AUSTRIA HAS HAD ENOUGH

In the direct and informal language of the curb, "Austria has kicked in." The news which a few months since would have created so wide a sensation, is fully discounted; and is received with that complacency that follows upon the consummation of a deal that long has been successfully in train; and which now is virtually complete to the profit of the party of the first part; and the salvation of the party of the second part. Austria would gladly have quit the war long ago, had it not been involved in what our rural Kentuckians know as a "tail-hold"—the same being equally difficult to release and to maintain.

Austria now sees no good reason for dawdling along with her former Prussian masters in the matter of negotiations. This is a sensible view of the matter; and especially so since Austria is enabled to see with the eyes of the world that her former Prussian masters are now impotent to make things perilous, or even disagreeable for her. Austria wishes to be left alone to seek something to eat, something to wear and a place to lay its weary head. Meantime the Czechs and the Jugoslavians are given full satisfaction; and it is apparent that any of the subject peoples may go as far as they like in self determination so far as Austria is concerned.

As an element of emphasis to Austria's note we find the gallant Italian esploratore prisoners on the Italian (Pieve, presumably) front; and otherwise comforting themselves as they never had heard the word peace. In France the Allies are proceeding about their business with a constancy that gives the lie to all suggestions that talk of peace might weaken our morale. These facts make the giving way of Austria the more useful and interesting; and from this viewpoint it is impossible to see why Austria should not be given and accept her quarters within a very short time. Then Turkey

GREATLY BENEFITED BY CHAMBERLAIN'S TABLETS

"I am thankful for the good I have received by using Chamberlain's Tablets. About two years ago when I began taking them I was suffering a great deal from distress after eating, and from headache and a tired, languid feeling due to my digestion and a torpid liver. Chamberlain's Tablets corrected these disorders in a short time, and since taking two bottles of them my health has been good," writes Mrs. M. P. Harwood, Auburn, N. Y.

With the American Forces, Oct 29, 10 p. m.—Abundant evidence is reaching our side of the line that German soldiers who are opposing stubborn resistance to the First American Army north of Verdun are fighting under the leadership of their officers from the rear and their resist, now the better armistice terms the Germans will be offered. Prisoners state that they have implicit faith that success in holding back the Americans now will have an important effect on the diplomatic situation.

There was no important infantry activity on the American front today. However, the artillery on both sides was busy, the Germans spending over 7,500 shells and we replying with some 10,000. Aerial activity is above the normal, thither Boche forces being brought down by our bird-men.

LOOK OUT FOR PETER PERKINS

The Story of a Man Who Came To By Abby McGuire Roach.

It was nearly nine o'clock when Peter got in from the field that night. "You're getting my coat and hat," and he was tired. None to nine was some stretch to go without taking on a faint breeze, but he was grumpy. Jim had had to go off with the draft that day.

Nannie, who was watching had his meal on the table by the time he was ready. She had had a hard day herself, and she was grumpy. She felt the comforting effects of that meal before he had eaten at it. "And still the kid to have his growl!" "Fine time of day the setting down of supper!" he said. "Might as well be some of them New York swell-bellied ones, and then on to a show at dance."

"Well, one more job 't' the good," Nannie smiled. "It's like the service flag painted on the big, white barn would have you—start, but on it, the lady said 'Play'—the folks 't' practice what folks like her are preachin'; and she said she didn't know but what yours was the hardest part."

"I went in with Jim, y' know, and after a while, we went in here, but that lady from the other side that the Government's scoldin' round. My, but it makes y' understand a lot better and brings things closer 't' y'. I hear some-thing like that, that's a whole lot to hear there, and it's make it all so clear!"

"She says the war hasn't really touched the country yet; we don't know much about smoke or blood or havin' 't' do without, not really. Why, she says in her country the little child-dren have been sent to their sugar for their soldiers, and in Russia and a lot of them other places over there they're in the stuff that we wanted that was fit for much of anything but the pick."

"She says we've sent ten million tons of food over last year, but this year it's got to be fifteen million. We feel a million at ourself, our soldiers, but next year it will be twice as many, besides all them other people behind the lines."

"She says we've just got 't' cut out—more—waste on all these luxuries and what we want, even if we haven't done it yet, an' everybody else will—ad 't' kicked, too—yet—Jim in it—of we don't—do our part in every way."

"Where's that outfit of pie that was left from dinner?" Peter inquired, having just about demolished all of position and looking for fresh terrain to turn his attention to.

"Oh, Peter, you can't have dessert twice a day! What was I just telling y'—the take-supper and the take-pie and pie takes shortly, and y' know it all them things that the Government wants y' to save for the soldiers, an' the other people over there."

"Oh, for the Lord's sake!" Peter broke out. "Good look, good food, money an' other people ever seem the start of the planned war. Seems like a feller 't' have anything he wants 't' out just so's he don't want 't' be a feller."

"You bread and vegetable and fruit and eggs and milk and chickens," Nannie murmured. "But Peter was in no mood to listen. "Carrie more about all them other people than about your own husband an' children! Carrie more about them people over there than about all us people over here! We're just as important as anybody, we do just as much. We do just as much as the soldiers," Jim says so, and you know it. They couldn't get along without us. Look out for Peter Perkins is my motto. We've got to do our work and we've got to have our food 't' do it on."

"Ah, lady said," Nannie spoke after a moment in a quiet voice, "that some people seemed like they couldn't understand until it got them or some of the people they cared about. She said that was why so many people was just beginnin' 't' understand—really—in this country. But she said—"

Peter got up and was looking around him like a bearded bull, and Nannie rose, too, her voice urgent and sinking 't' little with emotion. "She said a feller 't' have anything he wants 't' out just so's he don't want it to be a feller."

"Where's that—pie?" Peter had laughed, had growled. He was looking in the rear and the bread box. "You'd better let me have it because I'm find it. Pie or flat? Pie at any price for me. I'll eat Jim's pie, now, for him. Touch me anywhere else, but leave me easy in my stomach. I tell of that's what's a man lives for. But Nannie would not smile. She went over to the cupboard where she had put pie away for tomorrow's dinner and got it and set it on the table before him. Then she wheeled and started into the other room. On the rear of its ominous silence an uncertainty she paused, however, and turned. The last of the daylight was waning, and she looked bigger than the rest of the world, as though she were half light.

"I think you're right, wouldn't you? It had it people like you," she said. "She said you just didn't have 't' be—y' ain't got 't' be the vision, but I'd find. You make me like all over." "Aunt the only person that's ever 't' death of food."

8 room house, with two large halls, fine garden, large chicken run, two pasture lots. Formerly occupied by Mrs. Mary E. Williams.
R. G. WILLIAMS.

We are glad to correct a mistake we made two weeks ago in announcing the death of a son of Al Adams of the Quail section. Will Adams, we understand, arrived safely overseas some days ago and the other son, Jim, who was at home two weeks or more ago returned to Camp Taylor feeling fine after a visit home.
NOTICE TO USERS OF ELECTRIC LIGHTS.
On account of trouble with our generator, we are unable to give the service to our patrons that we want to give. Be patient a few nights until a man can get a man from the city to make the necessary repairs and the all night service will follow.
Mt. Vernon Power Co.

Scaffold Cane school district has the credit for being the only district in the county which stood 100 per cent on the Liberty Loan drive. Atty. C. C. Williams and Chas. C. Davis made that place; there were twenty five heads of families, which included every one present, and when the mass closed each and every family had pledged for a Liberty Bond. A splendid record and the loyal patriotic citizens of Scaffold Cane are certainly to be commended for such an expression of their loyalty to the Stars and Strips.
FLU.
Flu conditions are very much improved in Mt. Vernon. The only new cases reported this week are Logans Arnold and family and Marshal Pleas DeBord and wife. Mr. Arnold and wife certainly tried to do their part for those who have been sick heretofore and it is now up to the people to see that Mr. Arnold has proper attention.
The doctors report the general conditions throughout the county very much improved yet there are some serious cases in different sections.

DEATHS.
The following deaths have been reported from influenza and pneumonia since our last issue. While the toll is much lighter than reported last week, yet it is still heavy for a county with no greater population than Rockcastle.
The list follows:
Miss Risse Dolan, of Pine Hill, sister of Mrs. R. A. Welch.
Mrs. Harrison Ramsey, daughter of Mrs. Geo. Gentry and a sister of Eugene Gentry, who died Thursday night and Mrs. Ramsey died Friday.
A small child of Wiley Cable of near Brodhead.
Hobart Mullins, son of Charley Mod Mullins of near Withers.
Bob Baker, age about 23, son of Jack Baker, of Orlando.
Robert Moore, son of Tom Moore of near Livingston.
A small child of David Baker, Pine Hill.
Two deaths are reported on Crooked Creek but we are unable to get the names.
Mrs. J. R. Evans, wife of Magistrate J. K. Evans.
A small child of Dock Clifton.
A son of Rev. W. W. Durham and two children of Tom Philbeck of Johnson City.

Campaign Canard

The statement circulated by Dr. Bruner and others that Governor Stanley in a speech at Cincinnati on March 16, 1918, that prohibitionists were worse tyrants than the Kaiser and bigger fools is absolutely false, and was immediately corrected by the paper which published it. Congressman Alfred A. Allen and other distinguished guests who were present have also contradicted it.

This false statement is made at the close of the campaign for the purpose of prejudicing Governor Stanley in the eyes of the temperance people and to secure a repudiation of Woodrow Wilson at the polls.

THOS. S. RHEA,
Campaign Chairman.

Thanks to PERUNA

Mrs. Kate Marquis, Middleburg, Logan Co., Ohio, writes as follows:
"I have used Peruna with success for the cure of my catarrh of the head and throat. It is the best medicine for catarrh I have ever used. I am completely cured. Thanks to Peruna."
Mrs. Marquis is but one of many thousands who know the value of Peruna for that catarrhal condition of the membranes responsible for many of the human ills.

I Am Completely Cured

If you object to liquid remedies ask for Peruna in tablet form.
