The writer, accompanied by Logan and Oscar Bryant, on Monday had the pleasure of traveling over that portion of Boone which was carried from the Lincoln line through Garrard over to that splendid town Lancaster. There has already been considerable said about Garrard's Boone Way, but only those who have had the privilege of traveling over the road, has any appreciation of what a fine piece of construction it is. The Boone Way in Garrard tells the story that there is something doing. We were told by Lancaster friends that the road leading from Lancaster toward Lexington, was as well better than the Standard route, and if it is, it certainly shows a road. It looks like Lincoln is almost compelled to connect-up and bring the same kind of a splendid road on into Staasford. When the time comes that the trip from Middlesboro to Staasford can be made over such a road as Boone Way, Garrard is, the traveling will be a pleasure and life worth living.

Will You Read This Twice?

A very important question to-day which every housekeeper must decide for herself is whether she prefers pure, cream of tartar baking powder like Royal or whether she is willing to use baking powder made of inferior substitutes which do not add healthful qualities to the food.

One kind is easily distinguished from the other, since the laws of various States require the ingredients to be printed upon the label. If anyone is in doubt which kind is most healthful, it is worth while to ask the family doctor. Then decide.

And when once a decision is reached let no advertisement or dealer's argument or canvasser's solicitation change the decision. It is not a question of a few cents or of pleasing a salesman. It is a question of health.

If this appeals to you as reasonable and sensible advice, it is worth reading twice. And it is worth remembering.

 In May, 1913, the Panama-Pacific International exposition at San Francisco will be the gathering place of the most expert aviators from all the civilized nations of the globe, when the start is made of the great aerial race around the world for a prize of $200,000, the largest sum ever offered for any single sporting event in history. Every description of motor-driven air craft will participate in this stupendous loop-the-loop around the globe. The race will represent the climax of all the world's aeronautical activities and will stand for all time as an immortal epic of human daring, human ingenuity, and the marvelous epitome of the progress of mankind. It will be the supreme adventure of our day. As an achievement, it will mark a historic cycle that will compare with the crossing of the Atlantic by Columbus and the circumnavigation of the world by the fleet of Magellan in 1522. Aviators have long discussed the project of round-the-world airplane tours.

With the exception of the elephant and the camel on the left, all the figures are completed. The elephant, however, will be surrounded by howdah and the camel by a rider. The group in its entirety is the conception of A. Stirling Calder, with whom Frederick U. R. Roth and Leo Lentall co-operated. The huge elephant in the center of the group was modeled by Mr. Roth, who also modeled the camels. The mounted horsemen were modeled by Leo Lentall. From left to right the figures are: Arab warrior, negro servant bearing baskets of fruit, camel and rider, falconer, elephant, representing India; Buddhist lama, bearing emblem of authority; camel and rider, negro servant, Mongolian warrior.

 The first time an aeroplane ever flew inside a building was when Lincoln Beachey, the famous aviator, flew in the huge Palace of Machinery at the Panama-Pacific International exposition in San Francisco on February 25, 1915. The Palace of Machinery is almost 1,000 feet long and 135 feet high. Beachey passed from one end to the other of this building, flying for more than 300 feet and at height of 80 feet. The most remarkable feature of this flight was that he had to steer a straight course down the center aisle, which is 70 feet in width.

 "My kidneys are greatly improved and my rheumatism has virtually disappeared. My strength has returned and I am able to sleep. I have improved to feel vigorous and healthy, and attribute the change to the use of Tonic only. This medicine is alright. I recommend and commend it."

Mrs. Wm. Nicley has returned home after spending two weeks with her daughter Mrs. Mary Harper, at Sprig. Born to the wife of Robert Marler November 6th, a girl. Rev. Carnical is holding a meeting at Sinking valley. The new county road that was surveyed several months ago this section, has been worked and will soon be opened for travel.
 Mr. and Mrs. Taylor of this place, spent Saturday and Sunday with Mt. and Mrs. Rowe near Mt. Vernon. Died, Oct. 23, Miss Ola Robbins, aged nineteen, eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Robbins. She had been sick for more than two months. The remains were laid to rest at the Pitman burying ground.
 Mrs. Charles Carnical, while away several months last her balance and fell on the stove landing with one hand in the apple butter, receiving a very painful burn. Mrs. Wm. Barnes spent Saturday and Sunday with her brother, George Nicley. Mrs. Charles Carnical and daughter spent Friday with her brother, Chas. Cummings, at Mt. Vernon. Mrs. James Nicley spent Tuesday with her sister, Mrs. George Barnes. The protracted meeting that was to have commenced at Hopewell last Saturday was postponed on account of Revs. Phelps and Chilton not coming to assist Rev. Barnes. This has been the prettiest fall for several years and we see no reason why people should not be up to time with their work. Mrs. Frank Kirby and Charlie, the eight year old son of Rev. and Mrs. Charles Carnical, are among the sick.

DESPONDENCY DUE TO INDIGESTION
 It is not at all surprising that persons who have indigestion become discouraged and despondent. Here are a few words of hope and cheer for them by Mrs. Alanche Bowers, Indiana, Penn.
 "For years my indigestion was so poor that I could only eat the lightest foods. I tried every thing that I heard of to get relief, but not until about a year ago when I saw Chamberlain's Tablets advertised and got a bottle of them did I find the right treatment. Since then I have improved and since taking a few bottles of them my indigestion is fine." For sale by all dealers.

The "Votes For Women" Movement a Forerunner of "Feminism" and Sex War.

ITS AIM "THE END OF A MAN-MADE WORLD, A MAN MADE RELIGION AND A MAN-MADE BIBLE."

WHOLLY ANTI-CHRISTIAN.

From Courier-Journal

In an article entitled "The Free Woman of the North," by Mabel Potter Dagget, in the "Pictorial Review" of September 1915, we read of the wonderful advances of woman in the Scandinavian countries, owing to the fact that they have the vote. She says here in America we have thought we had comparatively easy divorce, but in America to obtain a divorce, there must be "grounds," which means that one party or the other to the marriage must be guilty of wrong to the other, but in Scandinavia the law does not require husband and wife to wait until one has wronged the other. They may sue for a divorce for the simple reason it doesn't cost anything. There is not even a lawyer needed. The process is simple: one notifies the magistrate that you are separating. You are not required to go into details. You simply state that you no longer wish to continue the marriage. Then one party to the contest goes away for a year—in Finland it is for only three months at the end of that period the magistrate hands you the papers that dissolve the marriage as quietly as it was made.

But even this amount of freedom does not satisfy the voting Scandinavian woman. Scandinavia was originated the "condemned marriage," which is without any legal tie. It is simply an announcement in the newspapers that this man and this woman have each other. A husband and wife. Either, of course, is free to leave the other at any time. This marital freedom, Miss Dagget tells us, has come through economic freedom. With the revision of the marriage relation, all special privileges for women, she tells us, are being abolished. This is the road on which suffrage and feminism are traveling.

After their recent big defeat the suffragist are turning their attention to new fields, and Kentucky is to be the next victim of their agitation. A State suffrage convention is to be held in Lexington next week, and two foreign suffrage agitators are to be sent to inspire Kentucky women with added zeal for the cause.

One of these is Mrs. Philip Snowden, a prominent English Socialist, who spends much time in this country working for suffrage. Mrs. Snowden will probably not express her Socialist sentiments freely in Kentucky, for American women are to be led on step by step the first step on the road to Socialism and Feminism being woman suffrage, but in Mrs. Snowden's "The Woman Man Socialist," she states her ideal as follows: "Free as the wind, the Socialist wife will be bound only by her natural love for her husband and children—divorce will be much more easy of access than the present. It is probable that the marriage service will be abolished."

"Frau" Rosika Schwimmer, secretary of the International Suffrage Alliance, is the other distinguished "foreigner." "Frau" Schwimmer is the woman who spoke for the suffragist in a salon in Columbus, Ohio, during the recent suffrage campaign in that State. She was introduced by the owner of the salon, and she said: "I saw me a splendid opportunity to make a little money. I saw that the suffrage party has an affiliation with either the wet or the dry interests." It was an interesting outcome of the suffrage attempt to face both ways on the liquor question that the prohibitionists turned against them and were a large factor in their overwhelming defeat by 181,900 in Ohio.

It might be supposed from "Frau" Schwimmer's title that she was a married woman, but this, it seems is not the case. She is one of the many feminists in Europe who have assumed the married woman's title in order to shield the mothers of illegitimate children. They argue that if all women married or single, have the same title it will not be evident whether a woman is married or not. Instead of trying to lessen illegitimacy, these Feminists are trying to remove every prejudice against it in law, custom or public opinion. In the countries where women vote they boast of great success on these lines. In Norway since women vote, a law has been passed that if there is doubt as to the paternity of an illegitimate child and if the mother can implicate several men as possible fathers they may all be taxed for her benefit! (See "Feminism in Germany and Scandinavia," by Katherine Anthony, published by Henry Holt & Co.)

"Frau" Schwimmer is the leader chosen by the suffragists to lead Kentucky women on the path they wish them to take, and on which they say suffrage is only a step. Let no one be deceived by the fact that the suffragist is not much talked of at suffrage meetings at present. The suffrage leaders are clever enough to know that it is dangerous until the vote is secured. When women have become voters, then it is assumed that they are ready to take further steps toward the Feminist goal. In Chicago women have already taken the first step, and at the recent National Suffrage Convention in that city, Prof. W. L. Thomas, of Chicago University, told his hearers that "Any girl, mentally mature, has a right to motherhood," and that woman's resolution of her right to motherhood is a revolution that is coming and no one can stop it."

What were the comments of the prominent suffragists who heard Prof. Thomas' address? Dr. Anna Howard Shaw, the president of the National Suffrage Association, said:

"The address has set every woman who heard it thinking, and they are thinking women who will consider both sides of such a proposition. Political emancipation is not the only emancipation." Evidently the suffragist and feminist leaders are fighting, also for emancipation from the principal of Christianity and monogamy!

The character of the women at the head of the suffrage movement constitutes this movement a menace to the welfare of the country. Dr. Shaw said in the New York Evening Post for February 25, 1915, that she believed in woman suffrage even if every woman voted wrong, and that she believed in saving this spoke for the thousands of women belonging to her association.

Mrs. Belmont, the famous leader of the Woman's Congressional Union, one of the largest suffrage societies in the country, said in an interview in the New York Times on Oct. 30: "If the women do not win here they will go on with the campaign in the States, but there will not be many to be said they may as well torment the member of the Federal Government. I expect to spend a great deal of my own time in Washington this winter."

A deliberate step to "organize" the members of the "Federal Government" at a time when these men are confronted with the most serious problems our country has had to face since the Civil War shows what unparliamentary views these women would be if sanctioned by the country that many thousands of anti-suffrage men and women are awake to the danger in the movement.

The only states to accept woman suffrage since 1913 are Nevada and Arizona, which are little more than mining camps and are the worst states in the Union. The suffragist one-time leaders in these states to the Socialist and J. W. W. who are everywhere allied with the suffrage cause and who are particularly active in those states. Woman suffrage has been defeated in the last year in the great States of New York, Pennsylvania, Massachusetts, New Jersey, Nebraska, North and South Dakota, Ohio and Missouri by overwhelming majorities. The Legislatures of the following states have defeated it also: Maine, New Hampshire, Vermont, Rhode Island, Delaware, Indiana, Michigan, North Carolina, Minnesota, North Dakota, South Dakota, Oklahoma, Florida and Alabama. When Kentucky's turn comes, there is little doubt that her name will be added to this roll of honor.

MABEL ASHCROFT, Boston, Mass., Nov. 5, 1915.

DANIEL BOONE'S HOME

Interesting Reminiscences of The Famous Pioneer.
 The Solid Old House in St. Charles County, Mo. Where He Spent His Last Days.

From St. Louis Globe Democrat, December 5, 1897.

To the stranger passing through the valley of the Femme Osage, in the Eastern part of Missouri, the great object of interest is the house built years ago by Daniel Boone.

Back from the winding valley road at a respectable distance it stands, low eaved, dingy, massively built, so near the big bluff is it that, seen from the west, it seems to be cut entirely within the embrace of the crowd of arms of the rocks towering above it. Almost a century old, it is solid looking and as defiant of the passing of time as its granite background.

Here the last years of Daniel Boone's life were spent. In the little upstairs room facing the frame addition, which plebeian utilities have built as a "lean to," the spirit of the greatest pioneer known in western history, winged its way to that world which even he might not enter in the flesh. With the growing reverence for history treating of America and Americans, it is passing strange that the foremost pioneer in the development of the west should be so nearly forgotten.

The bones of Boone now rest in Kentucky soil, in what he lovingly termed "the happy hunting grounds." But all ends there. No attempt has been made to appropriately mark the spot near Marlshaville, Warren county, where Boone's body was first consigned to earth. The German tenant of the house in which the pioneer died has no knowledge of its history. If it were not for the old stone house in the valley of the Femme Osage and the numerous bits of interesting history in the country which he had left his memory would be but a misty blur upon the minds of the oldest and as a blank to the younger generation.

The house in which he died is an interesting structure. It was built nearly a century ago. The walls are of bright blue limestone, and in many years have changed but little. Some gray granite runs through it here and there along the ravages of time. In many places the walls are six feet thick, and safely inside a wayfarer may defy the elements. When this massive old structure was erected it marked the extreme western limit of western agricultural efforts. It was, in fact, on the boundary line between the known civilization west of the Mississippi river and the unknown wilderness still further west of it.

It was one of the first houses erected in St. Charles county, and at that time the now fertile fields along both banks of the Femme Osage were a dense wilderness. Hostile Indians were on both sides. In this wilderness the sturdy pioneer built his home. It is now but the best of the material was used—blue limestone, for the walls and had sawed oak and black walnut for the wood work.

The latter days of the pioneer's adventurous life were spent at this place with his sons, Nathan and D. M. Boone. For several years he occupied a garret room of the old house as a sitting room and workshop combined. In this room he spent many days carving various wooden toys as presents for his children and friends. It was in this little garret room, too, that he kept the cherrywood coffin, fashioned with his own hands, in which he was finally buried.

Several miles below the Boone homestead is a farm formerly owned by Daniel Boone, which was transferred by him to William Cashaw. Richard Matson who now owns and lives upon this farm, has the deed from Boone to Cashaw. The signature of the pioneer is plainly visible. It was written lightly, but by a hand which betrayed the tremor of old age. The consideration was "three hundred dollars, American money." John B. Calloway, a Justice of the Peace, for Femme Osage township, affixed his signature. Matson says that the deed was duly filed with the recorder of deeds of St. Charles county. Beside this interesting souvenir, Mr. Matson has a number of articles, a table and several canes made from walnut lumber taken from the fort in Darst. Boone, built by the pioneer. At his place the Boone were besieged for several days by hostile Indians. Their water supply, which was taken from the big spring there, was cut off, and they were forced to dig a well nearer the fort.

Jefferson Calloway, a respected citizen, now a resident of Marlshaville, where Boone was buried, has a vivid recollection of the great wilderness. He remembers him as a tall, dignified man, walking with a cane. A feature of his dress was a cape of dressed deer skin. Boone was a very quiet man, courteous to all he met. A few years before his death he became taciturn and moody, and would several times each day, go up into his garret workshop and get into his coffin to "try the fit of it."

The above article was found in an old scrap book owned by Mrs. S. C. Franklin, of Mt. Vernon, Ky. A picture of Boone's Missouri residence also appears along with the article. The citizens of Warren county, Mo., dedicated a monument to the great pioneer at Marlshaville on October 29, 1915, at the original graves of Daniel Boone and his wife, Rebecca Bryan Boone, whose remains were transferred to Frankfort, Kentucky in 1845.

The Boone Valley Association, with headquarters at Mt. Vernon, Kentucky, are planning a highway from Lexington, North Carolina, Boone's old home in that state, to Marlshaville and Warrenton, Mo., Boone's last residence. This highway is named Boone Way and is already under way between Cumberland Gap and Louisville, a distance of 250 miles, 150 miles of which is already trucked, the remainder is being constructed. The two old homes, 1000 miles apart, will be connected by this highway. The routing of the highway was finished during the year 1916.

GET RID OF THOSE POISONS IN YOUR SYSTEM.
 You will find Dr. King's New Life Pills the most satisfactory laxative in releasing the poison from your system. Accumulated waste and poisons cause manifold ills unless released. Dizziness spots before the eyes, blackness and a miserable feeling are indications that you need Dr. King's New Life Pills. Take a dose to night and you will experience grateful relief by morning.

The one of this government to Great Britain on the shipping question ought to satisfy not only every one in this country who believes that an emphatic protest should be made against interference with our commerce, but the Berlin government as well. With a matter of dollars involved Washington in its representations employs language scarcely less forcible than it used in addressing Germany on the subject of the murder of American men, women and children. The tone of the communication indicates that it regards the violation of international law as but little less reprehensible than the violation of the laws of humanity and civilization.

WOMAN'S CLUB
 Friday, Nov. 5, 1915.
 The regular semi-monthly meeting of the Woman's Club, held at the home of Mrs. L. W. Belmont, was very interesting and well attended. As each interest was manifested in the plan for the year's work. The Vice President, who is holding in the absence of the President, presided. Some of the committees reported and then the subject of a new room for a library was discussed. Owing to the fact that the club does not own a building the question of a place for the books is even more perplexing than obtaining them. Some suggestions were made but no action was taken and this matter was left over to be taken up at the next club meeting.

As it did seem possible to have a representative from this club to the Fourth District Convention, held in Lancaster Saturday, a motion carried to have a written report made.

The Woman's Club has not been asleep, just resting it seems; but now it is awake and each member realizes there is a duty for her. Of course, the club has its successes and its failures, but being able to ever look at the obstacles and rejoice over victory, is no small virtue. Our membership now numbers twenty-one, a few members working for the civic betterment and the welfare of the general public. The Woman's Club first conceived the idea of a Lyceum course for Mt. Vernon. Two years ago a short but very good course was given. The course given last year was not so good, but this year we are to have a course second to none. The Woman's Club can't go far in the line of financing, yet they are willing to work and will do their utmost to make the Lyceum course a success. This is only one of many things the club has been the means of bringing about. It is hoped that the Literary movement will prove as successful.

The meeting was adjourned until Friday Nov. 5. The next regular meeting will be held at the Langdon Dormitory. The Home Economic department will have charge of the program and Misses Schen and Newberry will give a demonstration in Domestic Science.

ROCKCASTLE COUNTY CIVIC LEAGUE

We are finding the good citizens of the county not only willing, but anxious to support the Civic League. It is a general opinion that it is the right time for such a move, and it is only a matter of a few weeks and a strong organization will be effected. The membership pledge card—which we shall quote again—reads as follows: "As a citizen of Rockcastle county, I pledge myself to obey and support the laws of Kentucky, applying to said county, and shall use every honorable means to induce all others to obey and support the same."

This pledge has been signed by the following men: E. S. Albright, U. G. Baker, S. F. Bowman, Alfred Bryant, J. H. Barnes, D. C. Clark, E. B. Cox, Robt Cox, C. C. Cox, W. A. Cox, C. C. Davis, Brack Durham, M. G. Fish, W. H. Fish, W. A. Wallin, E. R. Gentry, Fred Kruger, J. A. Landrum, A. G. Lovell, James Mares, J. T. Meadows, C. Moore, M. J. Miller, Floyd Miller, W. A. Owens (Spiro), James Pinkerton, W. M. Poynter, D. C. Poynter, W. B. Reiske (Fine Hill) W. J. Sparks, C. D. Sutton, F. L. Thompson, Jr., C. M. Thompson, E. B. Taylor, J. J. Van Winkle, James Winstead, H. T. Young. Others have promised by signed pledge cards, but the cards have not reached the secretary, and many good citizens have not had an opportunity yet.

The next meeting of the Civic League is to be held at the Court House on Friday night (Nov. 12) at seven o'clock. This is an important meeting and we should like to have all of the present members, those who expect to become members and all friends of the movement, both men and women, present.
