Let us not forget the Lord in these busy days. It pays to stay on the Lord's side. Joab turned a deaf ear to Absalom every time he called him. Finally Absalom set fire to Joab's field in order to get a response. The result was Joab was only too glad to come. So it is with those of us who think we can get along without God. (The time will come when God will get a response one way or another. Our prayer meeting comes weekly, 8:00 P. M. Wednesday.)

WEEKLY NEWS ANALYSIS

Allied Leaders Review Grand Strategy As Casablanca Promises Are Renewed Following Finale of Tunisia Campaign; Winter Wheat, Rye Dip to 1936 Levels

EDITOR'S NOTE: Where opinions are expressed in these columns, they are those of Western Newspaper Union's news analysts. This is not necessarily the view of the Western Newspaper Union.

TUNISIA

Steak and Potatoes

While captured German generals were putting down steaks, potatoes, and peaches in an American prison camp after they had surrendered with thousands of their troops, Allied forces secured the fate of the remnants of the once proud Afrika Korps on rocky Cape Bon peninsula.

Blasted by the swarms of Allied planes rulling the skies and an Allied fleet that stood off of Tunisia ready to crush any attempt at evacuation, the 80,000 Axis soldiers were reduced to the skins stretched in land faced their doom, necking to the last.

No less than six Axis generals, led by Maj. Gen. Wilhelm Bormann, surrendered to Maj. Gen. Omar N. Bradley, the infantry specialist who commanded the American Second army in its dramatic breakthrough through the rugged enemy positions before Bizerte.

The American forces continued to mop up around Bizerte where scattered bands of Nazis entrenched in the hills continued firing till their last round of ammunition. Much enemy material was recovered.

Also offering fierce resistance was a formidable Axis group holding out against the British Eighth army in the south. Cut off from the remnants of the northern Axis forces, this group stuck to the mountain fastnesses, while British artillery and infantry picked them slowly to pieces.

Even the Nazis realized that their scattered forces were inexorably doomed.

FARM CROPS:

Light Prospects Winter wheat and rye crops will be the smallest since 1928, the department of agriculture predicted early this month.

Production of winter wheat should approximate 515 million bushels, about 20 million bushels less than last year, the department said. Yields per acre should average 15.5 bushels.

Thirty-six million bushels of rye should be harvested, over 20 million bushels less than 1942, the department reported. Each acre should yield 17.7 bushels.

Condition of tame hay was placed at 81 per cent of normal. Pastures were said to be 78 per cent of normal. Stocks of hay on farms in the month totaled over 13 million tons, over last year's.

PACIFIC:

Air Warfare

Striking back at Japanese bases northwest of Australia, Allied air men destroyed or damaged 23 enemy planes in a heavy raid on Babo, Dutch New Guinea. Bombs also were dropped on oil tanks and docks, and flames visible for 80 miles licked the installations.

In China, heavy and medium bombers of the 14th American air force swooped down on the Japanese airfield at Canton, raising hangars, fuel storage tanks, repair shops and factories. Accompanying fighters shot down 13 enemy planes, and Liberator tail gunners accounted for two others.

SOLDIER MAIL:

Now Can Get Packages

American soldiers serving overseas no longer need obtain permission from commanding officers to receive packages from home.

If Johnny Doughboy asks that a package be sent to him, it will be delivered without any further formalities, save that the parcel must be of the current specified size and weight. The soldier's envelope must be presented when mailing the package.

RUMIL PLAN:

Returned to Life

Buried more than a month ago, the Rumil plan has sprung back to life, and although it has slightly changed form, it is still recognizable in Congress. The latest version of the Rumil plan would forgive all income taxes for one year, except those of persons who are profiting from the war, and put the nation's taxpayers on a current basis.

According to the latest bill, a 30 per cent withholding tax after legal exemptions, would be imposed on all weekly wages or salaries, on either the 1942 or 1943 rate, whichever are higher. The remaining year's taxes would be wiped out.

To guard against persons profiting from excessive profits from the war effort, regular normal and surtax rates would be applied against all income over the person's ordinary income for '33 or '34 or '40, plus a $10,000 exemption.

Provisions for special payments by farmers and professional people are also included. The bill provides that farmers would pay all but the last installment this year, and then make final settlement on March 15 of 1944. The latest bill differs from the one recently passed by the house, in that the house bill would merely forgive taxes on the normal and first surtax rate.

FRANCO:

'No One Can Win'

Appealing to "the conscience of peoples," Spanish Chief of State Francisco Franco again called upon the warring powers to come to peace.

Asserting that the present conflict had reached a deadlock, Franco said that neither side now has the power to destroy the other. "The world now undergoes three years of war and when this time is passed it is fitting to think of peace, of ending hates and of bringing peoples together," Franco stated.

Again claiming that Spain has preserved her neutrality to be available to the victors, Franco declared: "Abroad, Spain demands a post which corresponds to her history, her service, her humanity, and worth."

To Franco's plea, Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden of Britain replied: "Our terms are unconditional surrender."

INVASION:

To Hit Underbelly?

Prime Minister Churchill's waxy reference some months ago to the Mediterranean shoreline as the "underbelly of Europe" was ill received by Axis officials.

But "underbelly" or "abdomen," they both look alike approximately to a million, and define Europe's southern boundary from one end of North Africa to the other. The United States is now working to better. Axis officials said, to refer to the territory as the "abdomen."

To counter the expected blow, the Nazis were feverishly completing coastal defenses in southern France. Whisked from North Africa, Marshal Rommel was reported inspecting fortifications in Greece, where the Germans have worked out an elaborate outer ring on the many Aegean islands.

The new admiralty would replace the recently reformed office of civilian requirements within the War agency if created.

Matching the large Allied forces in North Africa are well over two million troops in England, poised for a thrust at any point, or series of points, along the coast of the European mainland from Norway to southern France. When the invasion comes, several landings undoubtedly will be made, to spread the Nazi defense forces.

SUPREME COURT:

Free Air

In a decision read by Justice Felix Frankfurter, the Supreme court broke the grip big radio chains reputedly held over smaller stations. Whereas it was alleged the chains could compel smaller stations to certain programs, and deny them the right to present others through contract terms, the Supreme court verdict now lowers the smaller stations a free choice.

The Supreme court ruled that the Federal Communications commission's regulation, which requires no licenses shall be granted to stations or applicants having specified relationships with networks was within the law.

The two big chains contesting the FCC's order argued that the agency lacked the authority to formulate the regulation. However, Justice 2 to majority, speaking through Justice Frankfurter, declared:

"The act gave the FCC no narrowly but expansive powers."

MISCELLANY:

Q—Should I give up wrestling because of a heart murmur?
A—You need not worry about your heart, as a murmur is not important unless you get out of breath easily and you are troubled by it. If you get to a heart specialist and get an electrocardiogram and X-ray, you will be able to tell exactly the condition of your heart. If it is O. K., take the specialist's certificate to army examining officer.

TO YOUR Good Health... DR. JAMES W. BARTON... RHEUMATIC FEVER

For many years what are called the rheumatic fevers have been the regular or routine treatment for rheumatism. The salicylate most used is acetylsalicylic acid, which gets different names from various drug manufacturers in the United States and Great Britain.

What has been known by some physicians but has not been put into use by any extent, is that acetylsalicylic acid does not attack the joints of sore throat occur, may actually prevent attacks of rheumatism.

Dr. Barton "preventive" treatment of rheumatism used by some physicians is to have the patient move to a dry warm climate and maintain a high level of sulfadiazine, is not advisable in some cases.

Now, every patient cannot move to a dry warm climate and maintain a high level of sulfadiazine, is not advisable in some cases. In discussing the natural drawbacks of these two methods of preventing attacks of rheumatism, Dr. A. E. L. Burn and L. V. Moore, in the Journal of Pediatrics (children's diseases) of a group of children who had effective and should be given a trial at the beginning of any infection of nose and throat.

Every seven years, patients exposed to the common nose and throat and chest infections is reported by these of 60 to 90 grains of acetylsalicylic acid, depending on size of the patient, was given at first sign of sore throat (pharyngitis) or tonsillitis. In some patients in the throat were the kind that cause rheumatism. The treatment was continued for one month.

Forty-seven young patients received this "preventive" treatment and only one developed rheumatic fever. Of 139 rheumatic fevers which were not given this treatment, 57 developed rheumatic fever and 82 did not. These figures tell their own story: only one of the group of 139 young patients with rheumatic fever, that is more than 40 per cent.

This group is made up of volunteer workers working with armed force experts, in connection with a network of telephone and radio connections which lace our entire country.

They total a million and a half plane spotters. The anti-air work done by the volunteers, the most arduous and technical job trusted to civilians. It consists in spotting, reporting and recording all aircraft. Not a plane appears in the skies that is not checked, and accounted for. If it can't be identified, blackouts are ordered.

Most of the volunteers are women and many more are needed. The job is described as being both exciting and rewarding. The anti-air work done by the volunteers, the most arduous and technical job trusted to civilians. It consists in spotting, reporting and recording all aircraft. Here dozens of girls work on a gigantic table map of the area. They wear telephone headsets and mouthpieces on a regular telephone operator, listening to the information and moving little markers called "spots" on the map. The markers are connected to the map by long wires.

These girls are the end of a series of operations which go like this: The spotter on top of some building spots a plane. The message comes in semi-code, "Bomb on high west 39 Sopy." The girl puts the pip on the spot on the map corresponding to the spotter's report. The details of the size and description of plane are recorded on a marker on the map. As the plane moves, it is reported by each spotter in succession and pushed along on the map. But until three markers have marked the same spot, it is not considered correct—because goose look like planes sometimes.

Method of Operation After the spotter reports, a spotter watching the board from a balcony spots a plane. The spotter, in the room, which may be in another city. This point is the nerve center and here again the planes are plotted. Army men and Civil Aeronautics administration officials who are continuously receiving information as to what is going on in the ground. Check this information with the map before them. Every plane that is accounted for. If not—they, you and I, are in the line of duty.

Spotters for "Tough Guys" They are a vital link in that chain of air and defense guardians who watched our waters from Maine to Florida. They could spot a sub, and immediately report it to the bomber of a fast coast guard naval vessel. Some of the civilian spotters are equipped with night bombs but they were not even to make much use of them because their planes were slow and a sub on the surface could spot them as quickly as they could spot the sub and crash dive. That can be done in seven or eight minutes and since visibility is poor at 100 miles, the sub could hit bottom before the pilot could get over his target. Their chief function was to play bird-dog on the surface, carrying heavier depth bombs.

Civil Air Patrol did invaluable but has now been carrying the heavy machine parts between the states. It is now possible that some of these men and women in the industry—electricians, mechanics, making interesting overland flights from here to there may get a whiff of sea air, too. In any case, the red tape between them and the air command has been severed. If not technically, at least practically, "they're in the army now."

As to the boys in the CAP, war training program, who have been warming benches and waiting at nothing per diem, a bill in congress is about to give them pay as active reservists and as soon as there is equipment enough to accommodate them, they will be qualified for cadet combat training which probably have jobs as instructors or transport pilots soon.

BRIEFS... by Baukhage

"What is the shortest joke?" one Berliner asks. "We will win," is the reply.

War Ration Book No. 3 which provides new stamps to replace those distributed in August, will be issued by the mails to more than 120,000,000 individuals beginning late in June and ending July 21.

A mad said to a waitress in a restaurant: "I'm going to have another cup of coffee." "Not here," she said. "I'm the waitress," she said. "I'm the man," "bring me a cup of the coffee." The waitress did, he opened a cigarette case, took out a little envelope, dumped a few testaments on the cup. There was his coffee, sugar and cream, perfectly legal. But it does seem like a lot of trouble.

Surprise the Family With Sandwiches

(See Recipe below)

Meals on a Dish

We've heard a lot about hot meals in a casserole that take care of the main course of a meal. But how about cool meals served on a single attractive platter that are at most of the time, ahead of time? This is one of the very nice things about summer menu planning for foods lend themselves to this kind of serving.

Recently I saw a very attractive platter that was cool, complete and colorful—that any one of you could whip up at short notice. An individual tomato aspic filled with creamed cottage cheese served on a large green glass salad plate was banked by several tiny finger sandwiches, a slice of tongue with horseradish sauce, deviled eggs, a small mound of potato salad and a second watercress. Serve this with coffee or tea and a dish of sherbet or ice cream.

Bread with filling forms an interesting base for this salad sandwich. A loaf and looks very pretty enclosed in rosy aspic. The fillings, ham and cheese, classic flavor combinations, won't cut into your point heavily, nor will the tomato juice.

*Tomato Aspic Surprise.
(Serves 6)

- 1 small loaf white bread
- Ham Salad
- 1 1/2-ounce glass Old English cheese
- 3/4 cup tomato juice
- 2 tablespoons onion juice
- 1 stalk celery
- 3 tablespoons gelatin
- 1/2 cup cold water
- 1/4 teaspoon salt
- 1/4 teaspoon pepper

Remove crusts from loaf of bread. Cut whole loaf into three lengthwise slices. Spread one slice with ham salad, cover with cold watercress spread with cheese spread. Cover with third slice of bread and wrap in wax paper.

Cook tomato juice, onion juice and celery for 5 minutes. Remove celery and add gelatin which has been softened in cold water. Stir until dissolved. Season with salt and pepper. Pour a 1/4-inch layer into a buttered loaf pan which is a little larger than the loaf of bread. Chill until firm. Place prepared sandwich loaf in this layer of aspic and pour the remaining cooled and somewhat thickened aspic around it and over the top. Chill again until the aspic is firm. Unload on a platter; garnish with watercress and slice crosswise to serve.

You can still do entertaining even on your ration points! If your best heat or son is coming home from a camp, there's no need to worry about stretching those ration points out of place when you serve this loaf serving 12 to 15 people.

A Heart of Gold: That's a dandy description of the egg which is good to eat, plus a first class protein. If you have a good egg, here's a grand parade of suggestions:

Cut hard-cooked eggs into halves, smash them across according to taste and refill the whites. Garnish with paprika and a sprig of parsley.

Chopped together with the mashed yolks is a good filling if you like crispness. Or, mix the yolk with Thousand Island dressing for variety and serve around a salad.

Yolks deluxe include mixing with 1 cup cooked rice, 1/2 cup butter, 2 slices bacon, chopped and fried, 1 1/2 tablespoons cream, 1 teaspoon vinegar, 1/4 teaspoon onion juice, 1 tablespoon minced pimento, 1/4 teaspoon salt and enough mayonnaise to moisten.

If you have a dab of leftover ham, mince it fine and add with enough mayonnaise to moisten to egg yolks mashed fine and refill whites.

Victory Garden Is Ration Book's Friend

Opportunity to Save 2,772 Ration Points

A 25 by 50-foot garden plot plus 25 tomato plants, a couple of pounds of seed and someone to plant, harvest and can them; equals 2,772 ration points saved in the course of a year.

So let ration points, as well as nutritive values and the family budget, provide the yardstick by which you measure returns from your 1943 garden. That's the advice given by Prof. E. E. Helyar of Rutgers University, chairman of the state Victory garden and food conservation committee.

And remember, if you have not yet started your Victory garden, it's not too late. But you must get busy now. The plan on which he has figured the 2,772-ration point return, based on present retail values, includes 25 tomato plants, each row 50 feet long; two rows of snap beans, planted from a pound of seed; two rows of carrots, planted with an ounce of seed; and a similar planting of beets and of lima beans, for which an ounce and a pound, respectively, of seed will be needed. Professor Helyar estimates that on the average the tomatoes will yield three bushels of fruit, or 54 quart jars and 1,491 ration points. The other crops, measured on the same basis, will produce as follows: snap beans—one bushel, 16 quarts, 408 points; beets—one bushel, 16 quarts, 256 points; and lima beans—one bushel (in the pod), nine quarts, 274 points.

Measured from this standpoint, it is obvious that the garden will not only help keep an average-size family fed in accordance with food standards of nutrition for the year, but it will save them from spending their ration points for foods that will probably be disastrous as needed by families in metropolitan and city areas who are unable to garden, Professor Helyar adds.

Commercial Uses for Our Citrus Fruits

Back in 1920, grapefruit was an expensive delicacy. Have you heard of the woman who boiled one for hours and could not make it tender? Today, five times as much grapefruit is grown and it is well known by rich and poor.

Grapefruit is grown mostly in Florida, Texas, Arizona and California. California and Florida produce 97 per cent of our oranges and virtually all lemons are grown in California. These citrus fruits are used almost entirely for food, but there is still a great need for their jamming and marmalade making and a need to find non-food uses for citrus.

Orange and lemon oil is produced commercially in California. Grapefruit oil is a very new product valued in the textile industry to fix the red dye. The peel and pulp of citrus fruits may also become an important source of pectin which is sold commercially to add to other fruit juices in making jelly. It may also be possible to recover some of the valuable vitamins and turn them to commercial use.

Citric acids are being produced for food flavors and uses in medicine. Novel food products are appearing, such as citrus powder and citrus butter. Canning of grapefruit hearts and juice has been on the increase, about 82 per cent coming from Florida canneries, and 39 per cent from Texas.

Until the present European war, the United States was the way to developing a fine export trade in fresh oranges and canned grapefruit.

Picnic Time
"It's June again," in the words of Eugene Field in his famous boy poem on Sunday School picnics. The children still enjoy picnics, and even the wisest plan a few annually, nothing of the kind can equal the ones we used to have. You see, we had no schools then, and for we had few means of entertainment. Saturday afternoon at the country store—provided our fathers would let us join the teachers there—got pretty monotonous, what with the endless repetition of Civil War stories and the playing of crude practical jokes. Visiting the relatives somehow became standardized, so that there was little difference between one visit and another. Since there was no school, however, there, if we could not depend on the school for entertainment, Political rallies and picnics came along in mid-summer as a welcome relief. Almost any occasion was an excuse for an all-day picnic and dinner on the ground. For most of us, picnics were not a special occasion, they were a part of life. They were observed at Quarters Meetings, for, after all, it was a church service. It is true that we kids sometimes got noisier out by the spring or along the creek than some of our parents, but we were careful that we might spend our later years in a burning lake because of violating the Sabbath, would come out among and indicate the nature of the day.
Genuine picnics, though, were quite free from restraint. We let out as many yells as we liked, we waded in the creek, we even went in a washing. Our clothes were not so expensive as the ones we wore on meeting days and could be risked in climbing trees or walking across drifts in the creek. It was never likely that any of us would be very far away when the eats were spread out on the white table cloth on the ground. We ranged up and down the table, eating here and there; for barbecued lamb, fresh beef, and the usual fried chicken, cakes, and pies were on hand. Our real fun of playing in the woods came after dinner, or as soon as we got over a little of that over-full feeling. The older men took this occasion to tell yarns or to review the political situation. Sometimes a grown young woman, maybe the local school teacher, got a bunch of children together for an exciting game of Drop the Handkerchief or Pass Warts a Corner. Our mothers had to interfere, though, when we got to playing too rough with the girls, who were likely to be all fluffly-coiffed and spick-and-span. Besides, it seemed so silly to be playing such games when the creek was so near, and when my dad could do such pranks of swimming out to get sticks we would throw into the deep holes. We stood the sixty games as long as we could, and then we escaped to ourselves. If we had enough money, we went by the stand and bought some of that old-fashioned soda pop which came in such heavy bottles. But it was not necessary for us to have spending money in order to have a good time; being out of doors, where we lived all the time, anyway, was good enough.
With the coming of cars and the almost daily summer swimming parties staged by city and country children, picnics as such seem to have lost some of their old appeal. Why, my own children are likely to have soda pop right in the winter, if they want it, and not have to go to a picnic to get it.

Millions of such partings and heartaches... as the youthful and courageous American Spirit moves with young men like this to other shores to defend Liberty against the Dictator.
Our forefathers, too, fired with the American Spirit of Freedom, rebelled against the Dictator and the Tyrant. Under the government they established, the growth of our Nation has been the envy of the world. Here the ordinary man and his family enjoy comforts not known to Kings of other times.
Here—under the stimulation of Free Enterprise—science, research and invention give promise of greater achievement and richer blessings than have ever been dreamed of heretofore.
Here we can live as we choose subject only to reasonable rules which we ourselves make... here in America our precious sons, whether from humble cabins or wealthy homes, may be rewarded for superior merit or ability, and reach high places in government or industry.
It is for the preservation of our forefathers' government—for Liberty—for Freedom of Enterprise—for the American Spirit, that our sons now fight.

Thanks To Retonga He Can Make A Crop

MR. ROBERT VANCE YOUNG

Distress From Nervous Indigestion, Sluggish Elimination And Muscular Pains Promptly Relieved, Says Mr. Young, Regains Weight, Strength.

"I don't believe I could have put in a crop this spring but for Retonga," declares Mr. Robert Vance Young, one of the best known farmers in Wake County, who resides on Route 1, New Hill, N. C. Discussing his case, Mr. Young continued:

"I was so uncomfortable from indigestion and pains in my muscles that I couldn't half sleep. I didn't want to eat, and so much gas formed in my stomach that I often felt like I would choke from the pressure up against my chest. Stubborn constipation made me feel like I was full of toxic poisons, and I got to be real sick. I tried to take laxatives, but they made me feel worse. I felt so achy, weak, and under the weather that I couldn't do anything."

"Retonga gave me such grand relief I can now eat anything on the table, the aches and pains are relieved, and I no longer have to take harsh laxatives. I can plow a two horse team all day. Retonga was a godsend to me."

Retonga is intended for the relief of such distress when due to loss of appetite, insufficient flow of bile, indigestion, sluggish elimination, and Vitamin B1 deficiency. It is highly praised by the thousands of satisfied patients who have obtained at Maggard's Rexar Drug Store, Mt. Vernon, Ky.

BACK TO THIS?

not if you take good care of your

Electric Range

Back to soot-scouring, an overheated kitchen and all of the other disadvantages of old-fashioned flame-type cooking? Not if you take proper care of your electric range! An ounce of prevention is worth a pound of cure, so give your range the attention it deserves and it will serve you well for the duration!

POINTERS ON RANGE CARE

- Clean outside of range as you would a china plate. Wash, when cool, with warm soapy water; rinse and wipe dry. Never put cold water or cold objects on hot porcelain. It may crack or craze the finish.
- Avoid letting spilled foods harden on range. Food spilled on surface units should be allowed to burn off. Do not use stiff brush or sharp instrument.
- Scour pans under surface units daily to prevent burning-in of spillovers.
- Don't let utensils burn on surface units. The metal will melt and run into the coil and ruin it.
- To clean oven, wait until it cools, then remove units by pulling them straight out. Wash oven linings with warm soap and water, scouring charred spots with steel wool or thick mixture of powdered chalk and household ammonia.
- Never wash oven or surface units. Keep dripping rags away from units. Water may damage connections.
- Get oven units back securely after removing them for cleaning. If they are loosely in place, they may heat up, yet the electricity may be "arcing" and burning out the terminals.
- Scour aluminum deep well cookers with steel wool and soap and water. Do not allow water to drip into the cooker unit.
- Do not heat porcelain enamel cookers before putting in fat, waxes or foods and do not allow to boil dry or subject to sudden changes in temperatures.
- Don't put an insulated cooker top in water or it will seep into insulation and warp cover.
- Have a serviceman check your range occasionally to see that it is "sitting level," units are operating satisfactorily and that wiring is in tip-top shape.
