KNOX SAYS NEW NAVY WILL NOT BE SCRAPPED

Declaring the country will not consent to post-war scrapping of its naval strength, Secretary of the Navy Knox Wednesday voted a fresh warning to the Axis that the United States this year would build thousands of scrap iron barges, and you can bet we know why we are building them.

Knox stated that "we are in this with a clear conscience. We wanted nothing but good will and peace from other nations and sacrificed much tonnage what we hoped was a lasting peace. We voluntarily scrapped 300,000 tons of our best ships in this illusory hope that we realize what a mistake this was. The people of the country do not intend to scrap again the fleet we are building today."

"Prospects of available clothing rationing brightened noticeably with the War Production Board's decision to allow the importation of wool that may come to civilian woolen and worsted fabrics.

Pressure Cookers To Be Allotted

The 150,000 pressure cookers being produced in 1943 will be rationed by the County Farm Rationing Committee. This procedure provides for an advisory committee in each county which will consist of the Home Demonstration Agent, the Home Management F.S.A. Supervisor and a Home Economics teacher. Specific allocations will be set up by this committee to determine the placement of pressure cookers where they will be used to the maximum in the rationing program. Applications are available in the County A.A.A. office.

Nearly all of the cookers will be 7-8 quart size with enameled steel bottoms and a plated steel top. Cap tops and 15 per cent will be 14-qt. size. The price will be about $15.00.

How To Obtain Cookers 1. Find out who you can buy a pressure cooker with you. A pool or organization composed of several families will have a better chance of obtaining a cooker. A permit to buy a cooker will be granted on the basis of the number of quarts of non-meat vegetable and meat cooking with the cooker during a canning season.

2. Get the assurance of a dealer or a mail order house that he can furnish you with a pressure cooker if you are granted a purchase certificate.

3. Make your application with the county farm rationing board located in the County A.A.A. office. Fill out the application and get it signed by the heads of the families who are to use it with you.

4. After the County Farm Rationing Board meets and you are eligible, a letter will be sent to notify those eligible and a purchase certificate will be issued.

THE GARDEN (By John S. Gardner)

"In these portions of the state where the weather has been so rainy, gardeners have just been able to keep the weeds, This may be rather fortunate, for the soil used to be the custom may do more harm than good. There is little, if any, virtue in stirring the soil; stopping the weeds is what's important. Where the soil was occasionally dry enough to keep the garden in regular cultivation, the hope is that cultivation was shallow enough not to get into the vegetable roots.

The vegetables are valued for their crispness, their high content of water. In season like Lexington's so far this year, rains being almost-continuous, the probability is that a few berries, roots could be lost with no permanent harm, but in dry times or in seasons of moderate rainfall, seed must result until the wounded roots heal.

Vegetables must be grown quickly to be of best quality. There is only slight stimulation in growth, because of root decay throughout working, quality must suffer. In dry weather, which may come, cactarotroph may result.

It is to say that there is never warrant for deep stirring of the soil; rather, it should be entered only to the depth needed to loosen the soil and to shove off the larger ones below their growing point.

The best hand tool with which to accomplish this is a sharp hoe, with its blade flat with the garden surface, and moved with a gliding, scaping motion. Much more rapid is a wheel-hoe with the slide-hoe attachment.

The best horse-drawn tool is a sweep, a slide-hoe of large size, that skins the surface and leaves it level. Next best, is the 14-tooth "scratch bar" which rambles out the weeds, but leaves a level surface behind it.

The best time, and the only time, to cultivate is when there is any sort of weed unless weeds are present, the garden may be assumed to be taking excellent care of itself.

Washington Signal Army's Greatest Hazard? It's Question of Morale

What's the greatest hazard your boy must meet when he joins the army? Not the weapon of the enemy. We know only a very tiny percentage of those who don the uniform succumb to that.

It's the mental hazard. And to meet that mental hazard you need just one thing—mental health.

Let me quote a few words of the doctor in charge of the mental health of the boys who join the army.

That book is paper bound. It costs 35 cents. It is called "Our Armed Forces." It has a lot of pictures and a lot of sound sense.

"Moral is an important quality of citizenship in the crises of peace, and the mental security of the nation is threatened."

It is even more important in war, when the very existence of the nation hangs in the balance. It is, therefore, an objective of army and navy leadership to build a high degree of morale in the soldier and sailor.

ABOUT HABITS

"The state of mind we call morale has its roots in long-established habits of thinking and acting."

The young man who enters the armed services may therefore bring to the service a solid base upon which his success as a soldier and the ultimate victory of our nation so greatly depend.

BYRNES: Reports to Nation

CHINA: Five Japs

Two Japanese divisions of 75,000 men were routed as Chinese troops captured a bridge over the Yangtze river. Even as the enemy was thrown back, American bombers and Chinese fighters swooped the Jap air base of Ichang, and 10 tons of explosives were dropped.

The Jap report came after they had lost 4,000 men and 1,000 prisoners in their drive to the Chinese provincial capital of Chungking, 295 miles to the east.

MANPOWER: To Cut Deferrals

Only 1 1/2 million men will be deferred in industry by the end of this year. Paul V. McNatt, chairman of the War Manpower Commission, declared.

During the year, McNatt said, 6,000 more physically fit men, including fathers, will form the pool from which 2,700,000 men will be inducted to round out the goal of 11,000,000 for the armed services.

Of the number, McNatt continued, 800,000 will be deferred for farm work, 900,000 will be exempted for dependency, and 1,500,000 will be deferred for industrial work.

McNatt urged employers to prepare for replacement of the 3 million men deferred in industry, including fathers, whose general induction ordered August 1 recently was predicted by the War Relocation Authority Director Maj. Gen. Lewis B. Hershey.

FARM SUPPLY: Simple Priority Needed

By merely filling out a form drawn up by himself or his retailer, a farmer will be able to obtain priorities on 176 types of supplies. Individual purchases, however, will be limited to $25.

The form must simply read: "I certify to the War Relocation Authority that I am a farmer and that the supplies covered by this order are needed now and will be used for the operation of a farm."

To facilitate its ruling, the WPB ordered manufacturers to get the supplies into the hands of farmers. Among the scarce items are batteries, chains, cold chisels, pitchforks, hoes, harness leather, galvanized pipe, horsecollars, pliers, ropes, shovels, barbed wire and bale wire, wrenches, tubs and pump-out netting.

WPB also is seeking to speed up output of axes, boxes, feedtubs, egg cases, sprayers, hand cultivators, milk pails, wagon hardware and plowshares.

CANCER DELAY

Just as we are congratulating ourselves that knowledge of cancer was making great headway not only in America but throughout the world, it comes as a shock that cancer authorities state that "the public health was found that the cancer problem is inadequate and ineffective. We have naturally been thinking that as more people now live to the cancer age, this is the cause of the increase of cancer, which is true to a great extent. However, that more could and should be done, in fact is absolutely necessary, if we are to reduce the cancer death rate, is more knowledge of cancer. Thus the slogan "Fight Cancer with Knowledge" is timely.

That knowledge of cancer is greatly needed is the main theme of the Journal of the American Medical Association, by Drs. Charles R. Thomas, James W. Barton and W. C. Cughterson, New Haven, Conn.

In the study of the causes of delay in obtaining treatment by 153 patients, it was found that about one-fourth of the patients had read about cancer and that all but two of these had obtained their information from newspaper or magazine articles. Only two admitted reading public health pamphlets.

Delay in the diagnosis and treatment of cancer is one of the most important factors in the failure to obtain results by the methods now available—radium, X-rays and surgery.

What is considered delay insofar as the patient and physician are concerned?

This depends to some extent on location of the cancer, as a cancer on the skin or where it can be easily not take as long to recognize as cancer in internal organs.

Delay by the patient. This consists in having persistent symptoms for one month or longer before consulting a physician.

Delay by the physician. This consists in the waiting for any period longer than three weeks after the patient is first seen in which a diagnosis may be announced or a consultation with another physician or cancer specialist requested.

Salt Reduction Aid
In Meniere's Disease

A recent valuable discovery is that most cases of Meniere's disease—hard of hearing, head noises, dizziness, nausea and vomiting—due to "waterlogging" or swelling of a part of the hearing system. Spitting down on liquor which causes most of these symptoms, obtain relief from these symptoms.

Just what causes this swelling or waterlogging in the ear is not definitely known, but Dr. W. Gray Mueselke, in Annals of Ear, Nose and Throat, suggests that the swelling may be due to lack of certain vitamins in the food, or to the lack of a sufficient amount of some gland extract in the system.

It is fortunate that while the search for the cause of these symptoms continues, so much relief can be obtained by the medical treatment by histamine and by avoiding foods rich in salt.

Foods to avoid because they contain too much salt are: salted butter, ordinary bread, crackers, eggs, milk, spinach, carrots, oatmeal and all corned, pickled, smoked or salted foods.

Foods that can be eaten because they contain very little salt are: apples, asparagus, cabbage, Brussels sprouts, lettuce, grapes, oranges, lemons, sugar, jelly, unsalted butter and unsalted bread.

There are of course some cases where the histamine and food treatment gives little or no relief, but this can be done for these cases because the symptoms are distressing and worsening.

Surgery is now used where medical and diet treatment fail, or for those who for economic or other reasons cannot be kept on a supervised treatment for a long period for patients whose occupation interferes with obtaining benefit from medical or diet treatment because of carelessness in following a prescribed routine.

Fun 'Schools of Soil'
For Young Workers

Specific Farm Skills
Now Being Developed

Training of non-farm high school students for wartime farm work has two objectives, according to the plan announced by the U. S. department of agriculture.

One is to familiarize these young people with rural and farm life, and the other to provide training in specific farm skills.

Classes in farm work are being given in schools throughout the country this spring, so that the farmers' valuable time will not have to be used to teach young workers their job when they are responsible to be helping him. He will be responsible only for the most essential where individual requirements demand it, or special processes are involved.

Among the jobs being taught are cleaning dairy barns, brushing cows, whitewashing building interiors, milking, plowing hay, harnessing and driving horses, operating tractors, and machinery repair. Some of these may sound simple, but the department of agriculture points out that each has its little technique that makes the difference between an efficient piece of work and one that is slippish.

Other jobs for the young will include hoeing, weeding, picking fruit and berries, harvesting sugar beets, feeding chickens, gathering eggs, and—for some of the girls—assisting "Mrs. Farmer" with the cooking. The training program is primarily to be the responsibility of the U. S. Office of Education, and the state departments of education—in other words, the responsibility of the public schools from coast to coast.

Where possible, the farming activities will be conducted on farms or in rural institutions.

In each community it is planned to bring before the prospective young workers speakers such as farmers, vocational agriculture teachers, farm labor specialists of the U. S. employment service, representatives of agriculture colleges and of farm organizations, county agents, and others who can speak authoritatively on the various phases of farm work. Local facilities such as public markets, milk plants and fruit storage plants also will be utilized.

On-the-job training will be carried on where it is found desirable. It will be given by veterans of vocational agriculture, or some other approved individual.

Strawberry Jam — Use the Berries!
(See Recipe Below)

Get in the Jam!

Bright little berries pushing their noses out of the greenery surrounding them makes you think of jam and jelly time, and rightfully so, for this is the time to start putting up those berries!

Strawberries are usually the first to arrive on the canning scene, followed very shortly by the other berries like raspberries, and then the fruits. Don't wait until the berries are canning are, too ripe, for those do not make the best jams and jellies.

To insure success in jelly making, use a commercial pectin. There's no sugar to waste on jelly that doesn't set, and it won't spend re-cooking juices that won't work for jelly time. The recipes I'm giving this year are for smaller quantities of jam and jelly for most of us do not have too much sugar to spare on canning.

You'll like this standard recipe which can be used for making several different kinds of jelly:

Your Canning Jelly

- *Strawberry Jelly
- *Ripe Sour Cherry and Red Raspberries Jam
- *Strawberry and Pineapple Jam
- *Rhubarb Relish
- *Recipes Given

To prepare fruit, wash fruit in running water, wash off seeds, and for some of the girls—assisting "Mrs. Farmer" with the cooking. The training program is primarily to be the responsibility of the U. S. Office of Education, and the state departments of education—in other words, the responsibility of the public schools from coast to coast.

Where possible, the farming activities will be conducted on farms or in rural institutions.

Rhubarb Relish:
(Makes 4 pints)

- 1 quart diced rhubarb
- 1 quart onions, finely cut
- 4 cups brown sugar
- 1 teaspoon cinnamon
- 1 teaspoon allspice
- 1 teaspoon ginger
- 1/2 teaspoon pepper
- 1 pint vinegar

Combine all ingredients and heat slowly to boiling. Simmer 45 to 50 minutes or until thick. Turn into sterile glasses and seal with paraffin. Serve with meat.

One of the most delightful of jams is one combining our favorites, strawberries and pineapple!

Strawberry and Pineapple Jam.
(Makes 10 glasses, 8 ounces each)

- 2 cups crushed strawberries
- 2 cups crushed, canned or fresh pineapple
- 4 cups sugar

To prepare jelly, crush or grind thoroughly about 3 quarts of fully ripe berries. Place in jelly bag or cloth and squeeze out juice. (If berries lack tartness, substitute 1/4 cup lemon juice for 1/4 cup prepared juice.) Measure sugar and fruit into large saucepan and mix. Bring to a boil over the hottest fire and add bottled fruit pectin at once, stirring constantly. When bring to a full rolling boil for 1/2 minute. Remove from fire, skim, pour quickly into glasses and seal with paraffin or seal with wax.

Do you like the new combination jellies? You may use the above recipe, preparing the required 4 cups of fruit and 4 cups of berries including 2 or more of the berries listed:

- *Ripe Sour Cherry and Red Raspberry Jam.
- (Makes 8 glasses, 8 fluid ounces each)
- 3 1/2 cups prepared fruit
- 4 1/2 cups sugar
- 1 box powdered fruit pectin

Lynn Says:

Jelly-Making: Don't be too ambitious. You'll have more success and be less tired out if you can only small quantities of fruit at a time for jelly or jam. Strawberries contain acid but usually lack sufficient pectin. That's why pectin of the commercial variety is added when making jelly or jam, or, as in this next recipe, lemon juice is added.

Strawberry-Lemon Jam.

- 4 cups washed, halved strawberries
- 5 cups sugar
- 1/2 cup lemon juice

Combine sugar and berries, letting stand a few minutes, stirring occasionally. Do not crush fruit. Bring to a boil and boil 10 minutes, stirring constantly. Add lemon juice and cook 2 minutes longer. Pour into sterilized glasses and seal at once with paraffin.

Melons

Each year, the American public drinks about 80,000,000 gallons of canned fruit juices, excluding cider. This has saved thousands of tons of fruit which otherwise would be wasted.

Watermelon juice can be marketed as a beverage, as some enthusiasts believe, this might open a new market for food which now is discarded.

Tomato watermelons are grown for seed, leaving quantities of waste which is now a total loss. The rind of surplus watermelons is used to make pickles, but pickling varieties with thick rinds are grown especially for this purpose. Some surplus is used for stock feed and some unmarketed watermelons are plowed under as fertilizer.

Studies are being made to find out the possibilities of extracting oil from watermelon seeds. About $1,000,000 watermelons are marketed each year and another 2,000,000 are left unmarketed because of adverse market conditions.

Cantaloupes and other muskmelons are raised entirely for the fresh fruit market. The only market for the surplus crop and the surplus stock feed and fertilizer and about one-half of the entire crop is wasted.

In Colorado, alone, an average of 1,000,000 pounds of cantaloupe are harvested each year for seed and seed raisers have no way of getting rid of the melon waste. Experimenters are under way to find methods for drying muskmelons for cattle-feed.

Tidbits of Kentucky Folklore

Humor is a condition when it is understood as such, but when people take it seriously, it becomes one of the worst. A case in point is the Kentuckian as he is pictured in comic ways. Especially is this true of the mountaineer. Hoards of people of New York and elsewhere like to think that all of us are like the Kentuckians from the mountains that figure in "Gail Ahner" and similar cartoons. Some people might say that the rest of us Kentuckians should sit back and rest satisfied, since these misunderstandings could in no way refer to us of the Blue grass, the Pennycill, the Purchase, etc. All this is very good, but I for one resent the nonsense capitalized on and believed in by people who know about us as well as about the mountain people as you and I know about the Patagonians.

Exploiters run the show most. In order to get publicity for themselves they make it appear that they are true interpreters of the mountains and associate with them. They select specimens of mountain people who are in no way representative. It is to the credit of our mountain people that they resent these spurious interpretations. But the readers of newspapers and magazines that accept these unfair accounts of our mountain life never have a chance to verify or disprove what appears in print. Many a Kentuckian is as badly duped by these sensation-hunters as the most untraveled New Yorker, who probably thinks that Jersey City is the last settlement on the frontier. Much of the misrepresentation is the mountaineers and other people from retired areas has come about through a misunderstanding of customs, and not a refusal to believe that mountain people are of as many kinds as there are, that it is unkind to put them all into one category as the typical "hill billy" people, and condemn the best because of the worst. As a generalization, the worst are the most sophisticated in failing to understand how very different are they and their immediate ancestors lived in cabins, toot, or shacks, or whatever some of our down-and-out buildings could be called.
In other times of the world the upper classes have felt that the lower orders existed merely as subsidaries of the well-to-do. Hence it was only fair that some of these should be court fools or other comic entertainers. I am afraid that some people still share this ancient feeling and rejoice in the chance for entertainment by people who have had other means of life. If out of the comedy people enjoy at the expense of the mountains could come some genuine interest in bettering the conditions there and elsewhere, it would not be bad; but I am afraid that when the entertainment is over, the interest vanishes.
Exploiters along are not blame for this condition, though. Some of the people from the mountains take advantage of a chance to show off. I do not feel that these few represent any large group of our people, and I know from experience that most of their neighbors and friends condemn this false picture of mountain life quite as severely as I do. It seems quite easy to get some attention, money, and recognition by presenting that you are true mountaineers; when you are never taken for anything but a con man, however. I think that you would like to be regarded as human beings like the rest of us and not mere entertainers for urban people with judges' tastes.

Laugh at the stage mountaineer as much as you like, but remember that he is as true to life as the typical stage Englishman or stage Yankee.

RETONGA A BLESSING STATES MRS. BURGESS

Years of Distress Relieved, She Can Eat Plenty and Take Pleasure in Her Household Again, She States. Gives Retonga Strong Endorsement.

MRS. M. C. BURGESS

Retonga proved a blessing to her, Mrs. M. C. Burgess, well known resident of 119 Hardin St., Raleigh, N. C., adds her name to the hundreds throughout this section giving this noted herb stomachic from Vitamins "B1" medicine their strong public endorsement.
"I had suffered so much from nervous indigestion that I did not see how I could stand it much longer," declares Mrs. Burgess. "My food just seemed to form a lump in my stomach and generate as until I felt like the pressure was going to cut off my breath. I felt badly undernourished, weak, and rundown. I was too nervous to sleep much, and mornings I could scarcely drag myself into my clothes. I was forced to take strong laxatives, and everything I tried to do seemed a failure."
"Retonga relieved me in so many pleasant ways I cannot find words to express my thanks. My appetite much better, my food seems to give me lots of strength, and my nerves have settled down. I sleep splendidly, and the stomach indigestion is relieved, which in itself is a blessing. Retonga is the grandest medicine I ever saw."
"Thousands praise Retonga. Accept no substitute. Retonga may be obtained at Maggard's Drug Store, Mt. Vernon, Ky. Ady."

You Don't Have to Stand in Line . . .

To Buy ELECTRIC POWER

THAT'S TRUE, even though the electric light and power industry in America was called into production, in 1942, the greatest amount of electric power in history—189 billion kilowatt-hours!

And at the same time the average cost per kilowatt-hour to the consumer was lower than ever before!

Not only were all the demands of war plants, military camps, naval stations, and arsenals met—but there remained 27 billion kilowatt-hours of electrical energy to take care of the needs of shops and stores, 30 billion for homes, 13 billion for public transportation, street lighting, and other uses.

These are some of the accomplishments of the electric light and power industry and of the electrical manufacturers who build the equipment used to generate, distribute, and utilize electricity—working together with the teamwork so typically American.

How We Helped

POWER GENERATION. More than one-half of all the electric power generated by electric light and power companies in the U. S. is produced by generators manufactured by General Electric.

And such has been the improvement in the efficiencies of turbine-driven generators that if the electric power used in 1942 had been produced with the machines of 1924, it would have required more than a million extra cars of coal and one hundred and forty thousand men just to mine and haul this extra coal.

POWER DISTRIBUTION. To have ample power available wherever new war plants have sprung up requires large and highly efficient transforming and switching equipment and the solution of highly intricate engineering problems. General Electric has had a hand, and a head, in the development and manufacture of much of this equipment.

POWER UTILIZATION.

Building machines, lamps, and appliances that put electricity to work more efficiently in factories and homes is one of our most important jobs. The United States has more of these electrical helpers than any other nation. In 1942, the average home used twice as much electricity as in 1930, and in those 12 years the average price per kilowatt-hour decreased 40%.

This is only a small part of the story of America's electrical industry. When the full story becomes history with the passing of the years, it will reveal a group of men who, with a determination which now seems providential, kept on co-operatively developing new and better equipment, increasing generating capacity, lowering costs, expanding service, planning always to be ready for the demands of the future. It will be a story of remarkable vision and courage—forts all had to be planned, and the work started, years ahead of the need.

The next time you meet a man from our electric service company, be he the local manager, or meter reader, or spinning lightning out of his assignment in rain, sleet, or heavy wind, give him a word of encouragement—for he is the man who is making it unnecessary for you to stand in line for electric power.
