RELIEVED BY RETONGA

HE REGAINS TEN POUNDS

"I Don't Have To Worry About My Strength Now For I Never Seem To Tire," declares Mr. Horn.

Mr. W. H. Horn

Every day more and more grateful residents tell of the happy relief Retonga brought them from acid indigestion, nervousness, weak, round feeling, tooth aches and pains, loss of weight and strength and similar debilitating symptoms due to insufficient flow of digestive juices in the stomach, constipation, and need of Vitamin B-1 for digestion, nerves and strength. Mr. W. H. Horn, 103 S. 21st St., Louisville, declares:

"I suffered so much from indigestion that I was afraid to sit down and eat a meal. I just took a little fruit with me to work for lunch. I seemed to stay full of food poisons. I had severe pains in my shoulders, and my head ached like it would split. I fell off to 135 pounds. I felt irritable all the time, and I had so little strength it was all I could do to stay on the job.

"My wife got me a bottle, and it relieved me wonderfully. I enjoy my food now. I feel no distress afterward. I don't need harsh laxatives, the pains in my shoulders and head aches are relieved. I have gained nearly ten pounds, and I don't have to worry about my strength now for I never seem to tire. Everybody who suffers as I did ought to know about Retonga."

Thousands praise Retonga. Accept no substitute. Retonga may be obtained at Maggard Drug Store, Mt. Vernon, Ky.

THINKINGS DOINGS SEINGS

By "Ye Editor"

We received several letters this week in regard to the paragraph we had in this column last week stating that "thirty-five people were indicted on the same charge" — "some were on one side and some on the other — one thing that we do want to clear up is this — the "indicted" should have read "sued" — this is not a Commonwealth case, merely a suit — at least we hit on an interesting subject, one that everyone was interested in anyway — but we are sorry about that one word being wrong.

We were coming over the hill from Livingston on the night and our car and looked down on our little town, was night and what a sight — it would seem to one that they were entering a great big city, for there were lights everywhere — red ones, white ones and green ones — a great little town nestling there in the valley, so peacefully, but this picture is not complete unless you know what is behind those little lights that shine from windows — that warm, friendly, "homey" feeling that comes to you when you really know the people that represent those little lights — lights of Friendship.

People either like our paper or else they want to make us feel good — we hope both!

You know it is mighty hard to put into words just what we are thinking, feeling, or saying. We are thinking things to ourselves and seeing things that he shouldn't — guess we better wear rose-colored glasses.

An Arkansas woman advertised for a husband. She got one at a cost of $300. He enlisted in the Army and she was killed. She got $3,000 insurance and a widow's pension for the rest of her life. Yet, some will tell you that advertising doesn't pay.

You know lots of people become dissatisfied wondering why their neighbors are so happy — is that your trouble?

James Baker came in Tuesday, and said: "Here's my bill and half and send that signal anyone is talking about" — no sooner said that done!

Personal to Mr. B. — We certainly did not mean to incriminate anyone and if we did we are very sorry.

John William, small son, of Mr. and Mrs. Ed Barrons passed away very suddenly at their home near Hi-Dry Church or better known as McLore's Rocks.

Christian Church

By Aubrey Russell

Now that the hint of better weather is in the air, we should all remember the message of the morning, namely the cold as the reason for not attending the services. Indeed many have responded and our attendance has been very good. In spite of the past few weeks, but in spite of increase there are many yet to be added to the list. It should be the aim of everyone, in the midst of these busy times, to pause on Sunday morning to worship in the church of his choice and to pay tribute to his Maker, asking for guidance and direction in what ever activities in which we are engaged. Make it a point to be in the house of God come what may.

At the Christian Church one can expect an opportunity to worship, to come around the Lord's table for communion, to take part in the lesson study and hear a beautiful Anthem by the choir. This is the week in which we celebrate youth in the closing number. We extend an invitation to all on this theme. It is hoped that parents will be at the church with their children and that all desire to remain for the service.

At the evening service the Young People will be in charge of the entire service, the message of the evening will be a little play, "The Challenge of the Cross." This is a play with a great message and will bring us a message of the need of decision in our lives. The choir will sing several songs in connection with the play and a special quartette will bring the closing number. We extend an invitation to all and insist that parents be present. So if you are one that say you are interested in young people's work, make it known by your support of this program.

Christian Endeavor will meet as usual, 5:45. Refreshments will be served and the program will be handled by Jack Crawford.

Farmers Urged to Collect All Scrap Metal

All farmers of Rockcastle County are urged to gather up all of the scrap iron and other metals on their farms and sell it at once. There are junk dealers in Mt. Vernon, Crab Orchard and elsewhere. Every farmer should consider it his patriotic duty to see that all scrap on the farm even though it is only 25 or 30 pounds, is turned in to the commercial channels for war production. The Rockcastle County U. S. D. A. War Board has been advised that some steel mills will have to close at once if more scrap iron is not made available and a large part of this scrap iron is scattered over the farms in the county.

"We can all 'Remember Pearl Harbor' but doing this NOW!"

A short discussion on the study of Iron was given by Mrs. Elizabeth Hatcher. This will encourage the Homemakers to realize how many they are using the foods rich in iron. There were 6 members present and 4 visitors. Everyone reported a fine time at the luncheon. A book looking forward to another successful year in the Homemakers work.

Miss Opal Gill, Publicity Chairman.

President Names Production Czar And Reorganizes Defense. Set-Ups To Speed Up All-Out War Effort; Report Submarines Off East Coast

(EDITOR'S NOTE—When opinions are expressed in these columns, they are those of the writer and not necessarily of the newspaper.)

(Reprinted by Western Newspaper Union)

NELSON:

Production Czar... The United States... into all-out war production, Donald M. Nelson had named production chief, placed in sole command over OPM, SPAB and all other vital production organizations.

SUBMARINE:

Action... Navy planes and ships had a busy time chasing enemy submarines reported lurking off the East coast of the U. S.

MALAYA:

Scorched Earth... The house of commons criticism of the British Malaya forces in not carrying out the scorched earth policy was met by dispatches which had been delayed tending to show that the British had applied that policy in the completest way possible.

'War Orphan No. 1'

"I am war orphan No. 1," said Mrs. Helen Nelson, wife of Donald M. Nelson, Chicago, Ill., whom President Roosevelt appointed chief of war production just recently.

AIR: Supremacy Sought

There was every indication that the battle for air supremacy in the Far Eastern theater of war was definitely being battled for.

The news dispatches had contained increasing reports of air battles on all fronts, and though there was still no indication that General MacArthur had any sort of an air arm, both the British and Dutch defenses were bolstered by American Chinese and Australian planes.

The Dutch early had said that if the Allies would give them enough planes, they could defeat Japanese efforts to capture important strongholds in their islands.

The Dutch defenders finally had to surrender, though more than half of the garrison got away and lived to fight another day.

It still was not definite where the high command had set up headquarters, but that it was somewhere on the island of Java, but whether at Batavia, from which most of the dispatches were coming, or at Surabaya, could not be learned.

An idea of what the capture of Tarakan meant, by the way, was the Dutch figure on the oil output, 80,000 tons monthly of the finest grade of petroleum.

PAN-AMERICA: Opens Conference

Of vital importance had been considered the Pan-American conference of nations which opened its sessions at Rio, with Sumner Welles in charge of affairs for the American state department.

Yet, as the conference met, with the announced purpose of further fulfilling the general agreement against the Axis by a continental breaking of relations with all Axis nations, it was felt quite hopeful that Argentina and Chile would come in and enter the joint action wholeheartedly.

OUSTER: Against Dye Men

Five of the principal operating executives of the General Aniline and Film corporation were summarily ousted from their position by order of the treasury department, which had been trying for several months to establish that the company actually was owned by the Nazi firm of I. G. Farbenindustrie.

The men suspended, all naturalized citizens of German birth, were Dr. Rudolph Hutz, a director; Hans Aichele and Wolfgang Vom Rath, both former directors who resigned within the past month; F. W. Von Meister, general manager of the Oxalid division; and Leopold Eckler, acting general manager of the Agfa-Anaco division.

They have been refused the right, among other things, to enter premises of the company. December 12 the treasury department filed its report of its operatives in the main offices of the company.

MISCELLANEOUS:

London: Germans were resuming constant raids, though on a small scale, of British towns. Most of them were on the northeast coast and in East Angles.

Rio de Janeiro: Uruguay became the second of the Latin-American republics to sign a lease-lend pact with the United States, entitling it to receive substantial shipments of arms and munitions.

HIGH BLOOD PRESSURE - HIGHER IN THE WINTER

Did you know that blood pressure, especially high blood pressure, is apt to be higher in cold weather?

Dipping one hand or foot in ice water and keeping it there for a few minutes will also cause the blood pressure to rise.

Did you know that high blood pressure in itself causes almost no symptoms? People who have it may have shortness of breath on slight exertion and tire easily but this is due to the associated scarring and weakening of the heart.

Not infrequently during the winter months a patient who knows that he has a high blood pressure will consult his physician saying that he is not feeling at all well and is sure his pressure must be way up.

This usually happens after a sudden and rather extreme change in weather; when a patient's severe cold snap with high barometric readings, then follows an unusually warm spell with low barometric pressures.

The patient's blood pressure is probably much lower than it usually is. It has had come in when he was feeling good during the sunny day snap, it might have been higher. Such rapid changes in weather may cause serious falls in pressure for at such times the arteries form in the hardened arteries of the brain or heart and cause "strokes" or "coronary accidents". Under such circumstances clots may also form in the arteries to the intestines or lower extremities.

Untill now is known of the causes of high blood pressure and of methods for eliminating them, treatment will not be satisfactory. Treatment directed only at lowering the blood pressure may often do more harm than good.

Expanded War Program Will Touch Every Home

All Phases of National Life to Feel Effects of Changes Brought About 'Colossal' Economy; Tires, Car Crops Are Mere Beginning.

By BAUKHAKE
National Farm and Home Hour Commentator.

In less than ten minutes it takes to read this column a new program should be completed—that is, if the program outlined by the President in his message on the state of the Union is carried out. That seems like a large order. It is. But this is what the President has wanted for 1942: 50,000 new planes, 45,000 new tanks, 20,000 new anti-aircraft guns, 8,000,000 tons of merchant shipping. Since there are only 8,700 hours in a year, if the OPM is to meet the President's goals, planes will have to roll out of the factories at the rate of one every eight minutes, tanks at the rate of one every 11 minutes, anti-aircraft guns at the rate of one every 23 minutes, and shipping at the rate of 15 tons a minute.

America's resources may be unlimited, but human comprehension is not. Ever since that message was delivered in congress, Washington has been straining in an attempt to comprehend those colossal figures.

Already some of the effects are being translated in terms of human experience—you know if you have tried to buy a tire or a new automobile. Other even more painful experiences are ahead. One of them is the unemployment problem. Being while the civilian industry is being converted to defense production.

Small Plants Hit

It means that some 15,000 small plants will close their doors for good. They are being converted to defense production. Their workers and supervisors, if they are competent, will be able to find employment elsewhere.

It means that thousands of salesmen who sell, not merely refrigerators, ice boxes and juke boxes, vacuum cleaners and electric toys, but other things which we once thought were necessities, will be taking off their white coats.

A survey of some thousand middle sized manufacturing concerns now "defending" their plants has been made by the labor department. It revealed that three-fourths of the plants were working on three shifts.

Some of them were working on three shifts. In these plants it was found that the second and third shifts usually employ half the man-power employed in the first shift. That is, a 50 per cent increase in employment. These were plants selected as typical.

Someone will have to fill all those extra shifts and a great many more. It will mean that a lot of "brain-workers" will have to be taken off their hands. When a nation suddenly turns over 80 per cent of its income to defense production, it means that the man in search of a job has less than half a chance at getting any other kind of work.

In our homes, the effect of war means that the natural rhythms of life will be rationed already. That is because even with all our sheep in Argentina for their wool, and our ships to bring it here. And we are getting ready to clothe an army of 10,000,000 men. Other restrictions will come.

In his budget message, the President hinted that we might have to ration ration ration. For instance, you Europeans do before the war. You can see a more of a threat perhaps, than a prediction but it is worth remembering before we get too complacent.

Fertilizer 'Rationing'

Already the farmer is being rationed though he may not realize it. The fertilizer, for instance. First, the nitrates. All synthetic nitrates have to go into munitions. The one word nitro-glycerine reminds of the military. And they have other things in them; so the army is after those, too. But since they come from the rocks, they have come in ships. And there are few ships for this purpose.

Second, phosphates. They come from Florida, Wyoming and Idaho. But they come from the rocks. You can see a whole pile of these rocks right over in Baltimore. But it takes a great deal to get them. Sulfuric acid is needed for munitions.

Third, sprays. Formaldehyde is a vital part of many sprays. Also, the insecticides. The trouble is that you have to dig up the plant to get the latex—there comes from the roots.

Four, copper sulphate. There is no need to comment when you consider the part copper plays in war. When it comes to rubber, the fact that it is a commodity is also affected. The difference is that some farmers are going to be making rubber the next few years.

Out in California the climate produces the best Agave plants. And there will be acres and acres of these plants cultivated. It takes some time but it is already growing. A two-year-old crop will produce 900 pounds of very good rubber. The trouble is that you have to dig up the plant to get the latex—there comes from the roots.

Five, of course, there is synthetic rubber, but I am not allowed to reveal the figures, which are going to play a lot more important part than any of the other commodities in our victory production. There are also the big cultivated rubber plantations in Brazil and Central America run by Ford and Goodrich. It is the wild rubber from the Amazon. And most important of all, there is the only source of that is a commodity in the world are going to have to make—the privilege of not buying tires for America's 20,000,000 automobiles.

Weather Information

And Forecasting

The highly interesting yearbook just issued by the department of agriculture is devoted to climate and weather. It appears just when for the first time in American history it is worse than a crime to discuss the weather—that is if you talk loud enough to be overheard by your ears. A few weeks ago the navy department released an official communique severely blaming a commander who mentioned the weather in a letter to his wife in Alaska. He gave out information which the navy said may have been the cause of a submarine activity in the eastern Atlantic.

In Washington we are not permitted to mention even yesterday's weather. The only safe thing to say is that the weather is what it is. Commenting on the fact to an official is just the story of what happened to the man in search of a job. In Berlin just after the war broke out. On a beautiful moonlight evening I blandly announced over the short wave that the night was bright as an air raid. Nobody objected to that. There had been no air raids and the question was whether or not it was the next night it was different. No more description of the current weather. I was told by the military police: "You can talk about last night's weather but not tonight's," he said.

I asked my Washington friend why, if Berlin let me talk about last night's weather I couldn't do the same thing here. "Weather," he answered, "moves from west to east. It is in the air. It is over here when it didn't matter in 24 hours. Washington's weather moves first. It is in the air. It is over here when it didn't matter in 24 hours. Washington's weather moves first. It is in the air. It is over here when it didn't matter in 24 hours."

"Without disparaging in the least the huge metropolitan cities, with their circulations running into the hundreds of thousands and occasionally into the millions, it is not the news of the day but the news of the week in the world—it is to the weekly newspapers and the small-town daily newspapers that a man goes for information, guidance and inspiration, especially in the case of problems and questions affecting the public welfare." Gen. Arthur Capper in the U. S. Senate.

IMPROVED UNIFORM INTERNATIONAL SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

By HAROLD L. LUNDQUIST, D. D., Of The Moody Bible Institute of Chicago, (Chicago, Ill.)

Lesson for January 25

Lesson Subjects and Scripture Texts are selected and arranged by the International Religious Education Society of America.

THE TEMPTATION OF JESUS

LESSON TEXT—MATTHEW 4:1-11. GOLDEN TEXT—For we have an high priest . . . (who) was in all points tempted like us, yet without sin.—Hebrews 4:15.

"We have not a high priest that cannot be touched with the feeling of our infirmities; but one that hath been tempted in all points as we are, yet without sin" (Heb. 4:15, R.V.). We recognize that Jesus was tempted as we are. (See Matt. 4:1, 6) and as One who had no sin, and yet He was tempted in all points as we are; and we may learn from His temptation how to meet temptation and be victorious over it.

I. Temptation. It is the common lot of all mankind to be tempted (1 Cor. 10:13). The strongest and most noble of men are subject to it; angels were tempted—yes, even Jesus was tempted. We need to know about temptation, so we note:

1. What It Is (v. 1). Temptation is the work of the devil. It is, as Principal Fairbank expressed it, "an enticement to evil, solicitation to wrong." It stands distinguished from trial: trial tests, seeks to discover the character of the man; temptation tempts to evil, decides that it may ruin. God tries. Satan tempts.

That temptation is not evil, but a trial to prove us able to stand. God does not suffer us to be tempted beyond endurance, but provides a way of escape (1 Cor. 10:13). How it works (vs. 2, 3, 7, 8). Satan has only three temptations, although he is a master at giving them different appearances.

1. He tempts us to deny God, the same threefold line as that of Adam and Eve (Gen. 3:6), which is described in 1 John 2:16 as the general temptation of all men: "the lust of the flesh, the lust of the eyes, and the pride of life." (Observe the appeal to the flesh (vs. 2, 3). Jesus had fasted 40 days, and Satan took advantage of that fast to suggest that He use His divine power of creation to satisfy His hunger. To do so would have been to deny His very mission. Satan observes in man the normal appetites of his body, excites them to a high degree, and then tempts him to satisfy them in an improper way. (b) By appealing to pride, 5, 6. God had promised to keep Jesus "in all his ways" (Ps. 110:1), but casting himself from the temple was not one of God's "ways" for Him. The devil wants us to be presumptuous and call it faith, and this is his piffal for one who really wants to believe—because him to become a fanatic and substitute his own suspicion for faith. (c) By appealing to the eyes (vs. 6, 8). By showing Christ the kingdoms of the earth in some kind of vision, or moving picture, he offered a short cut to their rule by a brief act of worship of him as a god.

II. Our Lord Was Victorious Over Satan.

We, too, can triumph in His battles. We do so we need to study the way of victory.

1. How to Gain It (vs. 4, 7, 10). Three steps appear: (a) "By the right use of Scripture. If our Lord needed and used that weapon, how can we possibly do without it? How can we use it if we do not study it, and hide it in our hearts?" (vs. 4, 7, 10). (b) By complete dependence upon God. Every Scripture used by Jesus against Satan was from the Father. We cannot fight Satan in our own strength. Luther was right—aid we in our own strength confide, Our strength is weakness and deceit. The real victory for the Christian is to bring Satan to the foot of the cross. Christ rated him completely by there, and we may plead with victory. (c) By denouncing Satan. Jesus sent him on his way. We can do the same in our hearts. It is always a serious error to argue with Satan, or even to discuss matters with him. He is not divine, but he is a supernatural being with knowledge and cunning which are too much for us. Meet him with Scripture, honor God by His name, in Christ, then "resist the devil, and he will flee from you" (Jas. 4:7).

2. What It Brings (vs. 11). When the defeated Satan had been cast out, he came and ministered to Him. The overcoming of temptation brings victory and blessed rest. This is ever true in the life of the believer. Temptations victoriously met make one stronger in meeting them. The tempter is never really a next one, for we read (Luke 4:13) that the devil left Christ only for a season.

Snack on a Frosty Night—Broiled Wienies (See Recipes Below)

Wintery Snacks

The cold, frosty evenings with their full program of basketball games, sleigh ride parties, skating and other winter-time amusements call for piping hot, hearty snacks—or take care of break appetites. In warmer weather, the family could raid the ice box, now the problem is slightly different, as a hot dog, satisfying but still simple, is in demand. Here's a dish that just seems to fit the bill: the broiled wienies and hot potato salad with wienies is an old favorite but there's a touch of something new in the wienies broiled with cheese and the green beans around the potato salad that add a touch of color.

Broiled Wienies.

Select two to three slices frankfurters for each person to be served, two will do nicely for the girls and women and better cook three for the men and boys. Split the frankfurter and insert a strip of American cheese. When almost ready to pop into the broiler and cook until cheese melts and browns.

Hot Potato Salad.

6 potatoes, boiled with skins on 1/4 cup finely chopped onion 2 hard-cooked eggs, diced 1/2 tablespoons oil 6 slices bacon, broiled until crisp, crumbled 1/2 cup minced onion 1/2 cup minced green pepper 1/2 cup minced celery 1/2 cup minced parsley 1/2 cup minced chives 1/2 cup minced dill 1/2 cup minced parsley 1/2 cup minced chives 1/2 cup minced dill

Cooked Salad Dressing.

3 tablespoons sugar 1 teaspoon salt 1 teaspoon yellow mustard 1/2 tablespoons flour 1 egg yolk 3/4 cup water 1/2 cup vinegar 1 tablespoon butter

Bleed dry ingredients, then add egg yolk and blend until smooth. Add water, vinegar, stirring constantly. Cook over boiling water, stirring all the while, until thick. Remove from fire, add butter and serve mixed with potato salad.

Spaghetti is and has been for some time now one of the reigning favorites of the American housewife. Here's one dish you can make cause it's both tart and satisfying. It is a plenty of cheese and sauce baked right into the long strips of spaghetti.

Baked Spaghetti.

(Serves 8)

1 small package of spaghetti 2 cups onions, chopped fine 2 tablespoons oil 3 pound ground beef 7/8 pound sausage (in the bulk) 1/2 cup minced onion 1/2 teaspoon pickling salt 1 teaspoon salt 4 small cans tomato sauce 1/2 cup minced American cheese Cook spaghetti in boiling salted water 12 to 15 minutes. Drain and run cold water through it. Sauté onion, ground meat and sausage in oil until brown. Add mushrooms, spice, salt and tomato sauce. Simmer slowly for 10 minutes. Put thin layer of spaghetti on bottom of broiled casserole. Then add a layer of sauce; then cheese, another layer

Lynn Says:

Here are a few quick snack ideas you'll like to paste in your notebook. Eat them up with brown bread, cream cheese, sandwiches, placed around the bean pot. You might try the cold baked ham, sliced and served with brown bread, cream cheese, ham, too. Toasted English muffins with an egg fried or poached with ham are high in favor.

What Do You Know About Beer? . . . No. 4 of a Series

WHAT HAPPENS TO BEER TAX MONEY?

A—State taxes and license fees paid by Kentucky's legal brewing industry go into the State's General Fund.

Q—Where does the money go from there?

A—Revenue from beer in 1941 was used for education in public schools, colleges, normal schools, etc.; for public welfare, including old age assistance, aid to dependent children, Confederate pensions, health service, and penal and eleemosynary institutions; and for expenses of State government.

Q—What would happen if this revenue from beer were not available to the State?

A—Kentuckians would have to dig down deeper into their own pockets to provide the money.

YOU CAN HELP preserve these benefits from legal beer in two ways: (1) Every year elect only in Wisconsin, law-abiding places; (2) Report any law violations you may see to the authorities or to this Committee.

DEEP WATER ISLAND

by ALAN LEMAY

W-A-U-RELEASE

INSTALLMENT-THREE

THE STORY SO FAR: Karen Waterson, San Francisco girl, convinced by her lawyer, John Colt, that she has a claim to the island estate of her grandfather, Garrett Waterson, arrives in Honolulu to attempt to gain control of the property. She is accompanied by her sister, Toni, and her fiancé, Richard Wayne. Toni and Dick are dining and discussing plans for pursuing her claim. Richard, who is known to Karen as he is known, enters their dining party. He is a member of the Waterson family that has been in control of her grandfather's island, Alaska, since the old man's disappearance. Karen pursues him, and believes that he is no "knave" of her family—she regards an offer to sail with him the next day, hoping, she can get some information from him. Later that night Dick took to the home of his half-brother, Willard and Ernest, and a conference is held regarding the validity of Karen's claim.

Now continue with the story.

"I always heard," Tonga Dick said about Garrett Waterson was a great old boy—quite a character."

"Character be damned," Willard fumed. "He had no character at all. He was an outrageous old bragger, always at the center of every disturbance of any kind. He was always doing incredible, outlandish things."

"And he sold Alaska for fifteen thousand dollars," Tonga Dick commented. "What is it worth today? Three million?"

"Maybe," Dick said, "after all, Garrett Waterson was a little fuzzy at the edges when he did that."

"Right there," Willard said, "is the whole point. If they can show us that Waterson was incompetent at that time, that his granddaughter was left destitute by this single incompetent act—"

Tonga Dick considered, and presently allowed himself a slow grin. "You know, it's just possible that the girl really is young."

Ernest fared no better. "You have just as much interest in Alaska as we have—or ought to have!"

"I guess," Dick said appreciatively. "I'd better have a talk with this Waterson girl."

"Ridiculous!"

"Can't see how it can hurt anything."

"She won't talk to you," Willard said shortly. "She won't do anything at all without consulting John Colt."

"Oh, yes, she will. Tomorrow, I'm going to have her come out on the coast—right-seeing, you know."

"She won't even see you," Willard said again.

"She already has. I talked with her nearly an hour tonight."

"You what?"

"I said, I've been talking to her all night. Can't you understand plain—"

"Did she know who you were?"

"Naturally. Do you think she's a dummy?"

His two brothers stared at him for a little while in inarticulate outrage. "I absolutely forbid this sailing trip," Willard got out at last.

"And so do I," Ernest echoed.

"Any party that is made with that adventures will be in full consultation with us and our attorneys. I absolutely forbid her to see this girl again without the full concurrence of us."

"Go ahead and forbid," Tonga Dick encouraged him. "After all there isn't a thing in the world you can do."

On an impulse Karen said, "I'll tell you why I have to go. I have to go because I'm afraid of those Waynes."

John Colt looked at her curiously. To this man, this watchful and restless planner, honesty was a right thing; rights of property were matters decided only in courts, and no other rights existed.

"Listen to me," he said. "Everything they have is based upon the fact that they took the island of Alaska from your grandfather after he had become incompetent—as we shall prove. Thus everything they have is literally stolen from you."

Something of John Colt's own spirit of conquest came back into Karen Waterson. "Yes," she said, "and I'm not leaving John. You can be perfectly sure of this—I'll never turn back now."

CHAPTER III

Lying full length on a deck chair, Karen drank a pre-lunch Martini, and watched the stunning blue and white of the sea stream past the low foredeck of Richard Wayne's schooner. Here, out upon the slowly breathing Pacific, John Colt himself sat at the helm, as San Francisco had seemed from the lagoon of the Royal Hawaiian.

But during the morning hours on the island, which she had come into her, as if from the long swell of the open sea itself, and after lunch she sought a way to push ahead with her selected task of studying Tonga Dick. The Holokai was a two-masted schooner of 110 feet; Dick Wayne called her a trading schooner, with auxiliary power, but very definitely she was something else. Her racing-schooner hull, astomizingly led by her great Diesel, had hardly any cargo space at all, other than that needed for her own stores. Karen put out a tentative feeler.

"That's peculiarly poetic."

"Oh, I didn't name her myself. She was named by the man from whom she came to me."

"Who?" Karen asked innocently.

Tonga Dick shrugged. "There are all manner of boats knocking about the Pacific. You can always get hold of a boat."

She studied Tonga Dick Wayne covertly. In the bright reflected light of the cloudless sea he still seemed young, even younger than she had believed the night before. She thought now that she detected something faintly ironic in his gaze. It was as if the darkness that was under the blue of the sea had come and looked at his eyes.

Karen turned uneasy. She said, "Dick—what is it?"

"You're very lovely," he said. "It's only fair to tell you this: in every way that I can imagine, you're the loveliest thing I've ever seen on the earth or the face of the sea."

"Well, really, are you making love to me now?" It was a flimsy defense, in contradiction to his words, and completely that he was not making love.

"No man of any sense pretends to know anything about women," Tonga Dick was saying. "The old island people dread deadlines past which no woman could come, and completely, that they are afraid and fear. They knew the truth—that it is not possible for a man to know what things govern a woman's mind. Yet I'll tell you this: it would be easy for anyone to believe in you, even without understanding you at all."

He was speaking as if from behind a wall. Suddenly Karen Waterson knew what he had meant, and it accounted for the first sound-words that should have been love-making. A sharp and immediate panic swept her as she understood, all at once and completely, that Richard Wayne knew who she was.

She jerked her eyes from his face and stood up, bracing herself against the rest of the first sound-words that she glanced across the face of the sea told her a startling thing, before unconsidered. All that day, since early morning, they had been striking straight out from Honolulu into the open Pacific.
