 Our advice is fill your coal houses this year can there is no special cause for the coal situation to go bad in Mt. Vernon but we are sure to have it this winter and the coal which is being shipped from here now should be going in the coal houses. You can buy it now if you want it, and now is the time to act.
 Our Soldier boys forty strong boarded the special train here at 1:30 today for Camp Taylor. They were fine looking set of boys. The occasion was one of the saddest witnessed Mt. Mothers, sisters, fathers and friends all alike, felt deeply the solemnity of the occasion and as the train moved out, the boys waving good bye, there was scarcely a dry eye left behind.
 The six boys who went to Camp Taylor on the 8th Inst. are their new uniforms and looking fine. They are in at 27th Battalion, 15th Depot Brigade. CANNING CLUB

Several requests have come to this department for good recipes for pickling corn and beans.
Foxt Cox.
 Scald corn on cob, then plunge in cold water. This sets the milk in the corn and makes it more pleasant to handle, then cut from cob, being careful to not cut too close, pack in a crock or keg, first a layer of salt, then an inch layer of corn, then a sprinkling of salt and layer of corn. Continue in this way until container is within four inches of top, put on layers of cabbage leaves or corn husks, then cover and weight as with brant. Use 1 lb. of salt to 4 lbs. of corn. If time should sink in course of 24 hours, make fresh brine of 1 lb. salt to four quarts of water and add. The same recipe applies to beans, on string and break beans, and do not staid.
 Literature can be gotten from Home Demonstration Department Box 22, Mt. Vernon, Ky., or Peoples Bank, Bodhead, Ky., any thing on food conservation.

Says Phosphates Make Beautiful Women and Strong, Healthy, Vigorous, Robust Men.

Physicians all over the world are prescribing phosphates to build-uprun-downnenucconditions and those who have changed their habits with Argo-Phosphate are changing their ennemic woman with tenseness, flabby flesh, into the most beautiful rosy cheeked and plump round formed woman imaginable.

Atlanta, Ga. Dr. Jacobson said in a recent interview that 80 per cent of meniscs suffer from nervous breakdown which can only be corrected by supplying the necessary phosphates to the nervous system that is lacking in the food you eat, and this can be quickly supplied by taking two or two 5 grain Argo-Phosphate tablets after each meal, and at bed time. It will in many cases make a pale sawnny face the picture of health in a few days. I have seen woman that I expected would have to be kept under treatment for months restored to perfect health in one or two weeks time.

SPECIAL NOTICE. The Argo-Phosphate recommended by Dr. F. H. Jacobson contains phosphates such as are prescribed by leading physicians throughout the world and it will be found most effective form for treating patients with Nervous Depression, Stomach troubles, Brain Fags, and Nervous Prostration. It will re-awaken youthful vim and vigor, and build up the whole body. If your druggist will not supply you with Argo-Phosphate, send $1.00 for two weeks treatment, to Argo Laboratories, 10 Forsyth St., Atlanta, Ga.

When Croup Comes Treat Externally

The old method of dosing delicate little stomachs with nauseous drugs is wrong and harmful. Try the new treatment—Vick's "Vap-O-Rub" Salve. Just rub a little over the throat and chest. The vapors released by the body heat, loosen the clogging phlegm, and ease the difficulty breathing. A few applications insure relief. Price 25c, 50c, or $1.00.

A WOMAN LAWYER

By HENRY WALDRON.

The town of Hanley knew the Widow Burns as moderately well off and having a daughter who was very pleased and very bad tempered.

The widow also was reputed of being an obstinate woman and very commanding. When she wanted a mulberry tree in the street in front of her house filled up she commanded the town authorities to do it, and the nuisance vanished or there was a row.

When the town wanted a footbridge over Mill creek, behind her house, to accommodate a score of workmen, she said those sons of toll could either waste the creek or take the long way around, and they are taking that way yet.

The town bought a site for a new schoolhouse, the new building would cut off the widow's view of the mill-pond, and she threatened injunctions and lawsuits until the site had changed.

When the good wife of Jonas Richards died some gossip that had been buried for twenty years was revived. The Widow Burns, as a girl, was engaged to Jonas Richards, as a young man. They had a quarrel and a separation, and each found and married a new love, until that day (and then) the gossips were ready to whisper.

Mr. Richards had one child—a daughter, Nellie, eleven years old. Between her and the widow's daughter, Vio, there was a feud as a matter of course. With the young men of the town it was between a pretty face and a plain one, with the men too, it was up to the time Mr. Richards became a widower Vio's mother had very few prospects of consolation for when she lost a beau, but later on she one day said to her:

"That Richards girl may have a stepmother some day to bring her to time."

"You don't think her father will ever marry again?" was queried.

"It wouldn't surprise me."

"What man would he be?"

"Never you mind."

"Why, mother, you must know some thing."

"It is true that she is engaged to Frank Haskell," asked the mother.

"Yes, they say so."

"And when is the marriage to come off?"

"The date is set. It is waiting for an omen to be settled up."

"The stepmother might forbid him to be there."

"Oh, he would do just as he was told by his new wife, even to locking her out if she made too much fuss."

"I don't wonder if she would be his wife, and of course I shall say just what I mean an early date."

How the wife of the Widow Burns smiled the long-standing quarrel—the widow was drawn to her daughter, and not so much surprised to hear her say so.

"I have changed my mind about Frank Haskell."

"What do you mean, father?"

"He is not to come here any more, and neither are you to meet him any where."

"But we are engaged!"

"You must break it."

"I must have good reasons to."

"There were no reasons. The next day Nellie Richards met Frank Haskell on the street, and as they walked she told him what had occurred."

"It is the doings of the Widow Burns," he replied. "It is more than anticipated that your father and she are to be married in a few weeks. We must do something."

There was a woman passing her vacation in Hanley, and it was understood that she was a lawyer, Young Haskell secured an interview with her to ask if she were a member of the profession and to add:

"I want some legal advice. I am engaged to a girl whose father has turned me outdoors."

"If it is not the case of the kind."

"She is willing to elope with me."

"Well, why don't you do it?"

"Because she is only eighteen, and under the laws of the state it would be abduction."

"Has she not any friends over at Gratton, for instance?"

"I think so."

"Well, I am going to drive over there Thursday morning. If I should find a young lady near the schoolhouse at about nine in the morning I would ask her to ride with me. You had better go over Friday to see a tailor, if you are near the post office at such place, I think you may see a young lady looking anxiously around. Perhaps she'll send you to the house of a minister."

"And about the fee?" asked the client.

"Oh, as I am on my vacation, I shall charge you nothing."

Miss Nellie Richards took a walk across the town as soon as her father's house. It ended at the schoolhouse door. She was sitting on the steps when a lady drove up in a buggy.

After three days the newlyweds came home to face the music. There was no music. Mr. Richards extended a hand to either and said:

"Children, I'm glad you are married."

Wayside Notes

By "J. M."

The hemp crop in Clark is much better than expected...

Met our old friend C. C. Davis here a few days since where he was a mighty welcome visitor.

It appears strange that automobile associations have not evolved a "system of signals" to be used by users of that popular machine...

Our good friend Jack Conn, the "sage of Ararat Pass," (being a resident of the city he assisted in creating and a citizen thereof a longer period than any other man a mighty good man with it, entitles him to the honor title), noticing in our notes...

The Count of National Defense, in his speaking campaign over the county could do good by calling the attention of the farmers to the question of organizing for raising and marketing the Rocky Ford melon in 1918.

Possibly from modesty, not a great number of Rockcastle boys and girls who have located in counties and states, have dropped me the requested letter or card advising of their location, avocation and success.

A melon raiser from Moberly in our Madison county tells the writer that 430 acres of Rocky Ford canteloupes were cultivated in that locality last year and that was accomplished in Boston, Baltimore and in the larger cities of our own state.

We are confident that Rockcastle will be well adapted for raising these melons and we suggest that the business men of Mt. Vernon, Broaddus, Livingston, Conway etc. take up this question, consult with county agent, R. F. Spence of Berea.

In the Cumberland, on Boone's Fork, up Rockcastle River, from Lexington at Cruise Ferry, is located the largest melon of Clark county, Col. R. R. Perry, who has made the good fight for the betterment of conditions and the uplift of his fellow man.

"When the frost is on the pumpkin and the fodder is in the shock" would be an appropriate time to awaken the activ-

I looked with dread upon and most not only my next, I suffered with my back and bearing-down pain, until life to me was a misery. I would think I could not endure the pain any longer, and I finally got worse. Nothing seemed to help me until, one day, I decided to
