Having Trouble Getting Home?

So are we. Like you, we're faced with the biggest production job in our history. And, like you, we're most of the men who need to help us.

Yet that's only part of the story. Every day, on farm and factory, there's something new to test the skill of those running the business. Not only getting help, but—to mention a few others—raising costs, making a fair profit, and setting aside reserves for a rainy day. Essentially, those problems are the same for farm and factory, though they may at times differ in size.

But it is that thing called "management," that peculiarly American ability to think through problems no matter how tough, that is helping to see us through today.

It is this skill in management that farmers and businessmen have most in common, a skill which insures the realization of our country today, and tomorrow, to make a fair living through greater service to our fellow Americans. General Electric Company, Schenectady, New York.

CONVERSATION HAD BETWEEN DR. R. G. WEBB, CANDIDATE FOR REPRESENTATIVE, ROCKCASTLE COUNTY, REPUBLICAN PRIMARY AUGUST 7TH, 1943, AND A PATIENT WHO HAS JUST ENTERED THE DOCTOR'S OFFICE.

Patient--After having lit up his pipe began to ask questions: "Well, doctor I see by the paper you are a candidate for Representative of our county?"

Doctor--Yes sir, I sure am, what do you think about it? Patient--Well Doc, I'll just tell you, looks like to me you would do more good here as a doctor, than you would to represent the people...

Doctor--Tom, the other boys in, and especially glad you asked me that question. You see I have been administering to the sick and afflicted in this county for the past 37 years, going day and night, rain or shine...

Doctor--No sir, not in the least, I was selected by Uncle Sam, and commissioned by the State of Kentucky as examining physician. All I make the physical examination, which is composed of 5 men, I am not a member of the draft board, these men, not me, send the boys to the Army...

Patient--Thanks Doctor, I am glad you told me that, I feel better now, and from what you say about being gone 96 days a year as examining, that is longer than you would be going to the House of Representatives?

Patient--Well, Doc, I will ask you one more question, and then I'll have to go, "WHAT IS YOUR PLATFORM?"

Doctor--My platform is simple, it is composed of seven letters, and spelled SERVICE. You remember the poem I had published in the Signal when I made my announcement? That covered it all...

Patient--Thanks again Doctor, I'll be going now, and will say I am for you, and believe you will win this in a walk.

Senate, House Conference Committee Stops Roll-Back of Retail Food Costs; Revised Bill Approves Funds for FSA; Heavy Aerial Action Marks Pacific War

To test new rubber life rafts and accessories, 20 men were cast adrift off Cape Fear, N. C., in the Atlantic. The men were equipped with a new lightweight life preserver which also holds rations and essentials, solution for purifying salt water for drinking and oars out of which a mast and boom can be erected by linking them together in a right angle.

PRICE 'ROLL-BACK' Doomed by Committee

Drastic revision of the administration's subsidy program was indicated by action of a senate and house conference committee, which prohibited use of funds for the "roll-back" of retail food prices. The committee's move would curtail the present "roll-back" of butter and meat, only permitting payments to processors for commitments to June 25.

However, the committee did authorize the payment of 150 million dollars in subsidies to offset increased transportation costs, and stimulate the production of scarce metals and essential food products. Congressional approval, however, would be required for expenditures over 150 million dollars.

The conference committee's action ignored an appeal by the War Labor Board for the adoption of the administration's "roll-back" program. Citing its policy of limiting wage-increases to 15 per cent over the January 1941 level, the WLB proposed that the cost of living be spiraled up 8 per cent since last October, with food alone rising 12.9 per cent.

The conference committee increased the Commodity Credit Corporation lending authority 750 million dollars to an aggregate of 3 billion 400 million dollars. Under the terms of the bill which also extended the life of the CCC for two years, the war food administrator would be allowed to buy food from farmers and resell it at a loss to stimulate production.

CHEERS ALLIES: Major Blow

Invasion talk quickened with the statement of Malcolm MacDonald, British high-commissioner to Canada, that the Allies would soon assault Hitler's European fortress.

In predicting the invasion, MacDonald said a series of small forays would be expected to feel out the enemy before a major blow would be struck. The Allies' operations further cheer in the Allied's war against U-boats in the North Atlantic. Even as he revealed that one submarine had sunk the case, he stated that preceding two weeks, Goering's Essence National Zeitung confessed the Allies had surprised the Nazi U-boat force by the use of aircraft carriers in convoys.

TREASON: New Trials in Chicago

Based partly on his decision on a Supreme Court appeal, the United States Circuit Court of Appeals voided the conviction of six defendants for treason in Chicago and ordered the case retried. It was pointed out that the Supreme court had held arraignment, although the government claimed the suspects had waived the right of appearance before a judicial officer. The appeals court also held that the individuals were not guilty of treason trials which the court denied, and Judge William J. Campbell had erroneously instructed the jury.

CHESTER DAVIS: Resigns Food Job

As support grew in congress for his appointment as Food Czar, Chester Davis resigned from his position as War Food Administrator. Lack of sufficient authority and opposition to the government's subsidy program were the reasons Davis gave for his action.

President Roosevelt accepted the resignation and immediately named Marvin Jones, a former Texas congressman and chairman of the United Nations' recent food conference, as his successor. Roosevelt also relieved Davis of responsibility for plotting the 1944 food program, saying he would not be proper to let another administrator to somebody else's policies.

MEDITERRANEAN: Axis Continued to Report

While the Axis continued to report Allied concentrations in North Africa, U. S. airplanes continued to aerial installations in Greece, further diverting attention to the Balkans. Strong formations of Liberator bombers raided Axis airbases near the ancient Greek capital of Athens. Although enemy planes arose in number to meet the raid, they were reported on hangars, fuel dumps and aircraft spread over the area.

COAL PRODUCTION: U. S. Natives Director

While 136,000 miners stayed out of the pits, Carl Elbridge Newton, as the new director of the Chesapeake and Ohio railroad, was appointed to head the nation's mines now under government control. The selection of Newton, a New York, was reported to a congressional committee that there was no hope for an early return of the properties to the owners.

WALLACE RIFT: Cabinet vs. Jones

Differences in the presidential cabinet flared into the open when Vice President Henry A. Wallace accused Secretary of Commerce Jesse Jones of hamstringing operations of the Board of Economic Warfare. As chairman of the BEW, Wallace directs the agency's program for the direct purchase of material and development of strategic natural resources in foreign countries. As chairman of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation, Jones is responsible for furnishing the funds for the BEW operations.

PACIFIC: Action in Air

While American aviators bombed Kiska seven times in one day in the North Pacific, the deliverance of heavy blows at Japan in the Southwest Pacific was promised by Maj. Gen. Claire Chennault upon his return to Hawaii from conferences at Washington. As the soupy Alutian weather cleared enough to warrant operations, medium bombers hammered at Kiska, blowing up anti-aircraft emplacements and runways. The raids brought to 16 the number of naval action in the Pacific and in three days. In predicting an offensive against the Kaps in the southwest, General Chennault said conferences in Washington had convinced him that the U. S. was concentrating most of its naval action in the Pacific and that Allied leaders were making a most judicious use of resources for global warfare.

Germany's Maginot Mind May Hasten Nazi Collapse

Axis Propagandists Fear Fortress Europa Concept May Backfire; If Allies Break 'Impregnable' Line Morale May Crack.

By BAUKHAGE News Analyst Commentator.

WNO Service, Union Trust Building Washington, D. C. Has Herr Goebbels created a "Maginot mind" in his minions which will crumble and wreck Germany's morale just as the French defense smashed French morale? That is a question which the students of propaganda in Washington are studying with great interest today.

Both external evidence—newspaper broadsides, public statements; and internal evidence—reports, dispatches and neutral observers; reveal two things: one, that the Axis propagandists are developing a "Maginot mind" it is believed that a marked increase in the scope of the air raids, or even a minor success in a single invasion unit, might result in a complete breakdown of Axis morale. Propaganda forces are working frantically to change their previous reports based on the concept of the Fortress Europa, an utterly impregnable defense system.

The second fleet under General Nimitz was in the Mediterranean area. It was estimated shortly after Tunisia as 800 strong but probably soon thereafter was considerably reduced. The only aircraft carrier was the USS Yorktown. This estimate is questioned by some American observers.

The second fleet under General Nimitz was in the Mediterranean area. It was estimated shortly after Tunisia as 800 strong but probably soon thereafter was considerably reduced. The only aircraft carrier was the USS Yorktown. This estimate is questioned by some American observers.

Then there was General Richtofen's fleet in southern Russia and General Stump's at the other end of the neck in Norway with just a few fighters.

Besides these fleets, or a part of them, were certain "Fleeger korp" units which had been hurriedly assembled to come to the rescue when some area was in dire distress. But the whole force, the experts believe, would be in vain to meet the simultaneous air attack, great gas bags to be left which would make and already-borne model Allied air invasions safe and, as a corollary, would do the same for land invasion beneath it.

Diary of a Broadcaster

This "sharpe-tack" system is really working out very well, but it requires quick thinking. I heard a very charming but disappointed young lady telling her tale of woe today. "I had to get to my dentist this noon and I stopped a cab with someone in it. The driver said he had to go to the Mayflower hotel first. That was only a few blocks out of my way. The driver said, 'I'm sorry, I'm sorry.' As the cab started off, I looked at the passenger. And I'm sorry, I said, 'no—it was Wendell Wilkie!'"

"I thought, 'This "One World" isn't so small after all!'"

We didn't realize how prophetic we were when we used to sing: "Yes, we have no bananas." I stepped into a Connecticut avenue drug store the other day and saw it. The pharmacist said, "No, chocolate," said the clerk. Another customer ordered a bacon and tomato sandwich: "No tomatoes," said the clerk. Before anyone else could speak he said: "Now, who's going to be smart and ask for a banana split?"

"Oh, we're learning to do without. In Washington the "without" says it. It's the cleanest, most exclusive shirts and sheet—clean mess, anyhow. I met a dignified lieutenant colonel early the other morning carrying his laundry box. Did he wear a shame-faced look? He did not. He was beaming. Anyone beams who is able to get his laundry in time in this town.

ABOUT THE Luftwaffe

There is another factor, of course, which is working against enemy morale; that is, the fact that the hardest blows to strike come from the air with the weapon which Hitler gloried in. He was exalted and which Hitler forged and put into effect in the form of his one-time invincible Luftwaffe. Meanwhile, what has happened to the Luftwaffe—which some people have called the "vanished" Luftwaffe.

PIGMENTED SPOTS ON FACE

One of the distressing ailments that comes usually toward the end of the life in women is coffee-colored spots, usually on the face, about the eyes and cheeks, on the arms and knees. The cause of these spots is unknown but physicians have found that after correcting many ailments of ovaries and uterus, these spots disappear, quite often. Removal of these spots and facial examination of them under the microscope show that they are not the usual pigmented blood-spots nor exactly like the spots which occur so often at or during the menopause. In an extract from a medical journal published in Montevideo in the Journal of the American Medical Association, Dr. F. Rocca reports a case of pigmented spots on the face cured by injection and local application of ovary extract.

Twice a week for a period of several months, 5,000 international units of ovary extract (estrogen) was administered by injection. These injections regulated the monthly periods, the nervousness and shock became less and the spots on the face began to clear up. An estrogen ointment was now applied to the facial spots for 20 days. It was observed that some spots disappeared and others became lighter.

The ointment treatment of the spots and the injections were continued for several months, when the pigmentation had decreased greatly.

One year after this ovary or gland treatment was stopped, small spots began to appear about the eyes.

Now this is only one case, but when we remember that in some of these cases the spots disappear without treatment and that others disappear with the correction of genital ailments, it will certainly be much worth while for our women's specialists and general practitioners also to try this treatment on these coffee-colored spots.

When we remember how ovary extract in the great majority of cases gives relief from the symptoms of the menopause, it is not too much to expect that at last a remedy has been found to remove these embarrassing coffee-colored spots.

Insulin Injections Stimulate Appetite

Just as most overweights have a large appetite and eat much more than they need, so most cases of underweight are rather "picky" about their food and have a small appetite. And just as the overweights choose the starches and fats (fat builders), so most underweights choose meats, leafy vegetables and fruits (which are not fat builders). There are exceptions to this, of course.

I have spoken before of the use in Canada and the United States of insulin in stimulating the appetite. In the American Journal of Science, Philadelphia, is a report from Brazil recording the results of using insulin in underweight patients. Dr. J. B. Greer and his associates treated 30 underweight patients with insulin with "most satisfactory results." They injected insulin just once a day, beginning with eight units and increasing according to the patient's appetite on the previous day; never more than 30 units were injected.

The injection was made about 45 minutes before the noon meal, but the patients were advised to eat when they began to get hungry. When the weight became normal for the patient's height and build, the injections of insulin were gradually discontinued.

This injection of the insulin only once a day and stopping it gradually protects the glands of the pancreas that manufacture the insulin. It removes the burden of work from the pancreas for the time being.

"The unanimous statement of the patients was that they ate as never before in their lives."

There are, of course, many cases of underweight due to infection which "uses up" some of the food eaten. There are other cases of underweight where much play must be given to sleep, not enough outdoors are factors in preventing gain in weight.

It is gratifying to know that the injection of insulin when stomach is empty will create an appetite in underweights.

Blood Tests of Hogs To Stem Abortions

Healthy Looking Sow Can Carry Disease

"Typhoid Mary," who a few decades ago unwittingly spread typhoid fever although not appearing to be ill from the disease herself, has a present-day counterpart in swine which perpetuate infections or contagious abortion by farrowing apparently healthy litters that may spread the disease.

More than 2,300 blood samples from approximately 32 herds in different parts of the state were tested last year by the department of animal pathology and hygiene at the University of Illinois college of agriculture. About 10 per cent proved to be reactors.

Invariably introduced into healthy herds through the purchase of apparently healthy gilts or sows, the contagious type of abortion can be definitely diagnosed by blood testing all breeding animals in the herd. Results of the test and approved methods of management will enable owners to prevent and control the disease intelligently.

A testing and management program has been outlined by the extension service of the college of agriculture to guide purebred swine breeders in preventing and controlling this malady. Two negative blood tests at six-month intervals in the herd at intervals of six months entitle owners of clean herds to accreditation certificates issued by the state department of agriculture. The disease control plan involves the cooperation of the local veterinarian. Although no charge is made for testing blood samples, owners pay for collecting them. Sterile vials for collecting blood samples are supplied by the laboratory.

All reactors to the test should be fattened for market, but if they are not marketed, they should be isolated at the time of farrowing. Such isolation is only a temporary expedient, since the ultimate aim of herd owners is to eliminate all infected animals. Normal litters from infected sows may be placed in quarantine and raised free from disease. After reacting animals have been marketed, the premises should be cleaned and disinfected.

The TIRE OF TOMORROW is here TODAY!

THE WORLD-FAMOUS FIRESTONE DeLux Champion TIRE IS NOW BEING MADE WITH Firestone Butaprene THE MARVELOUS New SYNTHETIC RUBBER

JUST as you'd expect, Firestone is FIRST to build the tires of tomorrow for the car owners of America. It is only natural that Firestone should be the leader in working out new processes in creating new compounds and in building better tires from American-made rubber, for Firestone has always been the pioneer in developing new materials, new methods and new machines that have resulted in tremendous advancements in the design, construction and performance.

From Firestone have come such revolutionary improvements as the FIRST straight side tire, the FIRST rubber non-skid tread, the FIRST commercial demountable rim, the FIRST patented Gum-Dipping Process, the FIRST balloon tire, the FIRST Saft-Loek Cord Body, the FIRST Super-Speed Construction and the FIRST practical pneumatic tractor tire.

In 1933, Firestone built the FIRST synthetic rubber airplane tires for our armed forces. In 1940, Firestone built its FIRST synthetic rubber passenger car tires at the New York World's Fair and began the manufacture of its own synthetic rubber, called Butaprene, the same type that was later adopted by the Government. In 1942, Firestone became the FIRST company to produce synthetic rubber in a Government-owned plant and later became the FIRST to make synthetic rubber using butadiene made from grain alcohol. And today Firestone is making synthetic rubber tires for passenger cars, trucks, buses, airplanes, tractors, farm implements and all types of war vehicles.

All of these years of experience, all of the knowledge that made these FIRSTS possible have been called upon in producing the new Firestone DeLux Champion Tire made with Firestone Butaprene. It is now ready for the car owners of America as released by the Government. But do not think that the crisis is past. America's greatest rubber supply is still on the wheels of its 27,000,000 cars. So you must continue all of the rubber conservation measures that have been so effective. However, if you are eligible and receive new tires, remember this — in mileage, in strength and in safety the new Firestone DeLux Champion Tire upholds the Firestone tradition of "Best in Rubber — Synthetic or Natural."

Tidbits Of Kentucky Folklore

By Gordon Wilson, Ph. D.

Twice within the present school year we had stage readers of the old type. Some of the younger students wondered why some of the faculty enjoyed the performances more than they were to deserve. They could not know that we were not especially enjoying the actual reading but were wandering in mind back to the days when such things were of every-day occurrence. Nothing seems to have died so dead as education, the kind I mean, that we were raised on in the 1800's. For a good-sized school (by courtesy called a "college") to exist without a teacher of education was unthinkable. The traveling private school that I attended for one brief winter would have given up its president before leaving out the educationist. She drilled all the people who performed in public programs and given by the literary society, she put on the plays, she gave private lessons and had elaborate evening programs held in the building of actresses and actors did their stuff. Every child in the group that they taught came to have her mannerisms and her very obvious meticulous pronouncements. Some of the brats never outgrew these things, but thank goodness, most of them did. Of course, since it was a traveling school, no one education teacher could live there long and so passed on to another school or college. That crossed up wires a bit, for the initiators had to start in again to learn the mannerisms of the new teacher and be as much like her as possible. A few unregenerate ones refused to talk like the good teacher and so got wicked looks from the teachers' pets. Education just likeatory among the grown-ups was serious business then, and not necessarily a good thing. Most of our good readers, whom no amount of education could spoil, but the mass of the unregenerate failures. The latter were the latter did not know it and kept up for a generation their rendition of things that used to take down the house. In the days of the teacher's institute there were readers who went from county to county, giving age-old tales that Noah could have heard out of the ark. By and by, thank goodness, these old readings grew so stale that they were no longer attended but some of us heard them enough to know them by heart, gestures and all. The late Professor A. C. Burton, in many ways the funniest humorist I have ever known, parodied the old system with his immortal rendition of "Bingen on the River" in the guise of a wooden-armed boy. Equally clever was his giving of "The Burial of Sir John Moore" in true Delsarte fashion, with studied gestures and pouter faces. I laughed at his antics and satire all of the last thirty years of his life, for no one else whom I have known seemed to sense as he did the comic possibilities of the old-style educationist. And yet I should, by all rights, be kinder in my attitude toward the educationist, since he represented an age-old tradition. Before there were means of writing, the actor of whatever sort did a great service for humanity by living for us the doings of other times and places. In drab days when radios were not and when it was difficult to have any wholesome amusement, the reader came as a sort of godsend to us in the rural West and made us wonder whether we could ever approach his cleverness and his ease of manner. Some of us, including the writer, have tried his method and have had (shame on us) tolerable success. In emotional times, such as during the two great wars we have known, the person who can do things in public has had and will have again, a vogue that links him with the educationists (the "spouters," they were once called).

To chart the roads on legible maps, to classify them as to surface and character, to spot the sections where construction or other obstacles block traffic—and to tell all who may inquire—these are the full-time specialty of Kysso Motor Travel Bureau. Designed to function in peace time, it has been wholly converted to a war time basis. Pleasure trips are "out" for the duration, but many highways are very busy, nevertheless. Officers and men are hastening to camp, or moving from camp to camp, or "heading for home" on leaves and furloughs. It is important for them to save time—time—gasoline—rubber. They ask our Travel Bureau to help them to conserve—cut corners—avoid costly detours. The same consideration applies to commercial vehicles, bound on missions of war necessity... SELDOM ATE A MEAL WITHOUT SUFFERING

Retonga Again Proves Worth By Bringing Quick Relief to Mrs. Collins, Daughter Praises Retonga.

Gratefully and happily praising Retonga, Mrs. J. J. Collins, well known resident of 900 - 4th St., S. W., Birmingham, says she wants others suffering as she did to profit by her happy experience with this noted herbal stomachic and Vitamin B-1 medicine.

"For years I seldom ate a meal without terrible gas formation and heartburn afterward," states Mrs. Collins. "It seemed to make no difference what I ate. I would have that same terrible burning in my chest and I felt so bloated with gas and nervous at night that I couldn't half sleep. I was always taking strong laxatives for constipation, and my arms felt so stiff and sore that it bothered me in my housework."

"My relief by Retonga seems marvelous. I can eat anything I want. The soreness and pain in my arms are relieved, and I don't need laxatives. I feel fine. My daughter suffered much the same as I did, and she too has been greatly relieved by Retonga. My husband says he never saw anything do anybody as much good as Retonga did me."

Retonga is a purely herbal gastric tonic combined with liberal quantities of Vitamin B-1 for digestion, nerves and strength. Accept no substitute. Retonga may be obtained at Maggard Rexall Drug Store, Mt. Vernon, Ky.—Adv.
