Teaching Religion

Lesson for February 6, 1949

SOME PEOPLE, strange to say don't believe in Sunday schools. Most North American Protestants do, because Jesus did. The word may not be found in the New Testament, but the thing is there. If Jesus did not believe that religion could be taught, then he was guilty of wasting much of his time, for he worked at teaching in season and out of season. Dr. Foreman He was a product of the Sunday School, in a sense. During his childhood he would go to the synagogue school weekdays and especially on Sabbaths. We know that by the time he was grown it was his "custom" to attend synagogue service.

And in every Jewish community the synagogue was the place where for two hundred years and more, children and youth and older people had been taught the Word of God.

If Christians today are faithful to Christ's example, we also will keep at the job of teaching our religion to every child within our reach.

Body and Soul

Readings of the gospels will note that when Jesus went home from the synagogue on the Sabbath, his day's work was not done. He would spend the night, healing people brought to him for cure. Jesus ministered to mind and soul. Jesus was interested in personalities, whole people, not half-people. Our minds have to be fed, but we live in bodies, and bodies have no little to do with personalities. Jesus was not content with teaching sick people; he made sick people well. So the church today, if it is faithful to Christ's principles, will consider people as complete personalities.

The Common People

WE FIND that Jesus did not insist on university audiences. Indeed, he never spoke to a university audience. His teaching was always in the midst of groups of very plain people. There were great universities in those days, but it was not necessary for any one to be a graduate of one of them in order to enter Jesus' school, or to understand what he taught. He taught the plain people plainly.

In all our teaching we try to use the pupil's language and to put our Christian ideas in the thoughts that the pupils can understand.

At the best seminaries, young ministers-to-be are carefully taught how to put the great Christian doctrines in ways that the simplest people can understand. Teaching over people's heads is not teaching them at all.

God and Education

JESUS did not try to teach people carpentry, or arithmetic, or geography. No doubt he could have done so. But he had something more important on his mind, something which he alone could teach. He taught religion, or in other words he taught the truth about God, and about man, and about right relations between God and man. So the teaching church, whether in the Sunday school or in the books written by its scholars or in its schools and colleges, when it follows Christ's example, is always teaching religion first and foremost. We do not believe that religion is a secondary issue, something you can "take or leave."

Religion on Two Feet

JESUS did more than talk. He lived. His whole life and character were saying more loudly and plainly what his words said.

So the Christian church today, when it is faithful to Christ, must translate into actual living the faith she teaches in Sunday school lessons, in catechisms and books and sermons.

What we do, as Christians, speaks louder than what we say. Every Sunday school teacher needs to remember that what is said on Sunday is important, but what the teacher does on Monday is more impressive by far. The reason why Jesus was more effective than John the Baptist was that John, after all, was a Voice, while Jesus was a Friend. Are you who teach others about God simply a Voice? A photograph could do as well.

CALOX TOOTH POWDER

McKesson & Robbins Inc., Bridgeport, Conn.

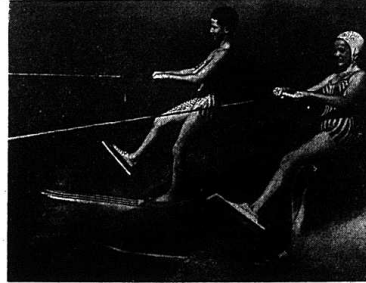

THESE are the people who go down to the seas on skis—or spank the waves with barrel staves. Florida's youngsters, who never know the childhood thrill of coasting down a snowy slope on a sled, make up for it by taking to surf skis almost before they take to hard-soled shoes. The sport is a lot of fun, and it takes a lot of nerve and skill in about equal proportions.

The kids cavorting through this series of pictures are Dick Pope, Jr., and Sammie Skilley, two of the many ski enthusiasts at the Winter Haven, Fla., high school. Last summer both came away with top honors in the junior division of the National Water Ski championships at Holland, Mich. Dick holds the national junior boys' title; Sammie is National girls' champion.

"Tandem riding" (above) is one of the tricks required of contestants in the water ski tournaments. Try it the next time you get up out of your rocking chair. At the right is the start of another stunt which involves kicking off one regulation ski and continuing the trip on just a shoe ski. It's all a part of tournament skiing and they love it in Florida.

AROUND THE HOUSE

A homemaker should know the variations in type and quality in order to make wise purchases of cotton sheets. Top grade sheets are marked by numerals which denote the number of threads per square inch. Whether percale or muslin, the higher the number of threads the higher the rating in durability and longevity. Fabric experts recommend silky smooth percales for luxury sheets, but say when thrift is the major consideration, buy muslin for durability and longer wear.

Marbled or grained patterns or mosaic designs are a good choice for kitchen linoleum since they are easier to keep looking clean than a plain color.

You can remove lint from dark woolen clothing by going over it with a rubber sponge dampened in water then wrung out so it's almost dry.

In baking with brown sugar all lumps should be removed from the sugar before measuring. This may be done with a rolling pin. The sugar should then be packed tightly into the measuring cup.

To clean pearl handled knives, rub vigorously with fine salt and then wipe well with a chamouis to restore the luster.

Not Too Salty—but Plenty of Salt

The sea may not be exactly saturated with salt—a hundred parts of sea water contains only between three and four parts of a salt water mixture of which about 2.7 per cent is ordinary common salt.

However, using the approximate 145,000,000 square miles of water covering the globe as a factor, the total amount of salt in the sea figures out to be about 45,500,000,000 tons; and if the seas suddenly dried up, the salt deposits left in their beds would be some 200 yards thick—enough to cover all Europe with a layer of salt between 4 and 5 miles deep.

SEEK MANKILLERS
Tiger Hunt Season Near

HYDERABAD CITY—There's a frosty bite in the air that sends a tingle up the spines of Hyderabad's big game hunters. The tiger season soon will be on.

Though the state's game laws set no definite season hunters seldom stalk tigers before December or after June. During the other months, the jungles are drenched with monsoon rain and the foliage often is so thick you couldn't spot a tiger at three feet.

As usual, the season's most prized prey will be those deadliest of all tigers—the man-eaters.

Prefer Human Flesh

Unlike most tigers, man-eaters prefer human flesh to all other prey. They lurk near roads and villages, and they can kill a person with two or three quick shakes that snap the spinal column.

Local hunters claim that Hyderabad's man-eaters are the shrewdest and fiercest in India. Country people, the jungles are full of supernatural powers and often desert whole villages when a man-eater invades their district.

A man-eater, they say, always places his victim face down on the ground. Villagers claim he does so because he sees the image of God in human faces. Hunters explain more simply that he always eats the buttocks first.

The man-eater reputedly picks his victims with the care of a gourmet. He kills more women than men, and prefers youth to age. It is said that from a crowd of young women he invariably will pick the most attractive.

Sometimes the man-eater stalks a particular victim for weeks. But when he strikes, hunters say, he strikes with such speed that victims seldom see him.

Like Bomb

"Like a bomb," one sportsman explains, "the deadliest bombs are the ones you never see or hear. It is the same with man-eaters."

Hyderabad's most noted man-eater of recent years, was "The Adilabad Phantom," an 11-foot female that devoured of an estimated 120 persons before a hunter fired a .500 caliber bullet into her brain this year. Natives of Adilabad said she was the reincarnation of a landowner who had been much hated in the district.

Tiger shooting styles vary throughout India. In the north, hunters shoot from chairs rigged on the backs of elephants. In other regions they elaborate canvas-confined traps along jungle trails.

Most Hyderabad tiger hunters shoot from trees. Dressed in dark green or black, they perch in special canvas hammocks slung about 20 feet above the ground, within short range of the carcass of a freshly killed animal.

Sunshine, Cleanliness Help Kill Disease

Grass crops make ideal sanitary floors for the production and feeding of livestock because in order to maintain a good grass crop there must be plenty of sunshine, nature's own and unexcelled disease-getter killer.

Veterinarians have been very successful in preventing swine erysipelas with the use of culture and serum—and in some cases, with serum alone.

Ends Bad Case of Constipation

If your diet lacks bulk or normal elimination, eat an ounce of KELLOGG'S ALL-BRAN every day in milk—and drink plenty of water. Blade Removed from Spine After 23 Years

ANN ARBOR, MICH.—The successful removal of a knife blade two and one-half inches long from 120 persons before a hunter fired a .500 caliber bullet into her brain this year. Natives of Adilabad said she was the reincarnation of a landowner who had been much hated in the district.

Tiger shooting styles vary throughout India. In the north, hunters shoot from chairs rigged on the backs of elephants. In other regions they elaborate canvas-confined traps along jungle trails.

Most Hyderabad tiger hunters shoot from trees. Dressed in dark green or black, they perch in special canvas hammocks slung about 20 feet above the ground, within short range of the carcass of a freshly killed animal.

For nineteen of the twenty-three years, according to a hospital source, the patient had suffered no deleterious effects from the wound and had continued his normal routine as a day laborer. Not until a few weeks ago was the nature of the wound revealed through X-ray examination at the hospital.

The blade, according to hospital authorities, apparently was plunged into the back of the patient, whose name was withheld, in a fight following an argument with a friend twenty-three years ago. The blade was lodged in the spinal cord, between the shoulder blades.

Ordinarily, it was said at the hospital, partial or complete paralysis would have resulted immediately from such a wound. There was no X-ray examination at the time and the patient, not knowing the nature of his injury, continued working all time.

Four years ago the patient, now 48 years old, began having "a little difficulty" in walking. Until then he later told physicians, he had had no inkling of anything being amiss.

Indian Says Reservations Like Concentration Camps

DENVER—A former Indian reservation official in superintendent has charged that there is only a "slight" difference between U. S. reservations and Russian concentration camps.

Robert Yellowtail, a Montana Crow Indian, told the National Congress of American Indians that residents of both are imprisoned and strictly controlled.

"The Indians are forgotten in a land of plenty," he said. "We are prisoners in the land of our birth."

Yellowtail said that the Government's Indian Bureau supposedly was created to "free the Red Man," but has spent more than $1 billion since 1903 to keep Indians on reservations.

The change of location of any existing telephone lines, wires, poles, conduits, anchors, vaults, laterals and other fixtures and equipment of the said purchaser, its successors and assigns, in, along, upon, over, through, under and across the public roads, highways, streets, sidewalks, alleys and ditches of the said County, shall be made under the direction of, and in the order of the Rockcastle County Fiscal Court. Wherever it is practicable to do so, alleys and side streets shall be used for poles, wires, conduits and cables instead of main streets and highways. The purchaser shall replace and promptly repair any road, highway, street, alley, sidewalk, ditch or any structures that may be placed or damaged by reason of any such construction, renewal or change of location, and upon its failure to do so after ten (10) days notice in writing to the purchaser has been given by the said Fiscal Court, the said Fiscal Court may thereafter make such repairs as may seem necessary to the purchaser. All the said poles, wires, cables, conduits, vaults, anchors, laterals and other fixtures and equipment shall be so placed and maintained as the purchaser shall see fit to perform as not to interfere unreasonably with ordinary travel on said public roads, highways, streets, alleys and sidewalks in said county. The County shall have the right and privilege, when it becomes necessary to widen or does widen its streets, alleys, or when it becomes necessary to original construct and extend, or reconstruct new roads, highways, streets, sidewalks, alleys, gutters, ditches, or (if for these reasons it becomes necessary to change the location of any pole or poles to be replaced or to be relocated to a place or point other than the location formerly designated, and the purchaser shall also make all necessary changes in the location of its property so as to conform to any present or future road, highway, street, alley, sidewalk, ditch or gutter established by said Fiscal Court and such change shall be made at the expense of the purchaser.

III.

The purchaser of this franchise shall execute a deed to the County Clerk and deliver to the County Clerk thereof a bond satisfactory to the Fiscal Court of said County, in the penal sum of One Thousand ($1,000.00), Dollars, conditioned that the purchaser shall protect and indemnify the County of Rockcastle and its citizens against any loss by reason of any negligent act or omission of the purchaser, its employees or designated agents, in exercising the privileges of this franchise during the period of construction or maintenance of said telephone and telegraph system; provided, however, that the execution of the bond hereunder shall not be construed as a limitation of the purchaser's liability under this section.

IV.

The purchaser shall maintain, extend and operate the telephone system efficiently at all times, and make all alterations and improvements which may be necessary to keep such system in accord with the best practices of the present time and in the future with equipment which may be developed from time to time, that to that end the purchaser shall render to the customers and patrons the best service consistent with the times. The purchaser shall install modern, up to date telephone phones for the patrons and modern up to date telephone exchanges in the County and where exchanges are needed. V.

The purchaser shall at all times be subject to the laws of the State of Kentucky and of the County of Rockcastle now in effect, or which may hereafter be adopted by the County in the proper exercise of its police power relative to the use of public ways by telephone companies; and the right at all times shall be expressly reserved to the Fiscal Court of the County, or its successors in power, to offer at public auction a franchise similar to that herein provided. It is specifically understood that this franchise does not in any way preclude farmers and other citizens living in rural sections of Rockcastle County from organizing local telephone companies, or establishing private lines to connect with other companies operating in adjoining counties, nor does it preclude telephone companies operating in adjoining counties from extending their lines into rural sections of Rockcastle County where no telephone line now exists.

VI.

WHAT DETERMINES PRICES?

Much of the controversy over high prices and what should be done about them could be resolved if the public had a better knowledge of the factors which enter into the problem.

Almost any commodity in general use, which is in a competitive market, could be used as an example of the mechanics of pricing. Meat is fairly typical. Prices currently are determined by what the consumer is able and willing to pay for the available supply, but ultimately the selling price of meat is determined by what it cost to produce, process, and distribute it. This involves such elements as the cost of labor on the farm and in the packing house, taxes, the price of feed, and so on.

As a short-term proposition, meat may be sold at a price which returns no profit to producers, or may even cause a loss. Meat is a perishable and it must be moved. If consumers' buying dwindles, the price will be cut. That discourages production. Farmers then fear the future of meat and raise something else. A year or so later, there is a shortage that forces prices to unreasonable levels.

At any given time, in a free market, supply and demand is the main factor which establishes prices. In the case of manufactured goods, supply can be adjusted quickly to changing demand. In the case of a commodity like meat, whose production must conform to the laws of nature, that adjustment takes place over a period of months and years. But, in either case, the price charged finds its proper level.

-O-O-

Is the great postwar boom slowing noticeably? There are very definite indications that it is.

Certain industries which could not begin to fill the demand a short while back—such as household appliances—have been cutting production. Even in the motor car field, where shortages have been intense, conditions are changing with rapidity. Some types and models of cars—mostly in the higher-priced brackets—are available almost immediately. The market for lowest-priced cars is still strong, but producers believe that an era when cars will have to be pushed to make sales, isn't far off.

Few seem to think a serious economic setback is coming in the near future. But the peaks are leveling off.

Low Cost. High Pay Farming

FOUR LEAF Powdered Rock Phosphate supplies low-cost phosphorus for bigger crops and richer pastures. Because this non-acid phosphate can't burn any seed or plant, but remains in the soil until dissolved by the growing plants' own root acids, you can apply enough to make your year's phosphorus rich for years ahead with out labor-saving application. This is the low-cost, high pay way to farm! Investigate!

Garrard County Stockyards

Leaders of unions representing railroad engineers and firemen seek to force railroads to add extra, needless men on diesel locomotives. This is sheer waste—a "make-work" program which would mean fewer improvements and higher costs—for YOU!

Railroads use modern diesel locomotives because they are one of the means of giving faster, better service to you.

No Benefit To You Now the leaders of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers and the Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen and Enginemen want to use the diesel locomotive as a means of forcing a feather-bedding scheme on the railroads.

The union leaders are fighting among themselves about which union should furnish these extra, needless men.

SOUTHEASTERN RAILROADS

We are publishing this and other advertisements to talk with you at first hand about matters which are important to everybody.

... a modern locomotive that means better service to you.

Leaders of two unions think it's a feather-bed

... a make-work grab that means less service to you.

... tracks and stations, on new passenger and freight cars, as well as the discommodities, and on the many other less conspicuous details of railroading that contribute to improved service.

Feather-Bedding Means Less Service To You But brzen feather-bedding schemes like the one now proposed would, if successful, divert large sums of money from our present improvement programs.

These demands are against your interests—as well as those of the railroads. They are schemes to "make work." Neither you nor the railroads should be forced to pay such a penalty for progress.

stopped up soil is deep-rooted legumes and grasses in the rotation. The tap-roots of sweet clover and alfalfa well fed with phosphate and potash pierce the compacted soil. Plowed under legume roots and tops build up the organic matter supply. When this organic matter decomposes it gives off compounds that stick soil particles together in loose granules. When your soil is loose and grainy it has good tilth.

"How deep-rooted legumes help improve drainage was shown in Iowa tests. Silt loam that had been in alfalfa three years absorbed 2 1/2 inches of water in the first three hours following a rain. Soil left bare of crops absorbed only about half an inch of rain in this time."

Deep-Rooted Legumes and Grasses Called Tool for Opening Up Poorly Drained Soil

Light Soil Causes Fading on Cows Field.

CHICAGO—If your soil doesn't drain well, look to the condition of your soil as well as to your drain tile system, says the Middle West Soil Improvement Committee.

"The slow down may be caused by damaged soil structure and organic matter," says a statement issued by the committee. "Putting in more drain tile may give you temporary relief. But it is not a permanent solution.

"Many corn belt soils need unclogging. The structure of all loams, clay loams and clays has been broken down by too many grain crops and too few legume crops. Working wet soils with heavy machinery has made matters worse.

The most popular car in America!

YES—the familiar, hard-working railroad freight car!

You almost live out of it! You depend upon it for virtually everything you eat, everything you wear, everything you use.

Freight cars are owned by many different railroads all over the country—and yet all of them can run on any railroad, carrying anything, anywhere, in any season.

Take this honor, for example. The brother of every other American freight car, it has interchangeable wheels, axles, trucks, brakes, draft gear, and couplings. It fits into any train, and can be repaired with standard parts at any railroad shop in America.

This universal interchangeability of freewheeling freight cars is the basis of the mass transportation that makes possible the marvel of American large-scale production. It is the very foundation of our system of marketing, which gives the American consumer the wisest possible choice in the things he buys.

These things could not have been achieved—and they could not be maintained today—without the cooperation of railroads which, while competing vigorously with one another, also work together through such organizations as their mutual agency, the Association of American Railroads. And today—in the past—they are engaged in a wide-range program of research and development in equipment, materials, and methods, to help maintain American railroads as the most economical, the most efficient, the safest mass transportation system in the world.
