sister, Miss Katherine Phelps, of Richmond. "When it rains, it pours" can well be applied to Brodhead at this time, in losing our pastors and teachers, no sooner had our community learned we were to lose our pastor, Rev. Harold L. Newlan, of the Christian church, and lamenting the loss of him and his family, when we were informed that Rev. Earl Warford, pastor of the Baptist church, had accepted the pastorate of a church in Memphis, Tenn. This was an another great loss, for we have earned to love and respect Rev. and Mrs. Warford. Rev. Warford was an efficient teacher of the second and third grades in our Gretna and High School and Rev. Warford was a preacher and teacher in the Baptist Church. This is a splendid young couple, and we regret to see them go.

WAR BOND PURCHASES MEAN POSTWAR MONEY FOR IMPROVING FARM

CHICAGO.—Systematic war bond purchases by Midwest farmers not only help provide a life-saver for American liberty, but also a "hedge" for the future protection of the nation's greatest asset—the soil—according to a statement made public here by the Great West Soil Improvement Committee.

"Money received built up by bond buying right now during the present improved farm income period," says the statement, "mean that farmers will be able to improve their soil savings to undertake necessary programs of soil rehabilitation and soil conservation once the war is over."

"War-time production goals for food, oil, fat, for fiber, are making mighty heavy drains on the plant."

"The farmer's present use of surplus income will be a strong element in establishing his economic well-being later on."

Surplus income can help build future security.

Food resources already banked in our soils. This is particularly dangerous now that the supply of chemical nitrogen must be so carefully hoarded and allocated due to short-crop growing from the requirements of munition factories.

"This war must be won by food production as much as by any other factor, but future abundance and even peace may well depend on the fertility and productivity of our soil. Thus it is necessary to furnish the earth with as much plant food as present supplies will permit. Certainly, though, we must not permit costly future fertilization programs to be abandoned."

Chemical fertilization, phosphorus and potash which are drained from our soil under the limited use of these crops, are now made necessary by USDA orders.

"The farmer's present use of surplus income will be a strong element in establishing his economic well-being later on."

WARTIME HOG CROP DEMANDS ENORMOUS FEED PRODUCTION

CHICAGO.—Since pork has gone to war and a hog crop of more than 100 million head will be required for 1943, Midwest pastures will be called on for increasing quantities of feed to supplement corn and other grains, according to a statement made public here by the Middle West Soil Improvement Committee.

"Good pastures provide large and readily available supplies of vitamins, minerals and other growth and health factors," says the statement. "Tests have shown that an acre of choice alfalfa pasture will yield 2 1/2 times as much protein and 20 per cent more carbohydrates than the output of shelled corn grown on the same acreage."

"Whether the stand of legumes this season is good or poor will depend on the soil fertility level—the present abundance of plant food. Pasture crops require substantial quantities of phosphorus and potash to produce succulent grass and sturdy root systems. Thus the surest means of obtaining a good stand is to see that adequate applications of fertilizer containing these two essential elements."

ALLIES TAKE 150,000 PRISONERS IN AFRICA

Cable dispatches from the Allied North African Headquarters reveal that all organized Nazi resistance has come to an end with the capture Wednesday of Col. Gen. Erwin Rommel, German commander-in-chief of eleven other generals and a total of 150,000 enemy troops, German and Italian.

The Allied victory, which is the greatest so far in the present war, came six months and four days after the Americans landed in North Africa. vast quantities of guns, ammunition and other war materials were taken by the Allies in their clean-up of the Cap Bon Peninsula. It is claimed that a crack of the wire to equip the German army to fight further attacks.

Marshall Erwin Rommel had forsaken his African Corps and escaped to Germany, leaving his command to Von Arnim. It was an ignominious ending for the once proud Nazi fighting machine, but the fighting spirit was all gone after thousands had thrown up their hands in surrender, many with grinning faces, at the prospect of the end for them.

Some of the Germans thought they would now be sent to America to work on farms and were glad they were asking how they might return home.

All Europe is now tense with anxiety, waiting for the Allies' next move. Roosevelt is hoping that now on the defensive and the conquered nations are waiting the word from the liberators to rise up against the Axis. New moves against the Axis are also being planned.

Prime Minister Winston Churchill, who is in America, presumably to join President Roosevelt in shopping at the next Allied move, will address this nation by radio at 2 p.m. C.W.T. Friday it has been announced.

THE GARDEN

(By John S. Gardner)

The Vine Crops. These are cucumber, melons and the squashes. In the melons they so much resemble one another, that they can all be discussed together.

Although in field culture, there are several advantages in putting all but the wide running squashes and watermelons in the garden. They are honored way of planting them in hills is better in gardens.

The practice, so often, is to fertilize only under the hills, using a shovelful of manure, with a small handful of super-phosphate to "balance" the manure. Very very well as it is, but when the worms have hatched the "hill" plant food and strike into the poorer soil beyond.

Such better is to fertilize broadcast, as the roots run wide. A good coat of manure should be turned under, then super-phosphate applied in the row. 1 pound to 50 square feet, hills made 1 to 2 inches above the garden surface, so water does not collect to make the soil run together and interfere with the sprouting of the seed. Over the hills (about 8 inches square) 6 or 8 seeds are dropped and pressed in quickly.

Lacking manure, complete fertilizer ("Victory Garden") should be broadcast, 1 pound to 50 square feet, and the same for the super-phosphate just above.

Two plants in a hill is a "perfect" stand, and hill spacing is as follows: cucumbers, 3 by 3 to 4 by 4; watermelons, 3 by 3 to 4 by 4; squashes, 2 1/2 by 2 1/2 to 4 by 4; running squash, 4 by 4 to 5 by 5. Varieties are as follows: Cucumbers Straight Eight, slicing Chicago pickers run together and interfere with the growth of the plant. Cucumbers Golden Straightneck, Running squash, Golden Spoon, Acorn, green-striped cucumbers, and watermelons, Rockford Rock or Hale's Best, and Tip Top or Bender Watermelon, Stone Mountain, Kleckley Sweet, and Tom Watson.

HEAD INJURIES

For a number of years I treated all the injured athletic students of a large university. Most of the injuries were cuts, bruises, dislocations and occasional fractures, with not infrequently head injuries causing unconsciousness. For many years also I treated all the injured amateur and professional boxers and wrestlers in which head injuries were not uncommon. While most cases of head concussion recovered consciousness in minutes and often seconds, I often wondered if I made them feel sufficient rest before resuming athletic activities.

This whole question of how soon after a blow that has caused unconsciousness the patient should resume his regular occupation, has been studied by Dr. H. Cairns; some of his findings are recorded in the Proceedings of the American Society of Medicine.

"In deciding when a patient should be fit to return to work, it is necessary to take into account the severity of his injury, and the best yardstick at present available is the length of time he was unconscious after the injury. The shorter the time in which ability to carry out full work may be expected to return is as follows:

- "If unconscious for five minutes to one hour—four to six weeks."
- "If unconscious one to two hours—six to eight weeks."
- "If unconscious two to seven days—two to four months."
- "If unconscious over seven days—two to eight months."

"If patient was ever tired when injured, more time should be given. The type of work must also be considered as a simple task may be resumed earlier than one which calls for much brain effort."

"Almost every patient who makes a full recovery from concussion suffers at a certain stage of his recovery from headaches. In mild cases headaches usually occur early and disappear, whereas in more severe cases headaches may occur much later, in fact after patient is well enough to return home though not to work."

America Becoming Near-Sighted Nation

There was a time when a man or woman wearing glasses was thought to be a student or one who did a great deal of reading. Glasses were almost a badge of scholarship. It was a rare thing to see a child with glasses and many wearing glasses were doing so to correct a squint or crossed eyes.

Within the last 20 years there has been a great increase in the number of men and women wearing glasses and glasses in children are no longer attract attention.

Most of us will likely attribute this increase in the number wearing glasses to the strain on the eyes of school children and to the education by departments of health of the importance of having the vision corrected in those afflicted with shortsightedness, long-sightedness and astigmatism (objects not seen distinctly). The last war also taught the value of acquiring proper eyesight as many men were rejected for poor eyesight.

However, we learn from the Better Vision Institute in one of their monthly releases that America is becoming a nearsighted nation. Every 10 years the figures show that vision is becoming narrower and human eyes, which from the beginning of history had been adapted to far vision, have now their standard vision when fixed on near objects not very far from the end of the nose.

What is causing the population to become nearsighted? Some research workers in the eye state that (a) living conditions today finds man looking at "near" objects instead of "far" or distant objects, and (b) nearsightedness seems to be handed down from parents to their children.

Today, education has become almost universal and children are expected to read at an early age. Occupations are indoors for the most part and modern living conditions require almost continuous close vision.

We should, therefore, be kind to our eyes, and if our eyes need help make sure that they get help, and the right kind of help.

HOUSEHOLD MEMOS... by Lynn Chambers

Spring Luncheon
Rationing doesn't mean that you have to give up entertaining entirely. True, you may be serving dishes you've never served before, but if you've tucked your thinking cap at the right angle, you'll find many things with company manners which won't take too many ration points.
Be clever with your knives in shaping fruits and vegetables into attractive shapes and sizes for your guests, and use bright colors for garnishes and table accessories. Add a good portion of your own charm and make your guests feel at ease, and Madame, your entertaining will be a success.
*Lynn Chambers' recipes are a picture on any spring luncheon table.
*Lynn Chambers' Recipes with Shrimp. (Serves 6)
6 tomatoes
1 cup finely diced celery
2 cups canned shrimp
¼ cup french dressing
¼ cup mayonnaise

Fill with shrimp, marinade, french dressing, and mayonnaise. Sprinkle inside of tomatoes with salt, then fill with shrimp mixture. Garnish with whole shrimp.
*Smart idea for salad plates is to include a small scoop of two or three different kinds of salad to make a picture plate. Here are two splendid ideas:
Lemon Sunshine Salad. (Serves 6)
1 package lemon-flavored gelatin
1 cup boiling water
1 teaspoon cayenne pepper
1 tablespoon lemon juice or diluted vinegar
1 cup cold water
1 cup finely shredded cabbage
¼ cup finely grated raw carrot
1 tablespoon minced onion
Dissolve lemon-flavored gelatin in boiling water. Add salt and lemon juice or diluted vinegar and cold water. Chill until mixture begins to thicken. Do not shred vegetables until just before using or a large loss of vitamins will result.
Pineapple-Cottage Cheese Salad. (Serves 6)
¼ cup cottage cheese
¼ cup nuts, chopped

1 teaspoon sugar
6 slices pineapple, fresh or canned
Green or red pepper

*Recipe Given
Combine cottage cheese, pineapple juice and sugar. Add salt to taste. Place a mound of cheese on top of each slice of pineapple, then garnish with diamond shapes from green and red pepper. Serve on crisp lettuce with dressing.
A dark brown bread, fruity and tasty is excellent to serve with salad luncheons. If your salad does not include cheese, use a little sandwich spread with cream cheese and jam or make dainty little sandwiches with crisp lettuce spread thinly, add a bit of lettuce for crispness.
Baked Brown Bread. (Makes 1 1/2 x 2 1/2-inch loaf)
1 1/2 cups sifted all-purpose flour
2 1/2 cups sugar
1 1/2 teaspoons salt
1/2 cup sugar
3 cups graham or whole wheat flour
1/2 cup shortening
1/2 cup seedless raisins
2 eggs, beaten
2 cups sour milk
1/4 cup molasses
Sift flour, salt, soda and sugar together. Add graham or whole wheat flour, mix well. Cut in shortening until mixture is like meal. Add raisins and mix. Beat eggs, add sour milk and molasses. Add dry ingredients and blend together thoroughly. Pour batter into a well-greased pan. Bake in a moderate oven (350-degree) 45 minutes.
A lot of good quality protein, vitamins and minerals come in that neat little package, the egg! Right now you'll be finding eggs plentiful, so make good use of them.
Eggs Creole. (Serves 4)
2 1/2 cups tomato sauce
1 small onion, chopped fine
1/2 green pepper, chopped
1 teaspoon green pepper

Bugaboo of Soil Acidity Dispelled

Acid Condition May Even Be Beneficial

Soil acidity is a "bugaboo that farmers for years have been uselessly fighting," according to Dr. W. A. Albert, chairman of the soils department of the University of Missouri. As a matter of fact, acidity may actually be beneficial instead of harmful if proper soil conservation measures are used.
"It is not the acidity in soils that is injurious," Dr. Albert explained, "but the shortage of nutrients that are removed by acidic fighting. Given the proper fertility, plants will turn in their customary or usual performance even in the presence of soil acidity. This acid condition is merely a case of increased shortage of plant food nutrients for which crops suffer."

Dr. Albert cited experiments with soybeans in which increased soil acidity made both yields and quality better.

"My own studies have shown that a neutral soil, improved the feeding value of forage and kept the sand element lower. Our experiments indicate that it is no longer necessary to fight soil acidity," he declared. "On the contrary, acidity is beneficial if lime or calcium phosphate, potash and other plant foods are utilized to restore full fertility and if soils are helped to maintain their needed moisture and corresponding recuperative rest periods."

"We can now say that 'acid tolerance' legumes have been discovered. But they tolerate acidity only when fertilizer materials are properly supplied in balanced amounts." In this connection it was pointed out that the three vital plant nutrients which encourages early and abundant growth, builds protein and develops the fleshy portion of roots: 2-phosphorus, which hastens the ripening process; 3-nitrogen, which encourages early maturity; and 3-potash, which is the balance wheel, enabling crop to make better use of the other two foods; develop resistance to disease and maintain an improved quality.

Prunes

All prunes are plums but not all plums are prunes. Washington and Oregon grow an Italian variety while California produces the French prune. These are distinguished from other plums in that they will not ferment when dried without removing the pit.
At the University of California, oil has been crushed from pits of prunes which is rich in vitamins A, B₁ and C, with a pleasant aroma and taste. It will likely be used for spraying prunes to aid them to retain their moisture so that they will be juicier when they reach the consumer. The canning of prune juice is a growing industry since the consumption of fresh fruits and juices has curtailed the dried prune market.
Prunes, grown almost entirely on the Pacific coast, now exceed the amount produced in foreign countries. It was not until 1870 that the first commercial orchard was planted in California and the growth of this industry has been rapid.
In California, the plums are dried for six to ten days by the sun. In Oregon and Washington, they are cured 12 to 48 hours in evaporators. After drying, they are put into bins to "sweat," then they are graded and packed. Sizes range from 20 to 30 in a pound up to 100 to 120.

Agricultural Notes

Safety First now means better farm production and full participation in war activities. A first aid kit or cabinet might well be placed in every kitchen.

Building supports, such as foundation and piers, must be maintained to prevent sagging and distortion of structure. Wood should be kept off the ground by masonry supports.

Plan the size of your chest to fit your needs and space. It may be made of one-inch pine and should be about 17 inches high without the cushion. When armored knights met, it was customary for each knight to raise the visor of his helmet as a means of identification. This gesture has come down through all armies in the form of the salute. Traditional, too, is the Army man's preference for Camel cigarettes. With men in the Army, Navy, Marines, and Coast Guard, actual sales records in their service stores show that Camel is the favorite. It's one of the favorite gifts with service men. And though there are Post Office restrictions on packages to overseas Army men, you can still send Camels to soldiers in the U. S., and to men in the Navy, Marines, and Coast Guard wherever they are—Adv.

Tidbits of Kentucky Folklore

The Passing of the Old Barber Shop Before we begin to wear short hair and therefore to need the professional assistance of the barbers, the barber shop was a very masculine place. It was even a bit daring for a lady there were no women then to enter its doors. It was just a little less masculine than a saloon, which no lady entered, except in the stories, when she came after her husband. From its long association with men it has a flavor that the dressed-up places we have now can never know.

There are the rows of moust that used to be displayed a tiny bit too obvious in a cabinet or shelf. Each bore, in flashing letters, the name of its owner, who left the mug at the shop for his own particular use when the hair was trimmed his beard, edged his hair after a haircut. No gentleman (there were no "men") would think of shaving himself except in dire emergencies. I have known men of very moderate means who walked down town early every morning and be shaved in style, when they could cut out all their beards in a tenth of the time and saved themselves the walk and the time. But they would have had the chance to impress the hot polloi, who did not or could not follow their swash-buckling manners. Just a few days ago I invaded an ancient barber shop and saw some mugs equally ancient; they took me back to years ago when such things were as much a badge of being well up in the world as the driving of a matched pair of horses to a surry.

ago when such things were as much a badge of being well up in the world as the driving of a matched pair of horses to a surry. Barber shops were of a sort of general reading room. Some of this tradition is left, but we do not go to the shop to see the popular magazine, especially the "Ladies Home Journal" as L.H.J. was in its older form. The news stand offers a much easier and better supplied place. Sometimes I will find for my barber, while some fellow who should have spent six years in the eighth grade dropped the contents of the county newspaper to the other sleep people who were waiting for their turn at the paper or barber.

All good barber shops specialized in shampooing, hair cutting, hairdressing, baths. Traveling men, who had only a few brief hours in town before tackling the wide open spaces of the country, where many of their customers lived and sold goods at way-side stores, stopped at the barber shop and washed off a good deal of road dust and sweat. Then there was, again, the bootblack, who has changed very little since I could first remember, though I do believe that he is more matter-of-fact now than he was formerly, when he was always a black boy with very shiny teeth. Barbering was done on the farms in the yard on Saturday afternoon, free of charge, by the hired hand. The barber who took the hair cut of the hired cut nothing and was worth just about that much. The one big exception was that if he were off and not darning in his eyes. It was a proud moment when a country boy could swagger into a city shop and be served as if he were one of the men whose cold-lettered mugs adorned the side walls. Never after that proud moment could he be sent to the other sleep people who fords of the hired man with the general activity scissors that every farm home had. But women have invaded this masculine abode. The floor has become cleaner, so have the jokes. The reading matter seems to be on the general level of the "Ladies Home Journal" they did when they knew that they only were around. There will probably be some rows of ribbon tied on the barber's chair yet.

Can Work Farm Again, States Mr. Winstead

Nervous Indigestion, Undernourishment And A Weakened Feeling Made Work Impossible He Says. Praises Retonga For Happy Relief.

MR. A. ELLIS WINSTEAD

Retonga is daily earning the unbounded praise of happy men and women. Mr. A. Ellis Winstead, well known farmer of Route 2, McEwen, Tenn., telling of his happy relief through Retonga, declares:

"I don't believe anyone could have gone through more pain and anxiety than I have. I felt so nervous I could hardly get out of the house and work was out of the question. Indigestion and distress after meals made me afraid to eat and it seemed I couldn't get my breath. I could hardly walk to the barn. I felt so weakened and had such achy pains in my muscles. I lost weight until I was down to 112 pounds. I had to take laxative medicines every day. I spent money, but it didn't seem to help my many troubles.

"Thanks to Retonga I am relieved of all my distress and can do a good day's work on my farm. My appetite was never better; I eat heartily and my food gives me strength and energy. I have regained eight pounds and my sister has taken Retonga and I feel like my old self again. My health the same gratifying benefit. It is the best medicine we have ever had in our home."

Retonga is a purely herbal stomachic medicine combined with Vitamin B-1 for the relief of distress as described by Mr. Winstead when due to insufficient flow of gastric juices in the stomach, constipation, and Vitamin B-1 deficiency. Accept no substitute. Retonga may be obtained at Maggard's, Rexall Drug Store, Mt. Vernon, Ky.

Electric Washer

It would be irksome indeed to go back to the drudgery of wash tub and scrub board. But you won't have to if you take ordinary good care of your washer. Just give it the proper attention and it will serve you faithfully for the duration.

TIPS ON WASHER CARE

- Brain, rinse and dry washer tub after each use.
- Remove any soap curd or lint from tub, agitator or suction cups with soft cloth or sponge.
- Dry rolls and frame of wringer. Release pressure on wringer to save springs and rubber.
- Wipe connecting cord dry and hang up carefully. Avoid kinking. It cracks rubber insulation.
- Do not try to jam too many pieces through wringer at one time.
- Remove buckles, large buttons, etc., before running clothes through the wringer. Saves rolls from being chewed up.
- Do not overload washer with clothes and do not use too much water. Follow directions.
- Lubricate washer periodically in accordance with manufacturer's recommendations.
