Oil-Cloth Stuck to Table

QUESTION: Could you tell me what will remove oil-cloth that has stuck in spots all over my highly-polished birchwood dining table? The table pad was left on the table all summer and the heat made the pad stick to the table; also, a typewriter standing on the table added to the damage. This fine table is just ruined unless it can be cleaned up.

ANSWER: A wood finisher would have no trouble in cleaning up the mess and if necessary, polishing the table. If you cannot get anyone to come, try very careful and gentle scraping with a dull knife to take off all the sticking pieces that you can in this way. Then go over the remaining, stubborn pieces with very fine steel wool moistened with turpentine. Do not expect perfect results. Some dulling of the finish may be inevitable. I do not generally advise applying wax to a dining table, for wax shows the marks of hot dishes; but in your case it may be well to put on a very thin coat of paste wax, let it dry, and then polish well. Or you could use a good furniture polish, using it according to directions on the label of the container.

Plans for a Workbench

QUESTION: I am interested in obtaining plans or a blueprint to assist me in making a sturdy work bench for my own use. Is this available?

ANSWER: There are two good books that give detailed information and plans for making a work bench by Julian Starr, Jr., published by Watts-Townsend, New York. One is "40 Things to Make for the Home"; the other is "Make It Yourself." There is a great deal of other helpful information in these books.

Painted Radiators

QUESTION: I had my radiators painted a rose color, and I wish to remove this paint without affecting the preceding mahogany color that previously had been painted on them. How can I do this?

ANSWER: You cannot remove one coat of paint without damaging or affecting the others under it.

HOLINESS UNTO THE LORD

By G. W. (Bro.) Murphy

I am back from the Great Tent meeting in Dayton, Ohio, and I witnessed the blessings God is giving to suffering people, a woman that had not heard for 35 years, testified that she was healed. When Brother Ivis moved to Lexington, which will be around the 2nd of next month, people should go and see this man in healing of both soul and body. I met a sister in the Lord some few days ago on his street and on her conversation, she said to me "Brother Murphy, don't write anything in your articles that will hurt me." I forgive me, Pleasido, if not I have, but I would have written anything that would have been inquired or hurt I beg of you, I forgive me, Pleasido, for God knows I desire to have a testimony that will rise above the troubles that are so common to most of us and can say with Paul, in all these things we are more than conquerors through Him that loved us. I realize that our road to destruction is so wide that it hardly looks like a door; the road to destruction is so wide that it hardly looks like a door; one accidentally stumbles into heaven or drifts into hell; final outcome is attained for us today, but I can only look thru faith and some time, "Could" be after I have de- ceased." I received the truth by the efforts of Brother Murphy, so I am saying, "The church that Christ loves is the church that Christ loves least regard- less of the shortcomings of its members."

County Attorney Pat Rankin said witnesses reported Powell hit the officer with an iron instrument after an argument started between them and they scuffled on the floor.

The attorney said the witnesses told him Powell went to the City Hall to see his son, Bill, who had been jailed on a charge of being drunk. Rankin said he understood the argument but said Powell was not on the condition of the lockup.

Gala Highway Opening Planned

Plans are being formulated for a gala day here celebrating the opening of Highway 25 from Mt. Vernon to Roundstone.

An effort will be made to have the governor and certain state highway officials present for the opening. However, as in the nuclear stage and the date for the celebration cannot yet be announced, but watch your Signal for this important announcement.

The black-lapping crew have now reached Horseshoe Bend and will be all the way in to Mt. Vernon in a few days if weather permits.

SOIL CONSERVATION

W. L. Hatt, Wildie, is the kind of farmer that believes in putting conservation on the farm. He has made many changes in the farm he owns this year. Fences have been changed and built, buildings erected and farmsteads spread on grasses and legumes, pasture seeded and a lot of tile laid.

Grades have been laid out by the Soil Conservation Service for additional tile last week. A complete conservation plan is Mr. Hatt's goal.

W. S. "Bill" Stewart also of Wildie says the talk that cattle won't eat Ky. 31 Fescue is the bunk. He says the reason they won't eat it is that the people doing the talking haven't got any. His cattle eat it when they saved 800 pounds of seed from Mr. Hatt's goal.

Mr. Hatt also says that a legume should be seeded with Fescue.

WOMAN'S WORLD

Give Tots Sense of Well-Being With Tastefully-Styled Clothes

By Eritia Haley

SELECTING AND SEWING clothes for children can be lots of fun. When dressed properly and admired by all who see them, mothers feel that the reward is worth all the time consumed.

More important even than having parents admire your children is the sense of grooming, poise and well-being that is being developed in your youngsters as you choose clothes for them which meet that standard of fashion rightness.

True, you don't have to worry about hemlines as they are as easy as about you, or about the extent of the cuff on a little boy's trousers as your husband is concerned about his, but still there's a certain amount of fashion which needs consideration.

Certain styles may be better on your little girl than others, for there do have small individual figure problems. Then, too, colors can be as important to children as they are to adults. Some do more for them than others, as you can easily find out just by trying on a few things.

Your little boy and girl can probably look just as adorable as some you've seen pictured even though their clothes budget is limited and their mother does the sewing. Tasteful selection of colors and fabrics and Collars should be appropriately narrow, and tiny well puffed sleeves are essential for chic. It's discouraging to see children outgrowing clothes so rapidly, and for that reason most mothers strive to make clothing a bit on the large side so the youngster can grow into it. There's no better way to start out sewing clothes than by trying to make clothing a bit on the large side so the youngster can grow into it.

Children develop grooming sense... proper styling are the keys to clothing children attractively. An armload of cheap fabrics that fade and thin with each laundering, skirts of too late styles and hi-and-tad sewing without regard to what's good on the tot will do nothing more than cover him. Good fabrics chosen with a keen eye as to what's right in style and color, sewed with care will make of the youngsters angels even when they're not!

If you start early to instill an appreciation of quality, workmanship and styling in your youngsters, you'll have a strong team qualified hard to duplicate. Take Tips From Top Designers

Any mother who sees her children would do well to copy some of the trade tricks to top children's designers. For one thing, good quality dresses, blouses and other articles of clothing are never skimpy. Very few of the best designers take the time to make them heavy. Deep hems are employed because they

Be Smart!

The beautiful simplicity of the necklines of the new popular dresses and the many new types of upending collars combine to give a perfect foil for ornate necklaces. Setting the pace are the long strands which are looped as you desire. Equally good for the few necklaces or a collarless dress is the choker, usually highlighted with a pendant or pleated collar. Earrings and the repeat the motifs as designed. Typical examples are, selected, the choker of jade and pearl, with a pendant of jade, coral, pearl and rhinestones on gold filigree. The long necklace has opals with pearls, rhinestones and a touch of green.

For Rough Wear

This young gentleman is well dressed for school or play in his smart two-button jacket made of an all-weather corduroy type fabric. The fabric, woven from Avicose yarns, is colorfast and completely washable, and will withstand all sorts of ruffs and tumble wear. There's no better way to start out sewing clothes than by trying to make clothing a bit on the large side so the youngster can grow into it.

Clothes often lose their style because they're practical, and it's far more satisfying to have them fun to wear and be admired, than to shy away from putting them on. For play clothes, select the sturdy materials which wash easily, and are sunfast: corduroy, broadcloth, flannel, denim, poplin, percale, calico, rayon, seersucker and cotton gabardine. In dress clothes, flannel, chambray, pique, dotted Swiss, organdy, sheer cotton, lawn and muslin may be employed.

Although some textured materials, such as corduroy, are favored for play clothes, the smooth fabrics are much more popular for dress. The smooth surfaces mean easy ironing, and less opportunity for picking up dirt while being worn. All fabrics chosen should be sturdy enough to hold buttons, fasteners and eye essentials. Don't be afraid to experiment on the different types of fasteners being shown even though you may never have seen them used on lot's clothing. Zippers are now coming out on little girl skirts and boy's pants. Elastic is used for waistbands on two-piece overalls or slacks even of the two and three year olds.

Hampered-on snaps are very popular in clothing of this type because the children can dress themselves with ease and thus develop independence early. Then, too, they save mother a lot of time in button hole making and button sewing since they're of a more durable nature.

Most children love pockets, and frequently they add much to the style of the clothing, so don't eliminate them because extra tailoring needed. If nothing else, it teaches them the handkerchief habit.

Choose patterns for youngsters as carefully as you do your own. Measurements are, of course, different, but they are important in determining the size which fits. Chest, waist and length measurements are most frequently used, and you should have these on hand before buying.

Implement Company Marks Anniversary

Manure Spreader First Built in 1899

The story of American tree enterprise is graphically illustrated by two buildings at the Coldwater, Ohio, plant of the New Idea Division, AVCO manufacturing corporation, which this year is celebrating its golden anniversary.

One of these buildings (actually a series of connected buildings) covers over 15 acres and houses 705,000 square feet of manufacturing facilities which have expanded. It boasts one of the most modern foundries in the nation and a full complement of equally modern production machines and processes. It is the plant in which New Idea produces its specialized lines of farm implements and equipment.

Angus Kentschilling, who has been with the company 47 years, stands nostalgically at the forge in the "museum"—a replica of the original plant, and it is the same forge at which he worked in his early days with the company.

Across the street is a small, wooden frame building occupying just 1450 square feet of space. In it are an old forge and several simple machines of the kind used for manufacturing in the early 1900's. This is an almost exact replica of the modest structure in which Joseph Oppenheimer first began building his now famous manure spreader in 1899 in the nearby village of Maria Stein, Ohio. The communities for miles around Coldwater, and sales personnel throughout the nation, know it as the "museum."

Large letters painted on the front wall identify the building as "New Idea Spreader Works-1899." Inside are the four rooms in which Oppenheimer and his helpers fashioned the first of the most important and most widely used implements ever devised by the farm implement industry.

The first room as you enter was the "forge and machine room," containing a—forge, hand-shear, hand punch press, hand threading machine, small high speed drill, benches and water tank for cooling a gasoline engine.

Crossbreeds Held Finer Type of Beef Animals Experiments in breeding range cattle show that animal for animal—crossbreeds are a finer type than the purebred stock from which they stem originally.

In making that assertion, a livestock specialist claims there is a definite advantage that could result from planned cross-breeding of beef animals, and lack of uniformity of color is not an indication of inferior market yield.

Cool Weather Provides Excellent Opportunity For Baking, Desserts

WHOSE COOL, much longed for a days are here again, and many homemakers are happy to see they've arrived. If only for the simple reason that they may bake all those glamorous desserts that have to be shelved during hot weather.

If the oven's been cooled by baking meat, potatoes and vegetables, there's no simpler way of solving the dessert problem than popping in dessert to be baked, too. Or, if it's only a pastry shell to be baked, it helps to have the oven on for something else, so heat is not wasted.

THE CHOCOLATE CRUNCH topping for this cake is easily prepared, and the cake may be baked along with any dinner prepared in a moderate oven.

New Plymouth on Display

Plymouth's new special deluxe is featured above. Brilliant new styling is combined with outstanding riding comfort, increased roominess, and sweeping mechanical improvements in the new line of Plymouth automobiles.

Completely redesigned, the new Plymouth has a longer wheelbase for a better ride and more road stability, but less front-end overhang for easier parking and garaging. While the silhouette has been lowered and the width decreased, there is more head and leg room and seats are wider. Typical of Plymouth's many refinements is the ignition-turner combination, with which a turn of the key starts the engine.

The new Plymouths are sleek in appearance. New rear-end styling provides a graceful balance with the horizontal grille lines which emphasize the broadness of the front. Fenders which blend perfectly into body lines are permanently separate and detachable, thus avoiding those metal panels so costly to repair or replace.

The new Plymouth also includes nine distinct automobiles. Special deluxe and deluxe types are on a 118-inch wheelbase, one inch longer than last year's. Special deluxe models are: four-door sedan, club coupe, convertible club coupe and station wagon. In the deluxe group are the four-door sedan and the club coupe. In addition, Plymouth will build three deluxe models on a brand new 111-inch wheelbase, a two-door sedan, a three-passenger coupe, and a new body type, the Suburban.

The 97-horsepower engine has improved performance and efficiency with a new design cylinder head which increases compression ratio to 7 to 1. A new chrome plated compression piston ring reduces cylinder wear and provides greater protection during the break-in period.

There are improved all rings for greater oil economy, while a newly-designed intake manifold induces quicker, smoother engine warm-up and produces faster throttle response.

Body styling which produces greater passenger room without excessive bulk also increases visibility. Y-type windshield has 7 percent more area and provides excellent vision without distortion. Windshield wipers clear 61.5 percent greater area and the rear window is 35.4 percent larger.
