

DEEP WATER ISLAND

by A. SAN LEMAY

W.N.U. RELEASE

INSTALLMENT FOUR

THE STORY SO FAR: Karen Waterman, covered by her lawyer, the island estate and fortune of her grandfather, Garrett Waterman, arrived in Honolulu to attempt to gain control of the property. Here she meets Richard Wayne, nee Jones Dick, as he is known throughout the South Pacific. He is a member of the Wayne family that has been in control of the "Pineapple Island," Alaska, since the old man's disappearance. Although Tonga Dick knows who the man is, he attempts to conceal her identity from him. Dick offers to take her sailing and the aircraft takes her to Honolulu for a conference regarding their interest in Alaska. In the course of their discussion it is revealed that the Wayne family owned the island for a small time and under the direction of the boy's uncle, James Wayne, it has been developed into a great estate. Several days ago Dick takes Karen sailing and she is taking her to Alaska. She wants to go back to Honolulu but he refuses to take her. Now continue with the story.

CHAPTER IV

She drew into herself, then. At a while Tonga Dick Wayne went aft to stand beside the man at the wheel, but Karen remained at the rail, her eyes on the sea.

For a long time the island drowed nearer. The Holokai seemed fixed at a given distance from her, racing across a restless sea which forever interposed itself. Under Karen's feet the deck of the little "Sage" vibrated, and the steady boom of her Diesel and the shock of the smooth swells she was smashing to pieces as she drove.

Breasting a glassy sea, her speeder, Karen saw that Dick himself now took the wheel.

Very much alike with a definite concentration, Tonga Dick Wayne spun his vessel through Alakoa's treacherous shoals. A Hawaiian boy in the bow with a lead line, his eyes turned to Dick's face, but Dick did not call for the lead. A great mound of water rose under the tailfin, and Karen, glancing her shoreward like a surfboard before it broke and raced along her counter in a whirling roar.

Then suddenly upon the little schooner there was silence—unexpected, but complete and final. The engine quit, and the voice of the reef diminished strikingly, until it seemed no more than a whisper. Effortlessly, on so even a keel that she seemed to glide upon glass, the Holokai drifted under a single scrap of sail into Alakoa's little harbor.

So absorbing was her interest in the little port that for a while she forgot Tonga Dick; she was even unaware of the scrutiny of a hundred pairs of eyes—mostly those of small brown-skinned boys who swam beside the slowing Holokai. What occupied Karen now was this unfamiliar soil where her father had been born; this land which even yet, if John Colt was to be believed, belonged to her.

At one side, just behind the beach, an old warehouse ran, long and low, silver-gray from uncoumented rains. It was built upon a pile of a tangle of sea-grapes, not over one end hung a vast flame tree of the brightest crimson Karen had ever seen. Out from the face of the building leaning pier; and all except the pier seemed lost in the riot of jacaranda and hula palms, hibiscus, trees and banyans, which made a veritable jungle behind the beach. This ruined development was the old Waterman home.

But the pier that Garrett Waterman had built was not the principal landing any more. Farther to the west the Wayne landing stood, a modern concrete dock, long and clean-cut. Behind it a number of long, handsome buildings stood, set in parallel. The roadways between them were ornamented with neat rows of date palms, and here everything was well planned, efficient, and clean.

One hundred yards from the beach the Holokai's anchor roared down, splashing water higher than her booms; and now Dick Wayne was standing beside Karen again.

He spoke to her with an impersonal courtesy.

"The ladder's down. If you're ready to go ashore—"

"No doubt that is very funny," Karen said incisively; "your jokes are perfectly killing. But meantime I am virtually a stranger here, and for reasons of your own that I know nothing about. And I don't like it at all."

Dick Wayne spoke again, his voice very low and gentle. "I'm sorry it worked out this way," he said. "Of course, I understand how you feel. I promise you that things will be made as comfortable as possible for you while you're here. My brothers are in Honolulu, and there's no one you'll have to talk to here."

Karen Waterman's anger died out. This man could put her into white blazes of temper, but, curiously, she did not hate him when the anger was gone. Her tremendous curiosity about Alakoa came on her again, as strongly as if the heart of the island itself were pulling upon every part of her.

She glanced at Tonga Dick, who, as usual, was not looking at her; and after a moment more, silently went down the ladder into the shore-boat.

"Well, cast your line, Hobanoi!"

A white blaze was in the old man's eyes and every muscle of his body seemed to tremble.

Karen Waterman landed upon Alakoa fanned, deeply stirred, and afraid.

"Your uncle," Charles Wong said, "is very anxious to see you at once."

Ever since Tonga Dick and Karen had arrived, the tall Chinese, secretive, was Wayne had been hovering near Dick—if Charles Wong could be said to hover. Charles Wong had never seen China, showed in his tall and bony frame the stamp of the Manchu, but about his eyes the fire of the revolutionists, belonging to the Orient.

Dick was troubled because his uncle had not come out to meet him. "He's in bed," he said.

"No, he's supposed to be, but nobody can keep him there," "Well—I'll go right in."

Yet Dick hesitated; he was wondering whether he had better ask the advice of Charles Wong. After all, it was two years since Tonga Dick had met his uncle face to face. "This girl," Charles Wong said hesitantly, "this girl—" He stopped.

Dick Wayne was startled. It was as if the Chinese had read his mind. He remained silent, waiting.

"I was just thinking," Charles Wong said after a moment, "that perhaps it might be unwise, considering your uncle's condition, to introduce a stranger now. I mean, if perhaps he just said nothing—"

"Charles Dick said, "that girl is Karen Waterman."

He went striding off through the big koa-wood rooms, leaving the secretary paralyzed under the weight of a hundred unanswered questions.

James Wayne, deeply swathed in blankets, sat behind a vast desk. His hand was quick and strong, as it always had been, though Dick thought there was a tremor in it now.

For the first time, Dick Wayne was looking at his uncle and seeing an old man, haggard, gray-skinned, and careworn with the lines which the years had saved up for him, only to mark them there suddenly, overnight—the face of James Wayne was almost unrecognizable to Dick.

"I got your radio, sir," Dick said. "I came on under all power as soon as the message was in, and I thought, 'I should think,' his uncle said slowly, "you would have come anyway, without so urgent an appeal."

"Excuse me, Dick," James Wayne's voice had changed; it sounded weary and dry. His old temperate manner of speech was gone, and his eyes, almost like kindness, which had marked his speech all his life, even when dealing with his enemies, was there; but a rustiness was in it now.

James Wayne's eyes were fixed hard on Tonga Dick's face, and those eyes, clear and direct as ever, now seemed to burn. "Is there any message?" he demanded sharply.

"No message, sir," he said.

"Despatches, then?"

"No, sir."

James Wayne stared at him, his eyes boring hard into Tonga Dick's. "You mean to say—you mean to say that message, no letter—no anything?"

"Nothing, sir."

"Get—he got the despatch from me? He got the word, at the same time you did?"

"I'm certain of it."

For a moment neither they looked at each other, the old man's eyes averted with anger, and in his face—no disbelief, but an inability to accept the answer.

"This is incredible," said James Wayne, his unwinking eyes fastened hard upon Tonga Dick's face.

For a moment neither they looked at each other, the old man's eyes averted with anger, and in his face—no disbelief, but an inability to accept the answer.

"If this is true," James Wayne said sharply, "then how does it happen that you are here?"

"I don't know, sir."

"Silence again; but now after a moment more Dick saw the light of anger and giving die out of his eyes; and he turned to a bleak fatality.

"Name of God!" James Wayne said in a voice low and thick. "Name of God!"

He turned his head and looked out the window, across the darkening fog and that slight tremor emphasized the stillness with which he sat, hardly seeming to breathe. By clear daylight you could see the bay from that window, roll away and far below. Nothing was to be seen there now.

When James Wayne spoke again his voice was flat and dead. It was as if the interchange was over, with nothing more to be said, and after the routine of his own speech, these routine words, hopeless of result.

"If you've talked with your brothers," James Wayne said, "you know the answer now."

"Yes," said Dick.

"Have you seen this man John Colt?"

"Only at a distance, sir."

"I've seen him," James Wayne said, speaking without emotion. "An acquisitive and predatory type, almost a piratic type; but a man born to succeed in his way."

"But the girl I have not seen," Dick's uncle said now. "This Karen Waterman—have you seen her, Dick?"

Tonga Dick hesitated. "Yes," he said at last.

"What does she look like?" James Wayne demanded, his voice rising a little. "Does she look hard? Does she appear grasping—predatory?"

Tonga Dick stirred uneasily.

"No," he said after a moment.

"Yet she—must be," James Wayne said, his voice vibrant. "The girl is evidently made of something harder than glass."

James Wayne had always spoken well; but at the same time he had always spoken briefly, choosing few words. Except for the curtness of anger, Dick had never seen him speak with emotion before. Now, as James Wayne talked, Dick wished that he were away.

"Dick," James Wayne said with a deep conviction, "I don't believe she's his granddaughter at all."

"My brothers told me," Dick said, "that they had thoroughly investigated that story several times, and that they are satisfied beyond any doubt that it can be substantiated in any court."

"I suppose," James Wayne said wearily, "we may assume that the claim of relationship will be substantiated—at least to the satisfaction of the court. Beyond that, beyond that, what is your impression of her case?"

"My advice," Tonga Dick said, "is to settle it once and for all, at the cost of any compromise whatsoever. This case must never come to trial; if it comes to trial, they will win."

"A strange thing," Dick said. "The immobile, apparently bloodless figure of James Wayne suddenly galvanized with anger, and his energy as Dick had never seen James Wayne use. The old man shot straight up, and behind him the heavy chair crashed onto its back, and the blankets fell away to a muffle about his legs. A white blaze was in the old man's eyes, and every muscle of his body seemed to tremble.

"No!" he shouted. "No, I say! Never while I live! Not one cent—not one cent—"

The door opened and Charles Wong was there, and his thick glasses were fixed upon Tonga Dick's face. In the moment's silence he picked up the chair, and the old man accepted it. Defiantly the tall Chinese sought to rearrange the blankets.

"Dick," James Wayne said, "you know and I know there's a way to break this case."

"I don't know, sir; but it was the silence of a tentative assault.

"We've come to a showdown," his uncle said. "We've got to show down our cards—both yours and mine."

"Are you sure you want that?" Dick asked.

"It begins to look as if there isn't any other way."

"I'm afraid there isn't, sir. Although—"

"I'm here, and I'm going out."

"There's plenty of time for this, Mister Dick, your uncle should not talk any more right now."

Dick attempted to speak, but was checked—partly by his own loss of words and partly by Charles Wong's shaking head. Silently, Tonga Dick Wayne left his uncle's room.

By "Ye Editor"

After three nights, two days, three hours, twenty six minutes, 36 seconds, the same bed becomes hard and bumpy in "spots"—that has been "Ye Editor's" experience this week so far. Since Monday night when Dr. Griffith sent me to bed with tonsillitis, the bed has been getting harder and throat sore—but of you, "keep your chin up your throat won't get you down."

Dr. Maggard made me feel good Monday in several ways—first, by giving me some "good" medicine (phew, but it was awful) and secondly by editing my work so that I heard people saying about the Signal: "recently—All good (gosh, that medicine tastes good)."

Some one told me the other day that they got a big laugh out of something in the paper—Well, if you only know it that alone was worth the price of a subscription—because a good laugh will shake more means out of your system, more "cob-webs" out of your brain, more sorrow out of your heart, than any medicine in the world (looks like I have medicine on the brain this week).

Someone sent me the best cake ever just in your month yesterday. I had to fight the rest of the family off to keep them from "mooing" me—but finally gave them a taste!

The slogan of Civilians should be "Draft 15 minutes of each day for the defence of your system, the good money body is the greatest weapon we can build to fight a war, or build a future."

When you have a lot on your mind you should find the next thing to do with your hands and feet, and do it—thinking about your troubles never change them, but doing anything that needs to be done seems to help them straighten themselves out in other words, "When in trouble, do something, anything!"

From my window I saw two boggs coming from school, get in a fight—boat, but did fists fly for a few minutes—but a little later they went on down the street, one of them feeling better (except for that one boy's eye, I betcha).

This laying in bed and writing a column is hard business—both on you and me—so will see you next week, folks! So Long

Area in Pacific Blazes
U. S. Britain's Strength
Did you know there was a strange open secret about the war against Japan concerning the mysterious area in the Pacific? Furthermore, you know the area now sheltering Japan's naval strength is blocking the U. S. and Britain's Road to Baghdad's Washington Digest col'm in the Signal to learn what's behind the mysterious block in the Pacific.

Our Funny Page Is For Entire Family
The Signal's page of comics is read by the entire family, children and grown-ups alike. The funnies are for your enjoyment and you'll wait each week to read about Royal, Potters, Mescal, Ike, and the others.

Followers of Christ Defined by Lunatics
Harold L. Lundquist, who writes the Sunday School Lesson in the Signal, for next Sunday, calls attention to the fact that many who profess "to follow Christ have only done so in that measure which will not interfere with their own plans and interests." Read "Lunatics Call Four Disciples," should be studied with care.

If You Bite The Hand That Feeds You Well!
It is a very bad habit to bite your finger nails. One reader has made attempts to cure the habit, but to no avail. Read what Dr. Nathan S. Davis suggests in his Good Health col'm in the Signal.

Takes Lot Of Steps To Bring Paper To Readers
Each week you receive a copy of the Signal. Did you ever stop to think just what steps are necessary to bring this newspaper to you? The preparation of copy, proof reading, make-up, press, and mailing are just a few of the important steps in a newspaper plant. The newspaper is a vital part of our community and the community and Signal should be directly a part of the newspaper.

FARMERS INCOME TAX
This article is devoted to a statement on Farm Bookkeeping and the Federal Income tax with the particular objectives to help farmers make the fullest use of their farm records in the preparation of their income tax returns. What is said here is not a substitute for a careful reading of instructions printed on the income tax blanks. However, many farmers should find these suggestions helpful in filling out the blank and others will be better able to discuss their special problems with representatives of the collectors of internal revenue after reading these notes.

A married person with a gross income of $1500 or more... Two and one-half months after the close of the farm year, the same date should be used each year. Farmers who keep farm accounts books should use the same date covered by their records. If they sell "bait" tobacco the date should be the date that the whole crop will have sold, it may be as late as Feb. 1 or Feb. 15. The dark-fired tobacco producers who never sell any tobacco until they may wish to select a date before any tobacco is sold or some date after all their tobacco is regularly sold.

What is Gross Farm Income?
Farm income for tax purposes is the sum of four groups of items: 1. The amount of cash receipts for the sale of merchandise or other property received from the sale of livestock which was raised during the taxable year or prior years, 2. The same for crops and produce raised and sold, 3. The profits from the sale of any livestock or other items which were purchased in 1942, 4. The net proceeds from the sale of livestock and other products purchased.

Values of farm products used in the home are not taxable incomes, however, cash received from A. A. and other tax collecting agencies for the year in which it is received. What Farm Expenses are to be Deducted?
Cost of hired farm labor, feeds, seeds, all fertilizer materials, production supplies, repairs and livestock purchased are the major expenses which may be deducted. Taxes paid other than Federal income taxes, farm insurance, interest paid, rent paid and depreciation. The latter is normal decrease in value of fences, machinery and buildings, other than the family dwelling, caused by weather and use during the year. The purchase of equipment or buildings which will last several years can not be counted as farm expenses but normal depreciation may be deducted against such items. The amount of depreciation for a given year depends upon the cost of the property.

MT. VERNON INDEPENDENTS DEFEAT LIVINGSTON 36-37

In a nip and tuck, rough and tumble contest, the Mt. Vernon Independents emerged victorious over the Livingston Independents at Livingston Friday night by a one-point margin 36-37. The game was highlighted by the excessive fouling executed by both teams. The game proved to be a close contest from start to finish and with the score tied at 36-36 and 1 minute remaining in the game Lowell, Mt. Vernon guard, sank a free throw carrying Coach Baker's quintet to a 36-37 victory.

Pike, Livingston center led both teams in individual scoring tallying 17 points while Laswell ran a close second with 16 points. The proceeds of the game went to the Infantile Paralysis fund.

Increased Farm Business Indicated

A definite indication of the increased farm business in Clay, Knox, Laurel, Putnam, Rockcastle and Wayne counties which are served by the Cumberland Land and Credit Association is reflected by the greater amount of cash repayments made by farmer members on their association during 1941 over 1940.

Figures just released by Lemert C. Sherman, secretary-treasurer of the association, show that members made cash repayments on their term loans totaling $107,523.46 in 1941. For the entire State, the increase in last year's cash repayments total over 1940 totals to $1,232,745.

The 327 members of the Cumberland Production Credit Association, a cooperative, short-term credit organization, organized in 1928, has a mounting to $120,000 last year.

Livingston Lions Club Honors Guests

The Livingston Lions Club held their regular meeting at the Webb Cafe Tuesday evening of last week, having as their guests John Lair and Dr. Walker-Owens of Mt. Vernon. A delicious fish supper was served by Mrs. R. G. Webb and enjoyed very much by the Lions and their guests. Following the meal and business transaction, the Lions sang "America" and "Bar-Lions Roar" and Mrs. R. G. Webb recorded the singing with her recording set.

Dr. R. G. Webb, Lions president in his introduction of Mr. Lair stated that the Livingston Lions have been in the way of advertising and improvement of Rockcastle county with any other man. Mr. Lair gave a brief and very interesting talk expressing his gratitude for the invitation extended him by the Lions. He further stated that he was vitally interested in the enthusiasm shown by the Civic organizations in Livingston. Mr. Lair was reared in Livingston and taught his first school in the old wood school building on the present site where the new gymnasium now stands. Basketball fans will be amused to know that Mr. Lair and his students back in 1912 excavated the first basketball court in Livingston.

The Lions club discussed the matter in a meeting held on Tuesday which is being sponsored by them to be held Thursday Jan. 29.

22 County Groups To Aid Book Drive

Raymond McClure, County Chairman, for the Victory Book Campaign announced today that 22 organized Rockcastle groups will give aid to the C. C. in an effort to raise books for the Army, Navy, Marines, and Air Corps.

The drive in Rockcastle will open February 22. One week will be spent in an intensive advertising campaign. Then on Feb. 7th, and 21st, the Boy and Girl Scouts will conduct the foreign canvass in an effort to raise the number. The success of the campaign will be left entirely to Mr. and Mrs. America and they have never failed.

Here are those organizations that will aid this common cause: Girl Scouts, Boy Scouts, Mt. Vernon High School, National Future Farmers, Vernon, Oglethorpe, P. T. A., W. O. W., Christian Church, Mt. Vernon Baptist Church, Broadhead Baptist Church, Broadhead Christian Church, Broadhead High School, Broadhead Theatre, County Education Supt. Miss Myrtle Bryant, Livingston High School, Livingston Theatre, Rotary Club, Daughters of America, Reno Valley, Red Cross, Womans Club, Mt. Vernon Signal, Wing Wagonners and the Home-Coming Packers.

Rockcastle is responding. Their thanks will be the service the American forces will render to their Country in the foreign fields. Many people think fiction is the work people desired. Below are the Camp Libraries full on books in general, psychology, psychology, Current Affairs, Military, Crime, Police Systems, English, Arithmetics, Algebra, Geometry, Trigonometry, The Elements of Statistics, Up to date Technical books, Accounting, Short-hand, Business, Mechanical Drawing, Photography, Cartoons, Well illustrated books, and many others.

Sheepmen Feast On Mutton Saturday At Annual Meeting

The Rockcastle county sheep growers association held a meeting at the Dixie Booke Hotel Saturday Jan. 24. The luncheon consisted of mutton furnished by the 21 Mt. Vernon. The meeting was called to order by R. F. Spence, County Agent who introduced Clyde Linville, secretary of the association who in turn introduced the President Dr. R. H. Lewis of Wildie who gave an interesting discussion on the topic "Importance of sheep in Rockcastle county". County Agent Spence introduced the speaker of the afternoon, Mr. Curt Park who is now county agent of Mercer County. Mr. Park gave a complete history of the Mercer county cooperative sheep association and offered many valuable suggestions on profitable sheep raising. Mr. Park extended a cordial invitation to the farmers of Rockcastle county to attend the sheepmen's county business meeting this year. It was suggested and carried unanimously that a similar banquet should be held annually and that the sheepmen of Harrodsburg thank Dr. R. H. Lewis for his contribution to the association now has about 40 members who own between 90 and 1,000 sheep. Any farmer desiring to join the association may do so by contacting Clyde Linville at the county agents office on any Saturday afternoon.

WEEKLY NEWS ANALYSIS

President Sketches World Strategy; Australia Is Periled by Japanese Army Invasion of Its Key Island Outposts; Nelson Speeds Up U.S. War Production

EDITOR'S NOTE: When opinions are expressed in these columns, they are those of the author and not necessarily those of this newspaper. (Released by Western Newspaper Union.)

Sumner Welles, undersecretary of state and head of the U. S. delegation to the Pan-American conference at Rio de Janeiro, Brazil, is cheered by spectators as he waves his hat from the Tiradentes palace, scene of the historic meeting.

BLUEPRINT: Of World Battle

While the nation geared itself for victory production on a scale never hitherto dreamed of, and while American soldiers were arriving on the battle front in a steady stream of victory, while still others were filling the news with their heroic exploits, President Roosevelt gave newsmen a hint of the "blueprint of battle."

The President, following the close of the Churchill conference, and the safe return of the British premier to London by airplane from Bermuda, had told little to newsmen save that there was a complete accord among the united nations.

Now he had begun to give them the picture, a portrait of battle carried on simultaneously in every part of the globe by the soldiers of all nationalities working in concert with each other.

Thus we were found American fighters fighting in the Singapore area, with the Dutch in the East Indies, in the Philippines, over the Seven Seas, and most hotly arriving in Britain and other points for service.

The President said one could look at the map of the world and assume that the anti-Axis group was doing something at almost every strategic point.

He said that joint technical committees were busy, covering the subjects of production, of transportation of produced supplies to every part of the globe, also to the assignment of fighting men and machines to points where they were most needed.

Writing up this information had been of a general nature, the nearest he came to giving out details was when he said that excellent progress was being made in strengthening the Allied forces in the Pacific.

This latter statement was taken by the press to be an attempt by the President to ally Chinese fears that the Allies were not going to make a vigorous enough battle against the Japs.

The President had finished a conference with Dr. Hubertus Van Mook, lieutenant governor general of the Netherlands Indies. Dr. Van Mook came out of the conference room beaming.

JAPS: Extend Fronts

The Japs, far from being licked or even stopped, were constantly extending their front, and with reports of their continued advances spreading out with attacks on all fronts, came dispatches telling of two new ventures. These were the invasion of New Guinea and the Solomon Islands area; and an invasion of Burma by the Siamese as a measure to aid Japan.

Indicating a threat to Australia itself, the New Guinea invasion was paced by air attacks and a movement of naval forces. The Solomon Islands lie in a chain northeast of Australia and east of New Guinea.

The Burma invasion had started at Myawaddy on the Solomon-Thailand frontier. This lies at the northern end of the Burmese panhandle bordering the puppet country.

It had not been unexpected, and General Maxwell's headquarters some time before had told of Chinese reinforcements to the Burmese troops, apparently sent there for just such a contingency.

The invaders also seized the port of Tavoy, which bisects the panhandle and gave the Jap-seizers a good advantage in opening the fighting.

SUB-ATTACKS: Intensified

Submarines, probably German U-boats, were pressing their attacks along the East coast of the United States, but the Navy department had reported that strong counter-measures were being taken.

The whereabouts of the navy's chief strength was being kept closely guarded secret, but will emanate from the President's headquarters.

The sinking of a Japanese cruiser by navy bombing planes was announced last week. The ship was one of them close to Japan.

Most dramatic had been the exploit of PT-boat division commander Lieutenant Bulkley, who shot his own boat at 80 miles an hour into the Bay of Olongapo, sent a 5,000-ton Japanese vessel to the bottom and escaped unscathed.

Bulkley's boat, a 77-foot speedster, carries heavy machine-guns and 18-inch torpedoes. He was being hailed as a hero almost on a par with Colin Kelly.

The cruiser sinking lacked details, but the navy said it was 6,000 to 100 miles off the island of Jolo, one of the nearly 5,000 islets of the Philippine group.

Where the American bombers which did this trick and achieved other victories were based was a closely guarded secret, but there were many possible bases in territory within reach of the location where the sinking occurred.

PRICE CONTROL: 'Joker'

The price control bill, sulking in the house and senate conference under the baleful displeasure of the President, continued to bog down as prices continued to soar.

The farm roller "joker" in the bill had with condemnation, not only from the "white" house, but from many agricultural centers, and this remained the main point of controversy in the bill.

In the meantime, Secretary of Agriculture Wickard, after making a statement that there probably would be a shortage of sugar, just after all the refinery men had gone down on a limb with the opposite prediction.

Sugar hoarders, and other purchasers of foodstuffs were continuing to strain gears, and cartoons were published under the caption "this little pig went to market" showing hoarders at their deadly work at the grocery counters.

Administration circles were at their gloomiest over the situation, one source saying "we had hoped to get an improvement over the house bill when we got to the senate, but the senate bill was worse than the house bill, and now most of us are calling it a victory if we could get the house bill enacted."

MISCELLANY:

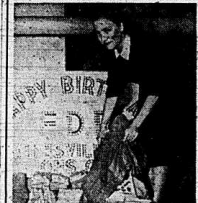

Bern: German rationing has cut men down from five cigarettes a day to three. Women are allowed no tobacco ration whatever.

Vichy: A German soldier was shot and killed outside a Paris night club. Police were able to arrest a young girl said to have been a witness. She was confronted with a dozen suspects and ordered to pick out the man who fired the shot.

Batavia: The Dutch admitted the loss of Minahassa, the northern portion of the Island of Celebes. It was the second severe loss of oil-important islands in the N.E.I.

London: Already work was in progress reviving the "scorched areas" of Soviet Russia retaken by the Red Army. It was announced that Sir John Russell had been named advisor to the board, and would go to Russia with American, Canadian and British help to "but Russian production back into being."

A Strange Open Secret: Blocks U. S. and Britain

Large Forbidden and Mysterious Area in Pacific Is Believed to Shelter Most of Japan's Naval Strength.

By BAUKHAGE National Press and House Columnist.

WFO Service, 1343 H Street, N.W., Washington, D. C.

There is a strange open secret about Japan which concerns a mysterious area of the Pacific ocean and about which very little is known even to our high officials. Its existence explains why a little island nation is holding at bay the two greatest powers in the world—Britain and the United States.

This forbidden territory includes a group of scattered islands covering a Japanese island chain from east to west and a thousand miles from north to south. It is the hiding ground of the Japanese fleet. Military people believe that most of Japan's naval strength, not in actual use in protecting troop ships on the way to Malaya, is stationed there. And this sea stronghold is a tower of strength against the American navy, against aid to the Philippines, Singapore and the Netherlands Indies.

This area lies about 2,000 miles from Hawaii and extends westward to the Philippines. It includes the Marshall group which lie south of Wake Island to the eastern extremity of the Caroline group eastward to the Philippines. Guam, once ours, now Japan's, is within the area.

For ten years, a British diplomat said to me recently, "only one of our people who got into that area came out to report what he saw."

Americans have similar tales to tell. In 1939 a fishing boat from the island of Saipan, one of the Marianas, was wrecked near Guam but, when an American ship started to return to the island, the Japanese navy stopped them at sea and took off the survivors.

It is known, however, that for a decade great quantities of cement and other building materials, endless stores of food and war supplies have been shipped to this area where it is believed that about nearly 2,000 islands lie at least 50 bases. There are no known large harbors, but a plenty of small marine and air bases and big ships can be fed and watered and supplied with munitions for an indefinite period.

Japan can strike in all directions, threatening the sea routes from our shores to the southwestern Pacific.

Here is the hornet's nest from which the swarms of enemy air and sea craft are making their sorties against the reinforcements from America which are the only hope for Singapore and the Netherlands Indies.

Already the Philippines are virtually a part of this nest. As soon as the Japanese had secured beachheads in the archipelago, they made temporary air bases and the narrow waters which might give entrance to the island group were made impassable. Even if American supply ships could have reached the islands in numbers, they were made impossible.

General MacArthur, they could not have penetrated the narrow waters protected by land-based planes. The Japanese did some damage to the Japanese here, but bombers cannot fight long against protecting interceptors and fighters. The little fighting planes can fly only a few hundred miles. We have few airplane carriers and it would be a risky business to send them past the hornet's nest. Carriers are about the most vulnerable things afloat.

Japs Were There: Fustest with the Most

The Japs applied the ancient principle of being there "fustest with the most" of everything, and the carefully built "hornet's nest" was a masterpiece of intelligence.

In 1941 the navy estimated that the Japanese had 100,000,000 to improve their harbor facilities of Guam. Congress turned down the appropriation for 1942. The American navy to 60,000 miles from home when we do not have a single thing to defend in that territory.

It is one of the arguments against this appropriation. In the same debate the statement was made that "for Japan to attack the United States, it would have to have as big a navy as it has now."

There is no use crying over spilled milk, but it is well to recall when people are asking "where is the United States navy?" to know where the Japanese navy is and what an impenetrable wall of defense Japan built for her navy under our noses. The Japanese navy postpones United Nations' victory in the Far East.

Washington—A World Center

These days Washington is a citadel within a citadel, a world center which, paradoxically, is nearer its circumference than all else within the circle. On the perimeter of America's existence is the war. It is a war that is a war and a war that is a war. It is a war that is a war and a war that is a war. It is a war that is a war and a war that is a war.

Between that frightful edge of things and the separate being of peace to it by fragile threads of circumstance that all else within the circle of America, still sleeping to the sound of distant guns, abundant, but not yet fully awake, when bitter news stabs a waiting heart.

Anxiously but impersonally calm, near to that vague, far-flung, undulating line which is the front, is Washington, the dynamic center of wartime America. Here is known all the rest of the world and the rest of the nation does not know; yet knowing that only a fraction of what it knows is truly known, it waits and watches.

It is known, however, that for a decade great quantities of cement and other building materials, endless stores of food and war supplies have been shipped to this area where it is believed that about nearly 2,000 islands lie at least 50 bases.

A Revealing Book

Washington Post wanted to review "Washington Dateline," a new book by Delbert Clark, but when I found he had so little to say about radio I decided to review it myself. It is a more objective mind. There is so much interest in Washington as a news center that the book is a great treat. So I asked Douglas Silver, a veteran newspaper man, now a writer of radio serials, to review this book.

He said he has to say: "A good fact juicy account of how the 500 Washington newspaper men and women 'mingle with the great,' and the knowledge and the know-how that make up a government and its camp followers is unwearyingly covered by 'Washington Dateline' by Delbert Clark (Stokes)."

Although having no illusions about the city which, as he says, "is a miserable life in a city of a million, and lifts up as the hills of Virginia and Maryland which cut across the city," Mr. Clark, a veteran member of the New York Times Washington staff, manages to invest his book with a great deal of interest and excitement and of capital newswatching.

From first to last Clark is concerned with the progress, ethics and usefulness of his craft in a democratic society; tracing the history of Washington newswatching from the vitriolic and venial dispatches of 100 years ago to the present era of comparative respectability. But respectability definitely does not mean dullness.

The accounts of our latter day saints and sinners are replete with inside stories of "how it really is" and very practical men with common sense. They had been disciplined in the "old-fashioned" way. Though unlearned as far as formal training was concerned, these men were teachable. Under the tutelage of their forefathers, and as they themselves received matchless informal training, leading to a record of service which the world will never forget. It is that sort of teaching that counts. We, too, may learn in the school of Christ, through the tutelage of the Holy Spirit, and through the yielding of our lives to His control" (B. L. Olmstead).

Christ go longer walks this earth to seek out and out disciples as He did these men; but the blessed succession of those of whom it may be said "they forsake all and followed Him" (v. 11), continues to this day.

We repeat what we have said before: "The world is a terrible thing to see, but it is a good thing to be in it." We repeat what we have said before: "The world is a terrible thing to see, but it is a good thing to be in it." We repeat what we have said before: "The world is a terrible thing to see, but it is a good thing to be in it."

IMPROVED UNIFORM INTERNATIONAL SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON. By HAROLD L. LUNDQUIST, D. D. Released by Western Newspaper Union.

Lesson for February 1

Lesson subjects and Scripture texts for persons of Religious Education; used by permission. JESUS CALLS FOUR DISCIPLES. LESSON TEXT—Luke 5:1-11. GOLDEN TEXT—Come ye after me, I will make you to become fishers of men. Mark-1:17.

Followers of Christ are those who have not counted their goods nor their persons' their own, but have willingly yielded all to Him. Obviously many who profess to follow Him have only done so in that measure which does not interfere with their own plans and interests. They need to study this lesson with care.

The call of Christ is one which demands willing and wholehearted obedience.

Yielded Possessions (vv. 1-3). These disciples had already responded to the ministry of Jesus and had followed Him for a time (see John 1:13-54); but they did not yet know the fullness of surrender to Christ and had now gone back to their old work of fishing. They were not to be typical of many in our day who know the Lord and have for a time followed Him closely, but who do not intend to be engrossed in their daily vocation, perhaps just making money?

Jesus was now ready to call them out into the world of fishing. The first thing He did was to ask the use of their chief possession, their boat. That was first yielded to Him.

It was not by chance that Christ was Peter who was just at hand when the Master needed it. Such things do not "just happen." The disciples were not to be typical of those who, with His children the simplest happening is known to and controlled by Him. He who numbers the hairs of your head, who observes the fall of the sparrow, knows about everything that happens to you.

Yielded Service (vv. 4-7). Having completed His teaching by word, Jesus had a special object lesson for Peter and the others concerning the fruitfulness of service to God with glad guidance, control, and the blessed results which come from obedience to Him.

Taking them where he found them, Jesus called them about and He was the Master even of their secular vocation of fishing. He is the One who knows about your business than you do, who can give or withhold His blessing. All that we have has come to us from His hand and it is all within His control.

This Almighty One was ready to call these fishermen out into the greater business of fishing for men by revealing to them His mighty power to bless and prosper the fishermen who becomes a fisher of men.

III. Yielded Lives (vv. 8-11)

The giving of their possessions, the yielding of their work into the hands of God, was the first step in His call for the yielding of their lives.

Often we speak of God's claims as being "great." It is not that He would have the flat of an autocrat, one who demands his rights. God might well do so, for He has the power to do so, but He is not like that. He is a gracious God and gently leads His children along to the path of obedience, leaving them no decision to leave all and follow Him.

The work of God in the world is carried on by men. The joy of producing the gospel was not given to the angels, but to redeemed men and women. Knowing the regenerating grace of God in their own lives, they have been called during all this Christian era to go out to tell others.

In preparation for that ministry our Lord needed yielded lives, which He sought and found in these humble fishermen. They were "not clothed in purple and fine clothes, nor in gold, silver, or precious stones, but they were clothed in simple and practical men with common sense. They had been disciplined in the 'old-fashioned' way. Though unlearned as far as formal training was concerned, these men were teachable. Under the tutelage of their forefathers, and as they themselves received matchless informal training, leading to a record of service which the world will never forget. It is that sort of teaching that counts. We, too, may learn in the school of Christ, through the tutelage of the Holy Spirit, and through the yielding of our lives to His control" (B. L. Olmstead).

Luscious to Look At and Eat, Too... Orange Sponge Cake

Snacks, II

"What shall I serve to guests who are visiting me for an evening of bridge or for a chat?" This is a question I've heard many hostesses ask, especially often during cold weather when a visiting time really comes in favor again the real answer is simple, for a delectable cake with it. Don't drink your guests will have finished their supper only a short time before, and since snacks do not come late in the evening, it is best to serve something not too heavy. Light cakes, preferably those with a touch of piquancy and tartness, fill the bill perfectly. These cakes may be baked in one of your not-so-busy moments to have on hand for just such an occasion.

Hot drinks are favorites in the chilling weather. If you like coffee, be sure to have quantities of the steaming beverage on hand. If you're on the lookout for new ideas, there are the hot fruit juice combinations which hit especially. Either type of drink goes well with these dessert-like cakes.

Here's the first cake on our list. It's like spun gold in color with the right tartness. You'll find that the novel oranges which peel and separate easily into sections will be perfect for decorating the cake as pictured above:

*Orange Sponge Cake.

- 5 egg yolks
  - 1 1/2 cups sugar
  - 1/2 cup orange juice
  - 2 cups water
  - 2 cups sifted flour
  - 2 teaspoons baking powder
  - 1/4 teaspoon salt
  - 1 tablespoon grated orange peel
  - 5 egg whites
- Beat egg yolks, sugar and orange juice until light. Add water and beat 2 minutes. Add flour sifted with baking powder and salt. Beat 1 minute or until thoroughly blended into egg mixture, fold in grated orange peel and egg whites.
- Gold Topping.
- 1 tablespoon gelatin
  - 4 egg yolks
  - 1/2 cup sugar
  - 1 cup orange juice
  - 1 teaspoon grated orange peel
  - 4 egg whites
- Soften gelatin in water. Cook egg yolks, sugar and orange juice in top of double boiler until thick. Add gelatin and stir until dissolved. Add grated peel and cook mixture. Beat egg whites stiff, adding 1/4 cup sugar and fold into cooked orange mixture. Spread between layers and on

Lynn Says:

Hot mulled fruit juices lend tang to winter evening snacks. You can have hot mulled cider by heating the cider and adding 1 teaspoon whole cloves and 1 stick of cinnamon (tie in a bag) while the cider is heating.

Here's another mulled fruit juice served piping hot: Tie in a bag, 12 whole cloves, 1 1/2-inch stick of cinnamon, and 1/2 whole nutmeg. Empty a large can of apple juice and a 12-ounce can of cherry juice in the saucepan and add spices. Heat, remove spices and serve. This recipe takes care of eight people.

Hot spiced lemon tea has lots of pick-up. Make it by pouring 5 cups boiling water over 6 teaspoons of black tea. Steep 5 minutes, then strain. Dissolve 1/4 cup sugar in 1/4 cup boiling water. Combine 8 tablespoons lemon juice, 1 teaspoon grated lemon peel, 1/4 teaspoon ground cinnamon and 1/4 teaspoon ground cloves, and add to hot tea. Serve at once, garnished with lemon slices. Serves 8.

Evening Snack Ideas

- *Orange Sponge Cake
- Mints
- Coffee
- *Gingerbread With Whipped Cream
- Hot Spiced Tea
- Salted Nuts
- *Orange Pumpkin Pie
- Hot Mulled Cider
- Chocolate-Covered Nuts
- *Lemon Cake-Pie
- *Mulled Fruit Juice
- *Hot Sugar Hard Candy
- *Recipe Given.

top of cake. Chill in refrigerator. Decorate with fresh orange sections just before serving.

Cleaned from an excellent chef, this Lemon Cake-Pie is a good combination of a cream pie and cake. Because of the delicate lemon flavor it will prove interesting to serve to those evenings when friends just drop in for a bit. Made just according to directions, it's guaranteed to bring plenty of encouragement!

- #### *Lemon Cake-Pie.
- 1 cup sugar
  - 1 tablespoon butter
  - 2 tablespoons flour
  - 2 eggs
  - 1 cup milk
  - 1 lemon

Blend sugar and butter, add beaten egg yolks, milk, flour and the juice and rind of the lemon. Fold in the stiffly beaten egg whites and pour into an ungreased pie-pan. Bake in a slow (325-degree) oven 35 to 40 minutes. The top will be like a sponge cake and underneath there's a soft, firm custard.

*Pumpkin Pie will never wear out its welcome if you serve it this way. It has extra zest because of the addition of orange juice:

- #### *Pumpkin Pie.
- 3 eggs, slightly beaten
  - 2 cup sugar
  - 1 teaspoon salt
  - 1/4 teaspoon cinnamon
  - 1/4 teaspoon nutmeg
  - 1/4 teaspoon ginger
  - 1/4 teaspoon cloves
  - 2 cups cooked canned pumpkin
  - 1 cup cream or undiluted evaporated milk
  - 1 cup orange juice
- Mix sugar, spices, salt. Add slightly beaten eggs, pumpkin, cream or milk, and orange juice. Pour into an ungreased 9-inch pie shell. Bake at 350 degrees for 10 minutes, and then in a moderate (325-degree) oven for about 50 minutes or until knife comes out clean when inserted in filling. Serve with whipped cream garnished with grated orange peel.

Gingerbread is a favorite for after-dinner bridge type of entertaining. Gingerbread made with boiling water gives the cake a certain kind of feathery texture which is certain to charm. Most of the time you like to serve gingerbread with whipped cream, but you can vary this if you add crushed peppermint to the cream before serving.

- #### *Old-Fashioned Gingerbread.
- 1/2 cup boiling water
  - 1/2 cup shortening
  - 1/2 cup brown sugar
  - 1/2 cup molasses
  - 1 beaten egg
  - 1 1/2 cups flour
  - 1/4 teaspoon salt
  - 1/4 teaspoon baking powder
  - 1/4 teaspoon soda
  - 1/4 teaspoon ginger
  - 1/4 teaspoon allspice
  - 1/4 teaspoon cinnamon
- Pour water over the shortening and add sugar, molasses and egg. Add sifted dry ingredients and beat until smooth. Bake in a waxed-paper lined square pan in a moderate (350-degree) oven for 35 minutes. Cool before turning out from pan. For variation, a package of semi-sweet chocolate pieces may be added with the dry ingredients if a chocolate checked cake is desired. (Gathered by Western Newspaper Union.)

HAY FEVER AND ROSE COLD NEED TREATMENTS

The running nose and weeping eyes that cause sleepless nights and uncomfortable days to all who are sensitive to the rag weed pollen who have hay fever, are known to all. The difficult, asthmatic breathing that causes the sufferer to sit up gasping for air which complicates some of the cases is not so widely appreciated. Many also know the similar though usually milder symptoms suffered in the late spring and early summer that are due to sensitivity to the pollen of trees and grasses. Just as "rag fever" is not due to sensitivity to hay pollen nor to the pollen of trees and grasses, so when the rag weed does, the milder early summer disturbance is known as "rose cold" though it is not due to rose pollen but because it comes when roses are in bloom.

Few know that in some parts of the country, that are free from rag weed in August and September, people who are sensitive to it, have hay fever at other seasons, as in those regions the rag weed blooms at other times during the year. This same thing occurs in the case of those who have hay fever because the trees and grasses to whose pollen they are sensitive bloom earlier in the South than in the North.

Indoor Plants. It is also now widely known that some of the plants frequently grown indoors in the cold months may cause the allergic reaction found in those who have hay fever or rose cold. Such plants sometimes cause another type of allergic reaction, hives, with its red wheals and intense itching. The primrose is a plant to which many are sensitive.

It is possible to successfully immunize many of the sufferers from these distressing diseases by injecting under their skins gradually increasing doses of the pollen of plants to which they are sensitive. To obtain the best results, this treatment must be carried on over a long period so that, when the plants to which they are sensitive, pollinate, the patients will be able to tolerate large doses of the pollens under the skin. Before the treatment starts, the patients must be tested to determine the pollens to which they are sensitive. Then these pollens must be mixed in proper proportions to fit each individual's particular sensitivities. It is now almost too late for the sufferers from rose cold to be greatly benefited in 1942. Hay fever sufferers who start the testing and treatment course in October will benefit but not as much as if the start had been made in October.

Start Treatment Now. If you have rose cold or hay fever and wish to benefit from this type of preventive treatment, get your tests made at once and start the treatment as soon as possible. If you are not much better next summer don't be discouraged. Repeat the treatment next year but begin it almost as soon as the plants to whose pollens you are sensitive, have gone to seed. You may have to continue the treatment for several years but after the first year or two will not have to start it as early or take as many injections. This type of treatment does not cure in every case, but it gives much relief.

"The publicizing of a biological discovery before the matter has been fought out in expert conclaves is not only stupid but in many cases is cruel by reason of the false hopes it arouses and the extra expenditures of money and effort it imposes on those who may be misled." — Hans Zinsser in "As I Remember Him."

QUESTION BOX
Send questions to Dr. Nathan S. Davis, III, 111 W. Walker Dr., Chicago, stamped envelope.
Q—I have had a bad habit of biting my finger nails. Many attempts have been made to cure me of this habit, but to no avail. What do you advise?
A—You must show that you have enough strength of character to overcome this bad habit. Also have a manicure regularly and often.
Q—Is a common cold contagious?
M. A.

HOUSEHOLD HINTS

Water should never be poured on burning fat. It will spread the blaze. Flour will extinguish the blaze.

To remove brown stains from light-colored ranges, dip a cloth in turpentine and apply to stains. With a little pressure the stains will lift off.

Store dried fruits in their original packages, tightly covered, or place them in covered fruit jars. It is best not to wash them until time to use.

Apply paint remover with a brush. Wipe paint begins to curl and remove it as it comes off. Do not leave it on too long. It will take time and cannot be hurried.

The unsightly ring left by cleaning fluids, when used to remove spots, may be avoided by placing under the spot a pad made of thick absorbent cotton.

8080

HERE is an adorable new fashion idea for little two to six-year-olds. A simple, princess jumper topped with a gay bolero! Thus it is a frock to wear any season, any day—and a charming style too!

Morning Worship—11 a. m.
Subject: "Two Difficult Sayings"

Evening Service—7 p. m.
Subject: "The Archractor."
Have you been to Prayer Meeting lately? If not please plan to attend this Wednesday night at 7 P. M.

"Neither do I condemn thee; go and sin no more"

The world has had the teachings of Jesus for almost two thousand years, and yet at just the first hint of questionable conduct, at the first breath of scandal, we are ready to condemn. How different was the attitude of Jesus. He said "Neither do I condemn thee; go and sin no more"

"Neither do I condemn thee; go and sin no more"

Attend our services every Lords Day.

What Do You Know About Beer? . . . No. 4 of a Series

WHAT HAPPENS TO BEER TAX MONEY?

- A—State taxes and license fees paid by Kentucky's legal brewing industry go into the State's General Fund.
- Q—Where does the money go from there?
- A—Revenue from beer in 1941 was used for education in public schools, colleges, normal schools, etc.; for public welfare, including old age assistance, aid to dependent children, Confederate pensions, health service, and penal and eleemosynary institutions; and for expenses of State government.
- Q—What would happen if this revenue from beer were not available to the State?
- A—Kentuckians would have to dig down deeper into their own pockets to provide the money.

YOU CAN HELP preserve these benefits from legal beer in two ways—(1) Buy your beer only in wholesome, law-abiding places; (2) Report any law violations you may see to the authorities or to this Committee.
