Many Attend Telephone Meet

There were perhaps 150 persons present at a lively Rural Telephone meeting at the High School here Tuesday night and enthusiasm ran high over the prospect of this county getting a rural telephone system.

A recent enabling act of the U. S. Government makes it possible for a co-operative to be formed of 1,000 to 1,500 telephone users who can borrow money from the U. S. at 2% for 35 years and set up their own rural phone system.

Such a plan is being set up here and can be served by this co-op if the need for its service can be established.

The organization committee for the co-op in Rockcastle county was set up as follows: Bradley Saylor, chairman; W. S. Stewart, Robert Snowgrass, Harvey Berry and Peasley Mink. They were instructed to take the preliminary steps toward forming the company in this county.

Emergency Teacher Regulations Adopted

The State Board of Education on March 24, 1950 adopted the following regulations for issuance of emergency certificates for the 1950-1951 school year:

New emergency certificates shall be issued only to persons who have slight deficiencies in qualifying for regular certificates.

Reinstatement of emergency certificates shall be considered on the following basis: Successful experience, total training, and a minimum of six semester hours of additional college work in courses related to the certificate, earned in the spring or summer of 1950 in residence.

So it looks as if new emergency elementary teachers this year will have to have around 64 semester hours if they have never taught before.

Dr. and Mrs. Jack Henderson have moved to their new home at Valley View Manor.

To prepare Bluestone-Lime Mixture: (1) Fill a clean 50-gallon barrel or oil drum 4/5 full of water. (2) In one container thoroughly mix 4 pounds of fresh commercial hydrated lime in 3 or 4 gallons of water. (3) In another container dissolve 3 pounds of powdered bluestone in about 4 gallons of water. (4) Pour the lime paste into the barrel of water and stir vigorously. While stirring, add the bluestone solution slowly. (5) Add enough water to make 50 gallons.

Apply without removing the cotton cover, with an ordinary sprayer can. Stir each time the sprinking can is filled to 1 quart per square yard. Fifty gallons will treat 200 square yards of 24 inch running feet of bed 12 feet wide.

Ditch around the bed to keep surface water from flowing onto the bed. Cut weeds instead of pulling them or make a check application of bluestone-lime after pulling weeds.

SAITONOL Bluestone - lime does not require a dilution, so it wash it off. Don't mix nitrate

WEEKLY NEWS ANALYSIS

Coal Operators Hint at Price Hike; Britain Faces New Economic Crisis; Federal Tax Reduction Poses Puzzle

(EDITOR'S NOTE: When opinions are expressed in these columns, they are those of Western Newspaper Union's news analysis and not necessarily of its members.)

COAL:

The "payoff" in the recent coal strike settlement was coming more quickly than was usually the case in the settling of these disputes.

ANNOUNCEMENT came in the form of a statement by a spokesman for the soft coal operators that they are now in preparation of a 10 to 40 cents a ton increase on the price of coal.

When the United Mine Workers long strike against the industry was settled recently, operators foresaw a price increase.

However, discussion of the price hike indicated there would be no blanket increase. Rather, the boost would vary according to the financial situation and contract commitments of individual firms.

One official was quoted as saying: "If it (the increase) only amounts to 10 cents a ton, the retailer should be able to absorb it. But if it goes any higher, it will hurt the price of coal."

BRITAIN:

Another Crisis Great Britain truly had fallen on its times. Barely escaping one financial crisis after another, the word was that the nation was facing another financial-economic crisis in 1940—just as she did in 1930 and 1938.

THE DAY had passed when Americans could say to each other: "So what—what has happened to the British? For the fact was that because of U.S.-British economic-financial ties stemming from the early Franklin D. Roosevelt era, the door opened to Britain economically or financially should be expected to happen to the U.S.

The reason was that in any such crisis there was no one but the U.S. to whom the British could turn for help.

The problem, as British leaders viewed it, was that although Britain's production is about as high as it can go in the near future, it does not yield enough exports to meet pressing British problems.

ONE OF THESE is the need to increase sales of the country's goods to earn more dollars and solve Britain's current inability to pay for the goods she must get from the United States.

Another is conflicting pressure on Britain to ship goods to other belligerents as a means of paying on huge debts acquired in wartime and since.

Possible solutions included negotiations with the United States to ease pressure on old debts—and as feasible and expedient—provisions of further loans from the United States.

TAX CUTS:

A Problem Cynical observers of congressional tax-cut maneuvering might be forgiven a "so what" attitude.

TO THE AVERAGE taxpayer that must seem to be a senseless business. What was the point in abolishing one type of taxes and levying another? Excise taxes affected almost every one in the nation, and the substitute for a slash there—tightening up of tax loopholes and "such other taxes"—could be deemed feasible—would most likely affect a majority of taxpayers.

That "other such taxes as may be deemed feasible," was the clincher that cut off any relief taxpayers might have had through a slash in the excise levies.

President Truman has threatened to veto the excise tax cut if the bulk of this revenue is to be made up by other sources. With developments as they were, it appeared certain that there would be no excise tax reductions before July 1.

Accused

Dorothy Kenyon, named by U.S. Sen. Joseph McCarthy (R., Wis.) as first on his list of alleged "fellow-travelers," or Communists, in the state department, is a 40-year-old member of the economic and social council of the U.S. commission to the United Nations.

ACHESON:

Tall, debonair Dean Acheson, U.S. secretary of state, was under fire again. He was charged, among other accusations, with trying to "shift the blame" in defending the alleged loyalty-suspect cases Senator McCarthy (R., Wis.) has been airing on Capitol Hill.

SINCE ACHESON spoke his now-famous remark that "I will not turn my back on Alger Hiss," following the latter's conviction of perjury in question with treason charges, Acheson has become the first on the list of names of the state department deliver their verbal blows.

This time, McCarthy charged three key state department assets as having shown Communist sympathies and demanded investigation into the part of the department which he described as working on "top-most defense secrets."

He charges that the state department harbors men and women of Communist leanings or sympathies is not a new one. It has been cropping up for the past several years, and on each occasion the department indignantly rushes forth with a denial.

THAT'S NOT SURPRISING for certainly neither Senator McCarthy nor anyone else expected the state department to admit, such a denial existed, even if it did exist. To do so would admit either a lack of proper security efforts on the part of the department or a willingness to wink at any employee's loyalty if that employee happens to "stand in right" with the proper officials.

ATTLEE: Following the election, in the recent campaign on a Conservative motion to beat down the cabinet's housing program—Attlee made a considerably stronger case on convincing than on previous issues.

THE LABOR VICTORY was made possible by support from the Liberal faction, a development which was pointed out through his supporters' pointed out, there was little else he could have done.

THE CRUX of the election was some 151,000 invalided voters, these were counted, the result would give Leopold only 54 per cent of the votes and he would have to act on the basis of abstention if he failed to receive the 55 per cent he had mentioned.

Fights Tax

Fred N. Asker, Cleveland, Ohio, attorney, is testing the validity of present federal income tax schedules which he declares are "confiscatory."

Asker has not filed any returns or paid any direct taxes for several years, and "invited the government charges."

CURVES:

The matter of whether milday's curves were to be played down or accentuated in his spring's fashions was a subject of no little controversy among designers.

Asker's attitude, though, wanted curves concealed—The other would have them displayed to the best advantage. The subject was important because the fashions made of the end, would be most concerned because he would pay for most of it.

TRUMAN: Costly Flight

Republicans snipe at President Truman, declared that he, as a private citizen, "is one of the best, if not the best pilot man in the world today."

Figures lendings themselves to many artifices, the gentleman is saying that statement, Rep. Roy O. Woodruff of Michigan figured it out this way:

PRIVATE CITIZEN to match the standard of living now enjoyed by the President would need an income of three to three and a half million dollars a year.

SERVICE IN PEACE AND WAR

Red Cross 'National Blood Program' Called Just as Important Now in Defense, Security As It Was as a Survival Factor in Wartime

By General George C. Marshall

MILLIONS of Americans are familiar with the nationwide blood donor service of the American Red Cross during the war because most of them made a personal contribution to the cause of blood. They know that their donations saved the lives of many soldiers and sailors.

Now however, are aware that wartime service has been revived and expanded by the Red Cross. Now it is called the "national blood program."

It is a great service, just as important today for our defense and security as it was during the war when it was a major factor in our survival.

Immunum serum globulin, a blood derivative used to modify or prevent measles, is being used here on a two-year-old girl following her exposure to the disease. More than two million vials of serum have been distributed since 1944 by Red Cross to physicians throughout the nation.

Another blood derivative is said to be invaluable in treatment of shock, burns, and certain kidney and liver ailments, and there still are others now in use or being clinically tested for future availability.

Most of this fractionation to date has been done with surplus war plasma returned to the Red Cross by the army and navy. In one case, a ship that had been sunk in Manila Bay was raised and the plasma aboard was found to be in satisfactory condition for this fractionation.

But today this supply is about exhausted. Therefore, the national blood program is being stepped up to meet this special need.

It is estimated that a donation of one pint of blood from one out of every 25 American adults would meet the nation's normal demand for whole blood and blood fractions.

People have asked me why the Red Cross does not require pin-point recipients or family. To demand replacement is kind, rather than replenishment, or to make any charge whatever for blood which has been so freely given.

People have asked me why the Red Cross does not require pin-point recipients or family. To demand replacement is kind, rather than replenishment, or to make any charge whatever for blood which has been so freely given.

There is only one known source from which this blood can be obtained, and that is from the veins of living, healthy people.

I found that there were 30 regional centers of the national blood program in operation. Blood was being made available through these centers to 1,550 hospitals located in areas embracing more than 40 million people.

While the whole country is not yet covered by the network of Red Cross blood centers, every community sleeping sickness, malaria, typhoid fever, and other blood-borne diseases, such as pneumonia, some types of sleeping sickness, milder infection, and heart impairment.

Last year, 688,533 vials of this serum were supplied by Red Cross to the nation's physicians.

'I Was Tremendously Impressed'

"I was tremendously impressed with the progress of the Red Cross blood program. I am intensely interested in this program. It is one of the most important of the Red Cross' modern efforts and it is of vital importance in the event of major disasters. I am certain that its national importance is not yet fully understood.

"It is inspiring to see so much intensity of effort in a purely voluntary way and at the same time inspiring to find such a small degree of public appreciation of what the Red Cross volunteers are doing."

IKE GIVES THE PRESS A HINT

General Dwight D. Eisenhower, who commanded American forces in Europe during the last war and now serves as the President of Columbia University, recently told a group of student journalists that the newspapers of the nation have highlighted our problems "so much that I've stopped reading them."

We doubt if the General is to be taken literally but it would be a good idea for those who publish newspapers to weigh his words. The successful newspaper, in the long run, must retain the confidence of its readers. Once the columns are filled with speculative nonsense, propaganda and "expert" trash, the day of doom is approaching for the press.

"CONFUSION" IS MENTAL

It is quite common to hear so-called educational experts declare that the educational system of the United States is "in hopeless confusion."

What these critics means is that the schools are too dogmatic in their teaching. The curriculum has been broadened to embrace fields of thought in which mathematical certainty has not yet been attained. The experts, we think, are in greater confusion than the schools.

These critics apparently lose sight of the fact that intelligent thinking cannot occur in any intellectual field that is already closed. When the entire truth is asserted, there is no room for further instruction and no need for additional thinking.

A textbook on economy, for example, may not explain the workings of the gold standard throughout the world, or the exact relation between the supply of money and the prices of commodities, but this does not mean that the study of economics is absurd. Neither does it necessarily imply "hopeless confusion." It may be the result of utter frankness which is a necessary prerequisite to the discovery of absolute truth.

So far as we are concerned, we believe a student will get more out of attending a school which frankly faces the questions of the hour in an exploratory manner than from a school where all the answers are known by the teachers and rammed down the students' throats. If this last process can be considered education in any sense of the word, there is little use in spending immense sums for public education.

The potato situation is "giving a very dark eye to the whole farm program," declares Senator Scott W. Lucas, of Illinois, referring to the possibility that 40,000,000 bushels of potatoes may be dumped or allowed to rot at Government loss.

Fertilizer Called 'Good Buy,' Liberal Use Urged To Beat High Fixed Costs and Lower Crop Prices

COMMERCIAL fertilizer is an "excellent buy" and should be applied liberally to responsive crops to beat the squeeze of high fixed costs and lower farm prices, according to Ed Longnecker, Michigan State College soil specialist.
Longnecker pointed out that in the present period of declining farm prices, residues be returned to the soil, efficiency is vital if reasonable farm profits are to be obtained. This can be accomplished, he said, only if soil productivity is maintained or increased economically.

He recommended several steps to good soil management. First, he advised eliminating crops from land where such crops grow poorly. He advised, too, that a soil test be made of each field at least once during the crop rotation. The results of these tests can be considered in planning the fertilizer program.

Fertilizer should be applied to responsive feed crops such as oats, barley, wheat and alfalfa and to corn when grown on well suited land; also to responsive cash crops, particularly potatoes, sugar beets and wheat. As cash crop prices decline, such acreage should be reduced and the acreage of productive sod crops increased, he said.

Longnecker recommended adding fertilizer to permanent pastures to increase production. This is particularly important on poorly drained mineral soils and muck soils. He also suggested eliminating excess tillage that adds expense and increases crop production costs per acre. Michigan tests have shown that plowing, leveling and packing will

Fertilizer Bought Now Can Be Safely Stored On Farm Until Spring

BUYING fertilizer now and storing it on your farm this winter is one sure way of having on hand all the plant food you need for the 1950 crop season, the Middle West Soil Improvement Committee points out.

Agricultural economists say such a procedure is particularly advisable right now in view of prospects for a big demand for fertilizer in 1950. U. S. Department of Agriculture indicates there may be a rise of from 10 to 25 per cent in the 1950 demand for plant food. So it is important to act promptly if you want to be certain of having plant food when you want it.

Good quality fertilizer can be satisfactorily stored on farms during the winter. It can be kept in good condition until spring planting time. If a few simple precautions are followed, Dr. H. B. Cheney, extension agronomist of Iowa State College, offers these suggestions on winter storage:

1—Store fertilizer sacks only in a barn or some other dry building that has flooring off the ground; 2—If you have to use earth or concrete floors, stack fertilizer bags on a crib of blocks and boards; 3—Keep the piles close together, if sacks are of burlap. This will reduce the circulation of air from which fertilizer may soak up moisture; 4—Prevent caking by piling sacks only seven or eight high; 5—Keep broken bags separate from the main pile. Loose fertilizer soaks up moisture faster than that in a bag.

You'll have plant food for spring use if you buy it now.

THE BLOOD OF JESUS CHRIST CLEANSSES US FROM ALL SIN

Louis E. Kineman, Minister Mt. Vernon Christian Church

The first death on this earth, as far as we know, was that of a little creature whose blood was shed that the bodies of our first parents might be covered. We read that when man realized his naked condition that "Jehovah God made for Adam and his wife coats of skins, and clothed them" (Gen. 3:21). Before their bodies were covered something had to die. Blood was shed. What a preview is given here of the blood atonement which God was later to reveal.

Time marches on! The children of Israel were in bondage in Egypt. Nine times God sent the plagues upon Pharaoh that he might let the people go. Then came the plague of the death of the first-born. The Israelites were to put blood on the posts of the door and lintel, and the first-born of their households would be spared. Whenever the death angel passed over that night wherever he saw the blood, stained, door posts, he "passed over." The "passover" became a feast to the Jews for a perpetual memorial. (Exodus 11 & 12). The blood atonement pictured in Exodus is the beginning of our understanding of God's mercy, and is the beginning of the blood stream that was soon to widen into the crimson tide.

When the tabernacle was set up and the sacrificial system was in full swing under the laws God had given to Moses, we find definite types and pictures of the blood atonement in the sin, and in the trespass and in the kindred offerings of Leviticus, one, a year, on the Great Day of Atonement, the 10th day of the seventh month, the high priest took the blood of an animal killed for the purpose and entered into the Holy of Holies and sprinkled the blood upon the horns of the altar and the sins of the people would be covered for another year, the sin-dict rolled ahead for twelve months. But it is impossible that the blood of bulls and goats should take away sin." (Heb. 10:4). So the great and accumulated year by year until God provided an infinite sacrifice to atone for the sins of an infinite number of people, "But once at the end of the ages, he (Christ) was manifested to put away sin by the sacrifice of himself." (Heb. 9:26). "We have been sanctified through the offering of the body of Christ once for all." (Heb. 10:10). "But Christ having come a high priest of the good things to come, through the greater and more perfect tabernacle, not made with hands, that is to say, not of this creation, nor yet through the blood of goats and calves, but through his own blood, entered in once for all into the holy place, having offered eternal redemption."

What killed Christ in six short hours upon the cross? He was a strong man, physically and spiritually. He had carried His cross the Roman custom had made nearly three hundred pounds in weight, yet he died in half a day. Strong men have been known to live for three days after crucifixion, and some exceptionally strong have lingered for nearly five. What killed Christ in six hours? Isaiah says, "Jehovah laid out His iniquity of us all" (Isa. 53:8). The great mountain of sins of all ages was upon Him. "And who knew no sin he made to be sin on our behalf." (II Cor. 5:21). True is the saying, "who his own self bare our sins in His body upon the tree, that we, having sinned, might live unto righteousness; by whose stripes we are healed." (II Pet. 2:24). He died to cleanse us of our sins. Thus, in God's redemptive plan "Apart from the shedding of blood there is no remission." (Heb. 9:22).

What can wash away my sin? Nothing but the blood of Jesus! What can make me whole again? Nothing but the blood of Jesus! Read again the 53rd chapter of Isaiah, and Peter 1:18-20, Sinner and Christians alike, as we draw near to the greatest event in human history let us remember the words of Jesus, "And if it be lifted up from the earth, will draw all men unto me." (John 12:32). Go to Church Sunday.

HOLINESS UNTO THE LORD
By G. W. (Bro.) Murphy

"The officers answered, Never man spake like this man." John 7:46. I am of the same opinion that the officers were. He has power in his words when He speaks there are no words like those Jesus spoke. Do you remember what wonderful power His words had? One of them dropped upon a wild raging sea and quieted it in a moment.

Another touched the blind man's eyes and opened them. Another fell upon the sparkling water and changed it into wine. Another fell into a drab grave and caused a dead man who lay there, to arise and come forth. Another fell upon a sick man for 38 years standing, and he took up his bed and walked. Another fell on the ears of the great sinner Paul, and he answered back "Who art thou Lord?" Another word from Him said, come and dine, and they did. The same Jesus said to Zacchaeus, make haste and come down, and he made haste and came down and received Him joyfully.

We remember how his words comforted sorrow, and gave peace to troubled ones; how they reached man's hearts and changed their whole lives. Only this past Sunday, I witnessed a man above 40 years of age, after he had prayed solo for an hour or more, raise his feet with the words, "He has spoken peace to my soul," and the man embraced the people and shouted and praised God, as I believe all men and women do, when they really can say, "Never man spake like this man." These words of Jesus Lord! Another word power, they are yet calming tempests, and opening blind eyes, and expelling evil spirits and raising the dead. They are yet giving hope to sorrowing ones, and comfort to their sad hearts. They are still words, yet understandable to the penitents, when the words say "Neither do I condemn thee, go sin no more. Praise His name. He will make flowers bloom where thorns grow before. If you are weary, or in sorrow, and pillow your head on one of these precious words, you will find that you are lying on your Father's bosom, close to His warm beating heart. I trust close, and bid you come be with me at Hill View Holiness Church this Sunday, April 2. We will have communion, and remember the words spake by Him, "It is Finished." We have the promise of Brother Peter Smith, who is 81 years old being with us. He is a great preacher. Come hear him. God bless your hearts.

THE STORY OF TEN LITTLE FREE WORKERS

THESE ARE THE WORKERS
REDDY DOCTOR RAILROADER MINER STEELWORKER FARMER LAWYER GROCER SALESCLERK REPORTER

Ten little free workers in this country fine and fair. But if you think your freedom—workers have a care! Ten little free workers—Reddy was doing fine Until the socialists got him—then there were nine.

Seven little free workers—'till the miners got in a fix. Uncle said coal's essential and took over learning six.

Six little free workers 'till the day did arrive. The steel mills too were federalized—then there were five.

Five little free workers—but the farmers are free no more. The farms have been collectivized—that leaves only four.

Four little free workers till the government did decree. All must have free legal advice—then there were three.

Three little free workers—the number is getting few. But with government groceries selling food—then there were two.

Two little free workers—our story's almost done. With c/s at work in federal stores—that leaves only one.

One little free worker—the reporter son-of-a-gun. Mustn't criticize government—so now there are none.

Ten little workers—but they are no longer free. They work when and where ordered, and at a fixed rate you see. And if all could have been prevented if they only seen fit to agree. And work together instead of saying "I never can happen to me!"

This is the story of CREEPING SOCIALISM. It's the story of what HAS HAPPENED in some countries, IS HAPPENING in others and can HAPPEN here.
