Towers of Truth

Chinese, Finnish, Tagalog, Dutch, Spanish—programs in more than a dozen tongues to cut from the towers of General Electric stations WGEA and WGOE, Schenectady, and GEGE, San Francisco.

1. They provide authentic war information for news-starved peoples around the globe, entertainment for U.S. forces abroad. These G-E short-wave stations...

2. ... have special antennas "pointed" at Australia, South America, China, Europe—making reception there almost as strong as from local stations.

3. They provided the only U.S. programs that reached Bataan. People in conquered lands risk their lives to listen. Smuggled letters say they bring hope of release.

4. Some announcers are regular G-E production employees, working on war work. They tell people in their native lands that America is determined on victory.

General Electric believes that its first duty as a good citizen is to be a good soldier.

The Mt. Vernon Signal

Rockcastle Facts and Stories

By Ralph Griffin

It is to be hoped that the readers (if any) of this column are not bored with this series of reports for there are more to come yet. It has long been our belief and contention that a live, wide-awake newspaper means everything to the community. The possible progress of any given section can almost be measured by the calibre and ability of its newspapers and newspapermen. It might be further argued that Rockcastle would still be a backwoods county had it not been for the progressive spirit of a few Signal editors.

Most of the traffic which we enjoy today are possible because the Boone Highway was surveyed and eventually built across this county, and the man who conceived the idea of that highway was Col. James Maret, a Mt. Vernon citizen and a former Signal editor.

Able backed by the original Mt. Vernon Commercial Club and E. S. Albright, another Signal editor, Col. Maret and a group of scrappy citizens fought against all odds to bring about the Boone highway as a reality. Then came more good roads, better schools, better water, better buildings, electricity, cars, better farms, more prosperity and the fuller life.

The citizens of today are beginning to mold the type of community in which our children will live. Should we not all strive to keep alive the spirit of progress and optimism which are in the following article? It was written by editor Albright when all he could see was a better future and pure water.

Rockcastle County

"The resources of our county are almost inexhaustible, and there is every reason why it's citizens should be prosperous. Instead of our farmers having to import hay, corn, oats, potatoes, etc. from other places, they should be raising them to sell.

Most of our soil is adapted to the raising of cereals, while other parts are adapted to the raising of tobacco, vegetables, fruits of various kinds, and more especially citrus fruits. While the people of other states, and even of other sections of this state are, making fortunes from the berries and vineyards of exactly the same kind of soil, we let it grow up in sedge grass and sawblows, or remain uncultured, not bringing in an income of fifty cents to the acre.

This state of affairs is inexcusable. We should have vineyards dotting our farms from one side of the county to the other, advertising their products in the way that can be done only by the rich foliage and the clustering bunches of grapes, and filling our coffers with shekels.

In our sister county Pulaski there is sometimes as much as one hundred dollars cleared on one acre of strawberries, and why not do this in some of our enterprising citizens start a canning factory so that our farmers can have a market at home for tomatoes, berries, and other products? Advises To Watch Out For Saboteurs

There is a drive on to gather up all scrap metal and rubber in the county for the army. There has been more small amounts of scrap gathered by the students of the rural schools than we would have thought could be found. They have gathered to Parsons Garage more than a truck load. Mr. Parrell is contracting the schools and farms over the county making arrangements to collect this metal and rubber in at the government's expense. The Treasury Dept. will send checks payable for the scrap.

This is a very important part of the war drive in which most everybody can take a part.

Everyone should be on the lookout for saboteurs at this time. Be on the lookout for "Reds" or men wanting to repair stoves or cooking material. Look for parties with cameras making pictures of the country; look out for piano tuners, or any traveling through the rural districts speaking with foreign accents; strange people who say they've lost their way; or any person speaking or acting who sympathize with Germany or Japan. Any one who is not helping his country in this war in no way should be considered suspicious.

Some of the people in this county who have been very active in buying and selling war bonds and stamps should receive special mention. Harrison Mink, Mac Bales, Bill McBea, Bill Martin, C. F. Mullins, Phil Wilson, Lester Elder, and the boys of the county, and also the postoffice have been very active in the war bond drive.

War Bonds, purchased by the citizens of Rockcastle during the month of August, totaled $21,475.00. The quota set for Kentucky was exceeded by 5 to 10 per cent.

County quota set for September remains the same $8600.00.

Regulations Call For Draft Of Married Men

Present regulations require that all single men or men married since Sept. 16, 1945, be drafted first. This is true regardless of dependents.

The next group to be called are married men without children.

If the group are men with wives and children or children only if a home is maintained.

Men of the last two groups not engaged in essential work are to be called before those engaged in war work.

Cash allotments for all able-bodied men between the age of 20 and 35, regardless of dependents or vocation will be called to service.

Men of the last two groups who are not available to the government are available to the dependents of all men called.

We are anxious for our Rockcastle men to get in the positions possible. At this time there is a demand for "Mechanic Learners" and "Assistant Lower Mechanics" for the Signal Corps. The mechanic learners are given a 9 months course at Somerset and Avon and are paid $85.00 per month while at Somerset and $120.00 per month at Avon. The mechanic learners are given a 3 months course at Paris at $135.00 per month. Class 1-A men required to join the Army Reserves to be called if it is necessary that they do so before receiving their induction notices. For further information please see L. J. Bryant.

Cash allotment will give sympathetic consideration to every case and is fully mindful of the great hardships which many in being called but there is little it can do to help. The stern fact is, we are at war.

The Enemy is strong, efficient and ruthless. The two banks of the river are carrying out their plans. Already they have taken much of our territory. Our fellow-citizens there are being tortured, imprisoned, enslaved, murdered.

There is no choice left to fight.

Five-Hundred Fifty Children To The Acre . . . of School

For more than an hour Tuesday morning continual streams of children came from all directions and converged upon the school grounds. They came on foot, upon bicycles, in cars and in buses. Many came on (aging feet while others skipped merrily. Some faces were bright and cheery, others were glum and mournful. All were a bit subdued, for after all it isn't a light thing to surrender the care of vacation time.

From awed beginners to dignified seniors they grouped around the front doors of the Mt. Vernon Graded and High School, awaiting admittance. A bystander "groped of several particularly 'ful-

plies the bystander got were Bronx cheers and "sonny?" The timester Persisting, this middle-aged individual asked his question of the accident-looking boy in the lot. Surprisingly the boy answered, "yeth-thir, I'm glad she's started". Then, after listening to a few words of congratulation, the lad continued, "I'm glad she's started, for the throner she starts the throner she'll be over!"

The doors opened and the children filed inside, where they rapidly became their own creative selves again. As they filed through the halls seeking their proper rooms, old acquaintances were renewed and new friendships begun. They all talked and shouted in unison and the din became terrific.

From a few small steps obviously stepping on polished floors for the first time, they took their new shoes to see how they would "ride". The results were evidently pleasing and the boys skated on down the hall with joyous whoops, their opinions of school changed in a twinkling.

A number of parents strolled about the building while they waited for the children to find their home-rooms and then assembled in the auditorium for opening exercises. In the interim these parents were permitted to view a number of interesting facts.

Each day, there is the appalling amount of dirt that is daily swept and clean an acre of floors. The building itself actually covers nine-tenths of an acre of ground, while the school grounds make up the other tenth. Surprisingly the janitor, Charley Hines, is a cheerful-looking individual.

Back in the kitchen and lunchroom Mrs. Hazel Cummins supervises an amazing lot of most efficient-looking pots, pans, stoves and whatnots. Mrs. Cummins is usually directing an assortment of 4,000 quarts of sundry vegetables which she and her eight assistants have canned this summer.

As if this were not enough, this group of workers expect to can another 2000 quarts of tomatoes out of their crop. These vegetables were raised, harvested and canned by WPA employees while the children were out vacationing.

Before the parents had half enough time to admire this splendid and efficient educational plant, it was time to get on with the day.

Approximately five hundred and fifty children stood in, and in the gallery around, the auditorium to sing America, while many wet eyes made it hard to see the youngsters as they sang.

Seated again the youngsters sat as calmly and patiently as the average similar group while they listened to addresses delivered by Prof. Champion and by ministers Russel and Younce. The remarks made by all of these gentlemen were timely and to the point.

Rev. Younce made the bit of the morning's program by bravely advocating the unsparring use of the rod (in which program he was, however, silently concurred). The youngsters cheered the suggestion heartily, each probably endorsing the policy in principle, to be exercised upon the other fellow.

As the children filed back to their respective rooms an unbiased observer made a few suggestions, to himself. The auditorium is so large that it is badly in need of a public-address system. There should be a "Quiet Please" sign in the halls. There should be music for the children when they march. The public dance, though it is necessary and, slightly and less aromatic. Finally and emphatically, there should be ample playground facilities arranged for at once.

HOFFMAN TO DIRECT MT. VERNON SCHOOL BOARD

A. F. Hoffmann, publicist of the Mt. Vernon Area, has been employed by the Mt. Vernon School Board to direct and rehearse the High School's drama this season. The vacancy in the school board was made by the resignation of Prof. Lauffel Atkinson, who was in charge of the school's musical instruction, a course at the Louisville Conservatory of Music. Hoffmann has been employed by the Mt. Vernon School Board and the direction of the Graduate High School Band and other bands and orchestras.

SIMPSON NAMED EDITOR

STATE BRIEFS

Construction of temporary living quarters for approximately 40 commissioned officers at the Lexington Signal Depot will be completed within the next two weeks. Col. Laurence Watts, commanding officer of the depot, reported yesterday.

Inauguration of a new international service Saturday by American Airlines planes Louisville within 18 hours of Mexico City.

A letter from Attorney General Hubert Meredith commending him for following "the letter of the law" in recent paroles was held Wednesday by Welfare Commissioner W. A. Fry. It was made public simultaneously with announcement of eighty-nine new paroles. Severals.

The increasingly complex problem of tips in Kentucky was even further complicated by hearing before William C. Burrow, commissioner of industrial relations. Ten waitresses from the Brown Hotel and the Cannay Cottage, Louisville, asked a lower wage level because, they claimed, payment of proposed higher wages had cut tips 50 per cent.

Dr. Lundquist suggests in this week's Sunday school lesson that Sunday School teachers should use this lesson to teach over again man's moral accountability, and the importance of his choice of a way of life.

FIRE DEPARTMENT TO BE REORGANIZED

The Mt. Vernon Fire Department has had its ranks of fire-fighters greatly depleted recently by draft inroads and loss of volunteers from various other causes.

This situation was reported to the city council Wednesday night and the council urged to help take steps to remedy the shortage. The report was made by the fire department.

According to Mr. McMurphy's reduced to five men who are capable of handling necessary equipment, while twelve should be a minimum.

The council pledged it's moral support to any program which Mr. McMurphy might propose and agreed to be in an immediate enlistment program among the men of the town.

It is probable that a meeting will be held in the near future for a complete reorganization of the fire department.

SUM APPROPRIATED FOR STREET WORK

Three hundred dollars were appropriated for ditching, road cutting and general street repairs in a regular session of the Mt. Vernon City Council Wednesday night. Up to this amount will be spent during the remainder of this year for some much-needed work.

Street repairs will be under the supervision of the street commissioner, O. L. Owens and E. W. Griffin while the city marshal, Ed Payne and W. H. Liveness will act as foremen.

As further business the Council approved approval of substantial tax collector which Marshal Ed Payne made during the month of August, amounting to $100.89. This amount supplements something over $5.00 which the marshal collected during July.

Appropriations were made to pay current bills and it was voted to issue an outstanding note in the amount of $20.50.

The city clerk was instructed to immediately publish the town's financial report in the county paper.

12-Eleven was authorized to go to work for making the 1943 tax assessment, at a contract price of $25.

It is probable that it's proper officials to take immediate action to collect delinquent taxes and license fees, making levys and issuing warrants, using more courteous methods have failed.

Savage Russ Counterattack in North Offsets Nazi Pressure in Volga Area; U. S. Upsets Jap Strategy in Pacific; Chinese Register Important Victories

EDITOR'S NOTE: When opinions are expressed in these columns, they are those of Western Newspaper Union's news analysis and not necessarily of this newspaper. Released by Western Newspaper Union.

Map shows how Hitler's 1942 conquest of Russia nears the climax. The strategy now lies in a pivot point at Stalingrad. A million Nazi soldiers assaulted that vital city on the Volga river, closing in from two directions. By skirting the Caucasian mountains, Hitler's army can push on to the Caspian sea for a junction with the Japanese.

NEW GUINEA INVASION - COSTLY TO JAP

Despite heavy Allied air action which cost its enemy one transport, six landing barges and probably a cruiser, Japanese shock troops made another landing in Milne Bay on the island of New Guinea, 240 miles east of Port Moresby and less than 500 miles from the Australian mainland.

WAR RISK - Shipping Situation?

Indication that the convoy system for Atlantic shipping was showing improvement was reflected in a 5 per cent reduction of cargo war risk rates charged on certain voyages.

Solomon Thrust

The violent sea-air battle in the Solomon islands saw the United States win the opening round. Land-based American dive bombers, torpedo planes and fighters were credited with forcing a battered Jap fleet to withdraw from Guadalcanal in the southeast Solomon.

RED OFFENSIVE - For Stalingrad Relief

Even-while clerks and factory hands joined Red troops in the defense of Stalingrad, Russia's Central Front armies began a counterattack in the German-held area northwest of Moscow, killing 45,000 enemy troops in the first 15 days of a drive that pushed back a Nazi salient 25 to 30 miles.

ACTION IN EGYPT - Transport Blasted

Striking at Marshal Erwin Rommel's preparations for a new offensive in Egypt, Royal Air Force fighters killed or disabled hundreds of enemy troops in a rain on transport columns west of El Alamein.

CHINA: Counter-Attack

In the provinces of Chekiang and Kiangsi the Chinese were fighting a determined counterattack. They dislodged the Japs from important bases whence the United Nations might launch air raids on Japan.

DRAFT: A Forecast

Representative Sabath of Illinois, chairman of the house rules committee, believes that the "waging of war" bill they had passed would be the drafting of 18 and 19-year-old youths authorized by new legislation.

BRIEFS:

ADVANCE: Seven months in advance of schedule, the 500-ton battleship Iowa, greatest warship ever built, would be under the way of the Navy yard.

CEILINGS: For Hogs, Cattle

As the Office of Price Administration worked out its plans for price ceilings on hogs and cattle, Galbraith, deputy administrator, told a delegation of large stock producers in Washington that provisions of this system would eliminate inequalities between different regions and different classes of buyers.

Monthly concurrence with the OPA plan was being secured by the department of agriculture. Ceilings were worked out in conjunction with representatives of groups of producers and OPA officials.

DUKE OF KENT: Dies in Action

The first casualty in England's royal family since the start of the war occurred in northern Scotland when a giant Sunderland flying boat crashed, bringing death to the duke of Kent, youngest brother of King George VI.

BRAZIL: Good Neighbors Speak

Just a week after Brazil's declaration of war against Germany and Italy, the Uruguayan government announced that the two South American nations would co-operate in a "common defense against possible aggression."

Russian Picture

But in the same weeks which saw the achievement of American arms, the Russian picture began to improve as darkly as the pessimists pictured it. The story of the campaign of the Caucasus is not over yet, but the Nazi armies have carried on so far at a tempo beyond that which even the pessimists did expect.

How Long Will War Last? Answer Remains in Doubt

Successful American Offensive Result of Thorough Planning; Two Possibilities May Alter Picture in Russia.

By BAUKHAGE News Analyst and Commentator.

WNO Features, 1345 H Street, N. W., Washington, D. C.

How long will the war last? Two things have happened in the last weeks which have made people ask that question again even if the answer remains as deep in the mire of speculation as ever.

The first event was the passing of the first milestone on the road to Tokyo. On the little islands, and about scaling them, were British Admiral Jellicoe in the last war said contained the finest natural harbor in the world, the marines landed and now have the situation well in hand.

The first American offensive in the war was accomplished, not without losses but with success as a result of a plan worked out nearly five months ago. It was a surprise attack and yet there were many in Washington who guessed that such an attack was about to pop in the Pacific. They did not know what. They didn't have any idea that it would be on the island of Guadalcanal.

"The future tells us of cruelties, of blood, of atellam and of war, of intrigue and plotting, it was once grandchild to come into the world with shoulders and backs padded heavily. It will be by that the ancient belief of absolutist tyranny will step out upon the world's stage once again, this time in new attire, with new war cries and shibboleths."

Where Men Are Men - And Women Are Absent

Just about the time that news came to Washington that the Japanese had landed on Attu Island in the Aleutians I received a copy of the Kodak Bear. Now I have had a long, tedious, pen-untiring acquaintance with the story of Kodak Bear at the Washington Zoo for many years but like most people I never knew the name of the animal with an American base of Alaska, where this journal is published.

Baseball, Fishing, Rite

"Where men are men" the story reads, and women just aren't coming and men seem to take up idle moments. The men have constructed themselves ping-pong tables and are frequent.

Pending Law Against Paying Fees to Capital Agents . . . Fight by Congress Over Depreciation Allowances . . .

By BAUKHAGE News Analyst and Commentator.

WASHINGTON - It is not only corporations which are perturbed by pending legislation which would prevent the paying of fees to agents representing them in Washington.

"It is not a question of anyone trying to hide anything," says a navy man who has been in the least improvements in machinery, processing, etc. to a degree which could not be achieved as economically by any other means.

"In short, the use of these corporation agents' selling efforts against the government is a matter of the chaff, at least nine times out of ten.

"For instance a concern in St. Louis may have worked out a new machine for making Part X of an airplane. The company is pleased with it, and wants to do something with it, and wants to make a Washington agent. Now this agent is by being an expert himself.

"But if the idea of the St. Louis crowd is really tops, or appeals in the eyes of the agent here, then we get a crack at it. If we like the sound of it, we send an expert there to study it. The agent may make a convincing case, but let us have the time of government experts is saved by the whole system."

Same Boat For Government and Big Corporation

The objection of the average little man to some big corporations is that they don't make allowances for his difficulties. He has to pay the big bill, and he has to pay the big bill, and he has to pay the big bill.

TO YOUR Good Health

By DR. JAMES W. BARTON

DIZZINESS For many years the home treatment of dizziness was a dose of Epsom salts—magnesium sulphate. This dose was given because dizziness was thought due to a sluggish liver and gall bladder...

Treatment by Epsom salts is, however, not the method of treatment for dizziness now used by physicians. Dr. K. M. Simonton, Proceedings Staff Meeting, Mayo Clinic, states that severe vertigo—dizziness—should be treated by (1) rest in bed; (2) avoidance of all movement, especially sudden movement; (3) avoidance of sudden sounds and light; (4) raising the head of the bed to prevent congestion in the inner ear; (5) moderate doses of atropine to open up blood vessels and a quieting drug; (6) a dose of Epsom salts; (7) magnesium sulphate—Epsom salts—taken by mouth.

If attacks of dizziness are accompanied by head noises and ringing of the ears (Meniere's disease), treatment is instructed to take six 75-grain tablets of ammonium chloride, three times daily for the first three days; no medicine is then taken for 24 hours and the tablets are repeated for three days. No salt is allowed at the table and no food is to be used in cooking. No baking soda—sodium bicarbonate—or other drug containing sodium should be used. To keep the patient free from dizziness, this treatment must be always kept up.

When there is dizziness only and the dizziness is "round and round," the liver and gall bladder are considered at fault and Epsom salts are used. When the dizziness is "round and round" and there are head noises, loss of hearing, nausea and vomiting, salt food low in fat and omitting without the ammonium chloride.

Relieving Pain By Means of Heat

When examining boxers at 2 p. m. for a boxing bout that night, I have often been annoyed by having a boxer step on the scales and weigh two pounds overweight. The manager of the boxer is sometimes fined for this neglect to have his boxer at the correct weight.

Being overweight means covering him up with heavy woolen sweaters, hard brick exercise, and a Turkish oil bath each day for a week or two pounds off within an hour. This effort is both a mental and physical strain as the boxer feels that he is weakening himself and will not be at his best for the evening bout.

There is nothing wrong with increased heat of the body from a course of exercise or baths, but the heat should be created gradually, not in such a rapid manner. A Turkish cabinet heat bath is not so prolonged, can cause weakness, shock, and collapse.

"The heat, whether it is dry or moist, should not be continued for a longer than 30-minute period even where there is profuse sweating." However, most individuals who undergo heat treatments by bath or other methods are not boxers or athletes but those with rheumatism or arthritis, soreness and stiffness due to accumulation of waste fatigue products in the tissues. By means of heat these wastes are hurried out of the system in half the time or less than it would ordinarily take to remove them.

Those who are not well should not take heat treatments without supervision. Patients may feel a fullness and throbbing of the head, a feverish beating of the heart, and a feeling of great weakness while undergoing heat treatment. For this reason the "steam" room of the Turkish bath establishment has a couch on which the individual should lie down. Sitting erect means more effort on the part of the heart as it is easier to pump blood on the level than up and down.

Q.—What causes me to become breathless when I go to bed or too much housework? I have a chronic sinus drip.

A.—Pain in breast is not likely due to heart disease or physical effort to have told you. It is more likely to be due to nervousness or gas pressure. For the sinus condition you might try eating more and cutting down on liquids as well as on table salt on food and in cooking.

Lynn Says: Easy Way to Live! One good way by which to simplify home-making is to get rid of trouble-makers in your household furnishings as fast as you can. If you have an expensively upholstered sofa or chair which is worn, you can buy a slip-cover for it out of one of the practical cottons or other washable fabrics which are available in stores these days. A quick trip through the household washer now and then will keep it spot-and-span. Whisk it off and let the regular covering show when special guests are coming, or use the slip-covers in hot and dry out, for they are so attractive in themselves. When your draperies wear out, or when you decide to do over a room, look at the beautiful washable slip-covers you can buy for your windows. Make them up with washable linings; these pre-shrunk, too, of course, and save yourself the trouble of cleaning them from then on. In time, you can "re-plan" many of your furnishings for practical washing machine handling.

Tell me a Bedtime Story

By THORNTON W. BURGESS

AN IMPORTANT MEETING AT THE SMILING POOL

THERE was great excitement at the Smiling Pool. There was so much excitement that everybody was talking at once. You see, it was this way: Paddy the Beaver had suddenly appeared and given warning that he was going to build a dam across the Laughing Brook way back in the Green Forest so as to make a pond there for himself. Of course that meant that the Laughing Brook would stop laughing and the Smiling Pool would stop smiling; for there would be very little water in either. Paddy had promised that as soon as his pond was big enough to suit him the water would run again, the Laughing Brook would laugh as merrily as ever and the Smiling Pool would smile just as brightly as of old. But the little people of the Green Forest were afraid he wouldn't keep his promise.

"How do we know that he will do as he said he will and let the water run again?" demanded Billy Mink. "For my part I don't believe he'll do anything of the kind!" "Neither do I!" cried Little Joe Otter. "He's just a great big bully."

Now Billy Mink and Little Joe Otter had never seen Paddy the Beaver before, and they were a little upset to find him so big and strong. Jerry Muskrat and Grandfather Frog and Spotty the Turtle had met Paddy in the spring when he had built a dam and stopped the water, and they remembered how angrily he had torn down the dam when they told him how dreadful it was to have the Laughing Brook stop laughing and the Smiling Pool stop smiling. So now they believed that he would do just as he promised.

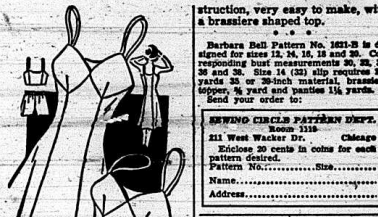

"Of course it is very unpleasant," said Grandfather Frog thoughtfully, "but don't see what we can do about it." "Stop him, of course!" snapped Billy Mink. "I'll tear down his dam as fast as he builds it." Jerry Muskrat, who remembered how hard he had worked to tear down that other dam only to have it repaired while he slept, chuckled. "I propose that Billy Mink and Little Joe Otter be appointed to go up the Laughing Brook and tear down the dam as fast as Paddy the Beaver builds it," said he. "Agreed!" cried all the other little people of the Smiling Pool. Now Billy Mink and Little Joe Otter never do any work that they can avoid, and everybody knew it. Billy Mink shifted his position on the Big Rock usually. "It seems to me that as it is for the good of all of us we all ought to go together and help," said he. "Of course, you're not afraid!" Jeered Spotty the Turtle. "Of course you saw those great big front teeth of his and are just aching to know how they feel!"

"Billy Mink lost his temper. He was afraid, and he knew that everybody knew it. He didn't dare go to interfere with Paddy the Beaver. But he tried to make the others think that he really didn't care what happened to the Smiling Pool. "Oh, well," said he in a very lofty way, "if you folks don't care enough to stop Paddy's work, I can live just as comfortably down at the Big River as up here. We just thought that we would help you out."

"Which means that you would go off fishing while we did the work," said Jerry Muskrat angrily. "I tell you what. Let's all go up and meet Paddy's dam. If he doesn't do as he has said he will do it will be time enough to decide whether we will do," broke in Spotty the Turtle. "So it was agreed that all the little people of the Smiling Pool would go up the Laughing Brook and watch Paddy the Beaver's work, all but Grandfather Frog.

Gum turpentine, besides having many household uses, is one of the best thinners for paints.

HOUSEHOLD HINTS Cook raisins in the breakfast food if you save-sugar and make cake and molasses cookies with raisins instead of sugar.

A smart cook puts vegetables on the table with a fresh garden look and taste. She wouldn't think of over-cooking them or pouring the juice down the drain. To retain the roughness of rough crabapples and limes after they have been lathered, iron them in the salt water.

Wash milk by curdling with new milk; hence, in preparing porridge, gravies, etc., salt should not be added until the dish is prepared. When canned goods must be stored in an unsatisfactory place, set jars on shelves on their heads. Then the rubbers will not dry out.

Don't yank that appliance cord --it may be hard to replace

YANKING an appliance cord loose in the manner illustrated above not only frays the covering and loosens connections, but also may result in a blown fuse from a short circuit. Perhaps you are not guilty of this practice but it's well to remind yourself continually that it's going to be necessary to handle your electrical equipment with "kid gloves" these days.

With the electric appliance industry devoting its full efforts to war production, appliance cords among other things are going to be hard to replace. You'll need them to continue to enjoy the step-saving, work-saving convenience of your electric appliances, so handle them with care. Disconnect an appliance by pulling the plug, not the cord—and when you put the cord away, coil it loosely in a drawer instead of hanging it over a nail or hook. Your cords will last longer and you'll be making a small but important contribution to the wartime conservation program.

PERCH AND TOPEKA

By EUGENE CUNNINGHAM
W.N.U. RELEASE

He rode a little forward, lifting his hand.

few miles. Perch reined in before dusk and sat comfortably with a cigarette and beam paternally upon Skeets.

CHAPTER XVI

The boys got back to the house in time for a late supper and afterward, looking at the map, Perch blew smoke from the side of his battered mouth and squinted at Con.

"None of my business, of course," he drawled, "but the doctor told Topeka some about you tangling with the Latimers. From what I hear, you was both onto you at once, all same—some on a con. Now, me, I can bucked Latimer, but I ain't just plenty! He's, hell's handfull, I would say. But, did he slip like the doctor thinks, or did—some real-pretty him?"

Con looked at him suspiciously, but there was nothing except friendly curiosity in Perch's face. "I laid him out—cold," Con told them evenly.

"Tolelessly and briefly he told of drawing against Latimer, of the fight and its outcome. Perch and the cook said nothing. Con took the Colt from his holster and slipped it into his waistband, as he had done in Onopa. He demonstrated his draw with his gunhand moving snaky-fast.

"Now," Perch said softly, nodding. "I can see you mean to get your piece else: I had been listening to Gale and Topeka and when they figured it out you had to be in a fix with Slash Oswald. I reckon I took it that way. But, Gale and Topeka, they never watched you slap leather, huh? No, I don't think you do. You don't want folks boogering, don't make 'em draw when they can see it. You like that way, don't you? About bet'n a n'ouder holster?"

"My old uncle had a yard of scar across his chest and belly, from a shoulder holster he had in. He'd wear it. He sort of soured on 'em and I reckon he scared me of 'em. So I've always packed my gun somewhere else."

"Is a Texas man?" the cook asked. "Runs in my mind I seen some fellow scared of a horse, in front from a gun that slipped. Years back, that was. I worked so many places I disremember a lot. But," Caramba and Skeets and Johnny and Dutch came in with the horses from Red Mesa near noon. They ate with Con and Perch and afterward Con drew Caramba aside to tell her what he was staying as a sort of guard. Caramba shook his head.

"Didn't you know that Gale Gore cut back to meet us? He told us a n'ouder bit about you tangling with some hard case and—? What was the straight of that?"

Con described the fight with Latimer in the cantina and Caramba swore irrevocably. "That's a damn' whippersnout! Gore and Topeka, they count you nothing but a kid that was lucky something happened to Slash Oswald and you downed him accidental. But Gore would have took you on the job, you know. You're a proper he can't help hitting the horse the like of on the place. He even figured—by the time roundup was over he'd be 'bout the same. But the place—account of him showing you how, of course. But Topeka just looked at you and put you to wrangling stowed."

Con stared grimly at him, with face reddening. "He did, did he? Well, I can stand the hell, I can roll my bed and hit Lit Taylor at Los Alamos for a job."

Caramba watched him, over the cigarette he was making. "I wouldn't, if I was you," he advised softly. "All this tom-foolery of Topeka's made me so I ain't fit to be. But I have been talking a good deal to Skeets and Johnny Dutch, Con. My notion is, from what you told me about Caramba and what I know about Megath, leaving that pretty Janet Lores here, with all the outfit gone, is jump the main as hammering the old tire and yelling 'em to come and get it.'"

"I don't know," Con said sulkily, wishing that he could say, "I haven't thought about it, yet."

"Fine! Now that we got it all settled, you and Perch can help us a n'ouder bit along the way."

In mid-afternoon, Perch and Con rode with Skeets and Caramba for a his hand. They saw him, but came on. One man got a carbine out. The others made significant motions toward their belts.

"Get back over the ridge!" he snapped at her. "I think I've got the best of this. Get back! Fast!"

"He was hardly conscious of the surer's thundering hoofs behind him. The rifleman was bringing his saddle gun to bear and the other men brandished pistols. Con squeezed trigger and saw the bullet kick up dust beyond the horse's head—yards away. Then he corrected his aim and fired three fast shots at the man with the rifle.

With the shots the other riders fled quickly at him and ducked, to start to the side so their legs separated each from his neighbor. Their lead fell short. The rifleman's carbine coughed his slug. He dropped the carbine—body with both hands as if cold—suffering a stomach-ache. But he stayed with his horse and it stayed to a trot, then a walk. Con fired grimly at the others in turn. But they jerked on the reins and went missus right and left.

The rifleman was now clinging to his saddle horn. All fight seemed gone from him. He got the horse round and sprang like a run.

"The horse of the man nearest him came down with suddenness and snatched at the man's leg.

"The cowboy seemed to wait purposefully in air and struck the ground on his feet. He ran two long paces forward—

"Con was reloading as fast as his fingers could jerk shells from his belt and ram them into the loading tray. He took the carbine and looked at the man on the ground; forty yards away. He was sitting, now, shaking his head violently.

"Dear me!" Con said aloud. "First they wanted to play, then they wanted to go home. So they picked up their marbles and went missus from here. Changeable peevish. Blackie! Let's go down and look at this one."

The cowboy, a slender, dark youngster, had none but a run. He had seemed to have cleared. Over the sleeve he held to his nose his narrow eyes regarded Con steadily.

"You're a damn' fool!" "What's the idee, whanging away at us? Can't nobody ride across this range of yours without you got to show off that Winchester at 'em?"

"Two yards from him, Con halted the black horse and studied him. "Think me that pretty, big pistol you're wearing. He ordered me just shoved some more persuaders into this . . ."

Calmly the cowboy took out his pistol and tossed it from him. Con's face hardened.

"Thought it was easy picking, did you, when the wagon rolled off? All you had to do was stroll down and pick out what you wanted, huh? We've been waiting for you. If more than four of you were here, two of us would've been here."

He looked briefly at the Colt on the ground, then let his carbine rest across the saddle with the fasted tobacco and papers from his pocket.

"Do 'n'ouder what're driving at?" the cowboy drawled. "My friends was heading for the Bug-on-a-Stick west of here. Cigarette?"

His caught the word and Con watched him. Then he got up stiffly, put his hand down in a natural motion as if for a match and he lifted a hand down, to twitch back with a Colt, apparently drawn from the rear of his waistband.

Con drew and nudged his carbine. But he had not let the hammer down, either. Now, he pulled trigger, with the raising it. He missed, but the bullet went so near to the cowboy that he flinched and his own slug buzzed wispishly past his ear's head. Then Con fired, and lifted carbine, fixed down the eye and fired again. Both shots were hits; both struck over the heart; the second dropped the cowboy's fingers. He turned completely around and lifted one foot as if to walk off. But it seemed no more than a reflex movement. He sagged, rather than fell, to the grass.

THE ALCOHOL PROBLEM: PAST AND PRESENT

LESSON TEXT—Genesis 13:12, 13:23-25; Deuteronomy 32:1-33; Amos 1:9-17; GOLDEN TEXT—"The way of the mighty shall perish" (Isaiah 40:5).

The necessity for using to the limit every resource—man and material—in this time of national crisis should make every American doubly alert to the devastation and loss which has come (and is coming) to our country (measure to us as a result of the sale of intoxicants. Life is not just a careless drifting from day to day, from pleasure to pleasure, from one pleasure to another, created in the likeness and image of God, which means that he is a personal being, knowing right from wrong, and that he has a right to choose. Sodom and Gomorrah drew upon themselves the judgment of God, their determination to persist in horrible wickedness. What happened to those cities, terrible as it was, is but a prophecy of even greater judgment to come (Luke 10:10-12). If man chooses to do right, he may count on all the resources of the universe to aid to uphold him. But if he chooses to go in the way of sin, he must look forward to the judgment of God. Hungry Hummingbird

Hummingbirds have to eat about every ten minutes during the daytime because the energy from their food is consumed by the rapid beating of their wings as fast as it is produced. In New York recently, six hummers were taken on a 50-minute taxi drive, and they were found to be as hungry as when they were first taken. One died and the other five passed into a coma from starvation.
