William and L.O. Davis have a ferret with which they catch rabbits almost daily. It is a rabbit, in trying to escape their dog goes into a hole he is a sure gunner, for the ferret just follows him in and pops him out. Friday afternoon the ferret was sent into a hole after a bunny which he dragged out by the ears. The boys say it's better than hunting with a gun besides it saves going to Felix Bowman and blowing in a dollar for a hunting license.

wires here at about Saturday night while Nat. Eaton, night operator, was away. Misses Lena Newcomb and Mollie Coyle paid this off on Wed. Tuesday. The Reformers seem to be well pleased with the way Eld John Carmichael wields the Sword of the Spirit; in fact, he is near enough a Reformer to be counted as one his father and mother both lived and died in that faith. C. C. Williams, always a friend to the newspaper, has subscribed and paid up for six copies of the Signal which he sends to his friends, besides inducing others to subscribe. Jacob the 8 year old son of H. U. Gentry was thrown to the ground, while playing with his dog, and had his collar broken and a leg injured. See full page at L. B. Adams store. It is the intention of the Baptists to effect an organization at this place and put up a building. Mrs. J. H. Brown, Miss Ida Adams, Mrs. M. C. Williams and Mrs. Jack Adams were pleasant visitors at this office yesterday.

C. W. Ping left Sunday night to take his position as a summer. He is the third time to have printed this item. 'We know he's gone this time, for we sat up and started him on the train.' T. T. Wallace after spending several months with DuBella's surveying party in East Kentucky has returned home.—J. M. Anderson, a Presbyterian preacher, of Laurel county, visited to see E. G. Wilson's daughter, Lizale, but Wilson said it was predestined, that they must wait a year. Anderson endeavored to pass off the time by killing the horses of his prospective father-in-law, pouring coal oil in his well and blowing him up with dynamite. The neighbors declare that it was written before the flood that they will eventually string Anderson up by the neck of the collar back to the State. The dred miles of railway built in Kentucky during the year 1857, South Eastern and Eastern Kentucky are attracting attention of capitalists. Doubtful and wild outland titles is holding back development in East Kentucky.

Here follows some squibs from Signal correspondents during first two months of the year. Starford Broadhead.—Miss Katie Busing is visiting at J. C. Albright's Market. Miss Eva Adams, of Gardard is visiting Mrs. Conn. R. S. Martin of firm Martin & Perkins in Louisville on business. Andrew Sutton leaves in a few days for West Plains, Mo., his new home. Mrs. Bettie Frith has returned from a visit to Starford David Hart, the editors child. In playmate, section foreman here, says the Signal is splendid. Mrs. L. A. Cass of Louisville, visited here on J. R. Cass here last week. Frith & Hurt, general merchants have dissolved partnership. Culpeper, John McClure sold his 12 1/2 acre farm to D. P. Bethurum for $25. There has been a new post office established at the new location called Andrews, A. P. Norton postmaster. Sam McClure has 200 saw logs on bank Skaggs Creek ready for sale. Hurrub for Sam Miss Nancy Eldrod's school will close after eight more days. At a dance at Joe Ramsey's Friday night, a young man fired off his pistol in the crowd which created some excitement. No damage. Too much pine toll. As Culpeper had no letter in last week's Signal ought to have a column space this week. 'Old Cull' is responsible for what he writes.

ALLIES CONDUCTING WINNING OFFENSIVE

Operations in Flanders Reported "Satisfactory"

Paris, Nov. 18.—The impression gained here by the latest official report is that the situation here is "satisfactory." The announcement that the allies have made progress at every important point where the fighting has been important during the past two days, since the loss of Dixmude, indicates that the German advance has been definitely checked and that the plan of General Joffre to push his line ahead, no matter how slowly, is one that takes fully into account temporary checks and incidental reverses. The report is especially cheering because of the fact that the Allies have again begun their forcing tactics in the region of Ypres, which has long been the center of the most severe actions and that the allies have held their ground and even made more or less marked progress. The report detailed attempts of the Germans to advance at a number of points and it recalled the complete success of the allies in repelling these efforts, notably on the canal to the south of Dixmude, the advance of the Germans at the village of the neighborhood of Vally, and to the south of Bisschove. An announcement also was made in official terms that the allies were conducting an extremely successful offensive, particularly against the point of the German wedge here for the first time an attack from the west by the French troops resulted in a German repulse. The report stated that the allies now have a foothold in the village of Chavecourt about a mile and a quarter west of St. Mihiel, the sole remaining point of support left to the enemy on the left bank of the Meuse in this locality. Violent cannonading has been resumed in the Rheims region and several shells have fallen in the city.

EASTERN CAMPAIGN FURIOUS

Germans Facing a Deeperate Foe.

RUSSIANS PUSHING ON In Poland the Fighting Is Becoming a Great Battle.

REPORTS FROM PETROGRAD

Continue to Indicate Progress of Czar's Forces.

Berlin, Nov. 18.—The general staff announces that important operations have occurred on the western front and that in the east the situation is favorable.

Petrograd, Nov. 18.—A special envoy from Berlin has arrived here to urge Russia to assist his country, whose army has been reduced from 1,000,000 to 800,000. It is said to be in fear of conquest by Austria, and Russia will take active steps to win.

Petrograd, Nov. 18.—The Russians continue to inflict heavy losses on the Germans between Ploisk and the Meuse. They have broken their communications and the water difficulties compel the fighting columns constantly to change ground. Only the Russian cavalry maintains its ascendancy.

The Germans in this vicinity number probably about 250,000. They have on their left flank the Russian army, which has advanced on Kalisz, and on their right a Russian army which is fighting toward the north toward Saldau.

Fighting Was Deperate.

The fighting was especially furious when the Russians took Goidap and pierced the front of the main German column. Here the Russians retreated beyond the north end of the retreating army, which at the end of the day fighting found itself attacked on three sides. It suffered so terribly that the German General Franke, commanding the German westward retreat across East Prussia, had to detach another army corps to screen the rear of his transports.

From his headquarters at Thorn General Hindenburg is directing his desperate effort to avert the development of a winter campaign in Poland. His first step was to bring forward a large triangular battle area in northwest Poland. The Germans are now being driven back from the Vistula to the Warthe. The Russians form two sides of the triangle and are pursuing their backward gain on the frontier.

This struggle has grown in violence three days and has now assumed the dimensions of a great battle. It is General von Hindenburg's last remedy against failure, his position at Thorn, he said, was the key. The Russian army, now moving westward and the other northward. The Russians are declaring their shock tactics which during the onslaughts against the Germans when the latter were driven from the vicinity of Warsaw wrought tremendous losses. The German cavalry is much exhausted and is suffering terribly.
 Meanwhile the Russian southern army has vigorously begun the investment of Cracow by moving armies from the northeast along the Radom road and is marching westward across Galicia. General Dabich, who is directing the defense of Cracow, has moved his foremost works six miles beyond the permanent outer section of the fortification. His position now is the bridge over the Ristion advance.

Killed in Motorcycle Wreck. Sheridan, Ind., Nov. 18.—William Shochley, a fireman, was dead at his home here today, the result of a motorcycle accident. He was riding a motorcycle a half mile northeast of this place. His skull was fractured by the force of the impact.

Mrs. Lloyd C. Critchton, whose husband was formerly the American ambassador at Rome, is dead at Mt. Vernon. She was the daughter of Mrs. Adrian M. Istein.

DISAPPOINTMENT DUE TO INDIGESTION.
 It is not all surprising that persons who have indigestion become discouraged and despondent. Here are a few words of hope and cheer for them by Miss Blanche Boyer, Indiana. Pa. "For some time my digestion was so poor that I could only eat the lightest foods.
