

"WHILE IT DIDN'T EXACTLY DRIVE ME TO TEARS I'LL AGREE IT WAS SAD — THE SADDEST EXAMPLE OF A MOVIE I'VE SEEN IN YEARS!"

"WHAT I WANT TO KNOW IS WHAT'S CONGRESS DOING ABOUT THE SHORTAGE OF MEN!"

KATHLEEN NORRIS

Why Do Men Do It?

WHY DO men do it? Why do so many men drink too much? Not the vulgar, violent, lying-in-the-gutter drinking, but enough to make the women they love unhappy, and destroy their children's confidence and respect?

Phil and Martha Anderson have three young daughters, a lovely home, a fine position in the community, and Phil is junior member of a successful law partnership. Both Phil and Martha have war records of useful service here and overseas; in short, the Andersons are typical of America's finest stock. They have everything—membership in a pleasant, unpretentious country club, a car, a garden, a summer camp, friends, amusements and the three sparkling little daughters.

"But every time we go to a party," says Martha's letter, "Phil drinks himself silly and noisy and assertive, and embarrasses me so terribly that I have begun actually to dread social occasions. To him, as the cocktails go on and on, this seems very funny. He thinks he is a great story-teller and insists on monopolizing the center of the stage. Anything I say to him, he tries to quiet him down, he shouts out loud, making it part of the fun.

Wife Can't Reach Him
"I love my husband, I am 37, he is four years older. We have had an unusually happy married life. But I can't reach him on this. When I have an evening party, what ever it is, he asks me to drive home, and goes to sleep against my shoulder. I put the car away and go to bed, to find him breathing his way slowly to bed. There is no use talking to him then, for

... he shouts it out loud ...

He simply doesn't hear. When he comes downstairs for breakfast, he is fresh and ebullient, it is ungracious to start in with reproaches. "However, I have tried that, and tried quiet talks with him when we are alone, at other times. He is irritated by my reproach, says he thought we had a mighty good time the previous night and wishes I wouldn't begin to moralize every time he takes a drink too much. If he embarrassed me, he's sorry, and that's that."

"This problem," the letter ends, "isn't mine alone. Many of my clients have the same reason to dread that mood when everything seems salubrious and nothing is too silly, or even too vulgar, to say. This is no case for Alcoholics Anonymous; Phil would laugh at the idea that a man who holds his own with such dignity in the business world, and is so trusted, should be humiliated and made ridiculous. But what is the cure, and what can I do?"

Common Problem

In answer, I must observe that you say a very true thing, Martha, when you say the problem is a common one. At every night club and restaurant and in many, many homes, one sees this wretched situation. Men don't know their wives' voices down or go out to lie in gutters, but they hurt them just as deeply as if they did.

All the social pleasantness of a carefully planned, otherwise perfect dinner can be spoiled when host or guests begin to get foolish, make personal remarks, quote stories whose point is entirely forgotten, and hilariously ignore the hints of the shamed and anxious woman. Conversation becomes indeed a lost art, and the friendly fireside a spot from which some of the guests are anxious to escape. Most of all, there is no cure for this except in Phil's mind and will. He could end it once and for all by strict limiting of his drinking, by choosing some less potent form of refreshment. But until in all humility he sees the situation, sees what he is doing to his wife, his children and his entire social circle, there is no hope. Outside pressure will not affect these convictions. The reason, for the second cocktail robs them of reasoning power, and everything goes into a golden haze.

Especially trying to the wife, and again delaying any prospect of reform, is the fact that the men and women all about Phil are not at all unwilling that he shall make a fool of himself.

The host considers it a duty to urge more drink upon everyone, even against the protesting hands and the voices that say "Oh, please, no. No more!"

And also distressing is Phil's confident assertion that he only drinks for the social fun of it and could stop tomorrow.

Fund Officers Must Publish Finance Stand In Papers

Frankfort, Ky., May 1—All County officers handling public money, except those in Jefferson County, are required to publish annual financial statements in newspapers.

That opinion has been given by State Auditor Harry N. Jones by Assistant Attorney General Zeb A. Stewart. It also answers queries sent to the auditor generally by several newspaper publishers.

The reports must be published in the newspaper having the largest circulation in the officer's county, Stewart said. Financial statements must show an itemized sworn account of all funds collected, received, held, or disbursed. It also must show from whom money was received and to whom it was paid, Stewart said.

Applies to School Districts.

The law applies to many handling officers of School Districts and Cities of the fifth and sixth classes.

In 1948, the Legislature enacted a law requiring the second, third, and fourth classes to hire outside accountants to audit the books of their officers. These audits must be published in a newspaper.

The published reports of money-handling officials in second, third, and fourth-class cities need not be sent to the State auditor. But the newspaper statements of all other officers, such as sheriffs, County clerks, circuit clerks, and County treasurers must be forwarded to the State auditor at Frankfort by August 31 of each year.

Penalty of Fines Called For.

Failure to publish the financial condition of his office subjects the officer to a fine of not less than $50 nor more than $500.

In Jefferson County, the Fiscal Court is required to provide for the quarterly publication of the County's financial position. The report may be published in a newspaper "and in any other additional form it may deem proper."

The statutes are silent on the publication of financial reports by officers in the City of Louisville.

Automobile Stolen From London Is Recovered

Lodged in the Laurel county jail Tuesday was Hubert North, 19, Hulen, Ky., arrested Monday night at Brodhead, after he had car trouble and City Police in that city learned through questioning that he had stolen the automobile in London.

Recovered was a 1936 Plymouth coupe that had been taken between 8 and 11 o'clock Monday evening from its parking spot on North Main, in London. The automobile belonged to Harold Taylor.

North, when questioned by the Brodhead police, said that he was enroute to Cincinnati. The interrogation was prompted after North had requested a motorist to give him a short after the coupe had become overheated and stalled, and the vehicle had the appearance of being on fire. Then, too, adding to the officer's suspicion was the fact that the automobile showed signs of a recent accident. After admitting his guilt, North said he had side-swiped a bridge at Livingston.

DIAL PHONE SYSTEM INSTALLED IN STANFORD

Last Saturday was a very important day for the citizens of Stanford. It has been said that it was the day that Stanford left the horse and buggy days behind them for good. This special occasion was the completion of the installations of the dial system of communication. William Severance, Stanford Mayor, placed the first call to a friend, W. B. Anderson, Sarasota, Florida. The ceremonies were witnessed by the county and city officials after the telephone officials entertained the Mayor, City Attorney, County Judge, Presidents of the Rotary and Lions Clubs, and President of the Lincoln County Farm Bureau.

The Stanford mayor made a short talk and recalled the first telephone in the town. He said that the first phone in Stanford was a wire running from a grocery to the Female College. Now a funeral home. On each end of the wire was a bell that the butcher hit with his knife to attract the attention of the person being called.—Int-Journal.

Night Drivers Asked To Dim Lights

Frankfort, Ky.—Disturbed by reports from motorists blinded by headlights, Crowe, Commissioner of Kentucky State Police, has asked for enforcement of a law requiring headlights when within 500 feet of an approaching vehicle.

"Since every driver has, at one time or another, experienced the unnerving sensation of being temporarily blinded by bright headlights, it is difficult to understand why the highway protective requirement is not 100 percent voluntary," Crowe stated.

"Drivers at night should also dim their lights when following another car," added Crowe. "It is a matter of courtesy as well as safety for any driver who fails to obey these laws has no place in the society of safe-minded motorists."

HOLINESS CHURCH NOTES

Of course I left off the word pastor in the heading this time, because I do not wish honor or to misrepresent myself to the people who read this. I will say God Bless Your Church, even I have suffered so much, I say Lord let your will be done.

A short text: Matt. 5:9. Blessed are the peacemakers; for they shall be called the children of God.

This seems to be too much an overlooked beatitude. There are many people who are really strife makers rather than peacemakers.

They do not seek to heal estrangements between others, to prevent quarrels and contentions, and try to bring together those who have begun to drift apart. It appears to me in Lord's coming to close, we are toward widening breaches, inflicting bitterness and exciting angry and hatred. Seems like they look for a germ of suspicion or dislike one has for another, and try to stimulate the growth. I believe, with our Lord's coming to close, we should try to get this Beatitude to work and let it be said they shall be called the Children of God.

The peacemaking spirit is divine. No one in heaven finds delight in separating brothers. Let us see to it that we, as preachers can go into a community and hope to bear the marks of God's image and when we are divided, as we are divided, asunder, saints (So called) will look on one another as hatemongers instead of peacemakers.

The thoughts of those of which we find in people's minds we should seek to change into kindly thoughts. I believe it is a pleasure to please to Jesus, and there can be no more Christlier service than to seek to promote peace between man and man, to keep people especially those of the church from drifting apart, and get them to live together more lovingly. So with no feeling in my heart against no person. Will say as usual, Be Good Pray much and God Bless You.

Wayne VanHook Announces For Magistrate District No. 2

I take this means to announce myself as a candidate for the very important office of Magistrate District No. 2, composed of the following precincts: West Livingston, Rocky Bend, Cist, Bullock and Pongo.

It has been a pleasure to represent Educational District No. 1 on the Rockcastle County Board of Education for the past twenty-one years. Of course I shall have to resign from the Board in order to enter this race. I wish to thank each one for the splendid support in that election. My reason for wanting this change is that I feel that I can be of greater service to the people of this magisterial district.

I have not been influenced by any one or any group to enter this campaign. The responsibility of a magistrate is by no means a small one and if I am elected I am willing to accept the responsibility for the same reason. I believe in a square deal for all, equal distribution all over the district of funds allotted for roads. I have an interest of the roads at heart and it is my sincere desire to help the people of this district in their road programs.

I desire your consideration and influence in the coming Republican Primary election August 8th.

Yours for a better road program.

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

DREW PEARSON

Recess Is Refreshing

D'ESPITE TALK about the boys needing a rest," real story behind the 10-day Easter recess of the house was that Speaker Sam Rayburn and majority leader John McCormack sent their charges home for a "refresher" course.

Rayburn and McCormack were chiefly concerned over another G. O. P. Dixie coalition against repeal of the Taft-Hartley labor law, and they thought some elbowing with the folks at home might be the best preventive. The strategy applies to Republicans in industrial districts as well as Democrats.

Meanwhile, local AFL and CIO leaders were planning to give the returning political staffs a "vacation."

Rayburn and McCormack are keenly aware that the Taft-Hartley vote will be a crucial test they can't afford to lose. If they are kept northern city Democrats in line on other administrative measures. Ever since the G. O. P. Dixie coalition against recent control, there has been talk of a majority for John McCormack in a coalition-reverse, in which northern Democrats would align up with Republicans to block southern farm bills.

Rumbles of Revolt

At a dinner meeting with North and South freshmen Democrats last week, Rayburn and McCormack heard increasing rumbles of "rebellion" against southern Democrats. This was in the cloakroom whispers. Quite a number of big-city Democrats, who believe in carrying over the Taft-Hartley promises, have spoken out openly.

Among them are freshmen Democrats Anthony Tauerelle of Buffalo, N. Y., and Wagner of Cincinnati, who angrily told McCormack the time had come to "stop appeasing and start fighting" at southern opponents of the Fair Deal program.

"I've had enough," bluntly asserted Tauerelle. "I've elected to the Truman program, and I believe in the whole program. I'm tired of seeing the program betrayed and undermined by members of my own party. A lot of us think it's time to start rebelling."

At the dinner, Rayburn and McCormack made their best pleas for harmony. Since then the grumbling has somewhat subsided.

G.O.P. Hope

Oregon's bushy-browed Sen. Wayne Morse, considered a black sheep by old guard Democrats, nevertheless has a strong though secret following in congress.

This group not only takes his political cues from Morse, East is quietly boosting him for the vice-presidency in 1952. He is the only Republican, they say, who can take the vote away from the Democrats in their greatest stronghold—labor.

Leaders of the Morse movement include such congressmen as John Phillips of California, H. R. Cross of Iowa and James G. Thompson of Missouri—all progressive Democrats. Morse, himself, didn't need of their support until he was invited to talk off-the-record the other day before a gathering of about 20 Republican congressmen.

With characteristic bluntness, Morse tore into the hills of the Republican party.

"I speak only of the senate," he declared, "but, in the senate, we have a few who hold policy meetings. The rest of us read about it next morning in the papers and are called together at 10 o'clock to confirm it."

He accused G. O. P. leaders in congress of playing turtle during the last election.

"I wish I'd never a job to defend the 80th congress," said Morse. "It was up to our top leaders in congress. A lot of them suffered political laryngitis."

As for the G. O. P. stand on labor, Morse asserted, "We've got an anti-labor label on our backs and will keep it until we liberate the anti-labor law."

Barkley Humor

Vice President Alben Barkley brought down the house with this story at President Truman's "dinner" with freshmen congressional Democrats. Here is the Barkley story:

A minister strutting to his flock on the vicinities of friendship inquired if there were any members of the congregation who could honestly say they had no enemies. An aged man with a long beard arose in the rear of the church.

"Ah, I'm glad to see that there is at least one among us who can answer my question," began the minister. "How old are you, sir?"

"One hundred and four years."

"That's truly remarkable," said the reverend. "Do you mind telling us how you have managed to be without enemies in such a long life span?"

"Because," said the old man, "I outlived them all."

WEEKLY NEWS ANALYSIS

Truman Signs Bill for Extension of European Aid Another 15 Months; U. S. Launches Bond Sale Drive

(EDITOR'S NOTE: When opinions are expressed in these columns, they are those of Western Newspaper Union's news analysts and not necessarily of this newspaper.)

Men Who Found Kathy Remembered by Mail

The men who dug for little Kathy Fiscus, 3-year-old who died in a California well shaft, were being remembered all over the nation.

More than 2,200 letters had been received by the Kathy Fiscus rescue fund from virtually every state in the union. Mayor Clark E. Beal, Sr., chairman of the fund committee, said the first envelopes opened contained $1,029—an average contribution of 55 cents.

Donations ranged from 10 cents to $50. It was pointed out that if the average continued, it would mean a total of more than $11,000 for the men who worked for 32 hours to reach the child who fell to her death 92 feet down the well pipe.

AID BILL

A bill to give $48 billion dollars to the European recovery program over the next 15 months—with one billion available at once—was signed by President Truman.

MR. TRUMAN, as is his quaint custom in such matters, signed the bill with several pens, in fact. Even Mr. Truman, himself, was moved to observe that this "bill which probably looks like a forgery, but it really isn't."

The bill which Mr. Truman signed allows that one-eighth of the entire budget of the United States to be used.

Mr. Truman, ever a meticulous man, carefully checked the points of the pens, handed one each to seven witnesses to the signing, and kept one for Sen. Arthur Vandenberg, who was unable to attend.

THERE WAS a check and balance in the bill, however. With the billion dollars to be made available at once, aid could be kept flowing to the Marshall plan countries of western Europe until congress votes the rest of the cash later.

CHURCHMEN:

UN Asks Facts

The United Nations wasn't hearing protests of Hungary and Bulgaria against its consideration of the trials of Cardinal Mindszenty and Protestant churchmen. Instead, the UN invited the two Soviet satellite countries to tell their stories of the imprisonment of the Cardinal and other clergymen.

THE RUSSIAN delegation indicated the two nations would disregard the invitation since Hungary and Bulgaria have contended the trials were internal matters and no business of the UN.

On the other hand, however, voted 30 to 7 to put the church cases on its agenda and to go on with a full discussion of them.

U. S. delegate Benjamin V. Cohen asked the committee should direct inviting any nations or churches to send spokesmen until it decides how it wants to deal with the question.

Russia's Jacob A. Malik indicated the two Russian satellites would reject such an invitation and would insist on a neutral charter by seeking to invite religious organizations.

To the casual observer, the entire system was even less than a tempest in a teapot. Whatever the UN might find as a result of rehabilitating the convictions of the churchmen under any program, the cost of living is a valid reason for raising benefits now, then logically the whole system should be geared to the cost of living, fluctuating down as well as up. The bigger the system, the better the promises of bigger and better pensions.

BOND DRIVE:

Kick-off speaker at the opening of the "Opportunity Bond Drive," in which the government hopes to sell one billion, 40 million dollars worth of U. S. savings bonds for its people, President Truman keyed his remarks to the need for national security.

HE PICTURED the bond drive as providing another opportunity for purchasers to assure security for themselves and their country. Among other things, the President said:

"We know that we cannot have a sound and secure nation unless security is the common possession of our people. Farmer, factory worker, banker, merchant, scientist, housewife—all are buying security for themselves and each other when they buy savings bonds."

He added that "every bond they have bought has given them much more reason to feel secure and their country's."

THE PRESIDENT said the kick-off dinner was to honor three million volunteers in the bond sale campaign. He said that another 250,000 newsboys who would "ring the nation's doors" bringing the message of the Opportunity Bond Drive into 10 million American homes.

Top question playing bond officials was the recession in employment, lower prices and less consumer cash interfering with the bond sale's reaching its goal.

OASI COSTING:

In Billions

American taxpayers in covered employment would have to dig into their pockets to the tune of 3.75 billion dollars by 1955 to finance old age survivors insurance under the proposals advanced by President Truman and his administration.

BY THE YEAR 2000—when the program is expected to hit its peak—the proposed cost would have mounted to approximately 13 billion dollars.

This estimate, made by the Research Council for Economic Security, Chicago, is based on a report from a study committee on social security to the 80th congress.

Of a labor force of over 60 million, OASI now covers about 35 million, or roughly three out of five jobs. Coverage is now limited to persons employed in industry and commerce. It is proposed that the system be extended to cover the entire labor force.

In presenting both sides of the question, the council's report includes a full list of pros and cons. Each side might be summarized as follows:

ON THE ONE HAND, if employees of commerce and industry are entitled to this protection, why not employees on the farm and in the household? If the goal of the system is to provide even a minimum of subsistence, benefits must be raised now to keep in step with living costs. An adequate OASI system will reduce substantially the heavy burden of old age assistance.

On the other hand, opponents of the program contend that out of those excluded, the majority are either protected by other systems or are able to take care of themselves, while the lowest income classes are employed too infrequently to earn insured status under any program. The cost of living is a valid reason for raising benefits now, then logically the whole system should be geared to the cost of living, fluctuating down as well as up. The bigger the system, the better the promises of bigger and better pensions.

COMPARATIVE BENEFITS:

Under present provision of the social security law it is assumed the worker has 15 years of coverage. Under proposed provisions, however, length of time spent in covered employment. Chart, prepared by Research Council for Economic Security, offers comparison of present benefits scales with those proposed in the administration program.

Rural Housing Off

According to Senator Fear (D., D.), some would not be affected housing conditions still exist in rural areas—a conclusion familiar already to many Americans. The senator's statement was made during a hearing by a senate committee on the multi-billion-dollar housing bill pending in congress.

There has been little rural housing needs in discussion of the housing problem to date, although that need is pressing, almost, as any other.

FARM SURPLUS:

May Hasten Subsidy

The administration's farm experts weren't being too subtle in a movement to hasten payment of direct subsidies to farmers. They were pointing out the capital that an over-supply of pork and milk expected within the next two months may require President Truman to authorize authority for such action.

SECRETARY of Agriculture Brannan said he already had discussed such a proposal with the President. At the present time the government is committed to support prices of those commodities by buying surplus and taking it off the market. This is supposed to keep the retail price up.

Farm legislation passed by the 80th congress authorized direct payments to farmers for pork and milk, but this law does not go into effect until January 1, 1950.

Meanwhile, the agriculture secretary said congress would not farm products find their own price level through supply and demand, with the farmer paying the farmer the difference in this and the support price in cash.

Congressional critics of the farm program declare its cost will run into billions of dollars and that it will benefit neither the farmer nor the taxpayer, because, in the end, the farmer will be paying additional taxes to finance the program.

CANCER:

Progress Seen

The men in white who wage an incessant battle against cancer caught a glimmer of "hope" they felt sure they had discovered, as they put it, "what is for all practical purposes the only way to cure and reasonably sure blood test for cancer."

THE ANNOUNCEMENT was made by Professor Charles B. Huggins, who 10 years ago originated a new treatment for prostate cancer which has kept more than 95 per cent of the patients alive and well for more than eight years.

DISCUSSING the new test, he said that tests on almost 500 individuals—usually divided into cancer patients, apparently healthy persons, and patients with non-cancerous diseases—proved positive in all cancer cases, negative for all normal persons and negative for all others tested, except those with lung tuberculosis and massive acute infections.

Inasmuch as tuberculosis and inflammatory processes can be readily diagnosed, it was explained, the new test would be of considerable value for the confound cancer with other conditions.

Hope Springing Eternal

IT HAS been said that hope springs eternal in the baseball player's breast until around June. Then it begins to wither and fade. But hope sprang with greater alacrity in April than it has in some previous years. At least it was springing in more places.

For example, after a rabid discussion as to whether the Dodgers, Braves or Cardinals were to be the selected sons of spring this season, we ran into Art Rooney of Pittsburgh, Art Rooney owns the Pittsburgh football franchise.

He also has a few horses and he is also interested in baseball as a fan. "Braves, Dodgers or Cardinals?" he asked. "Listen, the entire population of Pittsburgh has picked the Pirates to win. I agree with them. Pittsburgh must be stronger than it was a year ago."

"Murry Dickson will make a difference of 10 games. Who checks will be even better. Kiner is due to hit better. You can also make a note that Pittsburgh will test in the National League as it did a year ago. I mean the Giants, Dodgers, Braves and Cubs."

"And I'm not being comical or funny when I pick Billy Meyer's bunch on top. I don't believe everybody in Pittsburgh can't see it. In the course of the next hour or so, wandering here and there, we ran into seven or eight farmers who had been to the city. Here are their selections: two for the Dodgers, two for the Braves, two for the Cardinals and two for Pittsburgh."

The Giants? Since this crop of selectors had come up from Florida, they knew something about the New Yorkers. But Horace Slaughter and Leo Durocher are being quoted to the general effect that Giant pitching will be quite sufficient, coupled with the power their bats have carried. This means that at least five teams have the "hope stars" torch blazing these April days.

And you can be certain that the Cubs, Phillies and Reds will supply no trouble that way, especially if the Reds can shove Ewell Blackwell into the picture. Meanwhile, the human pick of the Reds are an improved collection of ballplayers. With Blackwell and Vander Meer working, the Reds are a menace.

Here in April we had five National league ball clubs who believed they could win the pennant, and three who believed they had a chance to move up and win their share of it.

At this spot, the Dodgers, Braves, Cardinals and Pirates are closer than two Scotchmen. The Giants must show they belong with this group.

The National league mix-up this season may be one of the closest since the days of the great scramble earlier league has known so far. It could be that way if you study the eight teams that will be out to do or to do it.

The Trouble with 'IFS'

The main trouble with "IFS" is that they seldom work out any too well. Bob Feller is a big IF in Cleveland. He's getting along all right, but he's not getting over his ability to keep his curve or his fast ball burning. Lemon and Lemon are IF's. They've been 20-game winners over a period of time.

Joe DiMaggio and the Yankee infield have yet to prove they are up to pennant-winning play. This, of course, means DiMaggio's afflicted heel. To have this heel in shape, all season would be a big boon to baseball in general just as much as it would be to the Yankees. DiMaggio has been one brilliant star to be missed without out mourning.

No one can say, this far in advance, that the Red Sox will be any better than they were a year ago. Joe McCarthy's spring attitude means that everything is up in the air. O. K., but Hughes, Harris and Ferris still have to prove they are the pitchers they were in 1948.

Billy Meyer is more than worried over Pittsburgh's fall and firm belief in a pennant year. In a race with the National League, he can't hand this season. Meyer knows his team can play good baseball and that he knows the number of good batters they need to win in a race of this type.

Billy Southworth's kness he will need a better Warren Spahn than he has. He has been under many rumors of dissonance will not be inclined to help his club. Billy Southworth can't be pennant-minded.

I once asked Connie Mack how he felt in a past race played in a pennant race. "Less than 3 per cent," he said "over 150 games."

MIRROR OF YOUR MIND

Verbal Musing Not Dangerous By Lawrence Gould

Is talking to yourself a sign of mental illness?

Answer: Only if you think someone is listening. A person may talk to himself, even out-loud, for the purpose of reducing his ideas to words so as to make them clearer, and the practice has been advocated as a way of learning how to speak in public. But the fact that certain types of mental patients who live in a dream world are apt to be unaware of their surroundings may lead them not only to talk to themselves when they are not alone, but to hold animated conversations with people who exist only in their sick imaginations.

Can physical disease change your personality?

Answer: Never entirely. Says Dr. Kurt Schneider of the University of Heidelberg. Even when brain injury or poisoning results in insanity, the symptoms will depend to some extent upon the patient's character and mental constitution, and especially upon "his reaction to the experience of being ill."

Nervous Symptoms and 'Chronic Diseases'

By Dr. James W. Barton

IT IS generally agreed that about one-half of all patients who consult their physicians have no real physical or organic disease, but have symptoms which are the same or very similar to those present in organic disease.

In 504 of the 1,000 cases, some physical illness was causing the symptoms; there was no real nervous or emotional disturbance that could be the cause or even a partial cause. In 273 cases the complaints or symptoms were entirely due to nervous or emotional disturbances. In 134 cases a combination of physical disorder and "disturbance of nervous system" was causing the symptoms.

These physicians remind us that any illness involves a certain amount of nervous or mental disturbance. The patient wonders what is wrong, what the outcome may be. The doctor has a causal diagnosis depends upon the make-up of the patient.

HEALTH NOTES

Most of us have always thought that while slenderness of body was often associated with allergy, as people were "born" that way, there was nothing that could be done about it. It is indeed gratifying to know that if allergic children are protected as suggested, it means a more satisfactory growth and development of the body.

Today, the medical profession regards the problem as a disease which has its cause, symptoms and methods of treatment, as has other diseases.

Quite recently alcoholism is the result of poor and unsatisfactory emotional and other life habits. Sometimes it has caused actual changes in the structure of the brain tissue (organic disease).

Make Homemaking Pleasanter With a Few Pretty Aprons

By Erita Haley

Newfoundland's Future

IN CHICAGO there lived, within a block of my home, a family that owned a Newfoundland dog. He was big and black, with a thick coat of curly hair and a mane of all Newfoundlands. He was a beautiful animal, and a dignified, courteous gentleman.

Twice each day he walked around the block in which he lived. He paid no attention to other dogs, or to people he met. I had seen him many times before I detected a friendly glint in his eye, and a wave of his magnificent tail. After we had struck up an acquaintance, he walked together on many occasions, and I appreciated his company so much that I wished to know more of his kind. It was not long afterwards that I arranged to visit Newfoundland, which I presumed was his native home.

I arranged with two friends, fishing companions of many summer pilgrimages into the northern bush, accompany me. They were interested in the game, hard fighting land locked salmon, reportedly the finest of Newfoundland lakes.

From Sydney, Nova Scotia, we crossed Cabot Strait, and landed at St. John's. On the coast, a steamer, I was asked a native about Newfoundland dogs. He had never heard of such an animal. "In fact," he said, "there are no dogs in Newfoundland, but there are no dogs of any breed on this island." I was told that he was literally true, and has never discovered the homeland of my Newfoundland dog friend. He may be a dog without a country.

Neither I nor my friends caught, or saw any one catch, a large cod salmon. That trip was not, except that I saw at first-hand what is today a new province of the Dominion of Canada, a new land that is still in the limelight today.

From Port au Bas, on the southwest coast of the island, St. John's on the northeast coast, we rode the narrow, narrow-gauge railroad, that, in 48 hours, traverses 160 miles between the two island ports. Throughout more than 500 of those miles there was but one town. It is inland, some 150 miles from the north coast. Its one industry, a paper mill, produced print stock for the London Daily Times. Newfoundland forests provide the raw material.

Aside from that, there are no towns, no farms, no houses. In the interior of the island, there are only forests and great herds of elk. It is elk meat and fish—principally cod, the fish—constitute the main food supply of the people, and fish, pulpwood and paper constitute the island's chief exports.

Newfoundland is, or was in the mid-20s when I visited it, pioneer country, but it was attractive and interesting in a way that is rare in village life that line the coast are scrupulously clean, but all much alike with the exception of color. Each village has its particular color scheme, with all houses and the one church faithfully following the village color. The ranges are large, grassy hills. The ranges are all the way from white, with green trimmings, to a combination of red and brown, and every shade between the two. The fisher folk are largely of Irish descent, with those of each village representing some one town, one corner of the continent of the old sod. Each village has but one church.

The transportation was provided by that narrow, narrow, gauge railroad across the island, or boats around its coast line. Aside from the streets and roads in St. John's, a few miles beyond that town, there were no highways, and but few trails.

At the time I visited Newfoundland the big white house on the top of the hill was named Reid. He owned the railroad and the bath-stained little steamers that served the fishing villages. He was the "poob-bah" of Newfoundland.

Such, briefly, is Newfoundland as I saw it, and I presume it is much the same today. The first English colony on the North American continent. To a large extent it is primarily a fisherman's country. It was when the English sea captain, John Cabot, landed on its shores, and took possession in the name of King Henry VII. It flourished for 500 years, and still a primitive frontier. Will it go forward under Canadian rule?

DO YOU succeed in looking pretty at home? Or do you have hearing someone knock on your door because they will see you in an unattractive, dirty dress or a torn apron?

Aprons are so easy to make and quickly put together that no woman who works at home need ever look shabby. Use pretty bib aprons when you're doing the really big cleaning or cooking jobs, then make a quick change into a trilly organza or plastic bib apron, and you'll always look your best.

Those of us who like to sew are having a real field day with fabrics. There's such a variety available, and everything is so colorful and pretty, it seems like it's more fun to sew than almost anything else.

Sheer organza, colorful plastics, a finely woven broadcloth and other materials are all good basic materials for aprons.

Women have collections of aprons as hobbies; others make money for incidentals by sewing aprons for others, and few women feel they ever have enough of them for every occasion. All of these make aprons a big and wonderful topic for consideration.

Cotton for Travel

What could be smarter or more practical for traveling than this cotton redingote and dress by Miss Lester? The redingote is styled in iridescent cotton twined in changeable colors of green and blue that shimmer in the sunlight. It's wrinkle-shed, washable and long wearing. Underneath is a silk and date dress with a deep, cut-in neckline in satin striped cotton.

Siliced Colors, Fabrics that are suitable

If there's a color which you avoid in clothing, observe the same rule when selecting material for an apron. By the same token, choose those colors which are flattering to you in dress.

Many varieties and colors are now available for aprons, and you can afford to be as discriminating as possible.

Darker colors have always been favored for the work apron, but no longer do these need to be a hedge-podge of pinks that are not attractive. When you do choose the darker colors, lighten them with a bright, contrasting trimming on the bib or pockets where wear and dirt do not show.

If you choose checks and plaids, or even prints for the work apron, give it high style by using a solid color for the apron's color used in the apron itself.

For those of you who prefer the pastel aprons even for working purposes, your best choice is among the plastic materials. Light pinks, yellows, blues and greens are popular in both prints and solid colors. To make these colors more attractive, easily cleaned and wiped dry between towels in a matter of minutes, so it will always be fresh.

Here are Tips:

For Plastic Sewing

When you sew with the plastic, plan to do it on a fairly cool day so that the material will be pliable while you work with it.

Sometimes handling makes the material sticky. If this happens, sprinkle the plastic lightly with a film of talcum powder.

Never have the stitching too small and avoid tightness while sewing. Practice the stitching on a few scraps of material before putting the apron through the sewing machine.

Let the plastic run easily through the machine, but be careful not attempting to stretch or pull it. This prevents getting the material out of shape and makes sewing much easier.

Add Decorative Touches

To All Aprons

Whether you're making work aprons or hostess types, the aprons will be more attractive when lightened with clever edgings or appliques. Make your own appliques, or buy ready-made ones which simply need to be attached.

The same is true of ruffles. They may be purchased by the yard or made by you of contrasting or similar material to the apron fabric.

Bias tape is a simple enough trimming to add to any kind of apron since it is purchased already folded several different widths and is available from which to choose the most appropriate.

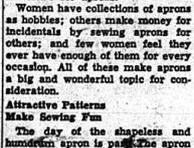

Lace trimming is not seen as frequently as previously, but there are many types of aprons in which it can be used. Since aprons have to withstand lots of laundering, it's a good idea to attach the lace securely, so it doesn't come off readily. Also, select a sturdy type of lace which will stand up to the wear.

Glazed chins for ruffles, pockets and other trimming details is gaining in popularity. It's sturdy and easy to sew.

Ideas for Aprons
Show Ingenuity

Develop your own ideas in making aprons by studying some of the following tested ideas.

Patley handkerchiefs, floral motif or plaid handkerchiefs, if they are of contrast, may be brought together for pretty aprons. No other material is used since the handkerchiefs are folded and placed together to make the whole apron.

Be Smart!

Most of the themes of the new season's trends is in the skirt treatment. Sketched here are two of the most popular interpretations among the slender, youthful wearers. The full skirt on the right is made unusual with the manipulation of the stripes, also in the silk and the top front panel with pleats on the side. The belter, too, is all the more interesting for its play of stripes.

LAKE MONSTER

Huge Turtle Spurs Search

CHURUBUSCO, Ind.—Churubusco was all excited about the monster turtle in Fuks lake.

Dozens of farmers and townspeople tramped to the lake for a look at the monster and grapping hooks to help catch it.

Those who claimed they saw the turtle said it had a head as big as two fists doubled together and must weigh 400 to 500 pounds.

The hunt was spurred by reports that the Cincinnati zoo was interested in buying the reptile for $1,500.

Another report said the turtle had ventured from its home in the lake near here onto a surrounding farm and had scared cattle had mysteriously disappeared.

"But that ain't so," farmer Gale Harris said. "That turtle's never seen out of the lake, far as we know."

The muddy, seven-acre lake, 90 feet deep at its center, is on Harris' farm and has become the focal point for eager searchers.

Harris said, "We had him trapped in a net but he alighted away to the right and dived down into the water."

Used Wire Net

The searchers were using a chicken-wire net about four feet thick and 200 feet long. Men in a row boat circled the lake searching for the turtle in order to drive the net in. It happened on shore and the ropes attached to the net pulled the turtle ashore. It is about 200 lbs.

"There's no doubt it's there," Mrs. Harris said. She said her husband and her son, Vaughn, 12, had seen it. So had her brother, Charles Wilson, and the son of a neighbor, Fred Taylor. The reptile appeared to be an ordinary snapping turtle, but much overgrown. Other snappers in the lake are no larger than 14 or 15 pounds, he said.

In Chicago, Clifford H. Pope, curator of reptiles at the Field Museum, said he would like to see a "snapper" as big as 80 pounds. He said an alligator turtle from the south could run as high as 200 pounds.

Been Last Summer

Mr. Harris had his brother Charles first saw the turtle last summer, but then it disappeared from view until recently when he and his wife saw it swimming across the lake.

She said two investigators from the city of Chicago went to see that the turtle was there. She said she wasn't sure whether they saw it, but that they "seemed satisfied."

The $1,000 price was being circulating around the area, but Mrs. Harris chuckled.

For Variety, Serve Birthday Pie (See Recipes Below)

ANYBODY CAN HAVE a birthday cake, and usually does. Maybe that's because no one ever thinks of having a birthday pie. However, as you can see from the picture, a birthday pie is both attractive and delicious, and is appropriate for carrying birthday greetings.

Have you ever noticed how someone's birthday creeps up on you sort of unexpectedly, too? You may have planned a pie or just fruit and cookies for dessert. These, too, can be decorated to suit the occasion.

Then, again, if you are rushed for time, there may be some simple dessert which will take less time than the layer cake and its elaborate topping. Look through the tips I'm giving you today if you want unusual ways to celebrate birthdays.

A GLAMOROUS birthday party dessert may be served out of a prepared chocolate pudding. Like this:

Chocolate Coconut Birthday Pie

1 package prepared chocolate pudding
2 cups milk
1/2 cup shredded coconut
1 baked 8-inch pie shell
2 egg whites
1 tablespoon sugar
1/2 cup shredded coconut

Prepare chocolate pudding as directed on package with the milk. Reduce milk to one and three-fourths cups if a thicker filling is desired. Cool, stirring occasionally. Add one half cup coconut. Turn into pie shell and totally frozen.

Beat egg whites until foamy throughout. Add sugar, one tablespoon at a time, beating after each addition until sugar is blended. Then continue beating until mixture stands in peaks. Pipe lightly on top of filling. Bake in a moderate (350°) oven for 10 minutes. Sprinkle with small amount of coconut. Continue baking five minutes longer, or until delicately browned.

Candles are easily arranged on the pie. You simply melt a drop of wax on the plate and stick the candle in it. Another idea uses marshmallows for candles. In this case, candles must be small, of course, to avoid top heaviness.

Here's another idea for pie, if you want to carry out the same treatment suggested above for candle arrangement. This is light, airy chiffon pie, butterscotch in flavor:

Butterscotch Chiffon Pie

(Make one 8-inch pie shell)

1 baked 8-inch pie shell
1 tablespoon plain, unflavored gelatin
1/4 cup water
3 eggs, separated
1 cup brown sugar, firmly packed
1 cup salted milk
2 tablespoons butter
1/4 teaspoon salt
1/4 teaspoon vanilla extract
1/4 cup cornstarch
Soak gelatin in cold water for five minutes. Beat egg yolks until thick and lemon colored. Gradually beat in brown sugar, then the milk. Add butter and salt and cook in top of double boiler until thickened. Stir in gelatin. Cool; add vanilla. Beat the egg whites until stiff; add the granulated sugar gradually, while continuing to beat until stiff. Fold into cooked curd, then pour into pie shell. Decorate with whipped cream, if desired.

ANOTHER EASY WAY to take care of a birthday is to serve a simple pie of delicious bowl of scops of delightful, refreshing ice. This may be bought already made in any flavor desired, or may be prepared at home. Decorate with refrigerator for the following recipe:

Fruited-Orange Ice
(Makes 1 1/2 quarts)

3 cups water
1 cup sugar
5 cups orange juice
1/2 cup lemon juice
2 Grated rind of 1/2 orange
3 bananas, sliced
1 cup maraschino cherries, sliced

Make a syrup by cooking the water and sugar; cool. Mix orange and lemon juices; add grated orange rind; add syrup and sweeten to taste. Freeze until mushy. Add bananas and cherries and continue to freeze until totally frozen. To serve place scops in a large bowl. When serving a bowl of ice or ice cream, carry out the birthday theme with a plate of special cookies, each of which has a "1" light brown, small candle inserted through the center. Naturally, the cookies should be unusual as they are really substituting for the cake. Here are several good types from which to choose:

London Bars
1/4 cup sweet butter
4 tablespoons confectioners' sugar
2 egg yolks
1/4 cup flour

Cream: Butter and sugar; add egg yolks and flour. Press dough eight inch thick into a buttered and floured pan. Bake in hot oven until firm, about 15-20 minutes. Remove from pan, spread with apricot jam, cover with nut meringue, sprinkle with the almond. Return to the oven until almonds have browned. When cold, cut into strips, three inches long and one inch wide.

Youngsters will love these new cookie treats. Use your favorite oatmeal cookie recipe, fold in one half cup of finely cut gumdrops. There's a real flavor surprise in every bite.

Serve stew in a noodle ring, made by packing cooked noodles into a greased mold, then turning out on a chop plate and filling the center with cooked steak.

Drop thin slices of French fries in French dressing, then in bread crumbs and saute quickly in butter. This is truly delicious!

Scientists Learn Humans Can Stand Severe Cold

WASHINGTON—Scientists from the University of Washington, cooperating with the Army, have learned that man can stand up to sub-zero temperatures better than expected.

Heat loss to the body from inhaling below-zero atmosphere, the Air Force announced today in telling of tests made in arctic regions, is much less than formerly believed. Radiations from even a weak mid-winter Alaskan sun was found to have had a marked effect on reducing body heat loss.

Especially designed insulated clothing, equipped with wires and tubes to check temperatures at various points on the body, were worn in 40-degree-below-zero weather in making the tests.

Pilot Chops Through Floor To Fix Plane Landing Gear

BEDFORD, MASS.—An air force captain chopped through the cockpit floor of a training bomber to repair a disabled landing gear so the plane could land safely with only a few minutes' gasoline left.

His hands cut bleeding.

Capt. G. McLaughlin hacked his way through the floor with an emergency ax, a screw driver and a hand saw, and, using a balky mauler. He used his navigation books to wedge up the floor boards.

As McLaughlin worked against time to repair the faulty gear, Lt. J. E. Whaley circled the field repeatedly while shouting periodically the amount of gasoline remaining in the tank.

The plane's radio had gone dead just as the two fliers were bringing it over the field; but the control tower was able to signal them that their landing gear had not locked.

McLaughlin first tried to work the wheels into position with an auxiliary hand crank. When that failed he began chopping through the floor. When he had made a hole big enough to push his hands through, he pushed the landing clutch into position by using the ax handle as a lever.

Later, the fliers had base officials that when they brought the plane down they were not sure whether the wheels were locked.

WOMEN'S WORLD

Make Homemaking Pleasanter With a Few Pretty Aprons

By Erita Haley

DO YOU succeed in looking pretty at home? Or do you have hearing someone knock on your door because they will see you in an unattractive, dirty dress or a torn apron?

Aprons are so easy to make and quickly put together that no woman who works at home need ever look shabby. Use pretty bib aprons when you're doing the really big cleaning or cooking jobs, then make a quick change into a trilly organza or plastic bib apron, and you'll always look your best.

Those of us who like to sew are having a real field day with fabrics. There's such a variety available, and everything is so colorful and pretty, it seems like it's more fun to sew than almost anything else.

Sheer organza, colorful plastics, a finely woven broadcloth and other materials are all good basic materials for aprons.

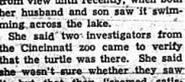

Women have collections of aprons as hobbies; others make money for incidentals by sewing aprons for others, and few women feel they ever have enough of them for every occasion. All of these make aprons a big and wonderful topic for consideration.

Most of the themes of the new season's trends is in the skirt treatment. Sketched here are two of the most popular interpretations among the slender, youthful wearers. The full skirt on the right is made unusual with the manipulation of the stripes, also in the silk and the top front panel with pleats on the side. The belter, too, is all the more interesting for its play of stripes.

COLONEL WINN'S NEW 'BEDSIDE MANNER'

Derby Better's Loss Will Be Medicine's Gain

... MAY SOOTHE MANY A TROUBLED CONSCIENCE

MEDICINE AND THE DERBY

Churchill Downs, one of the oldest race tracks in the land, is announced to be run for the benefit of the Louisville medical college. The Kentucky Derby has let many a man sick at the finish, but this is the first time anybody at the track thought of doing something about doctors.

The track is run by the famous Colonel Matt Winn, always a man in green, seldom in a red and now for the first time appearing as something of a Man-in-White.

The colonel is a smart, colorful racing genius, but up to now had not been associated with a bedside manner and a stethoscope. If you saw him with a little black bag in hand you were under no illusion it held pills, capsules or ointments.

It has never been recorded that he was coupled in the betting with "E" Klipsch. Observing him as he watched the crowds pour into the Downs for the Derby, we never got the impression he was thinking about what to do for the medical profession rather than what to do for Churchill Downs.

However, it will be strictly O. K. to see horse racing advancing the cause of humanity. It will be a great conscience soother for Derby addicts. Their alibi for the long trip and the Derby hysteria can now be, "Can I help it if I want to see ambulatory medical students get a chance?"

He will feel better coming back from the Derby, too. If his bangtail finishes out of the money, he will have the satisfaction of realizing that Louisville Medical college (by Matt Winn-Ballyhoo) "finished strong and will be watching."

We can picture the wide influence of the school of medicine on the Derby, and vice versa. Churchill Downs will probably be redecorated in white enamel, with nurse at every meta's window and an intern in the hot dog stands. Fans will have their temperatures taken before and after photo finishing. Stethoscopes will be used to detect suppressed tips.

There will be special windows where fans may get a relative. And if his inside information proves cold, there will be heat treatments on the mezzanine.

"Ladies and gentlemen," we can hear the track announcer say, "the horses are on their way to the post to advance the cause of medicine and correct diagnosis. You have only five minutes in which to help a student get through college."

Similarly, Louisville medical college professors will be obliged of color or "alks," classes will be known with "Roots and Sides" and on the day of exams there will be a morning line and late scratches.

Life can be wonderful! But we hope no student will be flunked for bad behavior at the gate. Nothing like when challenged! And let's have no den of the medical school thrown out of training for a "popped ocellus."

Please Do Not Disturb I live in a disreputable rat. A thing to be deplored. By fierce, ambitious people, but I'm not the least bit bored. Margaret Fishback

"Corn Found 4,000 Years Old in New Mexico"—Headline, too. So they have video there, too! "I don't believe it," said Hugh, feeling for the first time a queer sensation of alarm.

"I saw it happen," said Barry. "I was there." "Good lord!" Hugh was suddenly very much excited and very concerned.

"You can't say I didn't warn you," Barry's voice said, growing fainter. "Hey! Hold on a minute, Barry! Are you there? ... Yes, yes, I know you warned me about something of a fool. Who was it she married? This is terrible!" "Me," said Barry, very faintly. And then the line went dead.

LET US NOT FORGET

Grace Holl Crowell

Let us not forget the ancient wisdom
With which our fathers waded their earthly days:
The saying of grace before a loaf, now broken,
The Sabbath rest, the stars we should revere,
The reading of our faith to those, our children,
The tender body of God's holy Word;
The selling, again and again, of the world we see,
By which an asphetic world is fired.
Let us not forget the sacred splendor:
The moonlight on the water, the light
The dark velvet night of our feet mud-tried,
Where God will be, as well as on the heights,
Let us not forget the old, old meaning,
Of the sun and moon and stars above the land,
Considering there—God help us to remember
That we, like they, are held in Thy great hand.

Star Dust

STAGE-SCREEN-RADIO

By INEZ GERHARD

WHEN Eagle-Lion films decided to hold the premiere of "Fiesta" in Tulsa, Okla., they had no idea that Oklahoma would cooperate so magnificently. Gov. Roy Turner proclaimed a holiday and royally entertained members of the press whom Eagle-Lion flew from both coasts for the occasion. Walter Wanger brought "Tulsa" stars Susan Hayward, Robert Preston,

Susan Hayward

Chill Wills and Jess Barker, to town; 80 mayors from all over the state were on hand to join in the festivities, which lasted for a day and a half. As for the picture, it is the entertainment, with an oil-well fire that sets an all-time high for similar screen spectacles.

Two top Warners stars began their careers similarly, by dying. "Errol Flynn in 'The Barbary Coast'" has been killing other people in films ever since. Zachary Scott died in his first film, "The Mark of Dimitrios," has been the victim in eight out of 11 pictures since then, gets driven to suicide in his latest, "Flaming Road."

Reminding Fred Astaire and Ginger Rogers for their 10th picture in M-G-M's "The Barkleys of Broadway" proved so successful that they will co-star in another musical, as yet untitled, which is now being written for them.

Bill Conrad, the "voice" of CBS "Escape" series, is a fine actor, but looks like something out of a grab bag; usually wears a sack-like pair of slacks, a T-shirt, sneakers and an old leather jacket. He wears that array on "Suspense," also when reporting on the picture studios; he was in "The Killers," "Body and Soul," "The Victors" and "Sorry, Wrong Number."

The Fiction STRICTLY ANALYTICAL

Corner By Richard H. Wilkinson

THE TROUBLE WITH YOU, Barry

"I see that you're too analytical. Why don't you throw caution to the wind for once and marry the girl?"

Hugh's face took on that look of faintly aloof indifference that he always conjured when he became critical. "You wouldn't understand," he said.

"You're too impulsive to see what I'm driving at. Let me tell you, it pays to be careful."

"Sure it does. But it doesn't pay to be overly careful. How does Valeria feel about it?"

"How does she feel? How do you think she feels? When a girl's in love she knows enough to be careful herself."

"Meaning, of course, that Val's mad about you and she's willing to wait until you get through analyzing and justifying or compensating her shortcomings in your mind."

Hugh gestured indifferently. "Figure it that way, if you like."

"Wouldn't it be a shock to you if you discovered yourself to be wrong, mean, or foolish?"

"The woman didn't marry me because she's right. 'Girls aren't made that way.' He stood up. 'I haven't been studying psychology and human behavior five years for nothing.'"

"But if she gets tired of waiting and marries some one else in the meantime, maybe you'll regret it."

"Don't be ridiculous. Val won't marry anyone else. I know what I'm doing."

Barry let a fortnight elapse before he again broached the subject of Val. It rankled him, and he felt better to get it off his chest. "Glad to mention it again, Hugh, but Val seems to think you've been neglecting her lately. Can't blame her."

"Cut it!" Hugh looked ugly. "I think you'd better let me tend to my own affairs, Barry. The girl I love and when she gets around to it, I'll marry her. Goodness, can't you understand that a man shouldn't jump into such things!"

"I understand that Barry offered. 'I happen to know Val was out with someone else last night.'"

"Good. Comparing the someone else with me will be the best thing in the world for her—and me, too." Hugh was annoyed. Blast it, why couldn't Barry mind his own business? Why did he always have to keep worrying about Val. It was plain as day that he didn't understand woman. Val knew a good thing when she saw it, best thing him and was willing to wait. She was smart.

with. It was sort of amusing in a way. Probably Val had merely told Barry that so Barry would think him childish. Why, even a first-year psychology student could tell you that was nothing but a feeble attempt on the part of the female to excite jealousy in the man she loved.

Three evenings later Hugh's phone rang. It was Barry. He sounded far away. "Can't hear you," Hugh yelled into the mouthpiece. "Talk louder."

"I say, came Barry's voice, more distinctly, "that she's telling I warned you against has happened."

"What thing?" said Hugh. "About Val. About her marrying someone else right under your nose. She's done it!"

"I saw it happen," said Barry. "I was there." "Good lord!" Hugh was suddenly very much excited and very concerned.

"You can't say I didn't warn you," Barry's voice said, growing fainter. "Hey! Hold on a minute, Barry! Are you there? ... Yes, yes, I know you warned me about something of a fool. Who was it she married? This is terrible!" "Me," said Barry, very faintly. And then the line went dead.

Jesus And Critics

Lesson for May 8, 1949

DURING JESUS' last week, his critics were doing their best to blank range. They were dead set to kill him; but they did not want to do that, if they could avoid it. They were some other way. What they tried to do was to make him out either a rascal or a fool, or both. Mark's story shows how Jesus took it.

The first question they asked Dr. Foreman was: "Where did you get your authority?" As we saw last week, Jesus had assumed simply tremendous authority. We said it is fair to ask him where he got it!

The trouble was that the men who asked the questions didn't want to know. They only wanted to beseech Jesus.

The world is full of just such license-hunting snoots as these. They do not know when a man succeeds without their help.

"Who is this fellow anyway?" "Who is he? Get his start!" "What family are you from, where is his diploma?" Jesus never answered this question, because he knew why they asked it. (Mark 11:27-32.)

The machine shown here turned out to be 7 bales a minute during the hay season of last year, adding this tremendous output to the stockpiles of grain from which the hay had fed its supplies.

Thus the machine helped to provide the thousands of "bombs" of baled hay with which farmers saved the lives of starving cattle in a great rescue operation.

Just a few years ago operation haylike would have been impossible. It was not until this machine was introduced in the early 1940's that farmers could put their hay into twice-tied packages automatically.

While the average farmer knows the value of a garden and always sees to it that he has ample ground planted to run his family through the year, there are still some men who glean their living from the soil while the better to plant a garden. The aim in gardening, at all, is to supply the household with vegetables—summer and winter; and the farmer who does this is always repaid not only with money saved and convenience of having supply immediately at hand, but also by the

Hairplitters by Trade
WHILE CRITICS of Jesus were hairplitters by trade. Yet none of them had ever been able to answer another tricky question with which they now expected to floor Jesus.

"Which is the greatest commandment of all?" The question had been going the rounds for generations. The rabbis and scribes in Jewery had wrestled with it. But it was a foolish question after all.

Which is the most important thing in a man's life? Is it his family? Is it his work? Is it his money? Is it his health? Is it his honor? Is it his reputation? Is it his power? Is it his knowledge?
