Q.: Is beer rightfully considered a beverage of moderation?

A.: Eminent authorities, after scientific investigation have proved that beer is a beverage of moderation.*

Q.: What is being done to weed out undesirable beer

A.: The Kentucky beer industry, through our Committee, is cooperating with law-enforcement authorities to eliminate all undestrable retail beer outlets. To date, on our recommendation, 30 retailers have lost their licenses, 8 have had their licenses suspended, and 4 have had their outlets padlocked.

Q.: Will this "clean up or close up" program be continued?

A.: It will! The Kentucky beer industry is determined that conditions in all retail beer outlets shall be as wholesome as beer itself.

Draw Lines of War

Though there was little evidence of a stackening of the general Japanese advance through the island empire of the Southwest Pacific, its seemed that as the days wore on, the main battle lines were drawing closer together Westleman state. A closer together Westleman state of Admiral Leary's naval forces heralded, according to newsmen who accompanied the fleet, the stablishment of a supply line for the United States.

Conservation is the keynote of wartime america Uncle Sam Says:

Your Electrical Appliances Can Help You Save

As America's military might grows, more and more of the nation's supply of food, metals, textiles and other resources must be devoted to war uses, leaving less and less for civilina consumption. That means that all of us must learn to conserve what we have in order that essential raw materials may be released for war purposes. Uncle Sam says: "Buy carefully; take good care of the things you have; waste nothing."

Your electrical appliances can help you in this program of conservation. Intelligent use of your electrical equipment not only enables you to-prevent food waste and prolong the life of clothes, linens, rugs and other household furnishings; it also conserves your time and energy and helps safeguard your health and eyesight.

There is no room for waste in wartime America. It is up to all of us to conserve what we use and own ... to make things last as long as possible. Your electrical appliances, by helping you save, enable you to do your part in the conservation program and at the same time maintain your family's health and mornle at a high level.
