Insomnia

By Dr. R. G. Webb

Sleep reaches its deepest stage in from one to two hours after it begins. There is then, after a time a gradual lessening of the depth of sleep. However there is a great variation in this, for many persons do not have their profound sleep in the beginning or the first part of the night, but have it in the latter part when they sleep the soundest about two hours before rising. Now that my subject this week is dreams I have stated the above facts in order to explain to you the sleep stage in which we have our dreams and nightmares. During our light sleep it is early or late in the time when we dream, we sometimes have in this stage what we call sleep drunkenness, when we go on a spree of dreaming one right after another. When sleep is perfect and profound we may have some light dreams but we do not remember them. During sleep our bodies and mind are like a ship without a rudder we are just drifting and can not run on a steady course.

The pulsating center of the brain is excited from any cause, works and we have dreams, as a rule, dreams are made up of ordinary ideas that are the things that we have been doing during the day.

but in some cases our worst dreams are due to pain in some part of the body and under this head comes our night mares, our horrible dreams, and right here I want to say you have had those kind of dreams sometime in your life, when you would suddenly awake from some bad dream and it would take you some time to convince yourself that it was not true—a dream. Nightmares is a disorder incident to the hypochondriac state, and of light complete sleep, and as I stated in a previous article, the main cause is indigestion, over eating or eating some foods that are hard or impossible to digest during sleeping hours.

You will ask me, Doctor are there anything to dreams?—Yes some but nightmares when dictated to physicians that know something about your body, we can by a physical check up be able to answer your dream, and tell you the cause of it, so please get this point if you do not get anything else from this article. Tell your Doctor about your dream, not your neighbor or some mind reader, and nine times out of ten he can and will tell you the cause. Just to illustrate so you won't say, it is all wet. Your high blood pressure may be the cause of your low pressure, cerebral congestion of the brain, abdominal obstructions, and diseases of the stomach, liver and heart.

Civilization has brought on dreams, primitive man did not dream very much, he had nothing to worry about and his stomach would digest an iron wedge, so when he crawled in his cave he went to sleep and sleep sound, now we civilized people dream more and more, but we have learned to pass it off and pay no attention to our dreams, we have learned that there is nothing to them, that is I will say seventy-five percent. Oh yes some folks will tell you just what every dream means, but that is like going to a fortune teller, some guesses will hit, but in the long run it is pure bunk. So if you are doing a lot of dreaming and having bad horrible nightmares there is something causing it, it is not normal, not right and you should do something about it and I have told you already where to go. I am writing these articles in the Signal for the benefit of the PEOPLE giving you some of the things that I have learned during my busy life, that will entertain and help you. Please get this I am not a fortune teller, I am working for Uncle Sam examining your sons gratis, I have saved away enough to live on the rest of my stay here, and unless somebody or another panic takes it away from me, I have nothing to worry about. If you like our feeble efforts in trying to help you and yours on health, politics, religion, business or any other subject tell us about it, and if you do not do the same. The Editor and I will appreciate it.

More Cover Crops Needed In State

Lack of cover crops continues to be the principal factor contributing to the loss of soil and plant food on Kentucky farms, says a statement from the State College of Agriculture and Home Economics. It is estimated that more than three-fourths of the land devoted to cultivated crops lies bare in winter and thereby is subject to erosion and leaching.

Wheat is listed as the most important cover crop in Kentucky. Rye also is extensively used. Especially has Balbo rye been giving outstanding results in early growth, pasture and seed production.

The barley acreage in Kentucky has increased from 5,000 in 1929 to 125,000 in 1940. Winter oats are grown in some sections. A relatively new crop that is attracting attention is rye grass.

Vetch and crimson clover are extensively used as cover crops in Kentucky.

Several million pounds of vetch seed are produced in the agricultural conservation program this year.

County agents and the College of Agriculture have supervised a large number of cover crop tests over the state. Among some of the facts learned are:

That most cover crops should be seeded early for best results.

For late seeding, wheat or rye is most satisfactory.

The use of lime and phosphate is beneficial on most soils and essential on some for satisfactory growth of cover crops.

Balbo rye produces more pasture and affords better protection than common rye.

Winter pasture in general the least dependable of winter grains. The Fulwin variety appears more winter resistant than local varieties.

County Agent Notes

LATE GARDENS As beans, sweetcorn and any of the other earlier vegetables are harvested, the space should be cleared of the weeds and crabgrass, and sown with Sweet Potatoes, King of Denmark spinach made as a "true" green, Tendergreen and "mustard-spinach" will be tried. It is quicker than ordinary mustard and of much higher quality. Also, table turnips, Purple Top Globe or Purple Top Strap-leafed and the yellow "Swede" turnips should be started.

Each may be sown alone or in a mixture including all. Thus, and sowing continuously, as space offers, one should "hit" somewhere along the line. The seed may be broadcast, but drilling is best, offering more opportunity to spray for any insect pests that may come.

The extra greens serve as a cover crop, to some extent, but after it is thought that enough greens have been raised, a small grain may be used instead. In fact, sowing down all vacated spaces with barley, wheat or rye, and with it a half-sowing of greens, will assure enough greens and a dependable winter cover crop.

SHEEP The supply of black faced Western yearlings, ewes available to Rockcastle farmers is smaller than usually. The prices the ewes are bringing are much higher. Under these conditions the farmers should give first consideration to another means of getting desirable breeding ewes.

We can't do much about the price and scarcity of Northwestern black faced ewes now, but this fall we can buy Northwestern ewe lambs and carry them over until next year to insure ourselves against a shortage and high prices next year.

Since these lambs are bought in the fall and are usually true of internal parasites, when purchased in the best possible condition to carry them through in good healthy condition with an exceedingly low mortality—a great deal less than is the case with native lambs. Since these lambs are not being fattened, a small amount rather than a large amount after they are through small.

Under Rockcastle conditions, a ton of good feed-grade hay normally will suffice for ten of these lambs. Many have been carried, through on much less. Whether or not any grain should be fed depends on the amount of winter pasture and the comparative price of hay and grain.

The seven or eight pounds of wool these lambs should shear as yearlings will normally take care of all feed and pasture costs. So this would give the farmer, next fall, a much cheaper yearling ewe.

The final meeting for signing up sheep for the Sheep Growers Protective Association will be Saturday, August 30, at 1:30 p. m. in the Court House in Mt. Vernon. All sheepmen in Rockcastle county should begin now to make plans to attend this meeting.

The Rockcastle County Board of Education will meet at 1:00 p. m. on Saturday August 23, 1941 for the purpose of receiving sealed bids and letting contracts for coal to be furnished to County Schools. The schools are divided into eight groups. One may bid on as many groups as he wishes but only one group will be awarded him. Single schools require 75 bushels and double schools 150 bushels of good lump coal, free from slack, dirt, and screenings to be delivered on or before October 1st. The board reserves the right to reject any and all bids. For further information call at the Superintendent's office.

Agriculture Fair Dates Set For Oct. 10-11. To Be Held At High School

Co-operation of Entire County Needed To Assure Success of Worthy Enterprise

The Rockcastle School and Agricultural Fair dates have been officially set as Friday and Saturday, October 10 and 11. The fair will be held in the Mt. Vernon High School.

The committee on arrangements for the last week and premiums will aggregate over $400. This means that the fair this year will be one of the best ever held.

Every school in the county are invited to bring in exhibits and 4-H Club boys and girls will have an opportunity to exhibit their projects, which are a part of their projects.

A fair, if this sort is mainly co-operative affair. The fact that no admission is charged, and cash premiums are offered, means that the people of the county MUST by free-will donations make the fair possible. Last year a small 4-H Fair was held with only a few premiums.

The year before that a good fair was held but due to a lack of co-operation, the financial committee reported that the fair went in the red to the extent of over a hundred dollars. Many of these men went down in their pockets to pay the bills, that had accumulated.

This year a new plan has been worked out, which should prove successful. Honorary directors and boosters of the fair will be known by the fact that these men or women are given a printed card which their name will be given each donor.

A hundred such boosters will mean that the fair is a financial success. The financial committee this year is composed of W. L. Simpson, N. S. Smeck and W. R. Chapman. These gentlemen intend to care for the county, but it would make their work much easier if merchants, farmers and professional men would ask to be an honorary director and pay their membership fee willingly. Former residents can become members by writing to any of the above men, and a membership card will gladly be sent.

The importance of this fair cannot be stressed too highly. Almost a thousand 4-H Club boys and girls are intensely interested in this fair, for it is a means of showing their friends and neighbors what they have accomplished during the year. Many of our rural schools have exhibits showing the work our teachers are doing in these communities. It is an incentive to these groups to do better work if prizes are offered for the best accomplishments.

The drive will close Monday, August 25 and will close Monday, August 25. All honorary directors names will be run in The Signal, and the proceeds of the drive will be given next week.

WHERE THE BOONE WAY JOINS THE DIXIE"

Retail Stores To Sell Defense Bonds

Washington, D. C.—Defense Savings Stamps soon will be on sale in retail stores throughout the country. Secretary Morgenthau announced the extension of Defense Savings Stamps sales to retail outlets everywhere after a meeting at the Treasury Department today Tuesday, Aug. 12, when executives of associations representing more than a million stores pledged immediate participation of their members in the Defense Savings Program. Stamps will go on sale very shortly in department stores, grocery, drug, variety, furniture, hardware, and all other types of retail outlets.

At the meeting the retailers endorsed full participation in the "September 15 to 20, when the stores of every state will concentrate their efforts to enlist customers to buy Defense Savings Stamps." Before that time, most stores from coast to coast are expected to have Defense Stamps on sale.

The leaders of the retailers' associations met with Secretary Morgenthau and Treasury officials to present the plan for expansion of the co-operation extended by the retail organizations, saying:

"The Defense Savings Program is gaining momentum every day. The splendid spirit shown by the retailers of the nation in putting their associations behind the sale of Defense Savings Stamps is sure to have a stimulating effect in advancing the whole Program. It is another indication of the American determination to win the war by the united success in our National Defense effort."

"The thanks of the Treasury and of the Government are due the leaders of retail industry and to their members who are entering into the plans for 'Retailers for Defense' Week, and for the continuous activity pledged in the sale of Defense Savings Stamps."

Stamps will be sold in the retail stores at convenient points. The representatives of the retail associations explained: Defense Savings posters will be displayed, and store clerks will help to interest customers in the Defense Savings Program.

The retail executives said they had decided in the merchandising of Defense Stamps nationally following the success of the sale of Stamps in the State of Michigan. On July 10, the sale of Stamps was started in Michigan retail stores. The effectiveness of the plan, more than 20,000 Michigan merchants already are selling Defense Stamps, and the retail trade leaders reported they looked for double that number of Michigan stores to be selling Stamps by the opening of the "Retailers for Defense" week on September 15.

A. A. Inus, Director of Postal Field Activities, Defense Bonds and Stamps, who also attended the meeting, reported that 10,000 additional post offices throughout the country will begin selling Defense Stamps within a few weeks. This will bring to 26,000 the number of post offices offering Defense Stamps to the public.

Aluminum Drive Ends Next Week

The drive to gather scrap aluminum, which has been in progress for several weeks, will end next week, some people were notified today. Over 100 pounds of the white metal has been secured, and it has been dumped in the vacant lot next to the Bank of Mt. Vernon.

The Boy Scouts have co-operated by going from house to house and collecting the aluminum. However, some people were notified that if you have aluminum that you wish to donate, bring it to the dump as quickly as possible.

Towns throughout the United States have cooperated in this worthy cause, and several million pounds of metal have been secured. A metal shortage that would be a serious embarrassment of the building of airplanes, and it is expected that the scrap aluminum that has been donated will build thousands of bombers.

Carter Contest Lamber's Election

Suit Alleges Irregularities

Editor's Note: Since the filing of the below suit by Chas. C. Carter, Earl Phillips filed a petition Saturday to be made party and counter-claimant in the election of Carter by 291 votes, below the account of the Carter suit. County Judge, Chas. C. Carter, filed a suit with the Circuit Clerk, Friday, against J. H. Lambert, the nominee for County Judge, who won the election over Carter by 291 votes.

The suit alleges among other things, that Lambert did not file the correct amount of his campaign expenditures as required by law, and also failed to show the dates when the amounts were paid and to whom.

Mr. Lambert filed his pre-election expenses with the County Clerk and he listed the following: Mt. Vernon Signal, printing $1173.30; advertising, $34.20; gas, oil, etc., $15.00, for a total of $1222.50.

The suit states that the defendant had circulated and published newspaper articles, handbills and pamphlets, attacking Carter's raise in salary, and that this issue was made an important one in the campaign. Quoting from the text of the suit, "the defendant, his associates and campaign speakers by word of mouth and by publication in the Mt. Vernon Signal, handbills and circulars promised the voters of Rockcastle County, Kentucky, if elected or nominated as the Republican nominee for County Judge that the defendant would ask for a reduction in the salaries of the County Judge, and that the defendant and others in his chain of command, by knowledge and consent, did promise the voters of Rockcastle county that if nominated and elected that he, the defendant, would serve as County Judge of said county for the sum of One Hundred Dollars per month in addition to the fees of said office, and that he, the defendant, would return to the county the sum of one hundred dollars each month."

The suit also alleges that the defendant conspired with some of his friends and workers in direct violation of the Corrupt Practice Act for the purpose of securing their votes.

The above extracts from the suit filed with Circuit Clerk Murphy are given to Signal readers in order to acquaint them with some of the facts in regard to the pending suit.

It is understood that Mr. Lambert will have an opportunity to file an answer to the above-mentioned suit, and details of this suit will also be printed.

Saturday, Earl Phillips, who also was a candidate for County Judge filed a counter-claim.

Quoting from the petition, "The petitioner further states that this action now pending in the Rockcastle Circuit Court is contesting the election of J. H. Lambert, defendant, to receive and hold the Republican nomination for County Judge and that because of violations of the Election laws of Kentucky, and he further states that the said J. H. Lambert is a defaulter, and that the nomination of the plaintiff, Chas. C. Carter, to be declared the Republican Nominee for County Judge and each is seeking to have the other declared ineligible and disqualified from being declared a Republican Nominee for County Judge of Rockcastle County."

The petition also states that if Carter and Lambert be declared ineligible, that this petitioner is entitled to be adjudged the regularly elected qualified nominee for County Judge, and that his name so certified be placed upon the ballots at the November election and for that purpose he makes his petition a counterclaim against both the plaintiff and defendant.

Ky. Dahlia And Fall Flower Show

The Tenth Annual Southeastern Kentucky Dahlia and Fall Flower Show sponsored by the Barbourville Garden Club will be held in Union College gymnasium Barbourville on Thursday and Friday, September 25 and 26.

There is no admission charge and no entry fee.

Mobleys Visit Here On Southern Tour

Mr. and Mrs. Cecil Mobley and son Cecil, Jr. of Erose, Mich. visited friends and relatives in Mt. Vernon and Livingston last week, enroute on a vacation tour of points of interest in the South.

Mrs. Mobley will be remembered by her many friends here as Beatrice Bowman. She worked in Dr. Walker Owens office for five years prior to her marriage.

In a letter to The Signal in which she enclosed a check to cover her subscription for a year, Mrs. Mobley stated that she was still interested in Mt. Vernon and its people. On the trip South they visited Lookout Mt., Ribby Falls, the War Relic museum at Point Park and were especially interested in a one-horse shay, which had been used by Governor Cass, first governor of Michigan, in the museum. Returning home, Cumberland Falls and historic Bardston was visited.

Drivers League Wages Safely Drive

Merchants and individuals of Mt. Vernon and Brodhead are co-operating with the Safe Drivers League of America in waging a safety campaign here in an effort to reduce the number of human lives taken by careless and reckless driving. One person killed about every fifteen minutes in the United States. Over 34,000 killed last year. Posters are being displayed throughout the cities as grim reminders of the terrible cost of reckless driving.

The names of those co-operating in sponsoring the campaign here in the interest of injury prevention and accidental death are listed in an advertisement in today's issue of the Mt. Vernon Signal. If it saves one life or prevents one accident it will have helped fulfill the purpose for which it is dedicated.

FREE Training - that is worth $100.00. Such is the caption that will herald the start of an advertising campaign sponsored by the United States Navy. The first ad will be run next week. The advertisements will run in all newspapers in Kentucky with population less than 50,000.

W. L. Simpson, editor of the Signal has been appointed Navy Editor by Secretary Knox, to help the Navy in giving ambitious young men of this locality information about the opportunities the "two-Ocean Navy" offers them for technical training and advancement as they serve their country in its emergency.

The Navy accepts young men as low as 17 years with the consent of their parents, and older men may apply to enter the Naval Reserve.

Beginning this week, the Navy plans for a limited time to accept new qualified "men" for training. These men will be sent to one of our Naval Training Stations and may have a chance to go to a Navy Trade School even before assignment to the fleet. During this period they will be given regular Navy pay and their free schooling is valued at hundreds of dollars.

"Never in the history of the United States has there been greater opportunity for loyal young Americans to serve their country."

"Never can there be a right now," said Secretary Knox.

In outlining the many advantages offered by enlistment in the United States Navy, Mr. Simpson, Navy Editor of the Signal said, "It is possible for a bright young man to increase his income many times during his first enlistment and he can earn as much as $126 a month. This monthly figure is actually worth more when it is remembered that the man has few living expenses and is provided with the finest of medical and dental care."

"You have all your food and lodging, and also your original outfit of clothing provided by Uncle Sam free." Mr. Simpson continued, "In addition there are free sports and entertainment—even to the latest Hollywood pictures. On top of this you get free travel and adventure in colorful places—a thing few civilians can afford."

"When you consider the size of this country and the fact that the Navy will select only 15,000 applicants a month from many times that number throughout the United States, the quotation, 'Many are called but few are chosen,' will apply to local young men interested."

"Navy men are a 'hand-picked' lot. Candidates must be men of more than average intelligence and ambition, of fine moral character and must have the written recommendation of at least two local town-people."

As Navy Editor, Mr. Simpson has just received from Washington a supply of free illustrated booklets for all men interested, and in addition, will welcome inquiries from young men who wish to look into the new and greater opportunities the Navy now offers for training for future civilian careers as they serve their country now in its emergency.

Brodhead Fair Great Success

The 48th Brodhead Fair is now history, there is no doubt but what this was one of the most successful exhibitions ever held for the Brodhead Fair. The Fair is almost fifty years old and seems to be getting bigger and better each year.

From the large crowds each day and night and the overflow crowd Saturday night it is very strong evidence that people far and wide like to visit Rockcastle County and the Brodhead Fair.

The floral hall was full of beautiful exhibits, there could not be finer stock found anywhere—the cattle, hogs and horses were of the best to be found. The fair was excellent, the police force having made only a very few arrests, the J. F. Sparks shows with pleasing to both young and old and the free acts were of the highest type, the weather was favorable and everything worked like clock work to make the fair a success. The directors are to be congratulated on conducting a fair that not only proves to be educational and profitable, but one that will always keep alive that bond of friendship and hospitality for which Rockcastle County is famous.

Western Ewe Lambs Coming To Kentucky

Shorn ewe lambs of blackface cross types are arriving in Kentucky from California, Washington, Idaho and other western states, including the southwest. They are mainly lambs that do not have enough condition to make a high grade on the market.

Richard C. Miller of the State College of Agriculture and Home Economics says the majority of such lambs will make good breeding ewes if properly handled. They should be well developed lambs, however, and they should be well fed and given good care. Miller advises treating them for worms immediately upon their arrival on the farm, before they are turned on pasture, and every month thereafter until cool weather.

It is said that some farmers have bought these lambs and found the impression that they are yearlings or short yearlings. It also is noted that they were taken from such lambs before they are sold, giving the cost of shipping them from the west to the east. Miller believes farmers normally would be ahead to buy lambs for all delivery with the wool on them rather than to pay a high price for short lambs.

The purchase of blackface cross western lambs for fall delivery, to be carried over for yearlings, is one way of insuring against a shortage of ewes next year. Miller says there is a growing interest among Kentucky farmers in this plan of getting breeding ewes. Lambs can be carried through the winter on a small amount of feed. A ton of sheep can be carried on a small amount of feed. A ton of sheep can be carried on a small amount of feed.

THE MAN ON THE CROSS
When there is silence around me, I think of you by night.

My heart is stirred by a cry: It came down from the cross. The first time I heard it, I went out and searched.

And found a man in the throes of Crucifixion. And I tried to take the nails out of His Feet.

But He said, "Let them be." For I can not be taken down. But I said, "But I cannot bear to hear you cry."

What Can I do? What Can I do? Tell everyone you meet. That there is a man on the cross.

Agriculture College Plans Exhibit For Ky. State Fair

How soap, fertilizer and cellulose can be made from low-grade tobacco, a model farm supplied with electricity, and ways nutrition can be improved for defense.

These will be among exhibits by the Kentucky College of Agriculture and Home Economics at the State Fair, to be held September 6-13 at Louisville.

The tobacco by-products were found by the chemistry department of the Agricultural Experiment Station, in its effort to augment the tobacco market. Besides the products listed, insecticides, stains and other things vitally needed may be made. The setting-up and operation of the apparatus used in the research will be shown.

A graphic display may be seen showing how good and poor diets affect man's ability to assume responsibility in work and community and national service. The State's 42,000 strong, will be represented by the "cream of the crop" of their year's work: clothing, canned and baked goods, refined furniture, etc., etc.

Among other things to be shown in exhibits in the Grandstand building: How the farm industry has responded to the nation's defense need, in more and better production of poultry and gardens.

Bulletins and circulars obtainable through the state agricultural college.

In all, 12 booths will be ready to illustrate salient points in the college's work for Kentucky farmers, built around the theme, "How Kentucky agriculture can lead in national defense."

Farm Planning Discussed

Long-time farm planning, financing and budgeting were discussed at a meeting of representatives of the United States Soil Conservation Service, Farm Security Administration and Farm Credit Administration at the Agricultural Experimentation at Lexington.

Instructors were members of the faculties of the departments of Farm Economics and Markets and Rural Finance of the University of Kentucky. The school was given for the benefit of the Federal agencies, so their staff members might be better trained in the techniques of farm business analyses, budgeting and prices.

Credit Given To Mr. L. B. Elder

Early in the spring a call, through this column, for volunteer workers for the Christian Church Cemetery was answered by some half dozen men who gave a day's work and several others who donated to this cause, thus putting on quite a different appearance making one of the loveliest spots in our town. When the hot summer sun began to beat down the weeds and grass began to flourish and the workers began to lag, but one remained faithful thus keeping the cemetery in excellent shape. To L. B. Elder goes the credit, for he has not only pushed the lawn mower but has hired help from his own funds. It should be remembered that Mr. Elder does not have a relative in this cemetery and assistance in anyway would be appreciated.

Highway Employees To Assist Tourists

Enlistment of the entire Kentucky Highway Department in a campaign to promote the highest possible standard of service to motorists, was announced last week by J. Lyter Donaldson, Commissioner of Highway, in all of its activities, is maintained exclusively by revenue collected from motor users. The Commissioner stated that "the Department is justified only to the extent that it provides service to those who were responsible for its creation and continued existence."

Requesting that particular assistance be given to motorists for their comfort during visits to Kentucky, Mr. Donaldson said, "that he would like to have tourists from other states return to their respective homes with the very definite knowledge that the highway department of Kentucky had rendered to them every friendly and courteous service." "During the next few months," he said, "thousands of motorists from neighboring and foreign states will visit Kentucky and this purpose can best be accomplished by the exhibition on the part of the Highway Department of a friendly interest in those who are guests of the State."

Suggesting that employees familiarize themselves with various routes within the State and best available highways leading to Kentucky's many attractive points of interest, Mr. Donaldson requested that the recently published highway guide entitled "Kentucky Highways" be made available to out-of-state visitors in every possible instance, particularly at points of entry into the State.

Vetch and rye grass have been extensively seeded in Floyd county.

higher than average, and returns from burley tobacco were unusually good.

The total investment on the 107 farms averaged $15,406 per farm. The average size was 207 acres. Average cash sales per farm were $3,877, and the average cash expenses were $2,510, leaving a cash farm income of $1,367. After accounting for inventory changes, charging a percent interest on investment and adding in the value of home-used products, the average net earnings per farm was $1,645.

Increased interest in livestock in the region is noted by E. J. Nesius, author of the report. During the year 1940, the number of milk cows increased 5 percent; ewes, 13 percent; beef cows, 18 percent; feeding cattle, 20 percent, and poultry, 3 percent.

These increases in numbers of livestock indicate that farmers are realizing the importance of soil treatment and livestock to a profitable farm economy, says Mr. Nesius.

Eighty percent of Knott county farmers starting pastures now use two grasses and two clovers, besides lespedeza.

Year by year, the unit cost of electricity has come down until today the average customer of this company receives 53% more electricity for his money than he did in 1931. Newspapers all have some sort of name which they go by, and every newspaper that is published has its masthead. Some papers have common names—such as Sun, Globe, Star, Journal, Times, News, but many have individual reads which stand out. The majority of papers in this country go for simple titles such as the above. For one reason, a short title such as Sun, Signal, is much easier to say and it can be displayed larger on the front page.

In our years of experience on many papers we have run across some odd names for example a paper published at Linn, is called The Un-identified Democrat. Having been in this shop, and seen a copy of the paper we know that such a weekly paper does exist. Another paper in this same state is called The Republic. In Illinois we ran across a paper that was called The Telephone. In Kentucky one of the queerest names we know of is The Thousandsticks which is published at Hyden. The Log Cabin at Cynthiana and the Favorite at Frankfort are names that are out on the outside. The Magnet at Taylorville is another unusual name.

We worked on a paper at Brunswick, Mo. that had an odd title, but it was very appropriate. It was called The Brunswicker. Some people mispronounced the name and called it "Brunswicketer."

Most newspapers that are started by journalism students try to use tested titles instead of trying to think up a name that is unusual. The old-time printer was a colorful "nerd" and he liked to get only "dress up" his advertisements, but he loved to "write up" his subscribers and enemies. An old-time editor who never ran "hot" editorials was a rarity. Usually after an especially vindictive act of editorializing he was forced to hide for several days. People turned to the editorial column first, for that was the choicest portion of an otherwise dull sheet. Wrongdoers feared the militant pen of the country editor, far more than they did his fist. For some of these old editors knew how to use the public to a fever pitch.

Today the scene has changed but many of the old-time mastheads will be preserved for centuries. The Un-identified Democrat down in Missouri with two large roosters on either side to give coverage will remain unaltered, at least until the sheriff looks the doors, and to this date the roosters are still crowing, although countless impressions on the press, have ruffled their tail feathers somewhat.

Christian Church

By Aubrey Russell

Before you make any plans for the fall season let us remember the church has a place for you and has been missing those who have been absent this hot weather. As you think about the things that need doing during the next few weeks do not fail to include regular attendance at the house of the Lord on Sunday morning and Sunday night.

There are some days of importance here at the Christian Church that should be of interest to every member. On Wednesday, Aug. 27 there will be an all-day meeting here at the church for the purpose of cleaning, inside and out. Come one, come all to help make the church and yard more beautiful. Dinner will be served by the women.

On Sunday the 23rd the County Convention will meet here at the church for an all day meeting. Sunday School hour will be as usual with a state representative bringing the morning message. At noon there will be a basket lunch and the afternoon program will consist of various reports and messages from several speakers.

On the first Sunday night of September Prof. George V. Moore will be with us and will not miss the evening message, but will assist the ordination of some of our newest members. The service will be concluded with a candle-light consecration service.

Monday night the 25th the Young People will have the regular monthly meeting at which time the Young People of the County will be invited. Time and place for the meeting will be announced later.

Let us keep these events in mind and plan to take part in them.

The Challenge of Nutrition
In May a group of people 900 strong met in Washington D. C. to discuss nutrition. Fully and completely the nutrition status of a great people—the citizens of the United States. Great importance was placed on the responsibility of arousing the nation to the importance of the nutrition problem both in a period of defense and in the long vista of the future.

The two reasons, given by Paul W. McCurtin, Federal Security Administrator and Co-ordinator of Health, Welfare, and related Defense Activities, for the Conference were, first, new and startling facts about nutrition have become known—facts which are vital to the strength, health, and security of America; second, America faces today one of the greatest crises in her history—a crisis of such board significance that we cannot afford to compromise our national strength in any way. If we lose, our way of life will fall, perhaps forever. Guidance cannot be provided by research but the success of the campaign for better nutrition will depend on the efforts and response of all individuals.

Dr. Henry C. Sherman, Professor of Nutrition, Columbia University, said and meant to the welfare of the nation said, "It means the freeing of perhaps one third of our people from its direct or indirect... ly due to food conditions. It could mean, also, the building of higher health and efficiency in people who are already well and efficient. Now to bring enough of the protective foods into the dietaries of our people is both an economic and educational problem. Each of us can do anything for nutrition education should do it at once and continually."

Every community should know of the families who aren't getting along well. Are they eating right? Is it possible in some cases to help them to eat better? Does your community have any of the dietary diseases? Can you make the 3 fold goal as set forth by Vice President Wallace a reality so far as your particular community is concerned?

The program set forth by the National Nutrition Conference is just as good for peace as it is for war. It is a program which will never end until the soil and the farmers of the United States are put fully and completely to work on the job of bringing the maximum of health to every individual.

Secretary of Agriculture, Claude R. Wickard, said, "Better nutrition does not mean soft living. It does not mean growing fat and lazy. On the contrary, it means becoming harder, more efficient, harder able to work over time when it is necessary, better able to do without luxuries when we have to. We do not know what is ahead for us or for the world but we do know that we are going to be called on to make sacrifices. This is all the more reason for giving attention to the problem of nutrition now, by applying our...

"Pat" Childress Takes Bride

The wedding is taken from the Courier-Journal society page of Friday and will be of interest to Dr. Childress' many friends in this county. "Mrs. H. M. Childress, who was Joyce Smith, of Louisville, before her marriage in July at Ashville, N. C. left Thursday to join Dr. Childress in Washington. On September 1, the couple will go to Charleston, S. C. where Dr. Childress will be head of bone and joint surgery at the Army's Stark General Hospital." Mr. Childress is the son of the late Dr. W. J. Childress, of Hustonville, and Mrs. Childress, now making her home in Mt. Vernon. After graduating from the Hustonville High School, he attended the University of Kentucky. After this he took up bone and joint surgery. His first practice was in Texas and from there he went to Jamestown, N. Y. Several months ago he was called to service and commissioned a Captain in the Medical Corps, stationed at Stark's General Hospital, Charleston, S. C. The Interior Journal joins with their host of friends in wishing them every happiness for the many years to come.—Interior-Journal.

"After you've spent years trying to keep so-called 'low-cost' roads in a travelable condition, it's a relief to get assigned a stretch of concrete. Concrete is easy to maintain—saves the taxpayers real money."

Real money is right! Concrete roads cost $71 to $495 per mile per year less for surface maintenance than other pavements. Less to build than any other road of equal load carrying capacity. Less to drive on than lower type pavements.

Selective Training Service Act Of 1940

The provisions of the Selective Training and Service Act include stringent penalties for violations thereof, including imprisonment up to five years, or a fine as high as $10,000, or both.

Over 20,000 violators are now pending investigation in the 54 Field Offices of the FBI, scattered throughout the United States and its territorial possessions, and more are being received each day from the United States Attorneys to whom they were reported by local draft boards after unsuccessful efforts to clear up the delinquencies.

In the enforcement of the Act, however, leniency is being extended those who prove they have not wilfully attempted to evade the draft. Many of the delinquencies are not intentional and the delinquents are given an opportunity to clear up the entire matter before prosecution is undertaken.

linquency prior to actual investigation. If the letter is discharged, then there is of course no other alternative but to impartially secure the facts.

A rather unusual case involved a young man who registered on October 22, 1940, and to whom a questionnaire was mailed on the 8th and again on the 19th of the following month. Each was returned to the local board unclaimed and thereupon appropriate legal proceedings were instituted by the United States Attorney, Special Agents of the FBI succeeded in locating the delinquent registrant in jail where he had been sentenced on a minor charge.

Inlement weather proved to be a satisfactory excuse for another registrant who was arrested only to be released the following day upon his promise to report for induction. This individual had intended to catch a ride to the designated city on a freight train to report for induction, but a heavy rain intervened.

In several instances no prosecution has been declined because the delinquent volunteered for immediate duty. In one case, ignorance of the fact that registration was required of him was accepted as the excuse of an individual who is not proficient at reading and seldom glanced at a newspaper.

Though the mailing of a communication by a local board to a registrant at his last known place of address constitutes "notice" under the Selective Training and Service Act, even if it is not received, as a matter of practice much consideration is given to the facts in each instance when the questionnaire is not received. It was found that one registrant who could neither read nor write had received no mail whatsoever during the month his questionnaire was mailed. The registrant had moved to a remote section in his town and because of his extreme poverty had arranged for no mail box. The authorities were satisfied that there was no willful intention to evade the law and consequently was not instituted.

Young men of draft age should be careful to obey the letter of the law. Having the registration card in one's possession at all times may seem trivial, but it is not. Such failure or inability to show the card to a proper official on request is a violation of the Selective Service regulations. What is more, it is prima facie evidence of failure to register.

Also, registrants should be careful to return the completed questionnaires to the local boards at the proper time. They should remember that a communication from their local board is a communication from their Government and should be treated accordingly. After persistently refusing to fill out his questionnaire for some period of time, a registrant in a Midwestern state finally answered a few of the questions and submitted the incomplete form to his board.

Under the heading entitled "Registrants' Statement Regarding Classification" the registrant had written the following note: "Dear Local Draft Board No. 5: I've never seen anyone go to more pains to make miss-murders to us, Love. The registrant was a college student who appeared to be well-headed and sarcastic, and who referred to himself as "having some fun." He has been indicted and now awaits trial.

The FBI also suggests that by all means registrants keep their local boards advised of any changes of address. Failure to do so has been the most common violation occurring under the Act.

Another warning to young men of draft age concerns misrepresentation of facts and figures. Everett Stewart, 24-year-old registrant of Orell, Ky., tried this and failed. He now faces three year's imprisonment. Stewart appeared before his local board in January, 1941, and representing himself to be his own half-brother, stated that Everett Stewart was in a hospital in Louisville, Kentucky. Several days later he again contacted the board in person and advised that Stewart had returned to his home. Carrying his scheme still further he wrote the board on February 3, under the name of Mrs. E. Stewart and advised that Everett was sick in bed. The climax came on February 25, when he, still posing as his half-brother, telephonically advised the board that Everett Stewart had died and was buried on February 20, 1941.

Inasmuch as investigation revealed that the information furnished to the local board by Everett Stewart was false, legal action was instituted against him and he was apprehended on March 28, 1941. Brought to trial on April 23 in the United States District Court at Louisville, Ky., and charged in three counts with evading the Selective Service Act, Stewart pleaded guilty and received a sentence of three years on each count, the terms to run concurrently. Stewart has no prior criminal record, according to the files of the Identification Division of the FBI.

The FBI further suggests that registrants be on time for physical examinations and induction. Over-

Service provisions. Young men are urged to call immediately at their nearest FBI Office should they hear they are delinquent and are being sought. Possibly the entire matter can be cleared up immediately to the satisfaction of all concerned.

The greatest number of convictions under the law have been for an initial failure to register, according to the FBI. Even here much leniency is shown if a willingness to register is indicated. A policy of sternness, however, has been invoked against those who have flouted the law and refused to register. One young man was adamant in his refusal and when interviewed by a Special Agent of the FBI stated: "I do object to the

Game & Fish News Frankfort, Kentucky

By James J. Gilpin

Frankfort, Ky.—The "first real test" of the new $3 state-wide hunting license will come with the opening of the squirrel season Friday, August 15, according to a statement issued today by S. A. Wakefield, Director of the Division of Game and

In the past, sportsmen have been permitted to hunt game anywhere in the state by purchasing a $1 annual hunting license. The 1940 Kentucky Legislature, however, passed an amendment to the Game and Fish laws which now requires a $3 license if the hunter seeks his game on a statewide basis. The amended law requires that the hunter possess a $1 license if he chooses to hunt in only one county. The $1 license is good for any one county that the hunter might request the county court clerk to write on the hunting license. He can hunt in as many single counties as he pleases as long as he has a $1 hunting license for each county. However, the hunter, by purchasing a $3 state-wide license can hunt in any single county of the state or he may hunt in all of them if he so desires.

Hunters will find that the $3 state-wide license is by far more convenient and if, upon an instant notice, they have the opportunity to make a hunting trip to other counties outside of their regular hunting territory, they have nothing to worry about concerning their license as the state-wide license insures against such happenings. However, if the hunter has purchased a $1 single-county license and then gets the opportunity to hunt elsewhere, he then must purchase a $1 single-county license for the county in which he is planning to hunt or else decide to buy the $3 state-wide license.

The "test" will indicate by the purchase of the $1 county license or the $3 state-wide license whether the law, as amended by the Legislature, will prove to be popular with the sportsmen, landowners and hunters.

Many Barren county farmers adding up the year's lamb profits find that they doubled their money.

The Garden

By John S. Gardner, Kentucky College of Agriculture and Home Economics

The next best way to store vegetables is in a specially built "cave" or "warm cellar." Its construction may be of stone, brick or concrete, or of timbers or even stout saplings. Along caves of this construction are of a temporary nature, their behavior is in most respects satisfactory as those built of a more permanent material.

The site for the cave may be level, but a hillside is better, for only half the cave's depth needs to be excavated, and, to cover the exposed portion, the excavated soil may be used instead of some that might otherwise have to be brought from some distance.

In the Kentucky Extension Circular 206, a copy of which may be procured free from either of the county agents of from the College of Agriculture and Home Economics direct, complete directions are given for the building of masonry caves and for the "pole" structure. Hence, this column will content itself with a discussion only of their management.

Only the "root" vegetables, potatoes, cabbage, the root crops and perhaps canned vegetables may be stored in a "cave," as its construction holds merely to a temperature just above freezing. However, because such stored vegetables continuously give off moisture, some means for chaffing the air must be provided to keep the atmosphere dry. In the sketches of the circular the ventilating device is clearly shown, an outlet vent at the highest point in the ceiling and a similar intake vent right at the floor line.

Opening both vents results in full circulation of air but the system may also be used to cool the storage or to raise its temperature, as the need may be. When it is desired to cool the structure as in late spring or early fall, the nights being cool, the vents should be kept open during the night and closed during the day, to "bottle up" the cool night air. When the storage temperature falls uncomfortably close to freezing, the cave may be warmed by opening both vents only during the moon hour, on sunny days, to store warm air to bridge over dangerously cold winter nights.

Twenty-one Graves county farmers are planning a big "sanitation for better poultry" campaign for fall here, on sunny days, to store warm air to bridge over dangerously cold winter nights. In Montgomery county, a committee of 41 farm men and women collected 1,655 pieces of aluminum from rural people in the defense drive.

Hogs Selling At Favorable Price
By using ton-litter methods, Milton Greer, a farmer in Nelson county, Kentucky, made a no-profit of slightly over $15 a pig. The litter consisted of 10 Duroc-Spott'd Poland-Chinas that weighed 2,375 pounds when 3 1/2 months old. They brought $14.53 a hundred. Howard Campbell, assistant county agent, says alfalfa, bluegrass and Korean lespedeza pasture helped to hold down the cost of raising the litter. Concerning hogs, Gady Sellars of the University of Kentucky College of Agriculture and Home Economics says: "Hog raisers' general are aware that profits vary from time to time, completing a cycle, within about six years. Wise hog producers measure their success by what happens in one of these six-year periods. They don't try to beat the game by going in and out, hoping to be in when prices are favorable."
