The problem of what to send a service man has been solved by the men themselves. Tobacco tops the list of gifts service men prefer from the folks back home, according to numerous surveys. If you have a friend or relative in the armed forces—Army, Navy, Marines, or Coast Guard—who smokes a pipe, or rolls his own, a pound of his favorite tobacco is very much in order. A big favorite with many service men is Prince Albert, the world's largest-selling smoking tobacco. Local dealers now are featuring Prince Albert in the pound can for the men in the service—Adv.

It may be caused by disorder of kidney function that permits poisonous waste to accumulate. For truly many people feel tired, weak and miserable when the kidneys fail to remove waste acids and other waste matter from the blood.

You may have aching backache, rheumatic pains, headache, dizziness, nervousness, and other symptoms. Sometimes frequent and scanty urination, or a burning sensation in the bladder, are other signs that something is wrong with the kidneys.

There should be no doubt that prompt relief is possible. It is better to rely on Doan's Backache Kidney Pills, which are more effective than any other pills for the relief of kidney trouble. They are sold in every drug store.

SAVES VITAL METALS FOR TANKS, GUNS, ETC.

TANKERS THE SUBS CAN'T SINK

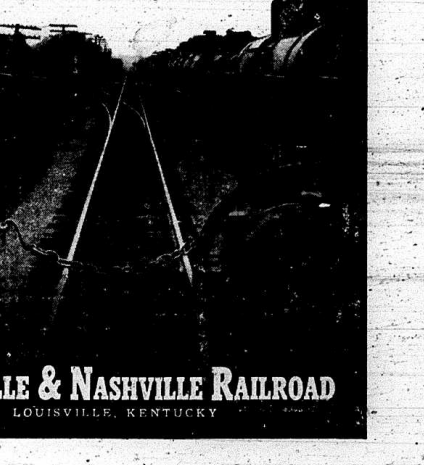

MORE than 31 million gallons of oil a day are rolling into the East in tank cars.

That's 70 times the amount the railroads usually have been called upon to transport - well over half the total needs, handled in tankers the subs can't sink.

To handle this new assignment takes the full time of 1,000 locomotives, when there are a dozen other uses for every locomotive in the war program as a whole. But it's a job that has to be done, so the railroads are doing it, as a part of their bigger job of hauling 1 1/2 million tons of freight a mile every minute round the clock.

Behind this record oil movement is a story of the American brand of cooperation by the companies that ship the oil - by the companies that own the tank cars - by the Federal Petroleum Administration - by the office of Defense Transportation.

That's why this particular story of what the railroads are doing is a good example of what it takes to keep America working and fighting.

Rockcastle Facts and Stories

By Ralph Griffin

Historians tell us that in Oct. 1785 a band of Indian warriors appeared upon the Wilderness Road and began ravaging and attacking the pioneer parties on their way to the Kentucky settlements. While encamped near Skaggs Creek one night McClure's company was attacked, six persons being killed and scalped and the rest scattered in panic. During the excitement the attack Mrs. McClure gained the surrounding thickets with her four children. Had she been willing to abandon the smallest, which she carried in her arms, she might have escaped with the baby. However, she cried of this baby disclosed her hiding place to the Indians. Dragged to the ground, she was killed, and the savages, with yells of triumph, waltzingly slaughtered three of the children but desisted to take Mrs. McClure and her infant to their village.

News of this attack was brought to Whitley's Station near Stanford. A company of twenty-one men, under the command of Capt. James Harney, once set out in the hope of intercepting the Indians upon a known war path which led to their villages. The expedition was a failure, but they succeeded in ambushing the war party, killing two of its members and wounding two others. The rest fled leaving Mrs. McClure's infant in the hands of the rescuers.

It is said that in 1793 a party of several hundred Indians, from the Kentucky settlements, were attacked upon the Wilderness Road near Hazel Hill by a band of frontiersmen. The whites fought bravely until a number of the men were killed, whereupon the rest fled leaving the women and children to be taken captive. The fate of these unfortunate is not made known by this historian.

In May, 1798, a party of marauding Indians stole several horses from Crab Orchard and were pursued by an expedition under the command of Lieutenant Nathan McClure. While following the trail upon a high ridge near Rockcastle river, this company suddenly and unexpectedly met a party of Indian warriors. In the several shots both parties retreated, the damage to the Indians was never ascertained but McClure and several of his men were shot. McClure was hopelessly wounded that he insisted upon being left in a cave until his men could go for reinforcements. He was left alone and the Indians returned next day they were his captives.

It is said that in 1800 a party of Indians led by a chief named McClure is said to have been an able and active officer and his loss to have been a great one.

Several of the emigrants were attacked by savages somewhere near what we now know as Negro creek, where the whites were again shot and their horses sustained by the company is not given.

Believing it to be wild and unbroken territory the Wilderness was a stronghold and hide-out of the Indians after they had been defeated and driven from other sections of the state. Many of the emigrants committed against whites occurred along the Wilderness Road in this vicinity and upon the present location. Attacks occurred after the signing of peace treaties between the whites and Indians, and at a time when comparatively little was known of the savages attacks in any other part of Kentucky.

The red men seemed to have entered the section in the year 1795. It was probably about three years earlier that the first settlers were driven to the present location. One of this county, Robert Langford, brought his family and a number of negro slaves from one of the older settlements and to his home, situated in a fertile valley about two miles southeast of Mt. Vernon's present site. A portion of the wilderness which he built is said to be still standing.

A son, Stephen Langford, soon after his father's death was killed by Indians without the ravages of time and is still occupied as a dwelling. It stands upon a high knoll just back of the courthouse in the town of Rockcastle where it commands an excellent view of all surrounding territory. Equipped with porches upon all sides, it is a safe refuge against any recurrence of Indian attacks, as well as a safe retreat from the outlaw bands of renegade whites who took up with the Indians in the days of lawlessness and murder were not to be unknown within the boundaries of The Wilderness for many, many years.

RENFRO MAN TRAPPED IN HIS BURNING HOME

While his home at Renfro Valley was in flames early Sunday morning, P. D. Ramsey, 75, became entrapped in an upstairs bedroom of the two-story frame dwelling, and would have died from suffocation and burns had it not been for quick-acting neighbors who rescued him.

Mr. Ramsey, who is a retired L & N portly janitor, had been serving on the pet jury in Mt. Vernon and went home feeling ill. He remained in bed Sunday morning and about nine o'clock found that his room was full of smoke and flames were coming up the stairway. Attempting to escape from one of the upstairs windows he was taken up, pinned him, and he could not escape.

Since there was no ladder at hand it became necessary for neighbors to throw a rope to the window that would support a ladder. Mr. Ramsey, who by this time was unconscious from exhaustion and burns, was taken to the hospital where an ambulance was summoned and he was taken to the scene in time to save a smaller adjoining building from burning. The residence and practically all of its contents were lost. After treatment by a local physician, Ramsey was taken to a London hospital. Although badly burned he is expected to recover.

PULASKIAN ESCAPES FROM STATE PRISON

L. G. Wilson, 25, Pulaski County prisoner at LaGrange, and eight other convicts escaped Sunday night from the State prison. Describing the men as "among the toughest" at the prison, Warden James Hammond said they apparently obtained keys to the two dormitories from which they escaped and walked out, digging their way under the prison walls.

Four of the escaped convicts were caught in Oldham County Tuesday and are in prison. Wilson is still at large.

HARAN REPORTS 4,000 CASES OF SYPHILIS

CIRCULATION OF MONEY TOPS ALL HIGH MARKS

National monetary circulation topped the $15,000,000,000 level for the first time in history during the week ended Dec. 16, reflecting a rise of more than $100,000,000 during the period as a result of Christmas deposits, the weekly report of the Federal Reserve system disclosed.

Money in circulation jumped $106,000,000 during the week to a record-making total of $15,000,000,000. That represented an unprecedented increase of $4,089,000,000 for the past year and was more than double the total circulation less than a decade ago.

Actual reserves of all member banks were up $250,000,000 to a total of $1,815,700,000. Reserve requirements, however, rose $410,000,000 as a result of the banks' increased use of war loan deposit accounts to pay for subscriptions to the Treasury's new 1 1/2 per cent bonds, reducing excess reserves $160,000,000 to $654,000,000. In New York City, excess reserves were up $45,000,000 to $575,000,000.

SAVES PURE WATER

Pure and cool drinking water is one of the secrets in getting the extra ounce of pork needed by Uncle Sam in winning the war. So declared Lethal Fears of Christian county, Kentucky, who sold a litter of nine pigs weighing 220 pounds for $310. He fed a balanced ration, including everything recommended by County Agent W. D. Talbert. Then he saw that the pigs always had a good supply of pure drinking water. Alfalfa was helped reduce the amount of grain needed by almost 100 pounds. Self-feeding reduced the amount of labor required.

WEEKLY NEWS ANALYSIS

Corn Ceiling Aids Livestock Producers; 51 Billion Tax Bill Will Help Nation Meet War Budget and Defeat Inflation; U. S.-Britain Relinquish China Rights

EDITOR'S NOTE: When explanations are stressed in these columns, they are those of Western newspapers. They are not necessarily those of the newspaper.

Building "Pee" roads in New Guinea is all part of the day's work for American army engineers. This particular road under construction near Port Moresby, main Allied base in New Guinea, is so steep that the men must hold on to ropes to keep from falling backward. The grade drops about 65 degrees behind them.

CORN CEILINGS:

Spur Meat Production

Although Food Administrator Claude Wickard had been steadily urging farmers to increase meat, dairy, poultry and egg production to meet war demands, the price of corn had been rising to a point where farmers found it more profitable to sell than to use the grain to feed cattle, hogs and chickens.

MOVING TO STABILIZE CORN PRICES, THE OPA UNDER INSTRUCTIONS FROM STABILIZATION DIRECTOR JAMES F. BYRNES IMPOSED A CEILING ON JANUARY 8th TO PROMISE PERMANENT CEILINGS LATER. DECLARING THAT THESE CEILING PRICES WERE IN EFFECT FOR 90 DAYS OF EMERGENCY WHEN TAKING INTO CONSIDERATION AAA BENEFIT PAYMENTS, OFFICIALS SAID THE CEILING WOULD ESTABLISH PRICE RELATIONS AT WHICH GREAT BRITAIN AND THE UNITED STATES ABOLISHED EXTERIOR RIGHTS. BUT THIS ACTION MEANT THAT ONCE THE JAPANESE OUSTED CHINA FROM THE MAINLAND, CHINA WOULD ENJOY THE FIRST TIME IN A CENTURY.

AGREEMENTS, SUBJECT TO FAVORABLE SENATE ACTION, WILL GO WITH POLITICAL, MILITARY, COMMERCIAL AND JUDICIAL PREFERENCES UNDER WHICH BRITAIN AND AMERICA HOLD JURISDICTION OVER THEIR OWN SHIPPING IN CHINESE PORTS, THEIR OWN SPECIAL LAW COURSES IN SHANGHAI, THEIR INTERNATIONAL SETTLEMENTS AND THEIR RIGHT TO MAINTAIN TROOPS IN CHINA.

MONTHS, AND PERHAPS YEARS REMAINED TO COMPLETE THE READJUSTMENTS, BUT THE MARCH FOR CHINESE FREEDOM HAD BEGUN.

CHINESE FREEDOM: Real but Deferred

China was too busy fighting Japs to take time off to celebrate the treaty by which Great Britain and the United States abolished exterior rights. But this action meant that once the Japs were ousted, China would enjoy the first time in a century.

LONDON: Fresh eggs, as prices as thick as air, returned to the ordinary British consumer's diet on at least a token basis. It was announced officially here. Ordinary consumers were privileged to get one fresh egg a month. Priority classes, including nursing mothers, invalids and infants will get a dozen a month. Powdered egg ratios remained a dozen a person a month.

BUDGET: Asks 109 Billion

Plenty of headaches for Hitler and Hirohito were inherent in the epochal $109,000,000,000 total war budget for the 1943-44 fiscal year which Congress was scanning studiously. Largest budget in world history, the total would devote $100,000,000,000 to war activities, the remainder to domestic government expense and interest on the national debt which by July, 1944, would reach $210,000,000,000.

PLenty of wrinkles furrowed the brows of fiscal experts as they contemplated the stupendous budget.

THE mere act of spending such sums meant bringing nearer the specter of inflation. With more money jangling in American pockets because of war-boosted income and federal goods to buy because of necessary war rationing the nation faced a supreme economic test.

ANTidote to the inflation threat was President Roosevelt's dual-purpose recommendation: $750,000,000 in new savings or forced savings from national income, add this to the present $30,000,000,000 tax bill and thus provide $1,000,000,000 which would pay about half the war costs and be a potent checkmate to inflation. And to enable wage cartels to meet the steadily mounting bill, money had been made to provide pay-as-you-go machinery for collecting the new tax.

RUSSIA: Decision at Rostov?

Military strategists eyed Rostov, key communications city at the mouth of the Don river. Here, they felt, history would be written in weeks to come that would determine whether Hitler's Russian adventure would be a complete rout or merely disaster, deferred.

SO. WESTERN PACIFIC: New Guinea Struggle

The Japs were determined to give up their remaining footholds in New Guinea only at the same stubborn cost which they had paid at Buna and the Gona-Buna area. It had taken nearly four months to wipe out the Jap beachhead in this sector. Still in the rear act of spending such sums meant bringing nearer the specter of inflation.

NORTH AFRICA: Mud Enemy No. 1

Mud and recurrent tropical rains had continued to make anything but air activity virtually impossible on the Tunisia-North Africa front. While optimistic estimates predicted better weather by early February, other forecasts lengthened the rainy season until March.

But a four-way thrust to the narrowing African coastal region.

IN Axis hands was steadily developed as Allied aircraft attacked German and Italian bases over a 500-mile area.

From Tunisia a French column was reported to have cut across into Tripoli some 300 miles below Tripoli.

Another French column from the Lake Chad area was moving north. On the east the British eighth army under Gen. Sir Bernard Montgomery was pressing the remnants of Marshal Rommel's forces, while Tunisian and American, British and French forces were preparing for the time when the weather would permit them to take the offensive against Bizerte and the remaining Axis strongholds on the African Mediterranean coast.

The chief inference from what Lord Robert Cecil said is that he had no idea the League, even if the United States had joined it, would ever have used an "international army and navy" to enforce its decrees.

But Dewey, in his more recent interview, left no loopholes whatever. He answered positively all the questions that Calvin Coolidge ducked in 1927 after his famous "I do not choose to run" statement.

Dewey convinced Mr. Lincoln absolutely that under no circumstances would he be a candidate, so far as the corps of Washington correspondents is concerned, that seems to dispose of the matter fairly well.

Your Diet I.Q.: If you're deficient in some vital vitamins and minerals you may have certain physical indications of it. Check the following indications:

- Frequent ear and sinus troubles, nose, throat and sinus infection? Perhaps you're missing vitamin A in meat, eggs, milk, green vegetables, yellow-colored fruits and vegetables. Is the appetite poor and are you nervous and tired? You may be skipping over lightly vitamin B1—found in whole grain cereals, meats and fish, liver and kidneys. Can't recover quickly from a cold, from that run-down feeling, or having bleeding gums and a slowing, muddy complexion? Better get more vitamin C—from oranges, grapefruit, green leaves, cabbage, tomatoes and berries. Anemia? Feel tired and listless? You may need iron—molasses, liver, beans, peas, whole grain cereals, egg yolks and leafy green vegetables. Poor teeth, brittle bones, excessive bleeding when accidents occur, or weakened heart and muscles? A deficiency of calcium may be responsible. WAR BOND CAMPAIGN

Up to this month Rockcastle County has made its quota in the sale of War Bonds, but January's quota was larger than for many months. The amount we are supposed to buy for this month is $12,246.00, and it appears that this amount is not one-half sold yet. We are appealing to everyone to buy Bonds, as many as they possibly can in this month, so we will not fail to go over the top. There is nothing of more importance in helping win the War than to keep the Treasury Department with money to furnish adequate equipment for all branches of the Army. Buy your Bonds this week without fail.

Tidbits of Kentucky Folklore

By Gordon Wilson, Ph. D.

Every well-equipped playground has its swings and seesaws and every device to make children happy. All these things are "unthinkable in form and balance, as much a part of the modern school and playground as the course of study. We oldtimers loved, too, but the equipment was of our devising.

Swings were of numerous kinds. Very primitive ones were grapevines, strung over a tree and supported by a horizontal limb. Many a boy lost a year's growth through the excitement of swinging his girl. We even quite balanced enough to give one a chance to show off, that is, in going far out over something, without also endangering life and limb. Not always were the vines any too well anchored in the treetops; they had a way of falling and spoiling the day. Little boys made good swings of a sort. My sister and I were swinging on one when we were little and the day she fell and bit through her under lip and still got a swelling, anyway. It did not hurt myself then, but the apple limb that Mother used to swing me on, coming away from home and causing tragedy hurt my feelings probably as much as the bite hurt my sister. Of course, standard swings were made of wood, usually attached to a horizontal or near-horizontal limb. That was the real fun, until the rope broke and caused a swinging, or broken, body. We could stand up and pump, until we sometimes turned entirely over. The limb and came down in a flash. I remember one time when the place to swing some little fellow and run under, sending him away up. When we took turn about at the swing, we had to let the cat die after going up high; some rascally boys pulled the cat's life until there was no pleasure afterward. If swinging one's best girl in a grapevine swing was divine, what shall we say about swinging her in the rope swing, or even sitting by her side and holding on the rope, too? About all the poems I have seen about swings, like Stevenson's immortal one, concern children. Where are the poets of adolescence, anyway, poets who can tell the whole truth and nothing but the truth without being too cautious about love's young dream?

Our seesaws were easy to get started. The most primitive one of all was a plank from the lumber pile thrust between the rails of the work-bench. Fashionable farm houses nearly always had plank fences, such as those now found primarily around stock farms. As long as the planks did not get weak around the nails, here was a ready-made place for our seesaw plank. With two or three on each end and with efforts being made to jolt the eyeseth out of one another, sometimes the plank fence broke, causing a spill and some sprained ankles. The seesaw plank itself had a way of "flaring" going to pieces, with the usual unpleasant results.

Closely related to swings and seesaws were flying jennies, which even the poorest could have. There were no prancing steeds as on the modern merry-go-round. We cut a small tree off some four or five feet from the ground, trimmed all the limbs off, balanced it properly, and then bored an auger hole through it, to fit on part of the stump, which had been trimmed accordingly. But about a dozen kids on such a flying jenny, get two or three husky middle-aged boys to start it going, and if some one does not fly off into space, when the law of centrifugal force is all false.

With all the ready-made equipment now available, I wonder whether the children get as big a thrill out of their play as the children did when they had made or helped make their own equipment.

YOUR FEDERAL INCOME TAX

THE VICTORY TAX

The victory tax is a temporary income tax, additional to the regular income tax, imposed by the Revenue Act of 1942. It is payable upon income for the year 1943; consequently tax payers will find no reference to it in the income tax returns for the year 1942 which are now being sent out by collectors of internal revenue. However, payments on account of Victory tax will be made currently, by deduction from the $10,000.00. From wages payments made after December 31, 1942. The amounts of the payments are required to be deducted by the employer, and remitted quarterly to the collector of internal revenue. When the taxpayer makes his income and Victory tax return for the year 1943 (due in 1944) he will show to his return the amount that has been withheld by his employer and claim credit for this amount in his return.

The amount withheld by the employer is 5 per cent of each wage payment in excess of $78 (withholding deduction). The withholding deduction is an exemption from tax on the first $24 of "Victory tax net income" for the year, or the proportionate amount corresponding to the payroll period. Thus, for an employee paid weekly, the amount withheld on account of Victory tax is 5 per cent of the amount of the wage payment in excess of $12. A table of approximate amounts may be used by employers for computing this deduction. For example, the table provides that on weekly wage payments over $12 and not over $16, the amount withheld is 10 cents, and on weekly wage payments over $16 and not over $20 the amount withheld is 30 cents. Corresponding amounts are withheld for wage payments of other amounts and for other payroll periods.

The amount withheld is computed upon the total remuneration of the employer for the period (in excess of the withholding deduction), including remuneration in form other than cash. Thus, if board and lodging are part of the employee's remuneration, the cash value of the board and lodging must be included in computing the amount to be withheld.

Employers are required to furnish employees a statement of Victory tax withheld. These statements are not furnished with each wage payment but are made for the calendar year, or for the period of employment during the calendar year. If an employee is employed until the end of the year, the statement must be furnished by January 31, 1944. If the employment ceases during the year, then the statement must be furnished within 30 days from the time of the last payment of wages.

As the statements will be evidence in substantiation of an employee's claim for credit for Victory tax withheld, they should be carefully preserved by the recipient.

Retonga A Blessing Says Rev. Witt Baker

He Lived On Soft Foods And Felt So Weak He Felt He Would Have To Retire But Feels Fine Now.

One of the outstanding features about Retonga is the extraordinary number of ministers who, after endorsing this noted medicine after trying it in their own cases. Retonga, Rev. Witt Baker, prominent Methodist minister residing at Burkesville, Ky., declares:

"I was afraid to eat a bite of solid food, for the little I did eat seemed to turn as sour as vinegar and come back up so strong it seemed to burn my throat. At times I heaved so tight with gas I would get weak all over. For a year or more I lived on soft foods, eggs, and milk. I had to take a strong purgative regularly, and at times my joints felt so achy and stiff I could hardly get up and down. I was too nervous to sleep much. I felt too weak to do the chores about my home, and it looked like I would have to give up my church work.

"Retonga relieved all this distress after everything else I tried had failed. I was soon eating heartily, the nervousness, sourness, gas, and slouchy elimination were relieved, and I feel so much better there's no comparison. This grand medicine was a godsend in my case."

Retonga is a purely herbal gastric tonic combined with liberal amounts of Vitamin B-1. Accept no substitute. Retonga may be obtained at Maggard's Retail Drug Store, Mt. Vernon, Ky.—Adv.

Three Cheers for You
from Our Men in Uniform

And Many Thanks from GREYHOUND!

With Your Co-operation Greyhound Got 'Em Home for the Holidays!

Thanks to you, a most critical period in wartime bus transportation has been passed with flying colors.

Just before Christmas, Greyhound asked you to "Give your Holiday trips to men in the service"—and you who have learned to depend upon Greyhound for your travel needs, responded!

As a result of your postponing such trips, thousands of men and women in uniform were able to go home by bus to spend precious hours with loved ones.

While helping members of the armed forces, you also made travel smoother and more convenient for war workers and others whose trips could not wait. It's cooperation like this that makes it possible for Greyhound and other bus lines to carry on the tremendous mass-transportation job that is so completely essential to winning the war.

Now the holiday period is passed, Greyhound will make every effort to see that the service you count on is available when you need it—and with the utmost comfort and convenience that war conditions will permit.

We suggest, however, that you phone or call upon your nearest Greyhound agent well in advance of any trip. He can help you choose days and schedules that will be most convenient for you and best for wartime travel.

FUSES ARE ELECTRIC "SAFETY VALVES"

They Stop the Flow of Electricity When Something Is Wrong

The fuse is a safety valve for the electric system. If the correct size is used, a thin strip of soft metal under the glass will melt or "blow" whenever a short circuit or overload causes more electricity to flow through the wires than they can safely carry. The melted fuse link stops the flow of current before damage to the wiring in the walls can result.

time he's in your vicinity.* It's almost as simple as replacing a light bulb and not only eliminates delay in restoring service, but also saves a trip for a service truck, thus conserving vital rubber.

Never Use Substitutes

Always keep a few spare fuses of correct size on hand, so you'll have them when needed. Never use pennies or other makeshift substitutes. They will not protect you and may cause a fire.

It's Easy to Replace Fuses

If you do not know how to replace a "blown" fuse, call us and we'll have a serviceman show you next

How to Locate a "Blown" Fuse

Notice thin metal strip under glass. If this strip is melted and shows a gap, or if glass is scorched and you cannot see link, fuse has blown and should be replaced with new fuse of correct size, usually 15 amperes for branch circuits. Illustration shows type commonly used. If your fuses are different, ask for specific instructions.
