Medicine And Surgery

By Dr. R. G. Webb

Few of us to-day appreciate the great debt we owe to primitive man. We are inclined to look upon unlettered savages as entirely devoid of intelligence, who spent their life hunting, fishing and fighting, when as a matter of fact they did plenty of service in "blazing pharmaceutical trails for the benefit of themselves and posterity. To them we are indebted for the discovery of some of our oldest and best drugs and surgical development. Like all human beings the cave men and savages were subject to the various ills to which flesh is heir and the more intelligent, selected roots, barks, leaves, flowers and minerals, for the relief of the suffering, through centuries of experimenting they acquired knowledge of the medicinal properties of the things nature provided. We of to-day are the beneficiaries of their work; despite the fact that there are many of us today that believe civilized man discovered the valuable properties of these drugs. The truth is that centuries before the dawn of the Christian era they were used in the pursuit of health.

Two startling examples of such drugs are the oil of chaulmoogra and castor oil. Centuries before the coming of Christ, oil of chaulmoogra was used beneficially by primitive man in the treatment of leprosy and in fact many cases were entirely cured and all were benefited. Today physicians are using the same drug with good results in the various leper colonies of the world.

Castor oil was discovered by the fellahene laborer of Egypt during the reigns of the Pharaohs and it has been used by man ever since. Primitive man suffered from constipation just as we do today so they found a bush that grew along the Nile and from the seed they either chewed or pressed the oil from it and found that it would relieve their suffering.

To these early pioneers we are indebted for many of our modern laxatives and cathartics, cascara sagrada being another one of the honey bee, the glands of animals, and many other medicines were all found by primitive man. The honeycomb we had any of our present day civilization, and all of these are good. Modern medicine has accepted the value of all of them, and we are using them today in our practice.

In surgery, primitive man gave us the ideas that we use and employ today, when one was cut, the lips of the wound thus made were drawn together and held together with nippers in its head, resembling our hemostatic forceps, was held close to the wound. The enraged creature would bring the edges together and would then lock its nippers. The medicine man then proceeded to pinch off the head, leaving the forcep-like nippers in place natural sutures. When the wound healed the nippers were removed. Honey was used by the cave men and savages in surgical treatment of wounds, they would smear a thin coat of strained honey over the injured parts and on top of this melted wax was applied as a cover. We do the same thing today only we do not use honey, however it is a good medicine and not bad for dressing burns or wounds, we use other antiseptics and then we use a bandage instead of the wax, but you can readily see that the wax when hardened made an excellent protection, no flies or germs could penetrate it, of course they sealed up millions of germs by this method but the fighting ability of their strong bodies were able with this assistance to overcome the diseased germs and the most of them got well.

For fractures of the bones they used moss covering around the arm or leg, then they would work and mould clay over that; when it hardened it had a fine splint to hold the broken bone, we do the same thing today, only we use cotton and over that plaster of paris, so again you can see that primitive man paved the way for us, we have just only improved on his methods.

I could go on and on listing remedies and treatments that have been handed down to us by primitive man, but I think this is enough to convince you my readers that we of today with all of our civilization, education improvements, inventions, schools and churches, should know more than we do, but I am sorry to say that we have people all around us today who, during all of these centuries have not learned anything and in fact are way below the cave man in understanding. We have those that do not believe in medicine, but believe in witch that the Lord should do all of our healing. We as physicians do not understand the power of God to help man and to direct and control everything here on this earth, but we do say that he made the physician, the roots, herbs, and minerals for the benefit of man and he expects man to use them according to his plan, a great many of these misguided souls do not know their Bible and when asked if they knew "The Luke" was a physician and that he was Paul's private physician they answer no.

Luke was an educated physician and was Paul's private physician and it was necessary for Paul one of the greatest writers of the new Testament to have a physician—why should not we.

The crying need of our people today is more knowledge of the laws of God and nature, I think that I can safely say that at least two-thirds of our sickness is due to sin, either by us or by our forefathers, we must learn these simple truths and we must teach them in our homes and schools so that our children may profit from our contributions to life. Every generation has its duty to perform, for the betterment of the next generation, the paths on which we have been traveling for all these centuries, won't you my friends help us to make that path just a little wider and easier to travel.

R. G. Webb.

Pays To Apply Both Lime And Phosphate

While the use of either lime or phosphate on land usually improves crop yields, the use of both gives much better returns, according to results obtained on 10 experiment fields which the Kentucky Agricultural Experiment Station maintains over the state.

For instance, where both materials were used the yield of grass and clover hay was increased by 188 percent, and of wheat 128 percent. Where lime alone was used, the increase in grass and clover hay was 57 percent and of wheat 20 percent. Where phosphate alone was applied, hay yields went up 82 percent, and wheat yields 67 percent. In other words, lime and phosphate combined double the increase in yields resulting from the application of either material alone.

Says Fertilizer Injures Tobacco In Plant Beds

Reports of injury to tobacco plants in the bed are being received at the Agricultural Experiment Station at Lexington. The young plants turn yellow and in some instances die.

This type of trouble has been studied for several years by Dr. W. D. Valioun and other plant pathologists at the Experiment Station, who believe it to be associated with the use of excessive quantities of fertilizer in the bed. Often a hundred-pound sack is used to 100 feet of bed, or at the rate of nearly a pound per square yard, or 4,840 pounds to the acre.

The trouble is usually noticed after a few days of dry weather when the soluble salts are carried to the surface and deposited there. Following a heavy rain or heavy watering the plants sometimes recover.

On rich land, and especially on burned beds, it is the opinion of such men at the Experiment Station that there is little value in adding fertilizer except when the rapidly growing plants show the need of nitrogen fertilizer. On poorer soils, 25 pounds of fertilizer per 100 feet of bed should prove ample.

Whitley Farmers Map Year's Plans

Farmers in Whitley county, Kentucky, bought 25 carloads of approximately 13,000 bushels of seed potatoes and planted an additional five carload of home-produced seed according to the check-up made by County Agent J. C. Aeree. A potato co-operative association is being developed in the county.

Plans made at a county wide gathering of farmers include the growing of at least a acre of hybrid corn by each of 24 farmers, the awarding of certificates of merit to all farmers sowing cover crops on all of their cultivated land; cutting and shocking of at least three-fourths of the corn, encouraging the use of purebred sires and the raising of better sheep, and the holding of a county fair.

Alfalfa Acreage Up

Seed dealers in Davies county sold enough seed to plant about three times the usual acreage of spring-sown alfalfa. Cattle raising and feeding have been increasing in the county and County Agent John E. McClure believes the increase in alfalfa growing is partly to meet the feed needs of cattle. However, part of it is directly due to the soil-building feature of the Agricultural Conservation program, he says. While most of the seeding was on freshly worked land, Edie Mulligan sowed alfalfa on wheat, using a rotary hoe to cover the seed. He expects to harvest the wheat as grain.

Let's Observe Decoration Day

Decoration Day, May 30, is a day when we pay homage to our war dead. Heroes who gave their lives that this country might live. It is altogether fitting and proper, using the words of the immortal Lincoln, that some tribute should be paid these brave men.

With this country on the brink of war, and many of our young men already in training camp it is no more than right that this county should take off one afternoon and observe this sacred day. An occasion such as this, cannot be properly observed, unless ALL STORES close for a few hours, and the entire citizenry turn out solidly and show that the fire of patriotism still burns in their hearts.

The American Legion should be the ones to take charge, and we feel sure that all other clubs in the county will lend their aid to make the day a success.

Kentucky Sorghum Has Many Uses

In the past we have always thought of sorghum in ten pound tin buckets or eaten with hot biscuits and butter, but the Marketing Division of the Kentucky Department of Agriculture, in its program to find new uses for Kentucky farm products, has broadened this field considerably. One of the latest uses is ice cream that is being flavored with sorghum and produced by an ice cream company near Lexington. It has been enthusiastically received because of its rich, tangy flavor and because of the large amount of easily assimilated iron in the sorghum, which makes it an extra healthy food for growing children and adults. It has a taste similar to that of butterscotch.

In Rockcastle County, a coffee substitute is being produced which has sorghum as one of its ingredients. Those who have tasted this substitute say that it has a taste very similar to coffee and it is very healthful for children and adults, and it is not habit forming and does not have food value.

A candy company of Lexington is introducing Kentucky sorghum taffy to its many patrons. The debut of this new candy will be made in Louisville at the Kentucky Derby. The new use of Kentucky products must be found and this shows some of the possibilities that are available for every Kentucky product.

Plan Short Course For Rural Pastors

The sixth annual rural leadership institute will be held May 12-16 at the University of Kentucky College of Agriculture, bringing together 125 rural pastors and lay leaders for forums, conferences and discussions. Subjects to be considered include a national program of defense, recapturing rural self-reliance, the pastors' work in the community, etc. Among speakers will be Dr. Henry W. McLaughlin of Richmond, Vt., director of town and country church work for the Presbyterian church of the United States; Dr. Carl Tausch of Washington, chief of the division of program of the Bureau of Agricultural Economics; President Raymond McLean of Transylvania College, and Dr. Carsie Hammonds of the University of Kentucky. Dr. Hammonds will give a series of lectures on "The Leader as a Teacher."

Special events include a rural leadership banquet, when the speaker will be Dr. Henry W. Sweets of Louisville, executive secretary of the National Christian education for the Presbyterian church of the United States. The Transylvania College "A Capella" Choir will furnish music.

Scholarships are being arranged to help defray expenses for pastors otherwise unable to attend. There is no tuition or registration fee, and room rent will be nominal.

Rural Life Sunday will be celebrated immediately following the institute, May 18. On that day a special radio program will be broadcast over WHAS, and pastors throughout the State will give special attention to rural problems.

S. V. Durham Returns From Radford Plant

S. V. Durham, of Bumgar, returned recently from Radford where he has been employed in the construction of the large powder plant at that place. Mr. Durham says that the plant will produce 380,000 pounds of powder every 8 hours. He worked as a carpenter for over six months and helped build the 22nd floor barracks.

In his letter to this office a newspaper published at the Radford plant was enclosed, and Mr. Durham called attention to a poem appearing in same, stating that "it should be encouraging to many people that are getting weak-kneed about our National Defense." The title of the poem is called "Transformation", and was written by Porter J. Winn:

In the heart of the Blue Ridge Mountains
In the Old Dominion State
Where the New River bends like a
Horseshoe 'round by the Flanagan
As the sun peeps over the rocky hills
And the river fo'f lifts like a shawl,
There's a clang of machines and a glamor of men
Over twenty thousand in all
The peaceful scenes of farm life
Has changed like a breeze in the night,
Where cattle grazed on the grassy slopes
Now rattles machinery or magnified from a magnifying wand
The whole countryside gives way
To buildings of brick and steel and stone
Whic'yzifies from the river's clay
In a jiffy from an am mud and dile

Each man has a job to do;
Twenty thousand strong they labor on
For powder must come through.
Their country stands at a crossroad
Either fail through night and day
Determined it'll be forever free
In the decent American way.

The homemakers Club, with the aid of the high school students, have had an intensive campaign to beautify "Red Park", which is located in the heart of Brodhead. The workers set out a large number of redbud, maples, dogwood, lilac, and other flowering shrubs. The Homemakers will welcome money or work that any civic minded person has to give. Benches need to be built and the ground needs to be graded for croquet court. Help the homemakers make this the loveliest spot in Brodhead. A good start has been made by the planting of shrubbery. We are very thankful for the work done by the High School students.

SLANTS

By W. L. S.

Every year business men take an inventory of their stock to see how they stand. It is important to know how much money you made or how much you lost. Some are highly satisfied with their year's business others feel discouraged. This is ever occurred to the ones who have been operating at a loss, that the reason they are not succeeding is because they lack push.

It is a well known fact that some people can go into a business that has been a rank failure under their leadership, and in a few months are making a profit.

We hear from all sides that Rockcastle county is a pauper county with very little future. We wonder if these people have ever taken an inventory of the resources of their home county.

Our county is large and has many resources. Many of these resources have never been pushed. Some sections of the county have excellent farming land, and the farmers in these sections make good money.

Recently we visited the Green Hill, Hiatt and Brindle Ridge communities. This part of the county has some real farm land, and most of the homes are nicely-painted and in a good state of repair. The fences are well kept, and the land well-tilled. You can't help but feel a sense of well-being when you visit this part of the county.

The Wildlife and Disputants sections are also known for their good farm land and enterprising farmers. The Wildlife, Ottawa, Quail and Level Green also have fine farming land.

In the mountainous section of the county, land is tilled in the valleys and along the ridges. Farming is a tedious job and the crops are usually poor. However, many people live here.

This mountainous country has one big asset as a scenic attraction, Salt Pond and other caves are located here, the first named being famous throughout the United States. The only thing that has kept people away is the lack of a good road. This lack will soon be supplied, for private interests are now building a road that will take the motorists direct to the cave.

When this road is built, many, many tourists will drive the few miles off their route to see this great scenic attraction. The people in this section will soon have a ready market for their hams and other products, and many other opportunities will present themselves to make money.

Rockcastle county might be bad off, but in reality have plenty for which to be thankful. A little boosting instead of knocking would help considerably.

Lambs To Be Pooled In Three Counties

As one means of improving incomes from sheep, farmers in Campbell, Gallatin and Kenton counties in Kentucky will pool the spring lambs this spring. Prime and choice lambs will be selected from flocks every week or 10 days, beginning about the middle of May and continuing until all lambs are sold.

Representatives of the Markets Department of the College of Agriculture at Lexington and of certain local markets will help farmers in making the first selections. A committee of farmers will be trained at that time so they can do the picking of the lambs thereafter.

G. P. Summers of the College, who has been assisting sheep men with marketing plans, expects pooling of lambs to add considerably to the incomes of farmers cooperating. It will mean, he said, more money for such farmers because lambs will be sold only when in prime and choice condition.

Farmers are planning to keep records of pool sales, and compare them with sales made in the regular way. Records also will give information which they can use in improving the quality of lambs in coming years.

Mattresses Made In 53 Counties

Fifty-three of the 55 Kentucky counties having home demonstration agents now are participating in the rural mattress program, according to Miss Myrtle Weldon, state leader of home demonstration work. To date 3,190 mattresses have been made, with 24,379 applications approved for filling later. Continuing the report: 3,499 bales of cotton, have been ordered, with 2,174 received; 475,700 yards of ticking ordered and 231,343 yards received.

As to the work of comforters, 798 have been constructed. A total of 315,925 yards of percale have been ordered with 88,276 received to date. To make the comforters, 172,350 pounds of cotton have been ordered.

The mattresses are made at community centers under expert supervision, by the applicants themselves. County Agent Notes

GOVERNMENT SEES MORE DEFENSE FOOD

The County Agent and County A. C. P. Committee attended a meeting at Somerset last week to hear an explanation of the government's program to increase food production in the interests of national defense and aid for Great Britain and other nations opposing the axis powers.

Farmers are asked to increase the production of hogs, dairy and poultry products and such vegetables as tomatoes for canning, peas, beans and sweet corn. Prices of these products are to be supported by government buying so farmers may be assured of a market.

Better feeding of hogs, milk cows and chickens is urged, so that production may be increased at once. It is suggested that hogs be fed to heavier weights, that cows be better fed so they will produce more milk and that an effort be made to produce more eggs. An increase of 15 per cent in the number of chicks is asked.

Eggs, milk and other products will be sent to Britain in dried form, so shipping space can be conserved. Almost unlimited quantities of tomatoes are wanted for canning, it was stated at the meeting.

The State College of Agriculture, through its extension service, is conducting a campaign to encourage bigger and better gardens this season. Families are urged to enlarge space and grow more vegetables of all kinds, not only for home use but for canning and storing for next winter.

MORE SHEEP MORE MONEY

Clyde Linville, Bud Egan, Tom Barrett, W. S. Stewart, Arthur Brown, Fred Moore and scores of other farmers can testify that sheep pay big dividends. These and other farmers are making from $7 to $10 per ewe each year. The ewes only cost from $8 to $10.

The County Agent is calling a meeting of the County Sheep Committee to meet at his office, Mt. Vernon, Saturday, May 10 at 10 a. m. to outline plans for securing 500 to 1000 North Western Blackface ewes for this county. Farmers interested in buying some of these sheep should contact their local committee member or the County Agent at once.

The County Sheep Committee consists of the following men: R. L. Smith, Hardin Moore, Oscar Taylor, Taft Bullock, Sam Parcell, Howard Linville, A. F. Lawrence, Bud Anglin, Clyde Linville, Walter Durham, Arthur Brown, Wm. Drew, Claude Gilliam, W. H. Jones, Frank Heston, W. S. Stewart and Fritz Krueger.

Others interested in this Sheep Planning Meeting are invited to attend.

The Association Sunday School Rally was held at our church last Sunday afternoon. Mr. Austin Staverson, Supt., presided. Although the attendance was not what we had anticipated, we were very well pleased with the number present. Brothead, Freedom, Otawa, Sals Springs and Mt. Vernon churches were represented. Perhaps some of our people didn't know of the meeting or forgot it. At any rate, there were enough present to have a good meeting. The meeting consisted of a devotional, general discussion and brief talks on Sunday School work. Bro. Mahan brought a brief and inspirational message on "Soul Winning." The next meeting will be held at Freedom church, June 1st, 2:00 p. m. Let everybody concerned plan to attend.

Let it be remembered: That there is much to be done in our association in evangelism, teaching and training.

That the task is ours — we cannot expect others to do it for us.

That nothing worthwhile and far-reaching can be done without co-operation on the part of our people. There are those who are present but criticize, but this sort of service is not that kind needed. In co-operation that we want and must have in order to accomplish our task.

Be sure questions that will clarify our needs.

How long will it take to make my community, and association, really Christian, if every other servant of Christ worked at it and prayed for it just as we do.

How long would it take to make my whole nation really Christian, if all Christians gave their prayers, efforts and money toward it just as I am doing.

Men and Motors—The New Army on Wheels

Uncle Sam's motorized force—the new army on wheels—is symbolized by the "dawn patrol" of Chevrolet 4 x 4 army trucks shown across the bottom of the photo. The Chevrolet "four-wheel-drive" army truck carries a complete telephone switchboard. Within a few minutes after the Fourth Division's motorized units completed a 235-mile trek from Fort Benning, Ga., on a practice mass movement, Major-General Lloyd R. Fredendall could communicate with every part of the vast encampment. The Fourth, moving in three columns, each 45 miles long, made the trip in 10 hours as compared with nearly 10 days before motorization.

How long would it take to make disciples of all the nations, if all other Christians were to give the program of this association. Let us live I have given it in my life.

Have I any moral right to expect other Christians even of preachers and missionaries any sacrifice in time and money for Christ and a lost world that I am willing to make myself. The work of winning the lost and enlisting them in service is as really and fully the work of one Christian as that of another. Let no one avoid or shirk it.

Opportunity is knocking at the door of every member in every church of this association. Let us rise up together and meet the challenge.

The Executive Board Meeting of the Association will be held at our church Saturday afternoon, May 10, at 3:00 p. m. Everyone is urged to be present.

Sunday Services

Sunday School 9:45 a. m. Chas. Brown, Supt. Present last Sunday, 229. Our lesson for this Sunday: "The Home and the problem of Beverage Alcohol"—Deut. 6:4-7; Jer. 35:5-10; text, Prov. 23:6. "Train up a child in the way he should go; and when he is old, he will not depart from it." Since Sunday is Mother's Day, a special program is being prepared in our honor. Gifts will be given to the oldest and the youngest mother, also to the mother having the largest family present. Cars will be provided for any mother who has no way of coming. Those who have no way will please call Mrs. J. T. Meadows, who will see that a car be sent. Our negro brothers and sisters are cordially invited to this service.

In connection with the Mother's Day service, the pastor will bring a message on "The Influence of a Christian Mother in the Home." Training Union—6:30 p. m. Mrs. Carrie Baker, Director. Present last Sunday 129. A special program is being prepared. The fathers are especially invited to come and sit with the mothers on this occasion. Let the entire family be present to honor mother. The most that we can do for our mothers, living or dead, is to love them.

Public Worship—7:30 p. m. Sermon: "The Sinner's Alternative." Christian people are expected to make an honest effort to bring sinners to this service. We wonder if we are giving due regard to this important matter.

Services Next Week

Workers Council—Monday night, 7:00 p. m. Every worker in the Sunday School and B. T. U. is expected to be present.

W. Y. A.—Wednesday 8:30 p. m. at the church.

Quotable Quotes

WHY FRANCE FELL—One way to govern men, Kipling once said, is to break heads and another is to break them. Democracy chooses to break them—When the majority sets out to destroy the minority—when it begins breaking heads—Democracy is done. That is what happened in France. That is why France fell. For France fell for want of courage, but for want of leadership—Andre Maurois, member of the French Academy, in the current Rotarian magazine.

GIVE NATURE A CHANCE—Prosperity is a flighty lass. Some say she is with us again. I doubt it. Why doesn't prosperity last? Curiously enough, you will find your answer among the flowers of the fields. Linnaeus summed up in the language of today simply, "Nature does not believe in short cuts." We tried to make the old lady take a short cut. She would not do it. We ordered a six-course dinner, planted the dishes before our welcome guest, and said, "Now eat." She did her best, the poor dear, but she soon collapsed.

—Hendrik Willem van Loon, historian, author, and artist, in the current Rotarian magazine.

WE DO PROGRESS—How about youth? Well, they are thrill seekers just like my generation and every other generation that went before. But they have aspirations and ambition, go to college in large numbers, prepare for vacations and citizenship, marry and have children, and are headed for a steady middle age. The only distressing thing about them is their intellectual cynicism, their preverse pessimism. They've grown up to doubt that there's any progress in the world. How can I prove to them that they run ringer around anything we had in my generation? Doubtless they'll discover that in time. Meanwhile, I note that the good old days are gone forever—and I see no cause for tears.—William F. McDermott in the current Rotarian magazine.

MOST FAMOUS LETTER—I suppose the most famous letter ever written is a letter written by St. Paul (1 Cor. 13). In the Authorized version, the Greek is translated "Charity," but what St. Paul meant by charity was intellectual sympathy; the ability to understand fully how people can hold views exactly opposite to your own.—William Lyon Phelps, professor emeritus of English literature at Yale University, in the current Rotarian magazine.

SHEEP DOGS ARE SMART DOGS—One of the great dogs of fiction is "Bob, Son of Battle." Scotch sheepdog herds—Dogs of the same Scotch border strain are doing an indispensable job looking after sheep in the western United States today—In these days when our dog aristocracy is too often bred for physical characteristics which diminish in intelligence, it is refreshing to know of the feats of these working sheep dogs, their quick intelligence, their firm loyalty.—Helena Huntington Smith in the current Rotarian magazine.

Other acreages planned include 350 in Ballard county, 250 in Carlisle county, 350 in Graves county, and 250 in Scott county.

About 100 acres of "green wrap" tomatoes will be grown in each of Calloway and Hickman counties.

The largest acreage listed for Eastern Kentucky is 35, to be grown in Pike county for the coal mining trade.

Several hundred acres of tomatoes will be grown in Jefferson county for the Louisville market, and in Campbell, Benton and other northern counties for Cincinnati and other cities of that region.

Grayson county farmers have made money from the sale of premium-quality spring broilers.

Kentucky Tomato Acreage Enlarged

When Secretary of Agriculture Claude R. Wickard asked for a 50 percent increase in the production of tomatoes for canning, Kentucky growers already had planned a big increase, according to the Department of Markets and Rural Finance at the University of Kentucky College of Agriculture. Probably 5,000 acres of commercial tomatoes will be grown in Kentucky this year.

It is expected that nearly 1,900 acres of tomatoes will be grown in Hickman and Fulton counties for a Tennessee cannery. Daviess county farmers will grow 500 acres or more for an Owensboro cannery, and growers in Henderson, Muhlenberg and Daviess counties are planning to set at least 500 acres for canneries at Evansville, Ind.

Farmer-owned and operated canneries at Calhoun and Beaver Dam will handle tomatoes from several hundred acres in McClain and Ohio counties, and Louisville canneries will take the crop from at least 250 acres in Meade county.

91 YEARS OF PROGRESS. A Historical Tour of the Louisville & Nashville R.R. Southward Expansion. RECONSTRUCTION days following the Civil War were a time of dire need. The L. & N. main line was robbed or wrecked. The road was looking forward, however, and invested $300,000 in a railroad bridge across the Ohio River at Louisville. By acquiring two routes, the L. & N. reached Memphis in October, 1872; by construction it reached Richmond, Ky., in 1868, and Lexington, Va., in September, 1870; and by acquisition of the Nashville and Decatur and the South and North Alabama railroads, and the completion of a double track line at Louisville through the site of Birmingham, it reached Montgomery, Ala., in September, 1872. Most important was the line to Montgomery. It resulted in the founding of Birmingham and the development of the vast mineral area in that district. The L. & N. spent large sums of money in the 1870's to attract investors and settlers to Northern and Central Alabama. Collins is one of the towns which owes its origin to this colonization policy. In the early 70's the L. & N. began the purchase and construction of a number of coal-burners to replace its wood-burners. Engine No. 29, or the "Southern Belle," designed by Thatcher Perkins, of the L. & N. shops at Louisville, was the first locomotive built south of the Ohio. PROGRESSIVE railroad even 70 years ago was the L. & N., looking to the future. It is the L. & N. to whom they were most needed. Its policy of colonization has been continued and now a complete department has been organized to bring new settlers to the L. & N. territory; to furnish dependable information and otherwise assist these seeking new locations or expanding their present holdings and practicable demonstrations of efficient methods in agriculture without cost.
