SENATOR CAMDEN ON CO-OPERATION

Farmers Realizing Only One-Half of What They Are Entitled To

LOSS OF LABOR AND TIME

Increase Efficiency By Going Over Farm Problems Together—That Unbroken Faith in the Future of Kentucky—Help Rural Communities Through the Schools and Colleges of State.

Washington—(Special)—Hon. John C. Camden, junior senator from Kentucky, after a visit to the State of Kentucky last week, talked in an address at the University of Kentucky on the problems of the farmer and the future of the State in his own state, as well as by the extension of the same to the benefit of the farmer. Mr. Camden has announced plans in the future of Kentucky as an agricultural and horticultural state.

Senator Camden has visited the department and its result, Senator Camden said.

"This is the first opportunity I have had where I could go into certain details, with any degree of leisure, with the Agricultural Department. You know I have always felt that Kentucky will be a great farming state."

John C. Camden.

and the character of his agriculture will determine the character and development of her people. Some one has well said that a people can be no greater or stronger than their soil. I have the highest faith that the farmer is a constructive, enterprising, and all-around citizen. The best form of wealth is in itself about one-half, or 50 per cent of the wealth involved in the production of it is organization, which really means co-operation.

What Farmers Are Realizing.

"Grading that our soil would grade No. 1 in fertility—which in many cases it will not do, but by intelligent and judicious methods it can be made so—as we now stand with our imperfect system of soil education, organization and co-operation, we are sure of only realizing but about half of what we are entitled to from our farms and from our farms."

"It was I myself who organized among our farmers of education and co-operation, and I am sure that the wonderful mine of information an agriculturally valuable fact, that our Federal Government had in store, would be beneficial to one farmer unless they were prepared to avail themselves of it collectively.

"It was necessary to organize, to establish team work among ourselves we must trust one another if we are to prosper further as a people and advance the solidarity of Kentucky agriculturists."

Agricultural Education.

"To my mind the first thing to do is to coordinate the research work at the State University and Experiment Station at Lexington and the two Normal schools, Eastern and Western, with the Federal Department of Agriculture, thereby increasing efficiency by preventing the loss of labor and time. I am delighted to say that steps are being taken to bring that about.

"That research work, either by government or state, would be of little value to the farmer unless some way were found to teach him the results of the research work at the experiment stations, and hence we have the extension and demonstration work.

"I was told that the department has a great work along this line and that it is coordinating its activity with the activity of a similar character in the state agricultural colleges. Congress has recently passed a bill providing for co-operative extension work in agriculture and home economics. It is carried on by co-operation between the Department of Agriculture at Washington and the various state agricultural colleges, and the Secretary of Agriculture has taken the very broad view of that furtherance."

"When you want a good deal in the living, feel that you are entitled to it, and frequently it is an unmitigated blessing of malaria and unless you do something at once you are in for a spell of chills. BERKING is a child medicine that will prevent or cure the disease. It drives out the impurities on which the malarial germ thrives, strengthens the liver and cleanses the bowels. Price 50c. Sold by John Robins Brothead, Ky."

had opportunity for also coordinating all of the work carried on under direct appropriations to the department.

Let's Sum Up—The amount of money being devoted to this kind of education by the State never will give over a cent for the first year to each agricultural college. Thereafter it will be increased in each state in proportion to rural inhabitants until, at the end of eight years, the total appropriation will amount to $100,000,000 and the same amount will be appropriated annually thereafter.

Under this arrangement there will be coming to the State of Kentucky from this Smith-Lever appropriation, approximately $14,000,000 annually, which may be supplemented by appropriation made by the state or raised from contributions within the state, amounting to $14,100,000, or a grand total of nearly $28,000,000 per annum.

Getting Results in Woodford.

"In Woodford county we are getting good results by coordinating the activities of the Normal school, the State A. C. A. and the county demonstration or expert. They are co-operating in the raising of the bearing capacity of our farms, such as extermination of cholera, boys' corn club work and the various agricultural clubs, the training of dairy experts, cattle feeding experts, expert horticulturists for the apple and other fruit industries and others."

Country School Problem.

"And of the most important part of the work of solving rural conditions is the problem of education in the country schools. The State University and the two Normal schools of this state are vitally interested in this problem. We must have a real education for our young men and women for the activities of life in the country, broadening their views of life, arousing their interest in the land, and their appreciation of the opportunities of country life, and fitting them to the more useful and successful agricultural community."

"It is the province of the Normal schools to train teachers and to disseminate these broad visions of the rural school as a most important center of influence in the upbuilding of every community."

Schools Teach Practical Things.

A good many of our country schools are little better than the land. The schools are beginning more and more to teach the practical things of agriculture and the land. The boys and other clubs are beginning to get hold of the rural school problem, and focus the attention of the parents and the child upon the practical and valuable things which may be done as a part of the education of that school.

"I am very happy to say that the work of the National Extension Service in agriculture in the state of Kentucky, into which we are just now entering, is a very important part of the business side of the study of the business side of the rural school and the economic conditions surrounding the farmer. It is one of the most important parts in making his efforts successful."

"The matter how good a business man the farmer might be on his own farm, no matter how such scientific agriculture he might acquire, and how well he might do his work, there may be, and often are, circumstances outside the farmer's control which will prevent him from making a success of his work."

"For example, market conditions may be against him, and in this way have one of the big problems of country life to-day. The National Department of Agriculture, in the last appropriation bill, received an appropriation of $200,000 for the study and dissemination of knowledge regarding the scientific marketing of the products of the farm."

Movement Deserves Support.

"Much might be said on the side of the subject of the organization of farmers and of the communities generally for improvement of agricultural social and economic conditions."

"With the united effort on the part of the rural church, the rural school and Normal colleges, the College of Agriculture, the Experiment Station and the United States Department of Agriculture, much good can be accomplished. We have undervalued the sources and agricultural opportunities in Kentucky, as yet untouched. We can maintain the highest degree of civilization only by having a successful and prosperous agriculture. One of the most beneficial influences that I see in the union of the interests of the Federal Department of Agriculture with our College of Agriculture at the State University, with the Normal schools and other educational activities for the state, to give our farmers and their families throughout the state of Kentucky that degree of service which they ought to have. At the present time there are twenty-two county agents, with an additional seven county county agents, in the girls' club work."

"If you sit in a cool draft when you are heated and get a cold, or if you sit in a hot sun when you are cold, you will get something that will ease the pain. Fix your mind on 'I ALREADY KNOW I NEED IT' and don't be lulled out of it. It is the best pain relieving liniment you can get anywhere. Price 50c. Sold by John Robins Brothead, Ky."

CIRCUIT COURT—Every one should come to Circuit Court next Monday and hear Judge B. J. Bethuram instruct the Grand Jury on the evils of pistol carrying, bootlegging, vote selling and the sale of liquor on election day. His battle cry is enforce the law and it is no sham fight either.

One of the largest mineral land deals that has ever taken place in Kentucky is now being closed between Detroit, Pennsylvania, and English parties and Franklina Allison, this county, for 20,000 acres being in Rockcastle, Pulaski, Laurel and Jackson counties, Allison, who has "ground hogged" it in this county for past five years proposes to be an old expert mining engineer and was on to the job. Full particulars in a three column article will appear in an early issue. More than $1,000,000 will be thrown into this county.

DANCE—Miss Jennie Morrow Miller gave a beautiful impromptu dance at the Rockcastle Tuesday evening. These present were Mesdames R. A. Sparks, W. L. Richards, S. Satterfield, B. J. Bethuram, I. W. Brown, J. C. West, J. W. Kider, Wm. J. Scholtz, Misses Sallie Reynolds, Margaret and Yarnie Welch, Irene Rockefeller, Flo, Bess and Martha Sparks, Blanche Crawford, Ida McCoy, Mamie Baker, Ed Eugene, Fish back, Messrs Leroy Satterfield, Louis Miller, John Landrum, Everette Mullins, Cecil Reynolds, John H. Williams, Robert Tate, Tom Brown, Robert McKenzie, Chas. and Jamie Thompson.

Dr. Lovell and our old stand by scribe "I. M." argued an ill in a third of a century in and out of session at Rockcastle. It is one of the richest counties in minerals in the State. Their views, it appears, will soon be demonstrated in addition to the immense stone interests which has been developed to a large extent in the undreamed of coal deposits underlying a big portion of the southern half of the county discovered by an old expert mining engineer who came here five years ago and literally "took to the wood," and kept himself busy all this time hunting black diamond deposits. He found them and has succeeded in purchasing something like 100,000 acres and in turn sold to a Eastern syndicate which proposes to develop this immense area after building a railroad through the tract which is six miles in width and more than forty miles long from a point in Pulaski, thru Rockcastle, Laurel and Jackson. It is proposed to put the road thru from Nashville, Tenn., passing near Somerset, thru Rockcastle, a distance 90 miles. A greater portion of which territory has heretofore been without railroad facilities. Rockcastle is right in the middle of the swim and our land will yet flow with milk and honey in exceeding large quantities.

The County Fair Season

The county fairs are in progress throughout Kentucky and the list of fair dates appearing daily in the Courier-Journal show that the number is large.

In some respects this is not a good year for county fairs. The drought that has prevailed in many portions of the State has interfered seriously with the production of farm and garden. Because of this condition some of the fairs have been called off and a few associations have suspended operations permanently. Nevertheless the fairs that have been held so far judging from the newspaper reports, have not been lacking either in attractions or attendance.

Every county in the State should establish and support a fair and it should be a real fair and not a mere medium for the exhibition of fakes and the exploitation of catching penny schemes. It is possible in any county in Kentucky to get together a creditably display of live stock, agricultural products and other substantial features of an exhibition of the kind. The question is merely one of raising the required capita and devoting the necessary time and energy to the enterprise. As a rule, the fairs that have failed are those which have been permitted to degenerate. The public is going and growing institution the public is very likely to lose interest in it—and public approval and support are essential to success.

The county fair that is well sustained is a factor for progress. It gives impetus and encouragement to human endeavor and is primarily valuable as an object lesson of the results of intelligent use. It can and should be made a most powerful force for rural betterment and rural prosperity.

Mrs. R. A. Sparks entertained informally Wednesday evening, last, in honor of her guests from Louisville. The following accepted Mrs. Sparks' invitations.

Messrs W. L. Richards, Chas. C. Davis, Mesdames Benton Scholtz, Satterfield, Sparks, C. C. Davis, Misses Martha Sparks, Best Sparks, Christine Davis, Edna Davis, Sallie Reynolds, Margaret Welch, Pat Perkins, Jennie Morrow Miller, Verne Welch, Ruth Landrum, Virginia Crawford, Blanche Crawford, Eugene Fishback, Bessie Scholtz, Grace Satterfield, Irene Satterfield, Sidney Crawford, Margaret Sparks.

Messrs Leroy Satterfield, David Craig, Lewis Miller, Chas. Thompson, Everett Mullins, Ralph Griffin, Robert McKenzie, W. L. Thompson, John Landrum, William Scholtz, Blatt Crawford, Bently Sparks.

JOHN HARVEY, STRIKER ON MARCH 21—On Friday, the last day of the Mt. Vernon Fair, Will O'Connell, the elegant signal reporter at Livingston, left that place to attend the county seats by annual celebration. He was not by his lone self, and it is said to have been a loving couple, Franklin, the L. & N. watch inspector, made the train at 11:00 according to agreement, but failed to find O'Connell whom he had promised to protect during the day. It was learned afterward that during the day a foreign looking man applied at County Clerk's office for a marriage license, but Mr. Bowman, the ever accommodating clerk, man always on his job, having posted himself on our county's declaration of neutrality in the great war now on and believing the applicant was either a German, Austrian, Frenchman or Servian refused to issue the papers, and the applicant disappeared. Many Livingston people aver that it was Owens that wanted the permit, and who was so well disguised that he was not recognized by his best friends or others. "He is sure some artist."

The wisdom of letters is for man but yet I declare unto you that allied man has a larger vocabulary than woman he seldom hath opportunity to use it.

A BUSINESS CREED

This year we celebrate our Twenty-Seventh Anniversary in business, and during all that time our creed has been as follows: Twenty-Seven years have we loaned this business our name—twenty-seven years have we given it our devotion—twenty-seven years have we given it our knowledge and experience.

Twenty-Seven years is not a long time—when you say it quickly! BUT twenty-seven years' devotion to an aim, to a business, to a principle, is a life-time in this age of "Here to-day and there to-morrow store keeping."

IF success means money gained by sharp dealing, by deception, by "getting what you-can" prices, by little tricks that, to us are Big Sins, then proudly do we say to the world, "we have not been successful."

BUT if success means getting out The Golden Rule, operating it in every transaction, giving You for your hundred cents as much as another gets for his dollar, crowding the utmost goodness into every article—if these things are what you call success, then we point not only to the REPUTATION, THE CHARACTER, THE CONSCIENCE, THE AIM and PRINCIPLE of this store, BUT TO ITS RECORD as well, for proof that we have achieved success.

Watch our advertisements. We have something good to tell you every week. "We Stand By What You Buy."
