FOOD CONTROL POLICY STATED

Unwarranted Hoarding To Be Prevented; Supplies Will Be Requisitioned and Prices May Be Established.

PRODUCERS ARE TO BE PROTECTED

Washington, May 24—President Wilson in a statement to night outlining the administration's food policy, announced that he had asked Herbert C. Hoover to become American food administrator and that Mr. Hoover would accept the place.

Mr. Hoover proposed that the food administration be divided into four great branches whose duties he defined in detail. Most of the work would be carried out by men and women of the country on a volunteer basis.

Five cardinal principles of food administration outlined by Mr. Hoover in his statements are:

- "That the food problem is one of wide administration and not expressed by the words 'distributor' or 'controller' but food administrator."
- "That this administration can be largely carried out thru the coöperation and regulation of the existing legitimate distributive agencies, supplemented by certain emergency bodies composed of representatives of the producers, distributors and consumers."
- "The organization of the community for voluntary conservation of food stuffs."

"That all important positions such as they may be, shall be filled with volunteers."

"The independent responsibility of the food administration directed by and under the President, with the cooperation of the great administrative organization of the department of commerce, the Federal trade commission and the railroad executives."

The object sought to be served by the legislation asked for are:

- Full publicity into the existing and all the stock of foodstuffs and in the costs and practices of the various food producing and distributing trades, the prevention of all unwarranted hoarding of every kind and of the control of foodstuffs by persons who are not in any legitimate sense producers, dealers or traders; the requisitioning when necessary of the ordinary machinery of food supplies and of the equipment necessary for handling them properly; the licensing of wholesome and legitimate mixtures and milling percentages; and the prohibition of "the unnecessary or wasteful use of food."

Authority is asked also to establish prices—not in order to limit the profits of the farmers, but only to guarantee to them what is necessary, a minimum price which will insure them a profit where they are asked to attempt new crops and to insure the consumer against extortion by breaching up corners and attempts at speculation when they occur by fixing temporarily a reasonable price which middle men must sell.

President Wilson issued a statement in part as follows:

"Altho it is absolutely necessary that unquestionable powers shall be placed in my hands in order to insure the success of the administration of the food supplies of the country, I am confident that the exercise of those powers will be necessary only in the few cases where some hoard and selfish misroir proves unwilling to put the nation's interests above personal advantage, and that the whole country will heartily support Mr. Hoover's efforts by supporting the necessary volunteer agencies thruout the country for the intelligent control of food consumption and securing the cooperation of the most capable leaders of the very interests most directly affected; that the exercise of the power deputed to him will rest very successfully upon the good will and coöperation of the people themselves and that the ordinary economic machinery of the country will be left substantially undisturbed."

EAT PLENTY, WISELY AND WITHOUT WASTE.

Mr. Hoover said tonight:

"We do not ask that the American people should starve themselves, but that they should eat wisely and without waste."

"It is my present idea to propose a plan to the American women by which we ask every woman in control of the home food to join as a social member of the food administration and give us a pledge that she will go far as her means and circumstances permit, carry out the instructions which we will give her in detail from time to time."

Mr. Hoover's statement closes with this appeal to the country:

"Probably more seriously than any one else in the country, I recognize the difficulties and possibilities of failure in this work

E. R. GENTRY

TO THE REPUBLICAN VOTERS OF ROCKCASTLE COUNTY:

In his announcement, my opponent for the Republican nomination for county attorney made some reflection on my record as an official. I take it from what he said and it is understood generally that he wishes to uphold the present administration, by saying that I am wrong, thus endorsing the extravagant, a business like and illegal expenditure of the peoples money, condemned in my announcement. I expect to prove to the people in this campaign that I have at all times endeavored to protect their interests and despite the fact that I have been handicapped in the enforcement of the law, I sincerely tried to do my duty. My opponent is at liberty, as he wishes to shield those who are really responsible for the present condition of affairs in this county, by placing the blame on me as his announcement would indicate. I am ready to defend my record before the people and substantiate every statement I have made.

It will be remembered, Mr. Thompson, that you have an official record, having been elected by the people to represent them in the Kentucky Legislature. It will be remembered that you were elected that you were elected on a dry platform, running with a dry candidate for governor and from a dry district composed of the counties of Rockcastle and Laurel, and yet you go to Frankfort and in the face of all you violated every principle of prohibition and local prohibition party, and soldly supported by your constituents, a platform on which our great leader, E. C. O'Neal, stood and a platform which you said in your campaign was big enough for you to stand on. That platform pledged you to support the County (Hill) Bill, yet in the face of all that when the final test came you have betrayed the trust the people had placed in you and voted against the bill. When you entered the legislature, we had a law in this state which if it were in effect now, not one drop of intoxicating liquor could be shipped into this county. You introduced and made a fight for a bill to open that law prohibiting the shipment of whiskey into dry territory, and as a result of its repeal, the Wob's Kenyon law is of no effect in this state. In that keeping faith with a constituency which elected you on a dry platform and expected you to do for me people? A man's future can only be judged by his past, and I am willing to place my record in the hands of you and let the Republicans of this county say who has FAILED, either as public officials, servants of the people, or in a private career as citizens of the county.

Mr. Thompson has also been saying he hoped I would raise the question of his eligibility to this office. If it were for my own interest alone, I would not mention this, but after studying the matter over carefully, I am convinced that the welfare of the republic and the integrity of the county are at stake. I have consulted the very best legal talent in the state and have their letters in my office. It is their opinion that if Mr. Thompson should be nominated to this county he would be ineligible to this office, and I can read by any one wishing to investigate Section 100 provided, that a person is eligible to the office of County Attorney, must be a resident of the county one year next preceding his election. I now challenge Mr. Thompson to the Republicans of this county he can vote in Bell county on November 7th, 1916, that he is not eligible, and it is putting the whole party in bad light by trying to secure this nomination. His action shows clearly that he is only trying to further his own selfish purpose and is willing to hazard the interests of the republican party to do so.

I appeal to you to support me in this race and show to the people of Rockcastle county that you approve clean government, sobriety in office and strict, but fair and impartial enforcement of the law. I expect to see each voter during the campaign, but should I fail to see or have a talk with you, your vote and influence will be appreciated.

Yours truly,
E. R. GENTRY.

W. H. CARMICAL announces for ASSESSOR

Having consulted several of our friends of our Republican friends, I hereby announce myself as a candidate for the Republican nomination for the office of Assessor, subject to the Primary on August 4th, 1917.

As my opponents have made the people so many promises, as to sobriety, biting dogs, and various other promises which are all O. K., it seems that they have left me out of the ring. As to promises, I will say that the last few years of my life has not been what it should have been, but I did not write the Declaration of Independence or the Ten Commandments; neither did I write that infamous dog law or the State books of Kentucky; neither have I been baptised with the baptism of the Holy Ghost; neither have I talked in tongues, but have been baptised with that spiritual and living water of which I have not heard as I should and was taught to do. So dear friends, take me as I am and if I am nominated and elected I hope to live to make you an officer that you will not be ashamed of. Hoping to see all the voters of this county before the election, I remain,

Your friend,
W. H. CARMICAL.
