By "Ye Editor"

Last week we had to remove some names from our mailing list because their time had expired—the Postal law on us—most of these people have been taken off when the time runs out—we were sorry to have to do this but we don't want Uncle Sam down on us—most of these people have come in this week—we were delighted to have them back on our list. If your time is about out won't you let us know so we can take it off and everybody will be happier!

Other morning I was going down the street to the office thinking about twenty-one other things—when BANG!—I hit the sidewalk and what I mean, I bounced—just once but three times, cause I got black and blue marks to prove it. Wanta see?? I got up, looked around to see if anyone had seen me—then walked on rather sheepishly—and rather STIFFLY!

We had heard of Dr. Hayes of Shelbyville, long before we ever came to Mt. Vernon by way of the Renfro program—but we had the privilege this week of meeting him personally—like to see more of you, Dr.

Mr. R. G. Dwell of Brookfield, paid his subscription this week and we want to say that your paper is getting better and better—"Ye Editor is getting happier and happier!"

Mr. Geo. S. Griffin also renewed and commented on the paper—such encouragement could inspire us all to greater efforts!

Some seem to think that we are staying a bit too long on the subject and we remind them that no matter how much good will you promote, if the paper don't come out—what good is good will?

There are several communities in the county from which we receive news—let there be some news in these districts that will take the time to write the news for your county paper each week—we want every precinct represented.

Do you have a family tree? Well, not have it dug up—cause it might cost twice as much to bury it.

With all the success that Lawyer Ashley Owens is having with divorces, and the scarcity of marriage license reported in this county recently—we wonder about the future!

Rev. Russell, who hauls from about the same part of Kentucky as Ye Editor was in Wednesday—we spent several hours reminiscing.

In the spring a young man's fancy turns to love—but this kind of love is his fancy, which turns to his mother's kitchen stove.

Business Mens-Farmers Banquet Postponed

The Rockcastle County business mens-farmers banquet, sponsored by Commercial Club in the interest of more production, was held at Renfro Valley Tuesday night. On account of unfavorable weather there were only 14 farmers present and 5 business men. The program committee and speaker were unable to be present. It was thereupon decided to postpone the event as planned until later date, and the meeting would serve as a nucleus for that purpose. The tickets purchased for this banquet will be good for the next one. To be announced later.

Even though the number present was small, much good is believed to be accomplished. Dr. Pennington, Dr. Robert Spitzer, county agent, and the program committee and speaker were unable to be present. It was thereupon decided to postpone the event as planned until later date, and the meeting would serve as a nucleus for that purpose. The tickets purchased for this banquet will be good for the next one. To be announced later.

Health Notes

By Walker Owens, M. D., Co. Health Dept.

The Value of Preschool Examination
The preschool age, or the age from 3 to 6 years, is an age all too often neglected from the standpoint of periodic checkups by the family physician or at the Child Health Center. Up to this time, the attention has been more or less the center of attention. Now, when he is beginning to be able to care for himself more, his parents are not infrequently inclined to overlook the necessity for continued periodic physical examination and advice. The preschool examination should not be a single, rushed examination, done at the last minute before the child is ready for school. This leaves insufficient time to follow up any of the minor physical defects and the thorough grounding of the child in good habits before he is called upon to adjust himself to the daily routine of school life. Rather, the preschool period should include regular visits to the doctor or clinic, through visits to frequent intervals than in the infant period.
The preschool checkup should embrace a thorough physical examination, including tests for vision, a dental examination, a dietary check-up, with advice on proper nutrition, completion of any immunization procedures left undone (all should have been done by this age, including diphtheria immunization, smallpox vaccination and Schick test), and a check on health habits.
To be effective, these examinations must be followed by any and all corrective measures indicated. Therein lies the necessity for early examination, so that there may be time enough for correction of defects before the child enters school. Every child should be given the advantage of the best physical condi-

HYBRID CORN ADDS 3 MILLION BUSHELS

The use of hybrid seed corn added at least 3,000,000 bushels of Kentucky's corn production last year, according to the State College of Agriculture and Home Economics. A total of 34,053 farmers grew 300 acres of hybrid corn, which produced 8 to 10 bushels to the acre over common varieties.
The college's statement says that the use of hybrid seed would enable farmers to reduce their corn acreages, and still produce the same amount as they have been growing. Farmers could confine corn growing to more fertile land and some of the land they usually plant to corn could be used for other crops or turned back to grass.
Be sure to use Kentucky good hybrids—Ky-103 and U. S. 13 are good yellow hybrids to use according to results in the state as well as in Rockcastle and southern Maryland, Ky. 69B and 72 while hybrid white also produced good results in the county and state.

Calloway

By Mrs. Jack Stallsworth
Mr. and Mrs. Joe Phillips have returned home after an extended visit with relatives at Big Stone Gap, Va.

Mrs. Rhoda Thomas

Mrs. Rhoda Thomas, very suddenly passed out of this life, Wednesday morning 6 o'clock (fast time) February 24, 1942, at her home near Luverne, O. after giving birth to a baby girl nine hours earlier. It was such a sad shock as they thought she was falling asleep, but how sad a sleep which we can never awaken.
She was 21 years old—last June 10, 1941. Was a daughter of Eley and Zula Brown, is survived by her father, seven brothers, husband, Thomas, a small son Shelby Wayne (over 1 yr. 11 mos.) and an infant daughter, Rhoda Annella, three sisters, Mrs. Omal Kirby, Mrs. F. B. Waddle, Miss Bessie Rowe, and one brother George Rowe, all of Luverne, O.
"A family circle again broken," A loving Mother, "the sunshine of a happy home," one who dearly loved her babies, husband, and all the dear ones about her.
Her last wish, that she could only see her son Shelby Wayne, once before and rest with her husband to take care of him. He had gone home with her mother on Saturday before.
It seems as she left a message to her mother, and all in the song she had written.
She had many friends and will be sadly missed.
Many friends, were laid to rest last Friday in the Phelps burying ground. Beside the grave of an infant son, Ivan Lee, who deceased last April.
Sympathy extended to the bereaved ones.
J. D. Green laid a tile drain, gas system on his Elliott county farm that will drain 40 acres of land.
M. H. Mulholland county home-makers are furnishing the local hospital with tomato juice and other fruit juices.
Many Fulton county farmers expect to creep-feed the spring lamb flocks.
The Perry County Farmer's Cooperative will supply high quality seeds to farmers at low cost.
At Buckhorn, Ky., farmers met to send a dose of molasses.

Live-At-Home Program Gaining Rapid Headway

Kentucky's Live-at-home program and Food For Freedom is going over in a big way in Rockcastle County, under the direction of County Agent Spence and Home Agent, Mrs. Hatcher.

Ten community meetings were held in the county last week with an attendance of 770 people. More than 800 families have already signed up to aid and assist in our Food Production program. Forty volunteer workers have organized card getting efforts, to enlist in the Food for Victory. We hope to have at least 600 for Rockcastle and 400 for Southern Madison for 1942. Enrollment cards can be obtained at the county agent's office at Mt. Vernon, any hour of the day. Those wishing to enroll in the Production program can do so at the office.

We want more milk, eggs, pork, beef and vegetables. This means we must begin now to secure grass for pasture and plan for hay to be fed this winter if we get an increase in our feed. We must also arrange at once for brooding pens for 1942. It is the time to start if eggs are to be increased next fall and winter.
The average brood sow will help increase the production. Hogs must have pasture and feed, therefore, corn should play a part in producing pork. Hybrid corn—Kentucky hybrids should be tried out by a few more farmers since it seems to give us a bigger share of winning this war.

Our Live-At-Home and Food for Victory Program must take into consideration plenty of food for our home consumption and, as much as possible, for export. This war, we are now in, will require our best in every way. Join now and let's do our part in bringing about a Victory for Freedom.

Completed plans for 1942 have just recently completed plans, elected a board of directors, and perfected organization for 1942.

Disputants, Climax, Brush Creek, Livingston, Blue Springs, Quail, Brushcreek, Mt. Vernon, Waddle and Conway. Each community has well balanced agricultural program planned with leaders to promote each project. Our Live-At-Home program will be the major project with much emphasis placed on gardening and food storage.

Java Calls for Increased Aid From Australia as Japs Intensity Attack; First War Deaths on American Soil Caused by 'Dud' Torpedo at Aruba

(EDITOR'S NOTE—These opinions are expressed in these columns, they are those of the news analyst and not necessarily of this newspaper.)

JAVA:

Goal of Japs
The fall of Singapore represented the winning of the Pacific for the Japanese, but tactically it was considered the moving of the western end of a Jap pincer movement directed not so much at India as at Java.

For the entire capture of the East Indies, and with it the enormous production vital to Japan had, therefore, to be regarded as the major objective, with Java at its center.

This had been proved by the events, that had followed the triumphal entry of the Malay army into Singapore.

Intensified Japanese attacks had started on Bali and islands to the east of Java, as well as stronger movements to increase the Japanese foothold on Sumatra, the invaders came from Palembang, Sumatra's largest city.

Java's population of 40,000,000 had been told "the enemy is at our gates," and to prepare its defense to the last ditch. At the same time Java called for increased aid from Australia, but it was not immediately apparent what Australia could or would do, embattled as it was in a belated effort to straighten out its own defenses.

Some commentators figured the Japanese occupation of Java, and with it control of all the Dutch East Indies, would be a long and bitter struggle, and that substantial defense of the remainder of the East Indies was quite possible.

However, that several Allied ranks would give a good deal to know which way the Nipponese attack was planning to jump it, as when the East Indies had fallen to the enemy.

If it going to be an all-out offensive against India or were the Japs, conscious that an eventually winning Allied naval, air and land attack could be launched against them from Australia, to turn their forces toward Cape York?

Movements of U. S. ships and troops seemed to indicate that this country viewed the latter possibility as a probability, and that some commentators figured that Australia and New Zealand seemed to offer the best chance for a supply life-line.

VIERECK:

Contemptuous Spy

As the Viereck trial had opened in Washington, the Nazi agent being tried without apology for some of his activities from the state department, he was painted as a "contemptuous spy" by William Power Maloney, prosecutor.

Maloney said Viereck had urged the Congressional Record to propagandize the United States "according to orders from his Teutonic overlords" and stated that many long excerpts in the Record from the speeches of the late Senator Lugen.

Testimony brought out that typical titles of books published by Planders Hall in New Jersey (financed by Viereck) were "Lord Lothian Against Lord Lothian," "Seven Periods in Irish History" and "It Happened Again," all allegedly German propaganda.

The 100 Families Who Rule the Empire," sensational book, published with funds from Munich, Maloney said the government would prove.

HIGHLIGHTS

in the week's news

London: Britain's revised war cabinet reduced from nine to seven members, is a partial concession to popular demand. Sir Stafford Cripps, former ambassador to Moscow, was given a high place. He is lord privy seal and Churchill's deputy as leader of the house of commons.

Washington: Secretary Ickes said he was going to try a voluntary curtailment of the use of gasoline.

Honolulu: The U. S. destroyer Shaw, reported destroyed by Japs at Pearl Harbor, was sufficiently repaired in two months to make the journey to a West Coast naval yard for repairs.

Washington: Sale of light airplanes permitted to continue by WPA only to the army, navy and a few specified purchasers.

Resigns From OCD

Myra Chaney, professional dancer, whose appointment to the vital post in the Office of Civilian Defense provoked congressional wrath, as she withdrew her resignation to OCD Director James M. Landis, "Because I wish no further altercation which might cause disunity and delay," she wrote, "I wish to step aside if it is your will."

Two days after the arrival of these troops had been announced, German submarines attacked the harbor, sank or damaged several destroyers with a loss of 59 seamen, and then shelled the big Standard Oil refinery on shore.

American planes took the air, spotted the subs and reported afterward that they had reason to believe at least one of them was sent to the bottom.

Two days later, after the damage had been checked up and gone over, a dud torpedo, 18 feet long, was found on the harbor sands.

Immediately identified as a German torpedo, four Dutch officers were assigned to the delicate task of taking it apart.

In the midst of their work it exploded, killing them all. They were the first casualties on land in the American hemisphere.

In the meantime the torpedoing in the Atlantic was continuing heavy, including the first sinking of a Brazilian ship in the present war.

This was the liner Buzacoe, a coal, freight and passenger ship, sent to the bottom off the coast of Virginia. The sinking was not immediately reported, and the government was afraid that serious rioting against Axis nationals might possibly result.

The crew and 11 passengers. Two were lost, 83 saved.

RESULTS:

In Marshall Islands

When an assault force of U. S. cruisers, destroyers and aircraft carriers, commanded by Vice-Admiral William F. Halsey, attacked the Japanese base in the Gilbert and Marshall Islands they caused substantial losses to the enemy. 38 airplanes, one converted aircraft carrier, one light cruiser, one destroyer, two submarines, two naval auxiliary vessels and three fleet oil tankers. Damaged "and perhaps destroyed" by U. S. attackers were three submarines, four auxiliary vessels and an oil cruiser.

The fall of Singapore had been reported to Congress, and the Medal of Honor had been voted to a Filipino mess sergeant, Washington asserted that it was the general's own wish to remain with his faithful troops as long as it was possible to carry on the good fight.

The mass sergeant was Jose Calugas, who received the highest award within the giving power of the government. He was a sergeant with an American gun was put out of action, Calugas, not even in that outfit, ran 1,000 yards without orders, entirely beyond the call of duty, before he was captured.

Arrived there he called for volunteers, and himself organized a gun crew, put the gun back into action again, and continued at his new post as long as the battle continued.

The fall of Singapore had evidently released the Japanese plans for the battle of Luzon.

Washington, quizzed as to why air reinforcements were not being sent to Bataan, stated that plenty of bombers would have been sent "if we had any way of getting them there."

SUGAR:

Print Job

The government printing office had been presented its biggest job in history, the making of 700,000 100 sugar rationing cards, which should be in the public's hands on March 7.

Word was that the printing department was "well abreast of the task" and Price Administrator Henderson had been photographed looking over the first sheet actually to come from the presses.

While the GPO (another bit of the Washington alphabet) was in charge of the printing, it was faring out a lot of the presswork.

The job takes into consideration the possibility of adding to the people in the nation, and a book and application form is being printed for each.

The first big job was to get paper that would not make the job easy for counterfeiters.

It took six paper mills to do this job. Five hundred and fifty printing firms bid on the press-work for the sugar cards. Twenty-three firms were finally selected.

From Defense to Offense

Is a Tough Job for U. S.

Enemy Must Be Kept From 'Breaking Through' While United Nations Build Up Overwhelming Superiority.

By BAUKHAGE, Press Analyst and Commentator.

WNU Service, 1345 H Street, N.W., Washington, D. C.

"Mr. President, there has been a good deal of comment lately to the effect that the American people are complacent about the way the war is going. Have you any comment, sir?"

There was quiet in the oval office. The hundred or so men and the three or four women representing newspapers, press associations, radio networks and the studios, were quiet.

The President leaned back, put his cigarette with its long holder in his mouth and let his eyes wander upward toward the great seal of the United States on the ceiling of his office in the White House.

It was the day when the startling news that Singapore, the Gibraltar of the East, for the first time had felt the boot of the invader within its bastioned confines.

We all realized that any comment the President might make would indirectly reflect on the military who do not mince words, who do not indulge in wishful thinking—that America clearly would be rapidly moving

I cannot quote him directly because that is forbidden. He answered the committee's charge was partly just—but that every day the people were becoming more realistic in their thinking.

He talked of the rapidly moving war as a world-enfolding war. This is a world-enfolding war.

Machinery of Defense Must Be Built Up
And so we were told from the highest source that we had learned already from the military who do not mince words, who do not indulge in wishful thinking—that America clearly would be rapidly moving

But one situation which few have realized is that the threat of a time a minor revolution, I think I can predict, will shortly be greatly ameliorated. This is the tale (and it is a tale) of the White House.

War required certain building operations on the White House grounds. One of the oldest retainers on this ancient estate is a trusted friend of mine, head of a rather tightly clan, but himself a very responsible party, but himself a very responsible party, but himself a very responsible party.

He is the Old Gray Squirrel who lives in the Elm. He with most of his clan was virtually dispossessed while the construction work I mentioned (or rather I am not allowed to mention) went on.

To look over the board's activities in a single day you might see listed projects to build a railroad, but to foreign country, to weigh to the last ounce some strategic material that a foreign country produces.

Today in the face of another emergency, business was once more facing strict regulation. The iron lobby of the building were exporters seeking licenses from the Board of Economic Warfare for not dollar's worth of goods can leave this country now if the BEW doesn't want it.

But this is only one small facet of the board, it has a hundred facets. And unlike our armies and our navy today it is waging offensive warfare.

Warfare launched a great offensive on the economic front.

Argentina: An Example
For example: The United States needs the co-operation of Argentina, a country upon which the Nazis have clear eyes and for good reason, which they have used to the limit for the persuasive power and dire threats of Herr Goebbels.

Before war made an omelet of the world's trade, Argentina bought iron markers by the cent at the steel she imported. Much of the other 94 per cent came from the Axis. Now virtually all of the supply of this essential material is cut off except what the United States can spare from the terrific demands out-shipsyard and arsenals are making.

Without steel, Argentina's wheels would realize that the public utilities would disintegrate, the country would be an easy prey to any subversive—France, and so, with a flick of the pencil, the experts in the BEW and some steel, recommend to the War Production Board that it provide vitalizing iron to buy up the weakened bodies, are being dispatched to South America.

And imagination has been used. Imagining that to realize that in order to get the labor to harvest the rubber, the half-starved, sickly Indians who provide this labor must be provided with vitaminizing milk to buy up the weakened bodies, are being dispatched to South America.

There is a new basis of values for the old jalopy that has puffed its last—it cannot be sold at a price higher than what it would be worth as scrap.

There is no shortage of black ink to fill the last year's income taxes are paid I wonder how the red ink supply will be.

U. S. A. E. F.'s Free Mail Raises Question Of Abolishing Congressional Frank—'Enemy Nation's' Secret Weapon—A Nightmare

(The Syndicate—WNU Service.)

WASHINGTON.—What with all this talk about saving paper, decreasing non-defense spending, etc., this should be a good time for congress to consider cutting down the almost unlimited use of the franking privilege for mail.

An amusing sidelight on the attitude of individual congressmen toward this question of saving postage is given in the note to grant mail home from the congressmen really thought they were giving the soldiers something? They were—an estimated average of six cents a word.

This is based on the idea that the average soldier and sailor will write more than 200 letters a year—one to his parents and one to his girl. The average stated is purely an estimate. There are no available figures, but it is estimated that soldiers or sailors—whom the writer has talked say—they would be tickled pink if the boys would average one letter a month to home.

However, they all said, it was not to save postage that the boys receive from writer as often as the old folks would like.

The soldiers and sailors, for the most part, are kept pretty active. They are not allowed to attend to their brief hours of relaxation and not inclined to tackle what to most of them is a laborious duty.

It is in favor of the congressmen's side to the soldiers, which seems rather sound, is made by a person who is not a congressman. There may be, in this gentleman's opinion, a difficulty in obtaining stamps at various places to which the soldiers may be assigned. So that the boys do not have to scurry around to obtain stamps might be much more important than saving a million of six cents a word.

Apparently the best reason for granting this mail subsidy—if we can assume this difficulty of obtaining stamps is the reason for the best reason—did not occur to ANY member of the house or senate while the bill was under consideration.

For the bill carefully confines this huge grant to enlisted men. It specifically bars the free mail plan to commissioned officers. The officers with the troops would obviously have the same ease or difficulty in obtaining stamps that the enlisted men would encounter. It would seem that the ONLY purpose of the bill was to increase slightly the pay of the enlisted men.

Important to Congressmen

One must not blame the congressmen for this, or think of the gift to our soldiers as trivial, as the lawmakers viewed the situation. For to the congressmen, the grant of privilege is not trivial—it is tremendous.

If deprived of that privilege the average congressman probably would spend more than a thousand dollars a year in postage. But with free postage for anything he chooses to send (congressmen have sent fruit under the frank the actual amount of unchecked service he gets from the post office department is quite much more than that.)

In this time of bundles for congressmen there is no desire to discourage giving, and certainly no desire to reach into the pockets, but why not put the mail on the same basis as stationery? Congressmen do not get free stationery, unless they are chairman of committees. They get an allowance every year to buy it.

Why not abolish the frank and give every congressman and official who is supposed to require it, an allowance for that purpose? Boy, would there be a saving of paper in Washington, not to mention the weight taken off letter carriers' feet!

Why Not Use Some German Inventions?

Our secret weapons have been a nightmare to the military commanders of every nation at war—not their own secret weapons of course, but the secret weapons developed by one of their enemies.

The inventors of America have led the world for many years. Curiously enough Americans invented most of the weapons which are so important in this war. And Britain comes pretty close to being second.

Britain invents the breech-loading gun. She sent to the Confederates two breech-loading cannon of about three-inch caliber, which were used at the battle of Gettysburg.

If the Confederates had been able to use 100 instead of two, the tremendous difference in range, rate of fire, accuracy, and range, might have won the war for Robert E. Lee.

It would seem about time that the U. S. inventors should be able to use successfully some former German invention! That may be a little too much to hope for, but surely it is about time that we use one of our own inventions in one of our own wars.

IMPROVED UNIFORM INTERNATIONAL SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

THE PARABLES BY THE SEA

LESSON TEXT—Mark 4:26-32; Matthew 13:46-50; Luke 13:18-21.

SYNOPSIS TEXT—Never man speaks like this man.—John 7:46.

Parables as a means of conveying truth reached perfection in the hands of the Master Teacher, Jesus. Taking short stories of well-known events or facts from daily life, He presented profound truth in the most simple and attractive form.

Except for the parable of the four kinds of seed which He interpreted (Matt. 13:18-23), He left it to the hearers to make their own application. This has led to a wide divergence of opinion, but in general the parables are received as excellent and helpful portions of God's Word.

In the two parables of Scripture assigned for our lesson, we have five parables, each with a great cost pointed out that there is a time of growth leading to harvest and judgment, and that our God has at great cost provided a way of redemption.

I. Normal Growth Is Blessed (Mark 4:26-29).

God is patient. He awaits the normal, healthy, steady growth of the seed. Man is so impatient he must have forced growth, artificial stimulation and even artificial ripening of the fruit.

The same attitude enters into his care of his children. They must get ahead in school beyond their years. They must get out and make money. They must get married. They have learned to make a life. Why not let them mature in the orderly, God-given way?

The same is true in the work of the church. There must be immediate "tangible" results or he will not give his support. Anyone with judgment knows that spiritual life takes time to develop, and that spiritual results cannot be judged by physical or tangible standards.

Seedtime, growing time, normal ripening, then harvest—that is God's order and it is a good one.

II. Abnormal Growth Is Dangerous (Mark 4:30-32).

Normally the mustard tree is a small plant, and when it grew into a great tree something abnormal had taken place. Birds of the air would denote something unclean in Scripture came to lodge in its branches.

Just so, Christianity was never intended to be made up of a hominially Christian world empire in which ungodly men (the dark birds of the evil one—Matt. 13:19) should find comfortable lodgings. Unfortunately, that is just what happened to Christianity in the so-called conquest of the Roman empire by Constantine. The results were disastrous. The same principle is evident today in the control of much of the church by worldly men.

III. Redemption Is Costly (Matt. 13:44-46).

While it is true that our redemption is worth more than anything else all the world and that the Christian soul is of infinite value, what has a sinner (whose own righteousness is described in Scripture as "filthy rags") to sell in order to obtain it? (See Eph. 2:8.)

Obviously, the sinner who has given up with his all-seeing eye and sold his soul for a momentary pleasure, the pearl of great price, his own Church. He then gives up all his glory. He had with the Father, comes to the earth, and even becomes sin for us that He may bring us to God.

Salvation in Christ is no little thing, not something which was purchased with gold or silver, but with the precious blood of Christ. We ought to value it highly, and because we are bought with a price we ought always to glorify God (1 Cor. 6:20).

IV. Judgment Is Certain (Matt. 13:47-50).

All kinds of fish were in the net, and until the fish were drawn and the net emptied they looked much alike and enjoyed much the same standing in the eyes of the fisherman. But when they faced the fisherman there was a quick division, and a final judgment upon the net and the fish.

It is true that in God's Kingdom (as it is now manifested in "mystery" in the Church) there are many who have come by false profession, through carelessness of pastors or church officials, etc. They go through the motions, they look and act much like Christians, although even here they create questions in the minds of true followers of Christ. The day is coming, however, when they will stand in judgment before the Christ whom they profess to love and follow. How terrible shall be their doom!

They need not wait in fear for that day. They may now, today, make right their relationship with God.

TO OUR Good Health

STATE MEDICINE

During the past few years there has been much talk about "social medicine" or state medicine. It is an issue which every one should be interested in and which all should understand. Its final settlement will determine the quality of medical service that will be available at any price, when you, Davis III your relatives become seriously ill.

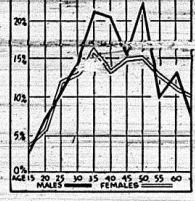

In the United States, we have always had independent medical practice. The individual citizen has had the right to select and employ the services of any licensed practitioner of medicine in whom he has confidence.

Under this system of personal medical practice, miracles have been achieved in the conquering of disease.

In the short period of 150 years, in the United States, the average length of life of man has been nearly doubled.

The life expectancy of the newborn child was 35 years. It is now over 62 years.

During this period, typhoid fever has well nigh disappeared; smallpox has been subdued; diphtheria has almost been eliminated; pernicious anemia, tuberculosis, diabetes, etc.

a score of lesser ailments have been brought under control.

American medicine gave to the United States, in the calendar year of 1940, the most favorable health record of its 150 years' history. It resulted—in 1940—in the highest general level of health and in the lowest death rate ever known for the United States, or for any comparable number of people anywhere in the world. It now appears that the record for 1941 will be even better.

In this country, there are some who seek to establish political control of medicine and of medical practice. It is granted that their motives are entirely honorable and wholly altruistic; that their arguments are plausible and alluring. But the record shows that the accomplishment of this purpose would hamper the effectiveness in the performance of its duties and so break down the morale and the effectiveness of the physicians—the men who are responsible for the physical well-being of 130,000,000 men, women and children.

These proposals must be recognized for what they are. As they are moved toward the establishment of political control of medical services—and the bureaucratic domination of both the patient and the doctor. They embody the menace of a system that has given this nation the highest level of health ever known; that has given its people the most resourcefulness, the most wealth, and the highest standard of living in the history of the world.

(From the brochure "Priceless Heritage," published by the National Physicians Committee for the Extension of Medical Service, Pittsfield Building, Chicago, Ill. On request a free copy will be mailed to you.)

"For the most part, American doctors are determined to oppose to this drive for socialized medicine, and I must say that I am with them all the way. State medicine, in my opinion, bears disaster for doctor and patient alike. You can not give out medicine to the community as you do with steam heat."

The nervous curate had arranged to preach on Jonah and the whale.

"And for three days and three nights," he began, "Jonah was in the whale."

He blushed, stammered, stopped, and then started again:

"For three days and three nights Jonah was in the whale."

Once more he was covered with confusion, and once more he stopped, and mopped his face.

Then he gathered his courage in both hands, and with a mighty effort he finished triumphantly: "And for three days and three nights Jonah was in the society of the whale."
