Salvage Awards

When a ship is so crippled that it has to be towed to port, all vessels answering its SOS, as well as the one which actually does the towing, are entitled to a salvage award. Even wireless messages that enabled one ship to avoid a shoal and helped another to disengage itself from an ice pack have been held to be salvage services under maritime law.

Watch Your Kidneys!

Help Them Cleanse the Blood of Harmful Body Waste

Your kidneys are constantly filtering waste matter from the blood stream. Kidneys sometimes lag in their work—due not to a failure in functioning but to more impurities that, if retained, may poison the system and upset the whole body machinery.

Impurities may be seeping back into persistent headaches, attacks of dizziness, weakness, aching, swelling, or pain under the eyes, aching, twinging, or itching, and a feeling of heaviness, or a feeling of a weight on the back, or an occasional burning, stinging, or itching sensation.

There should be no doubt that prompt relief should be sought. Doan's Backache Kidney Pills. Doan's have been winning the highest praise for many years. They have a nation-wide reputation. Get a box today. It will help you feel better all the country over. Ask your neighbor!

We Can All Be EXPERT BUYERS

It's bringing in buying information, as to prices that are being asked for, and as to the quality we can expect, the advertising columns of this newspaper perform a worth while service which saves us many dollars a year.

It is a good habit to form, the habit of consulting the advertisements every time we make a purchase. About it we have already decided just what we want and where we are going to buy it. It gives us the most precious feeling in the world; the feeling of being adequately prepared.

When we go into a store, prepared beforehand with knowledge of what is offered and at what price, we go as an expert buyer, filled with self-confidence. It is a pleasant feeling to have, the feeling of adequacy. Most of the unhappiness in the world can be traced to a lack of this feeling. This advertising always shows another of its manifold facets—shows itself as an aid toward making all our business relationships more secure and pleasant.

Facts and Stories

really younger, and has likewise a downcast countenance. He had on a coat of the same stuff as his brother and had a drab surtout over the close-fitted one. His stockings were dark blue woolen ones, and his leggings of drab cloth.

About all that is definitely known of the early life of the two Harpe brothers is that they hailed from North Carolina. Many thought them to be part negro from their appearance and history records that they had lived for two years among an outcast band of Cherokees.

In the early part of December, this same year, a young Virginian by the name of Lanford arrived at John Pharris tavern just outside the settlement of Little Rock Castle.

The Pharris Tavern was a well-known meeting place for travelers that day. It was located on what is now the Laurel side of Rockcastle River at the old ford below Livingston.

The entire section which is now Rockcastle county was then known as "The Wilderness." That title a description should be applied to it at a time when the entire State was practically unsettled.

It was a dire case of necessity which drove him that it was the waste of country alone. Travelers were wont to wait at Crab Orchard or at the Pharris Tavern.

When young Lanford arrived the landlady warned him that it would be impossible for him to continue his journey that day, since there was no one waiting who might accompany him.

IMPROVED UNIFORM INTERNATIONAL SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

BY EAROLD L. LUNDQUIST, D. D. Of the Moody Bible Institute, Chicago (Revised by Western Newspaper Union)

Lesson for March 29

Lesson subjects and Scripture texts selected and copyings in the margin are for the Council of Religious Education by authorization.

THE TRANSFIGURED CHRIST MEETS HUMAN NEED

LESSON TEXT—Luke 9:28-34; GOLDEN TEXT—John 1:14. We were all amazed at the mighty power of God— Luke 9:42.

Glory and grace go together. Spiritually, first, meeting in service. Holiness is faith in action. Every fine emotion should be translated into conduct.

This is the message of our lesson as it presents the transfigured Christ and the disciples, moved beyond intelligent words by His transcendent being, going forth into the valley to meet the need of demon-ridden humanity.

I. Amazing Glory (vv. 28-36)

To three of the disciples came the privilege of seeing in the mount the outshining of the deity of Christ through the humanity of His flesh in this amazing glory that Peter could think of nothing more wonderful than to prolong the experience by tarrying in the mount.

One could wish that it were possible in presenting this lesson to get over into the thinking of those who read or hear, a proper conception of the glory of our Christ, but words seem to be such weak and insufficient instruments. One would cry out—Look at Him—the Son of God with the transfigured face—the light of heavenly glory shining forth in a dazzling whiteness! (Literally, like lightning.)

If men would only look upon Him, they would see how untrue are those who take from Him His deity, who speak of Him as only a good man or a great teacher. He, our Saviour, who took upon Himself the limitation of our flesh, was and is eternally God.

Significant it is to note that with Him on the mount were Moses and Elijah. The former had died (Deut. 34:5, 6) and the latter had been translated without death (II Kings 2:11), but both were alive, recognizable, intelligible, interested in the redemptive work which Christ was to work out on the cross (v. 31). This definitely denies such false theories as soul-sleep or annihilation at death.

But the vision of glory becomes a means of blessing as we see

II. Amazing Grace (vv. 37-42)

Like Peter, there are many folk who think that the thing to do is to remain on the mountain top, just enjoying the vision of glory and the delightful fellowship of Christ and the redeemed. They do not see such things from Christ or from the Word of God. The next day (v. 37) He and the disciples came down from the mountain, and the cry of an anguished father who had found no help (v. 40). Look then upon the one whose amazing glory has just been revealed in the mount, who has just had the approval of God the Father (v. 35), who now in anguish and prayer pleads the need of this humble child! There is the grace of God, manifest in the One whom we adore and profess to follow. Let us like Him name the glory of God (and in His name) the power of God to bear upon the need of men.

It seems to the writer of these notes that God is waiting to do a new thing in the midst of human suffering, and that the way of working through His disciples. We need to be all to know Him ourselves, as our own Saviour and Lord. Then we have seen the glory of Christ and our souls and transforming our lives (Rom. 12:1, 2). Then, we must put that glory and that power to work through our lives. The one who follows Christ cannot be satisfied to rejoice in his own salvation and not reach out to win others. He cannot rest in the peace of heaven which Christ gives and not put forth his hand to those who struggle in "little's" restless anguish.

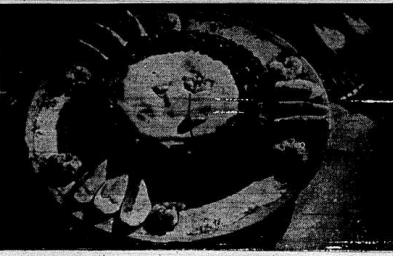

Matt. 5:16 puts it let his light so shine in the darkness that men may find their way to the Father's house as this Christ of God.

God does His work in the world through redeemed men and women. He is always seeking those who, having seen the glory of Christ and with His grace upon them, are ready to be used of the Holy Spirit for His glory. "What the church needs today is not more machinery or better, not new organizations or more novel methods, but men whom the Holy Ghost can use—men of prayer, men bright in prayer. The Holy Ghost does not flow through methods but through men. He does not come on machinery, but on men. He does not shine on plans, but men" (E. M. Bounds).

Need Compassion

I do not know how any Christian service is to be fruitful if the servant is not primarily baptized in the spirit of a suffering compasser. We can never heal the needs we do not feel. Tearless hearts can never be the heralds of the Passion. We must pity if we would redeem. We must bleed if we would be the ministers of the saving blood.—J. H. Jowett.

Conserving Food

As the quotation "Food will win the war and write the peace" gains prominence, home-makers are beginning to realize that they must do their part in making the most of the food at hand.

Your first step in conserving food will come when you plan your menus and shopping. If you do this in this habit, then start now to practice the true economy that comes only with this kind of planning. You will rarely have bits of leftovers that are difficult to fit into the menu if you provide a plan for them.

Your second step in conserving food will come in your storage matter how careful a shopper you are, if you do not provide the facilities that keep food from becoming decayed, wilted, or spoiled, you will not have done your part.

Refrigerator Storage. Milk, eggs, butter, cheese, meat, opened canned food, or leftover, keep the cold of a refrigerator to keep them in good condition.

Fresh fruits and vegetables also retain their freshness and moistness if the icebox. Place them, after they are washed and carefully dried on the racks or in their special compartments. Lettuce and other greens keep best when stored in damp cloth bags.

Protein foods such as eggs, cheese and meat need the controlled cold of the refrigerator to keep their protein from decomposing. Uncooked meat may be left uncovered or covered lightly with waxed paper. Cooked meat should be covered. Cheese may be wrapped in waxed paper or cloth, and covered with a thin film of butter if you expect to keep it for a long time. Keep eggs away from strong foods to prevent their porous shells from absorbing odors.

Leftover food remains usable if kept in covered containers. Canned foods will be perfectly safe to use even if left in the cans in which they come. Canned fruits keep best in their liquid or syrup unless best in their own brine, and pickles will not become molded if left in the jars in which they come.

Meat, poultry, and fish are the problem or, if you have a yolk or two after the white has been used is easily covered with a thin film of butter in a half of a shell and cover it with vegetables or other food.

Several egg yolks or several whites can be placed in a glass jar and kept covered. Take stock of your refrigerator frequently so no food remains there for too long a time. Even though you are careful about storage, you do not expect food to retain its good condition indefinitely.

Storing Cookies, Cakes, Bread. Crisp cookies will retain their crispness if you place them in a loosely covered tin or box to permit the free

Lynn Says: You can be smart about the way you use leftovers. Here are a few ideas:

Save leftover vegetables from dinner, wash the butter off and use in salads combined with celery, lettuce and dressing. Use other vegetables in stews, meat pies, and casseroles.

Leftover roasts slice nicely so you can have them cold or serve hot with leftover gravy. Meats combine well in casseroles, croquettes, stews, soup and salads.

Use cooked cereals, and store combined with a few vegetables make up nicely into soups.

Clearly fats (bacon drippings, lard, suet) and oils (olive, corn) can be used in many ways. Fry, heat and add to soups, dressings, and salads. Fry, heat and add to soups, dressings, and salads.

Leftover egg yolks are good for custards, mayonnaise, sauces and frostings. Leftover egg whites are excellent for angel food cakes, frostings, meringues and sauces.

TO YOUR GOOD HEALTH By Dr. Jas. W. Barton

(Released by Western Newspaper Union)

LOWER BACK PAIN

When there is pain in lower back, physicians are usually able to locate the cause of the trouble because three of four cases are due to infection from the parts—teeth, tonsils, gall bladder—and one in every four is due to cancer.

Generally speaking, pain that is worse when the patient is at rest is due to infection and pain that is worse when the patient is up and about is due to infection.

Dr. Barton says, however, there are a number of cases where infection or infection is not the cause of the pain or disability in the same patient.

When the pain is not in lower back but in other parts of the spine, it is not arthritis or rheumatism in the joints between the bones (vertebrae) the cause of the pain or disability may have to do with the discs.

For some time physicians and surgeons have been obtaining small portions of the soft tissues by means of suction or use of a tiny syringe or suction apparatus. This is one method of finding if lump, growth or sore in the breast or uterus is or is not cancer.

That small portions of the bones of the spinal column obtained by this method and examined under the microscope, Dr. Barton says, has enabled the physician to tell what is wrong with the patient is reported by Dr. J. Valle and his associates of Buenos Aires.

A Safe Method. By control under the X-rays and a special method of using the needle, the nerve and the bone itself a puncture is made directly into the bone. These physicians report that the method is safe and effective.

Among the diseases found in these bones of the spine were tuberculosis, extension of cancer from other parts of the body, growths, cysts, a porous condition of the bone found in old age and chronic inflammation of the spine.

While the cause of most cases of lower back pain or disability can be found, there are some cases of low back trouble and many cases where trouble is higher up the cause of which is difficult to find. This biopsy method, Dr. Barton says, will help to find the cause of the trouble and prescribe the necessary treatment.

What Can Be Done For Angina Pectoris?

When, as youngsters, we were playing a game that required much of continuous running, we would get a pain in the chest that made us stop in our tracks. By resting or taking a few minutes, the pain would gradually disappear and we were able to play just as hard as ever. We called this getting our "second wind."

This pain that we had as youngsters is the same as "angina pectoris" is called angina pectoris and is due to a higher up the cause of oxygen in the blood supplying the heart muscle.

When we have a shock, other emotional disturbance, or face a cold wind, it may upset the proper working together of the heart and lungs; the oxygen does not get a sufficient supply of oxygen and the viselike pain in the chest may occur. Nature, the friendly force behind man's troubles, tries to help us when we are attacked by emotional disturbances or cold by stimulating the adrenal glands.

These glands, situated one above each kidney, causing them to pour out an extra supply of adrenalin into the blood. This adrenalin, while lessening the oxygen supply to the blood, is going to heart muscle, opens the blood vessels wider so that the heart muscle will get more blood and prevent the pain.

Can anything be done for these patients whose blood vessels are getting hard and who have the attacks of angina pectoris? Dr. W. Raab, Burlington, Vt., in Annals of Internal Medicine, states that attempts to relieve the symptoms of angina pectoris by cutting down on the amount of adrenalin poured into the tissues, by means of X-ray treatments, were successful in 76 of 100 patients. Sixty-two patients were entirely free or almost entirely freed from complaints or at least considerably improved or free of average of 13 1/2 months, 14 patients were moderately improved for an average of seven and one half months, and 24 received no help from X-ray treatments.

QUESTION BOX Q.—Could you suggest a cure for dandruff? A.—I know of no cure. Soap and water help as much as most remedies.

Q.—Please tell me the cause and prevention of mouth ulcers. A.—Mouth ulcers—stomatitis—in children may follow children's diseases or a run-down condition. In adults, they are due to too hot or highly seasoned foods, bad teeth, stomach or intestinal disturbances.

It's "Know How" That Makes A Bank Useful

Ten to one there is a certain mechanic who looks after your car when it needs a repair. You have a doctor who swears by a particular lawyer for your legal problems, a druggist and grocer you patronize regularly. You go to certain people because they possess a "know how" that enables them to serve you better than anyone else.

It's the same way with a bank, and the reason we believe, why folks come back to us day after day, week after week, and year after year.

INSTALLMENT TWELVE

THE STORY SO FAR: Karen Waterston, convinced by her lawyer, John Cote, that she has a claim to the island estate of her grandfather, Garrett Waterston, comes with him to Honolulu and meets Tomika and Richard Wayne, a man and a woman who claim to be the heirs of the Wayne family, which has been in control of the property since her grandfather's disappearance. Dick's uncle, James Wayne, manager of this island, Alaska, dies from overwork and Dick attempts to work out a compromise settlement of Karen's claim. This is refused. Meaningless Karen has learned that both Cote and Dick are to live with her. Dick reveals that Karen is not a heiress at all, as Garrett Waterston is alive and on his way to Alaska. Dick and Karen leave the island together and some distance out, Dick, about fifteen, a native house-boy, has stowed away in the boat. Dick questions her regarding her actions. Now continue with the story.

The girl let the sway of the ship take her then. She swayed against the doorway's stanchion, and stayed there.

thin-bodied, thin-faced San Francisco stenographer, sharp-edged in mind and manner because any girl needs to be, making her own way. He could see her in the light of the reason that she was here—a short-cutting little adventuress, willingly lending herself to the predaceous brain of John Cote in the hunt for unearned fortune. A girl proud without background, arrogant without attainment.

But still behind that like a mist-figure seen beyond steel cogs and wheels, hovered persistently his own conception of what this girl might have been—perhaps still could be. He was obsessed by the haunting belief that if what he had hunted for always was not in this girl, then it was somehow lost out of the world. "And now," Karen said, "I think you might put back to Alakoa—don't you? Because you said—"

"No," Dick answered.

"I ask you to turn back."

"I'm not going to put back. At least not yet. Not until you come to your senses, Karen."

CHAPTER XI

Dick Wayne was left facing Liliu alone. For a moment Liliu's eyes remained fixed upon the companion-way where Karen had disappeared. Then her eyes turned to Dick, and for a moment they looked at each other.

"Liliu, Liliu," Dick said, "what have you done to me? Liliu's eyes remained fixed upon the companion-way where Karen had disappeared. Then her eyes turned to Dick, and for a moment they looked at each other.

Strangled Leopard

Probably the only white man who ever killed a leopard with his bare hands was Carl Akley, famous American explorer, says Collier's. In British Somaliland in 1898, he shot and slightly wounded one and, before he could fire again, it leaped upon him. During the ensuing struggle, Akley, although badly mauled, finally strangled the big cat.
