MIRACLES Grace Noll Crowell

THEY sought the Master's healing touch,
And followed Him down lane and field,
And every ailing, seeking one
Who came to Him was healed.
O Master, still today we come:
The great throngs down the earthy roads,
We bear our sorrow and our pain,
We stoop beneath our heavy loads.

We pray, and often grief is killed,
And pain becomes a strange, past thing;
Our loads are lifted, many times
Even from our remembering.
And these are miracles as great
As those far ones on sea and land,
Come from Thy hand, Thy unseen hand.

BOBBY SOX

"THE THING ABOUT JOAN IS YOU CAN'T TRUST HER — I TOLD HER A SECRET LAST WEEK AND SHE HASN'T TOLD IT TO A SOUL!"

CANDIDATES for public office are, as a rule, long on promises, but when elected they are, also as a rule, short on performance. That charge can not be laid at the door of President Truman. He made promises during the campaign, many of them, and he has made strenuous efforts to fulfill those promises.

The President promised labor that, if given a Democratic congress, he would have the Taft-Hartley law repealed, and the Wagner act re-enacted. He tried to make good on the promise, but congress, the one he asked for, failed him.

He promised a federal housing program of ambitious proportions, and he has urged and pleaded with congress to enable him to keep that promise to the extent of 16 billion dollars that we do not have.

He promised to take care of all our doctor's and hospital bills connected with all our ills and accidents, with provision that we pay for it indirectly. If that is not done it will not be because the President did not try, but because an obstreperous congress would not co-operate.

He promised equal rights legislation; more pay to those receiving social security checks; an expansion of social security operations and other ambitious welfare programs. In every case he has tried to do what he promised he would do if elected and given Democratic congress.

He promised the farmers higher prices for the products of their farms, and the housewife lower prices for the foods for their families. That was a hard one, but he provided a solution, though it would cost the federal treasury some billions of dollars, but congress has, so far, refused to accept the President's solution.

Such are some of the promises the president made as a candidate. As an elected official he has made an effort at fulfillment, only to be blocked by congress. In Washington some say he is a stubborn individual, who is merely butting his head against a stone wall against the President. Reasonably, I would not call him stubborn but would say that he is making an effort to make good on the promises he made to numerous classes when seeking their support. In doing that, he has largely established a precedent, for which he is entitled to commendation.

I am inclined to agree with congress, and believe that to make good on the President's promises would wreck our American economy, and land us in the bankrupt court. Regardless of what the results might be, it is to commend the President for his efforts to make good on his campaign promises. It is rather a new experience for the people of the nation.

His statements would quite definitely indicate that Eider Statesman James Byrnes is not enthusiastic over the efforts of the "do gooders" to pass out government funds to all who ask.

There may be floods, or droughts, or untimely frosts, or destructive insects, but despite all the ills to which the American farm is heir, the nation usually comes through with a satisfactory crop of food products, for which a hungry world waits.

IN DEFENSE OF MYSELF A message to voters of Rockcastle County...

Although Judge Carter has had nearly three (3) times as much money as any other Judge during his past administration...

My books were audited by the County Auditor and the State Auditor and approved by the Fiscal Court...

I was always ready to trust the citizens of this county in dealing with them and they have trusted me...

Economy Talked

TRUMAN discussed plans for fortifying the nation's economy against depression in a recent off-the-record talk with six Democratic congressmen...

Only a meager announcement leaked out to the press, but here are the highlights of what happened...

President Truman greeted the congressional group by saying: "I think I am way ahead of you on this..."

Then he pulled several charts out of his top, ribbed drawer showing the latest national statistics on prices, wages, production and production up to the end of May...

We admitted that the first symptoms of depression are beginning to show and agreed that the best plan is to attack any such problem in the economy to stop it from spreading...

Factory Loans

The legislators who called on the President were Senators James Murray of Montana, Elbert Thomas of Utah, John Stennis of Mississippi, Hubert Humphrey of Minnesota, Congressman Andy Biemer of Wisconsin and Congressman Helen Gahagan Douglas of California—all Democrats...

- 1. A national advisory board, including the business, labor, agriculture and consumer committees that now exist separately;
2. Measures to deal directly with serious unemployment wherever and whenever it develops;
3. Long-range planning for public works and resource development;
4. Voluntary adjustments in purchasing power.

Truman said he couldn't endorse the program without studying the details, but remarked: "You are my kind of folks..."

Their kind of thinking, he had already had, but he had his own. It had been his belief and policy to ease off inflation controls gradually and let the economy adjust itself...

Diaceiral Postmasters

South Carolina's wily Sen. Olin Johnston reversed the tables on President Truman the other day and applied some icy counter-pressure to get postmasters appointed in his state...

Johnston always has time for his remarks to pass on to the White House, then called for an appointment. When he was ushered into the President's office, he talked about other matters. Then he mentioned casually: "I notice a lot of postmasters are being appointed lately, but my state hasn't gotten any..."

WEEKLY NEWS ANALYSIS New Taft-Hartley Battle Looms; Solons Ridicule Recession Idea; Dictator Feared in Defense Plan

WESTERN NEWSPAPER Union news analysis and not necessarily of this newspaper's editors' NOTE: When opinions are expressed in this column, they are those of the editor.

TAFT-HARTLEY: Newlyweds

Another Try The administration hadn't given up, despite a humiliating setback in the battle by Taft-Hartley repealer supporters. It was reported that President Truman's congressional aides were planning another try at repealing the measure, but had reached no decision.

THIS CAME to light after House Speaker Sam Rayburn concluded a conference with the President. The decision on a new repealer effort was to await further conferences with other committee members in both houses.

While the persistence of the administration might be commendable, the odds are not in its favor. The decision on a new repealer effort was to await further conferences with other committee members in both houses.

THE RESULT of the vote on changing the Taft-Hartley labor law was confusing to the average observer of the political scene.

RECESSION: Ho, Ho, Ho! Without unemployment figures standing at the highest peak in 11 years, labor and national leaders casting about for a bulwark against economic hazards, congressional leaders were huddled at the idea the nation might be edging into a depression.

THEY had just conferred with President Truman, who had indicated the notion that all might not be as rosy as possible with the nation's economy.

MEANWHILE, it was said President Truman was preparing a special economic message for delivery to Congress. Scott's comments carry recommendations for dealing with declining prices and the unemployment situation.

NEW HOMES: More Cash Buyers planning to finance homes through FHA-insured mortgages may have to make larger down payments than ever.

INTELECT: Women's Best? Two Indiana university professors are to be believed, than the male of the species must face an unpleasant fact—namely, that girls or women do a better job than boys (or men).

THEY had just conferred with President Truman, who had indicated the notion that all might not be as rosy as possible with the nation's economy.

CORN: Reaching Up

... And the corn is as high as an elephant's eye ... Those lines from a hit tune from the musical "Oklahoma!" are an indication of the jubilation in the corn country when the stalks are high, and more than a hint of the crop's importance.

THE FEDERAL government also is acutely conscious of the importance of the corn crop to the nation's economy...

GRAIN experts considered it possible that last year's fabulous crop of the United States, 520 million bushels, might be topped by the 1949 crop.

While prospects were considered splendid, the cautious were knocking on wood for two reasons. These were that Iowa and Illinois are having extensive corn-borer infestation, and subsoil moisture was deficient in some areas...

TOKYO ROSE: Sighting Pretty

Whatever had been the effect in bringing the American flag to the South Pacific, there was to be no death penalty for Mrs. Iva D'Amico—known to the world as 'Tokyo Rose'.

ALL throughout the war there were mixed claims about her influence on GI morale. Many servicemen declared they "got a kick out of her broadcasts—chiefly for laughs."

Uncle Charlie Moran

TAKEING HIS CENTRE college team to Boston to beat Harvard was the highest point of the Uncle Charlie Moran's amazing career. It was just another episode in the life of the all-around star from Horse Cave, Ky., who died a few weeks ago.

He happened to play the same backfield with Moran and on the same baseball team back at Nashville Military and Tennessee Military institutions during the war-mistried days of "far away and before" when he came to Louisville.

Here are just a few of the details he contributed to sporting history:

A great half and quarterback from Tennessee and Bethel on to the Mastion Tigers in their championship season in 1941.

A star football coach and trainer, who also moved his football field and made the bandages and other protective equipment for his teams.

An excellent baseball coach. Whether football or baseball, his teams were always physically fit.

This is a pretty fast roundup. One fact he had in common with Tennessee, Bethel, University of Nashville, Nashville, A.C. and Texas A. & M. for five years before he came to Louisville.

It was this unknown team that beat the great West Virginia team that a week before, with Ira Rodgers at tailback, had beaten a top Princeton team, 25 to 0. Moran stopped 200-pound Rodgers by sending 220 pound Butcher at him full tilt.

In B. McMillin, Uncle Charlie also had one of the best football players and one of the smartest quarterbacks football has ever sent to any field. His "Praying Colonies" were sensations as long as McMillin, Roberts and Weaver were around—and not so bad a few years later on.

His Big Day I doubt that the Harvard game was Moran's big day. This came when he was coaching Bucknell. The game was exciting, but he lost, and every coach did the best he could.

Charlie told me the story later. At one time I had young Walter, who tested 10 of my men, leaving Charlie only one regular," Moran said.

Tobacco Important In Marshall Plan

Tobacco, from the time of the Virginia colony, has marched along as an intimate part of the American story to the present day. In the wake of World War II, as the United States emerged the strongest economic power, the American cigarette became temporarily a universal wampum—the chief currency in both Berlin and Burma.

You have a cigarette economy, from Paris to Peking, a member told the house of commons in 1948. John Rolfe, husband of Pocahontas, was the first to export tobacco from Virginia to Maryland and the tobacco fields, growing over 25 types, have spread into North and South Carolina, south Georgia and northern Florida, Connecticut and Massachusetts, and the great burley area of Tennessee, Kentucky and the north bank of the Ohio.

THE CIGARETTE is the most American of tobacco habits. European visitors have looked upon this habit with disgust. In 1947, cigarette consumption in the United States exceeded 100 million pounds of tobacco.

The cigarette is the prime favorite. The modern cigarette, as we know it, was created almost on the eve of World War I. The formula of the popular brands sounds appetizing and nutritious. They are flavoured with the bright best such Turkish tobaccos, such as the Maryland and the North Carolina.

THE CIGARETTE has even wooed children into the way from their pipes or smokes. Tobacco is of considerable importance in the Marshall plan—around and not so bad a few years later on.

'Back Yard Beach' With Barge Sandbox

HERE'S an easy to build sand-box that gladdens the hearts of tiny tots and small fry. It's a barge-sandbox that can be used as a wading pool. Its simple construction eliminates the need for anything other than a hammer and saw.

Complete step-by-step instructions and full size patterns insure building in a minimum of time. Painting guides are also printed full size for your convenience. These can be traced directly on the finished boat and painted with the colors suggested in the pattern. All lumber needed to stock size and can be obtained at lumber yards everywhere.

Might Have Been Blown 'top.' If Acconagua hadn't "blown its top," its name might be far more famous than it is today. This Argentine mountain might have been renowned as the world's highest peak. According to World Book encyclopedia, Acconagua, high mountain might have been renowned as the world's highest peak.
