best growth of the foal.

You have some things to learn after you get an incubator.

The best time to cut the lamb's tail and castrate is at one week old.

Calves make more gain with a given amount of food than does older stock.

Too much emphasis cannot be laid upon the use of cover crops in our orchards.

Giving water at irregular times is injurious not only to chicks, but to old fowls.

It is advisable that the very early varieties of potatoes yield so well as those a little later.

My object in fruit growing is the production and improvement of the edible portion of the fruit.

Good ventilation is essential, but it should be exercised with care.

Everybody knows that in July we have our cows give a larger amount of milk than in cold and wintry weather.

Build a good shed to shelter the birds; it is doubtful if you can make 10 per cent. profit in any other way.

There is a big temperature for each individual lot of cream, but this can be determined only by experiment.

Are there any old apple trees in your orchard bearing undesirable fruit? Easy to graft good varieties upon them.

Keep on good terms with the ewe so that you can catch and handle them without causing undue disturbance in the pens.

There is no phase of the dairy business that needs more study or more careful management than does the breeding of our stock.

As the time draws near for calving the cow should be put into a comfortable box stall, having plenty of bedding to keep her dry.

The open swell barrel standing by the kitchen door is a direct invitation to typhoid, diphtheria and the diseases to enter the home.

When live stock prices drop it is always the man who knows how to handle them at the least cost per pound who realizes the greatest profit.

When the fruit buds come very thick most people take it as a sign of a big yield, but when fruit grows thickly it must necessarily be very small.

If theudder becomes hard or shows a tendency to garget, apply massage and give it a vigorous rubbing; after which give the ewe a good dose of salt.

Skim milk, which is whole milk, mixed part of fat, and which costs only half as much as whole milk, furnishes protein about four times as cheaply as beef.

When the cow is comfortable and contented she responds with a flow of milk far in excess of that which she gives when she has been uncomfortable and irritated.

Cherry rot or brown rot affects all stone fruits, including peach, apricot, etc. It is by far the most serious and the most common of the commercial cherry diseases.

Never feed hay, or sweep or in any way stir up dust just previous to milking, for this will contribute to the irritation of the udder, and which contaminates and injures the quality of the milk.

In dipping pigs great care must be exercised to cover every part of the body from the head to the tail, and the dipping is not to be touched it may contain the nucleus of a new crop.

At the time of bathing, if the ewe is put on an inclined plane, she will give more milk to come in, and take the "milk" and "milk" and the lambing is over, with more quickly than it may come along in two or three months.

For bowel complaints in children, always give Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy and castor oil. It is plain to effect a cure and when administered with the other two, it is a shorter time and the lambing is over, with more quickly than it may come along in two or three months.

WHAT WILL YOU DO THIS YEAR?

It is very difficult to tell the age of a duck.

That weed right in the hill is your worst enemy.

The farmer is not much different from anybody else.

Home-grown plants are much superior to bought plants.

Cattle will never do well in the same pasture with sheep.

Land intended for spring crops should be plowed in the fall.

Have the holes for the trees to be removed dug wide and deep.

Squab raising seems to be a favorite occupation with suburban people.

Large trees should be taken up when the earth is frozen around the roots.

A farmer can tell the value of corn stover without making any serious mistake.

Land intended for roots should be plowed as soon as the ground is dry enough to work.

Mix poultry droppings with a equal quantity of the earth, and put one handful to the hill.

As soon as the calf learns to eat hay, place one handful of whole oats in the feed box once a day.

A beautiful hedge is made by using stinging in the back row, then calliope with white plow as a border.

Mangles and sugar beets are the best roots to grow for cattle, sheep and pigs, and Belgian carrots for horses.

Aters can be planted in rows of white and lavender, with very pleasing results provided the same kind is used in each row.

Young turkeys usually have black feet, which after two years turn gray and dull, and become paler and more strictly as age advances.

Surplus suckers in blackberry or red raspberry patches should be treated just like weeds; don't let the rows get too wide nor too thick.

BY CLYDE H. TAVENNER. WASHINGTON, Aug. 31 (Special) President Taft's veto of the wool bill means there will be no reduction this winter in the price of woolen clothing of any sort for men, women and children, nor in the prices of blankets, nor any other forms of woolen manufactures needed for warmth by the general public.

And just so much as the public would have saved in cheaper woolens, together with the amount the farmers would have saved in cheaper agricultural implements had the president signed the free list bill, will be transferred unjustly to the coffers of the woolen trust and the harvesters' trust, two star contributors to the Republican campaign fund.

What is the President's defense for refusing to permit a reduction in the cost of living? Let us see: First, he makes the reduction a wool bill, instead of a tariff bill, which is twice the length of the one given to the consideration of the Payne Aldrich bill, and which document the president signed readily enough.

Second, the president asks the people continue to pay exorbitant prices for woolens until he hears from his tariff board, which is packed with men who take the high protection view-point, and whose chief agents and alleged "impartial" investigators abroad are writing back articles for American newspapers ridiculing and belittling the crying demand of the consumers for tariff revision downward.

Mr. Taft's message against cheaper woolens will go down as a document of misrepresentation, false pretense and grossness. The real reason the president vetoed the various tariff bills was not as stated in any of his messages:

It was because he was under obligations to the beneficiaries of the Payne-Aldrich law to serve a public interest. Mr. Taft was elected president with a campaign fund contributed by special privilege. Then having done this the great tariff trusts extended further aid (and placed Taft further in their debt) by voting for Taft with the threat of their factories and mills would be closed down unless he was elected. And, just as he was the candidate of special privilege, Mr. Taft is revealed in his veto message as also the president of special privilege.

This it is shown again how protection makes politics a business proposition. The trusts contribute campaign funds to the party of the high protection wall with the intention of a wool bill recovering from the public the amount of such contributions in excessive prices, but stupendous dividends as profits. Mr. Taft provided an exceptionally good investment for the tariff trusts.

"LET US ALONE" The trust officials who appeared before the various investigating committees of Congress this summer, including G. W. Perkins, complained because the Democrats were too active in inquiring into their business methods. "Let us alone" is their favorite wall whenever a move is made to determine in what manner they are exacting tribute from the people. "The tendency to distrust big corporations," said Mr. Perkins, "is hurting business. Business desires to go ahead un molested."

The "let us alone" policy would suit the trusts exactly. Having gobbed everything in sight, they naturally resent interference. With the tariff so high that they have a monopoly on all the necessities of life, and the anti-trust law so interpreted that a reser't of trade is not the straight so long as it is "reasonable" they are safe from competition, and immune from prosecution. Hence their desire to be let alone.

In the meantime, how about prices? Ten years ago a pair of five pound woolen blankets could be bought for $3.75, today they cost $5.00. At the time the price of five yards of serge cloth, fifty inches wide was $3.75, the price now is $6.25. Ten years ago twenty yards of unbleached cotton cloth could be bought for $1.20, to day the cost is $2.20. Five yards of all wool flannel could be purchased then for $2.75, the price now is $6.25. Flour sold for $3.50, less per barrel during the civil war than it does now.

"THE RICHEST BABY" Judson C. Welliver, one of the very few Washington newspaper and magazine writers who write what they think, has an article in Hampton's magazine this month which is of especial interest, not that President Taft has vetoed the cotton bill. This article is an account of how the cotton millionaires keep up their fat dividends amounting in some instances to one hundred per cent annually and at the same time continue to plead for high tariff, without which they contend they will starve to death.

Mr. Welliver begins his article with a photograph of one James Nicholas Brown, age eleven, whose wealth is estimated in the hundreds of millions, every cent of which was made out of the highly protected New England cotton manufacturing industry. "In 1908, the patent law," Mr. Welliver writes, "the cotton trust can only pay its usual fat dividends. True, it already underpaid laborers had to suffer sharp reductions; too, the wearers of its products had to pay increased prices. But that was unimportant to the cotton millionaires. They would have their dividends, and they got them. They had the power to export their goods to any low wages and charge as high prices as they chose. The tariff wall held them secure in their domination Senator Lipitt predicts, "this country will be plunged into the worst sort of panic if the regular flow of profits into the coffers of the richest baby of the world is shut off."

ON THE JOB The interesting announcement has been made that former Senator Nelson Aldrich of Rhode Island has purchased a home on the fashionable Massachusetts avenue, near Sheridan circle, in Washington, and that he intends to make his future home in the capital. The announcement is of exceptional interest inasmuch as the tariff bill in Congress, within the next two or three years, is to be fought to a finish.

ABOUT GOOD ROADS. Sturgis News-Democrat: Texas is going to celebrate its admission to the Union by spending millions of dollars for good roads. There are no more events in Kentucky which will celebrate it any other way were necessary to make a like appropriation for good roads. Clay City Times: We hope to see every overseer make some permanent improvement on his road this fall and continue to do so each year, he works the road until there are improvements in our roads that count for something.

Princeton News: Men have quit arguing that our roads are good enough. They are not good enough at all and any sane man knows it. Yet there is no concerted move on in this county for road improvement. No pipe roads have ever been proposed. Why is it we can't wake up here as other neighboring counties have awakened?

Williamstown News: The County Court has ordered all persons having their fences on the right of way of the county roads to have them set back. There has been a tendency of late among the farmers to crowd the right of way, and in many cases the fences have been set so close to the pike that two teams can hardly pass. The Road Commissioner complains that the fences are set so close that he is unable to ditch the roads properly.

Burdwell News: Carlisle county ought to adopt some plan whereby the roads would be improved. The making of roads out of dirt is becoming obstinate, and it is no longer considered the proper thing to do. We spend approximately 100,000 a year on one-pike roads, and at the beginning of each year they are no better than they were the year before. It would be an act of wisdom to quit this waste of money and go to building roads that will require but little expense to maintain.

Elizabethtown News: Every week there are farmers from Central Kentucky coming to Elizabethtown seeking to buy farms in Elizabeth county. There are now five farmers here from Mercer county looking at some of our land and ten more are coming Saturday night. The advertising Burdwell county is getting on account of the proposed Lincoln Way. It is the opinion of those who have been in this county for some time that the best time to buy land along this route. None of them will look at lands not on a turn-pike no matter how good the land is. If this road were there will be many more lands to be bought.
