One who had a loving father and husband. Who was our pride. We loved him, oh, perhaps too well. For soon he slept and died.

His place is vacant in our home which Never can be filled. We pray some day to meet him, 'Till he be God's blessed will. There's a vacant place around our table now Where our dear father sat. As he walked down life's long path-way. Those feeble steps we can't forget. But now he is sleeping up in heaven. In that beautiful home above. By Jesus' side someday we'll meet him. Then we will be with the one we love. Lonely wife and children.

COUNTY AGENT'S NOTES

(By Robt. F. Spence)

Farmers who want farm labor either part or all of the time, should like to be known at the County Agent's office at Mt. Vernon. Banks are now available to register those who care to use this office for farm labor. Boys and men are being sent to other counties and states to work because they haven't a job to keep them busy on their own farms.

The boys and men who want to work on farms should register at the County Agent's office. If he has a list of those who want farm labor, it is better than any other means of placing labor or for a farmer to secure labor when needed.

The County Agent is ready to assist the farmers in finding labor, if farmers need it, and will register at the county agent's office. The county agent will also help boys and men who want farm work, to find a job on the farm if they will register, indicating their desires.

FAIRM LABOR PROBLEMS

Returning to the neighborhood system of trading work would be a step toward solving the farm labor problem.

Pioneer farmers exchanged labor, helped on another during rush seasons, joined together to cut grain, thresh, raise barns, kill hogs, and other big jobs. Farmers might consider doing the same now, where there is shortage of workers and when farmers fear they can't get their work done.

One means of getting more work done would be to combine grain, bale hay, disk land or do other work, in exchange for hand labor of men who have no power machinery. A man might agree to help another in exchange for having his hay baled or help in plowing corn in return for having small iron work done, or help in cutting tobacco or corn, etc. Then there is the matter together to do certain jobs. One man could do one man, such as killing hogs, making hay, threshing grain, baling tobacco and harvesting hemp seed. Farmers can make up their own jobs and thereby save time and work for each other.

SHEEP GROWERS ASSOCIATION

The Board of Directors of the Rockcastle County Sheep Growers Protective Association, met in the County Agent's office last Saturday to discuss the progress of the Association and to make plans for more sheep.

Orville Linville, the secretary of the Association for 1942, filed his complete report with the board and urged that each member of the Association do all they can to get other sheep-men to join the Protective Plan and raise more sheep. Another meeting of the Board will be held in May.

HOW ABOUT YOUR VISION

(By T. A. Griffith, M. D.)

Many people in Rockcastle at present are suffering from eye-strain, and as a result many of these people seek relief from their eye-strain by using eye drops, eye salves, eye ointments, eye powders, eye sprays, eye washes, eye lotions, eye indigestion, etc. from a chiropractor or optician. Recently there has appeared an article in the medical literature of a case of ruptured vertebra due to chiropractic manipulation. Many people have had tonsillotomy for nervousness and as a matter of fact they needed glasses.

Bankers, lawyers, farmers, factory workers, clerks, men, and women need visual acuity at a time when efficiency (not coal stikes) spell the difference between final victory or disaster. You should have your eyes examined to determine whether you can read the print.

"This is a U. S. war bond" on one of your bonds at about thirteen to fifteen inches in the ordinary reading distance.

Individuals under forty may have been known as "fourteen" or "near-sightedness or near-sightedness." We think of the former two as being hereditary and the relatively infrequent case of near-sightedness as "sick eye" or "an individual who needs a physical examination."

After long astigmatism or near-sightedness may improve so that one sometimes fears that a person has his "second sight". Far-sightedness may become worse and an individual may have "old sight" or presbyopia. Careful refraction by use of drops in individuals under forty may lead to the discovery of some new error of refraction, nevertheless he or she usually has the severest symptoms of the error - strain, headache, eye-ache, eye-redness, tearing, or in the back of the head, or even between the shoulders. Various reflex symptoms to eye-strain have been described, but does not necessarily have normal eyes, optic nerve, or lens requires study. Following removal of the refractive error - strain has been described, the error may not correct the vision. In some instances contact lenses are required. The cross-eye (squint) case usually arises from some error in the eye divergence or far-sighted if the eyes turn inward. This is not an inflexible rule and refraction by drops or subjective refraction is necessary.

Patients who ask for frequent changes in glasses indicate that they have a chronic process such as chronic glaucoma.

MT. VERNON BAPTIST CHURCH

W. C. Younce, Pastor.

Since Sunday, May 9th, is Mother's Day, let us pause to honor her who, after Jesus Christ, is God's best gift to men—Mother. If she has been called to be with God in glory — as she is with you in this world of sin and sorrow — the memory of her life and her love is a precious treasure to the living. It is our privilege and duty to honor her with the same love and divine qualities which were hers in relation to motherhood antedates that of the atonement and asserted itself in the very midst of the catastrophe of the crucifixion. "Behold thy mother" were almost the last words of Jesus. It rests with us whether we will honor her as our mother while she lives or as our mother when she is dead. Let us honor her by loving out her love and life that we might live and achieve, we grovel in the mire of sin. In celebrating Mother's Day, we shall ever fully strengthen the work of Christ in the world.

Transcriptions will be furnished for mothers who wish to attend services. Please call the pastor.

Sunday School, 9:15 a.m. — Public Worship, 11:00 a.m. — Sermon: "The Unfeigned Faith of Eunice, the Mother of Timothy"; "Behold thy Mother"; "The Unfeigned Mother"; "The Reconciled Mother".

We welcome into the Cradle room of our Sunday school Suzanne Lorraine Denney, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. E. R. Denney. Also Billie Payne Purcell, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Walker Russell.

NOAKES

The citizens of Mt. Vernon, deeply regret the death of Mr. John R. Noakes, former resident of this community. For many years he was a conspicuous figure in this county, and his death is a great loss to his acquaintances here and in the East.

On April 28th, he was walking on a railroad track at Spring Lake, going from his home to obtain a newspaper, and being so late he fell to the ground, approaching train, and was killed. His wife was standing in the doorway of their home and saw the accident. The following members of his family are left to mourn his untimely death: Lucina Noakes, his wife; Earl Noakes, son; Covington; Kay; Hayden Noakes, son; and two daughters: Mrs. Una Gilliam, of Spring Lake, Ky., and Mrs. Florence Gregory, of Cincinnati, Ohio.

Mr. Noakes was buried in the Mt. Mariah Cemetery near Covington, Ky.

THE GARDEN

(By John S. Gardner)

It will not be long, now, before the first insects come. In fact, some of them have already started, but the cool weather has held them back.

The crops affected are the early cabbage, and potatoes.

On the former, no doubt; here and there, crinkling of the leaves has been observed, or perhaps the stunting of growth. Looking within the curled leaves are found masses of soft-bodied slugish insects, the plant lice. On cabbage, particularly, these are the Southern lice that came with the plants, and a few days ago swarmed over the plants, eating their way through the leaves to fight them later, would have to fight them later, would have to fight them later.

On the latter, no doubt; here and there, crinkling of the leaves has been observed, or perhaps the stunting of growth. Looking within the curled leaves are found masses of soft-bodied slugish insects, the plant lice. On cabbage, particularly, these are the Southern lice that came with the plants, and a few days ago swarmed over the plants, eating their way through the leaves to fight them later, would have to fight them later.

Too, during the next few sunny days, yellow "butterflies" will be seen about the cabbage here and there. Wherever they touch plant life of any kind, they will do it until these can be seen. The wisdom to apply the control be taken, namely, rotenone dust, as this is the best way to stop them a week or longer. While it is true that an arsenical would be effective also, as arsenate of lead or Paris green, once would have to give over, anyhow, to using "non-poisonous" rotenone when heading starts.

On potatoes, just up, will be found many minute, brown, gnawing beetles. Although the potatoes appear to outgrow this damage, it does handicap them, and when warm, dry weather comes, and it quite white keeping at a minimum.

The best way to combat the flea beetle is to spray with Bordeaux mixture, starting when the average height is 3 inches. Because the Colorado beetle may always be expected to come later, arsenate of lead should be stirred into the Bordeaux. Two weeks after the first, another spraying should be given, and another two weeks, still later.

Bordeaux is a double-duty spray, for besides stopping the flea beetle, it checks the blight, the leaf-spotting disease, known as late blight, and causes the leaves to turn green, and sometimes weeks before the tubers have finished making size.

Final Battle in Campaign for Tunisia Marked by Fierce Enemy Resistance; Allies Strive to Reunite Reds, Poles; Labor Front Studies Coal Mine Issues

EDITOR'S NOTE: When opinions are expressed in these columns, they are those of the writer. The newspaper is not responsible for the views of its contributors.

While French and American forces pressed against rocky Axis entrenchments in the north, and British units contained the enemy in the mountains in the south, the Allied First Army's armored columns fought German tanks in the plains in the central sector.

TUNISIA: Slow but Sure

Meeting fierce fire, Allied troops fought methodically to the approaches of the Axis' final two bastions in Tunisia, Tunis and Bizerte.

While French and American forces pressed against rocky Axis entrenchments in the north, and British units contained the enemy in the mountains in the south, the Allied First Army's armored columns fought German tanks in the plains in the central sector.

Driving the Axis from Long Step Hill, the First Army cleared the road leading to the Tunis plain to the east. A little to the south, First Army formations shot it out with German tanks in flat country, then swung off toward the Axis' vital central sector base of Pont du Fahs, which was rapidly encircled.

Resisting bitterly, the Axis was giving up territory by the foot only, relying on mortar and machine gun fire to stop Allied infantry advancing under cover of massed artillery barrages. Using freighters and motor launches, the Axis continued to run the gauntlet of scathing Allied bombers in the Sicilian straits in an effort to keep their embattled troops supplied.

Helmet Saves General

Only a helmet saved the life of Lieut. Gen. Wesley J. McNair, leader of the "Red" forces, as shell fragmentation struck him down during an observation on the Tunisian front during the bitter fighting. Although fragmentation glanced off the helmet, particles ripped into the general's shoulder, injuring him painfully.

RUSSIA: Break With Poles

Charging that the Polish government in exile was using Nazi propaganda in order to force territorial concessions from the Russians, the Reds formally broke diplomatic relations with the Poles. In consultation with the United States, British Foreign Minister Anthony Eden immediately got to work patching up the rupture.

Immediate cause of the break was centered around the Nazi charge that they had uncovered the graves of 10,000 Polish soldiers near Smolensk, allegedly murdered by the Reds before they were driven from the area. The Poles asked the International Red Cross to investigate the charge. Polish officials said that they have been unable to locate the officers despite a general amnesty granted Polish prisoners of war by the Russian government.

At the same time there were indications of another diplomatic break, this one between the United States and Finland. Withdrawal of American embassy officials from Helsingfors would follow Finland's declaration of U. S. offer to mediate her war with Russia.

Catch Breath

Russian troops held against Nazi attacks in the Leningrad area, and Red airman continued to pepper German supply lines along the Baltic coast. Minor action was reported above Kursk, where the Reds are wedged into Nazi lines, and at Novorossiisk, the Red's main base on the Black sea shore in the Caucasus.

POISON GAS: Nazis Prepare

For the last two months, the German people have been drilled against poison gas attacks.

This information reached Allied sources in the west of Great Britain's warning that she would use poison gas against Germany should the Nazis start such warfare in Russia.

According to reports, five fighting squadrons in Germany were instructed on the effects of gas.

RATIONING: More Tires, More Gas

Because of the increased quotas of tires for civilians, OPA has amended its gas rationing regulations outside of the 17 eastern seaboard states, and the district of Columbia.

Following Rubber Administrator William Jeffers' announcement that more Grade A tires would be available for essential use, the OPA boosted the maximum allotment of gas for occupational driving from 470 to 720 gallons per month. This figure is based on an average of 18 miles per gallon of gas.

Formerly, only doctors, ministers and some classes of sanitation workers received the cherished "C" card allowing 720 miles for occupational driving. Average allotments on "B" cards approximated 470 miles. Now "C" cards will be available on application, showing only traveling will be done on jobs, or the car is being used to transport three or more persons to work industry.

The OPA also ruled that rationing certificates for the use of gas on farm tractors may be issued by local boards in areas where recapping facilities are inadequate.

SHIPPING: Allied Losses

The Allies suffered a net loss of one million tons of merchant shipping in 1942, the navy department report.

The "net" figure was arrived at after deducting losses from existing fleets and new construction during the year. The navy declared, however, that figures were incomplete, since building records were not received from some of the Allied nations.

In announcing the losses, the navy pointed out that they included submarine sinkings, mines, airplanes, and other losses. According to Secretary of the Navy Frank P. Rowan, submarine accounts for 50 per cent of the losses.

The navy's statement followed a report by the Truman-Edwards investigating committee that 12 million tons of Allied merchant shipping had been sunk during the year.

CHINA: Fight in Mountains

Forty thousand Japanese assaulted the Chinese army's positions in the mountain range flanking the Pieping-Hankow railroad.

Both sides suffered heavy losses as the Chinese resisted fiercely in the mountainous region.

The Chinese also reported throwing back two Japanese attempts to land along the China sea coast. The first attempt found troops trying to reach the beach under cover of a lone warship's fire. But when Chinese cannon forced a withdrawal, the Japanese returned the next day with four warships. Again heavy fire frustrated a landing.

Meanwhile, American airmen were active over China, combating Japanese fighter planes from an advanced Allied base in Hainan province.

NEW HORIZON: 'Old Capitalism Dead'

"The capitalism of complete laissez-faire which thrived on low wages and maximum profits for minimum turnover, which rejected collective bargaining and fought against justified public regulation of the competitive process is a thing of the past."

Words of a soap-box orator these, but rather the keynote of an address made by Eric A. Johnston, president of the Chamber of Commerce of the United States, at the final session of the chamber's 31st annual meeting.

Continuing, Johnston said: "Political and economic freedom are interrelated and that which impairs one also hampers the other in like measure. The horizons of opportunity being opened up are larger than ever."

SHELTER IN TUNISIA

Protected from the burning sun by a solar helmet commanded by an Axis prisoner, this American corporal relaxes in his foxhole in central Tunisia. His dog keeps him from getting too lonely.

MISCELLANY:

FUEL OIL: American Liberators bombed the huge Thilawa oil refinery south of Rangoon, scoring hits on the distillation and storage installations.

DRAFT FATHERS: Secretary of War Henry Stimson said drafting of fathers was necessary if the army was to take advantage of the opportunities offered for speedy ending the war.

Nation's Railroads Move 50,000 Troops Each Day

Special Surveys Decrease Cross Hauling; Developments Abroad May Force Unexpected Shifting of Troops.

By BAUKHAGE

Trust Analyst and Columnist.

Comes represented many people who do considerable public speaking. I know how difficult it is, myself, have been unable to attend lectures, railway systems it is so difficult to certain of connections and a broadcaster has to move with the regularity of a train schedule to get to the microphone in time—the microphone waits for no man.

There have been rumors of late that transportation was snagged; in fact, the U-boats, supplies were piling up on the docks and loaded freight cars were jamming the yards and causing confusion. The Washington Post information says that latest advices indicate that congestion is being lessened. In fact, the official word is: "The battle of transportation ... at a crisis at Pearl Harbor time ... is now being won."

Nearing Limit I hope that this statement isn't over-optimistic. As a matter of fact, the reservation is noted that "the reserves are not necessarily permanent because of the war's progress with few exceptions, is being used close to its limits"—and there are reserves in the way of oil and coal, satisfactory, one is movement of oil and the other is the problem of getting the war workers to and from their jobs.

The latter difficulty is responsible, according to some investigators, for much of the recently deferred absenteeism.

To get an idea of what the traffic has to bear in a city where war industries are concentrated, there has been an increase of use of the De Witt railway system by 50 per cent. The Baltimore transit line is up 80 per cent and the Washington, 151 per cent. I know what these figures mean as does anyone who has to make his way to and from work in the capital. I have also seen that odious city of San Diego once a pleasant, sleepy town which seemed to move lazily with the pellucids that flew over the bay or the surrounding palms. The pellucids have been replaced by planes and it's a 24-hour town, with a 338 per cent increase in the use of its buses and trolley cars.

Diary of a Broadcaster Today I made it, on bed-side desk in one hour and 18 minutes, and I could find time to make my own breakfast of coffee, pop, my grapefruit and zwieback (my wife is away) and to traverse on foot some of the railroad blocks. I think that this record is not bad considering the variety of activities included. I managed to hear the early five o'clock news and read the headlines which told me whether the news wind was blowing in the same direction this morning that it was last night when the newspaper went to bed—in other words, was I to plow fresh fields or harvest what I sowed from the old ones.

I also removed the blanket that shields our three parakeets from northern drafts and waited for the welcoming chirrup that one, the least mobile of the three, ascends to give me before I leave the room. As soon as I do, they are sure to be heard.

Walking to work in Washington these days is like reviewing the armies of the United Nations for one can spot almost any uniform between Dupont Circle and Pennsylvania avenue. But it seems that the WAVES are in the preponderance. The WAACs are smart but the navy has a uniform that is a little bit less drab than the olive. It is surprising how an elderly matron can be so smart with the rambler roses as smart as a midshipman.

Washington's springtime, one of its two beautiful seasons, is here in April. Liberty Bells are ringing and the crew of 63 for a six-month voyage.

"Honor thy father and thy mother, but above all, the Führer." This is the Nazi version of the Fourth commandment, as the children in Norway's Nazi-supervised schools hear it.

A new device automatically reduces the performance of a radio in different parts of a plane during a test flight to a ground machine which records the data on sound film and disks, and then transmits graphs for visual study in a matter of seconds, says Collier's. Thus it not only enables the ground crew to warn pilots of incipient trouble, but its records check and supplement those of the pilot and are not lost in case of a crash-landing.

TO YOUR GoodHealth

by DR. JAMES W. BARTON

HOW MUCH FOOD SHOULD YOU EAT?

You may think that food requirements were measured in vitamins but before the discovery of vitamins the amount and kinds of food that should be eaten daily were measured in calories. A calorie is a measured amount of heat that is the amount of heat required to raise one kilogram of water (a little over two pounds) one degree centigrade (which is about 2 2/3 degrees Fahrenheit).

In an article on nutrition in the Journal of the American Medical Association, Dr. Eugene P. DuBois and William H. Chambers, New York city, state:

The amount of heat given off by the resting man of average size (at complete rest and no digestion going on) is about equal to the heat of a 60-watt electric bulb or the flame of an alcohol lamp with a wick about high. A man exercising hard equals the heat of 10 such lamps. As most of us are not at complete rest all the time, nor do we work as hard all the time, the amount of food needed will depend upon how much we rest and how hard we work. Thus one table of the necessary calories needed by various trades is:

Men: Tailor, 2,600; bookbinder, 3,000; shoemaker, 3,100; cabinet-maker, 3,300 to 3,600; stone mason, 4,700 to 5,200; wood sawyer, 5,500 to 6,000. There are other trades such as moulders or foundrymen, doctors, mollen mill workers and others where 6,000 calories are needed daily.

Facts About Acne, Pimples

Although the various methods of treatment help many cases of acne (pimples), the actual cause of acne is not fully known. Because it occurs at or near the age of puberty, most physicians believe it has to do in some way connected with the changes in the glands which causes boys and girls to emerge into men and women.

In the Journal of Clinical Endocrinology, Dr. Hamilton, Yale medical school, reports results in cases where he was able to bring on acne in certain individuals. He found that giving the hormone or extract of the male sex gland to a girl who had not reached puberty, some of them developed blackheads, pimples, and with and without pus formation. When the male sex gland extract was stopped, the pimples became smaller and disappeared. When given again, the pimples returned.

This does not mean that this gland extract is the only factor entering into the cause of acne as acne is hereditary, and the thyroid gland is also a factor. However, despite other factors, the pimples appeared only when the sex hormone was given.

There seems to be something in this male hormone substance that stimulates the sebaceous or oil glands of the skin. Dr. Hamilton suggests that as there is some relation between the thyroid gland—the master gland of the body—and the sex glands, there is logical evidence that the use of desiccated thyroid gland extract in cases of acne at the time of puberty. The thyroid gland acts upon any excess of oil pouring out of the oil glands on the skin and stimulates the skin cells to a more normal activity. The thyroid extract stimulates all the body processes and therefore the skin. Excellent results have been obtained by using viosterol by mouth and also by the use of injections of pituitary extract. As with all extracts, this should be done under supervision of a physician.

More Eggs Per Hen, More Milk Per Cow, More Corn Per Acre

Agricultural Science Now Fully Mobilized

Science hitched to the plow is one of the main reasons for America's astonishing food productivity. Day by day the department of agriculture, in co-operation with state colleges of agriculture and experiment stations, is carrying the results of research into practical application on the nation's six million farms. A task force, made up of some 9,000 county agents, home demonstration people, A. F. A. leaders and specialists takes the findings of science to the farmer. Practically every one of the country's 3,000 agricultural counties is served by a county agent of the agricultural extension service.

'Food and still more food. That sums up the Food for Freedom program in 1943: 8 percent more eggs, over 22 billion pounds of wheat, 127 million pounds of milk.

No technique making for more efficient farming, or scientific fact that will help increase the total food supply, is being overlooked. Even such simple practices as giving a cow drinking water with the cholesterol off of it on a cold winter's day can help boost milk production.

The practice of milking three times a day instead of two, if generally followed and combined with feeding three times a day, for only a 90-day period reserved for increasing production sufficiently to meet 1943 goals. In a recent feeding test with cows that had produced records of around 9,300 pounds of milk a year, it increases in the milk output as high as 23 percent resulted from feeding more grain.

Systematic Tool Storage Very Important on Farm

W. C. Krueger, extension agricultural engineer at Rutgers university, believes that every farm should have a work space or room especially reserved for repairing and constructing farm equipment.

At least a corner in some building that had produced records of around 9,300 pounds of milk a year, it increases in the milk output as high as 23 percent resulted from feeding more grain.

The storage of new machinery, increased use of labor-saving devices to offset the scarcity of farm help and the inability of local service men and dealers to take care of all repairs and repairs, and so on, makes it highly desirable for every farm to be as self-sufficient as possible in this respect," the engineer says.

There are enough tools on most farms to do the ordinary repair jobs produced by all kinds of systems—sprayed, collected, put into good shape, arranged, stored, and handy to use, Krueger points out. A necessary item is a solid topped workbench 2 to 2 1/2 feet wide and between 5 and 10 feet long fitted with a four-inch or larger machinist vise and a wood vice or clamp.

The wall space above the bench is ideal for hanging tools. The well equipped shop these should include heavy duty auger bits, assorted sizes of machine, drift and carpenter punches; a carpenter's hammer, a mallet, a heavy hammer, an assortment of wood chisels; wrecking and crowbars; an eight to 12-pound sledge; several heavy rail spikes; a heavy ball-peen hammer; an assortment of wrenches and straightening; a set of adjustable socket and pipe wrenches; a size range of screw drivers, pliers, cutters and pinners; an electric soldering iron or pair of soldering bits; a good grinder, preferably motor driven; flat, triangle and round files with truck-type camel gear with oil and emery stones. Block and tackle for hoists, jacks and pipe rollers will also be found handy.

Recapping Available

Owners of passenger cars and commercial vehicles using tires smaller than 7.50 by 20 will now be able to get castings recapped with recapping rubber cement back on top—out-applying to local war price and rationing boards for certificates. However, recapping of commercial truck tires with truck-type camel back, which contains a large proportion of crude rubber, continued to be subject to present rationing restrictions.

WHY PUT UP WITH CONSTIPATION?

If you suffer from that common form of constipation, due to lack of "bulk" in your diet, dozing yourself with harsh cathartics and laxatives will give you only temporary relief. However, adding Kellogg's diet and drinking plenty of water will not only get you back to your regular weight, but will correct the cause of the trouble and give you a delicious breakfast cereal that, unlike medicinal ones, will not irritate your bowels.

Try Kellogg's all-plant, cast-iron diet, even if it doesn't help you, too!

SNAPPY FACTS ABOUT RUBBER

Who says you and rubber tree have something in common. They both are sources of latex-bearing trees. The rubber tree, from which chewing gum comes, has a high yield of natural rubber. Rubber latex is the green, carbohydrate-rich, sticky liquid that flows from the cut in the bark of the rubber tree.

Synthetic rubber made in the U.S. has been shown to be stronger than the natural rubber made in the U.S. The rubber made in the U.S. is still underdeveloped.

The scorching has proved its worth as a test for the quality of rubber. The test is completely new.

Tidbits of Kentucky Folklore

By Gordon Wilson, Ph. D.

It is known to take a little wine with the stomach's sake and a good deal more to keep the first wine company. I used to tell this story to come through a deep wood that lay just this side of the still where he got his mountain dew. On several occasions he distinctly felt something jump up behind him as he rode there at night. The horse would always favor powerfully, and the man had so much difficulty holding the reins that he never caught the same one behind him. One night, however, when the moon was fairly bright, he felt the object land on his horse immediately behind the saddle and grabbed, fearing death from the spook or from the rearing horse. Imagine his surprise when he grasped the hair which was our local name for the large chips of oak when crossbites or crows were hewed. Since he was so truthful, I have every reason to believe this, though neither he nor I could imagine the reason for a peaceful slab of wood being so fractious.

Another truthful neighbor had a harrowing experience with a mosquito. On a night when the mosquitoes were very bad and he sought refuge under the family wash kettle. One brave mosquito was so bloodthirsty that he ran his proboscis right through the iron kettle. The man expatiated beyond ordinary manners, at once clinched the neck by hitting it with a brickbat. The mosquito struggled and struggled and finally flew away carrying the kettle and leaving the poor man exposed to the other savage beasts. One of the most loved relatives said that one day when she and her daughter were going to the county seat to do their spring trading, they saw a hoopsnake roll and spear a tree with the hook that all hoopsnakes have on their tails. That afternoon as they came back, the tree had completely withered.

Uncle Bill Clark owned a very famous pacing mare. One day as he was returning from Sweeney's store, up the creek, he overtook seven "kivered wains" going down the Underwood Hill. Daisy, the pacing mare, was a fleet creature and rather unmanageable. He tried to stop her when he saw she was so close to the was. Daisy would not respond to the bit but paced right over all seven wains and "it in the middle of the road still pacing. So recently did she do this trick that she landed without so much as jolting a jar of corn liquor lashed to the saddle.

One day a man's eye injured in the Civil War. He was working with his musket, getting it in good order after he had killed some two or three hundred Yankees and was looking for more. On the lock he found a bit of sun cap. In trying to pick it off with his knife, he made it explode. Part of it went into his eye. The medical corps, or whatever it was called in those days, took him to a "exam," took up some of the pantheons from the floor, and strapped him down to one with several belts. Anaesthetics were not had; hence Uncle Bill, then very young and vigorous, had to lie there and suffer while the doctors removed the eyeball from its socket, took out the offending particle, and turning the ball inside out, he had to lie there and suffer, and the eye never gave a particle of trouble from that day forward.

It is known that every one who heard these few brief samples of tall tales will be like old Tinner in the Fibber McGee show: "That's purty cute, Johnny, but that ain't the way I heard it."

...not if you take good care of your VACUUM CLEANER

Beating rugs by hand is hard on you and hard on your rugs, but it's your only alternative if you allow your cleaner to become damaged beyond repair. Here are a few hints on how to keep it in A-1 operating condition:

- TIPS ON CLEANER CARE
● Empty dust bag every time cleaner is used. Dust in bag reduces suction.
● Avoid running cleaner over pins, nails, coins and other hard objects. Pick them up by hand.
● Keep brushes free from lint, hair and threads. Clean after each use.
● If cleaner is not picking up threads, check belt to see if it is turning brush. Increase tension or replace belt if necessary.

- Be sure that brush is properly adjusted. Bristles should extend about one-eighth inch below nozzle.
● Coil cord loosely on hooks. Pulling too tightly may break wires inside insulation where cord bends over hooks.
● Disconnect cord by grasping plug at outlet. Do not yank cord or you may damage connections.
● Follow manufacturer's instructions on cleaning and oiling. Consult your dealer if you have lost directions.

PIRATES' HEAD BY ISABEL WAIT

"Keep your shirt on," Quincy answered. "Not to drop of gas in here!" De Witt discovered...

CHAPTER XIII

Even Bessie Norcross regained enough energy to sit along with poor "haunted" Quincy...

"What in heaven's name?" "De Wilt is out there calling to their feet. 'Say that again, Judy.'"

"I'll stay with her, Mr. Gerry." "On my sister's coat—the fact that my golf club was found."

"Well, gentlemen, does this tell you anything?" Victor asked the lot of men who were horrified at the holes in the boats and canoe.

"I saw him hold down a hand, and presently Uncle Wylie's head appeared. Hugh came over to Victor and Quade, the last without his coat."

"Not a drop of gas in here!" De Witt discovered. "Bet Lane had some when he drove in. Knew there wasn't a filling station this side of Rockville."

"Victor nodded, and my uncle started off. 'Here, will you? Don't go alone, Uncle Wylie!' I shouted."

"I turned the wheelchair down the drive to meet him." "Your Aunt Jane gonna be shoppin'?" De Witt said, picking up a doornail.

"I'm glad to hear that," Quincy said. "De Wilt said, 'I'm glad to hear that, Quincy.'"

"That's just it. Nothing to go hell bent over; no attractions that bring the mob, like Nantasket and Revere. Bathing's no good here, either."

"I'm glad to hear that," Quincy said. "De Wilt said, 'I'm glad to hear that, Quincy.'"

"I'm glad to hear that," Quincy said. "De Wilt said, 'I'm glad to hear that, Quincy.'"

IMPROVED UNIFORM INTERNATIONAL SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

Lesson for May 9

Lesson subjects and Scripture texts are by Harold L. Vanhook, pastor of the Moody Bible Institute of Chicago.

PETER AND JOHN LEADERS IN THE EARLY CHURCH

"Golden Text"—Now when they saw the boldness of Peter and John, and perceived that they were unlearned and ignorant men, they marvelled; and they took knowledge of them, that they had been with Jesus of Nazareth.

"Peter had just finished the first sermon preached in the Church, and he was delivered at Pentecost."

"What an opportunity for the preacher and his fellow workers, John. How did they meet it?"

"Conveying God's Power (Acts 3:1-8). 'Channels only'—that is the function of the worker for Christ, the leader. His Church, As Mary..."

"The lame man had long since given up hope of anything better than the feeble cure of the temple gate. He was like many in our hard and practical age who see only the values that money can buy for them, miss the real blessing of God."

"God has for thus miss, as He had for this beggar, that which is far better than gold—the service from the limitations of spirit which make them content with the paltry signs of men."

"Peter and John were ready to be struck and declared servants to men who were not too busy to pray (v. 1). Knowing the compassion of God they sought out the one in need, and they did the unlimited power of God to work on his behalf."

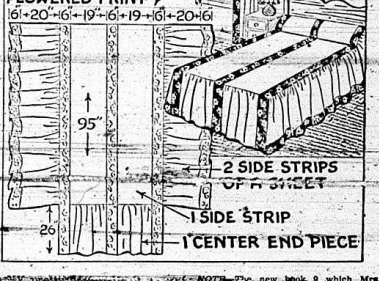

"God healed this man's body, but what is more important, He healed his spirit (v. 8). We need that kind of healing for the weak-kneed, lame-ankled, spirit-darkened individuals in our communities and our churches."

"I know I should go with him. What was I being paid for?" curiosity was more compelling than a lawyer's order. Besides, there came one of our guests. It was Albin Potter. He seemed relieved and happy.
