

County Agent's Notes

Final Strawberry Marketing Meeting
 By Robert F. Spence
 All strawberry growers who will have berries to market this spring are urged to attend. Many important items will be discussed at this meeting and plans made for the marketing of this year's crop. The County Agent attended a meeting of the Cumberland Strawberry Growers Association in Somerset on Saturday, May 13, at which time plans were made for the marketing of strawberries throughout the Cumberland district. Since Rockcastle County is a part of this district and berries will be marketed through the Cumberland Association, it is necessary that all growers in Rockcastle County understand the procedure to follow, therefore, at this final meeting next Saturday we will have to plan which days to pick our berries, at which hours to have them in Mt. Vernon to be loaded on the truck, and the exact time that the truck will leave.

This year the Cumberland Strawberry Growers Association hopes to be able to place its strawberries on the market in Cincinnati at the time when chain store representatives are buying strawberries. If we can plan to do this it means that the berries will bring a premium price above that of the general market. This will mean more dollars for Rockcastle County strawberry growers.

If it is hoped that all growers in this County will attend this meeting and help make plans for a good marketing system.

Pasture Improvement
 Joe Bullen, who operates a farm at Roundstone in this County will be attending the meeting and help make plans for a good job in pasture improvement. He and the tenant work an old field of 22 acres and turned it into real pasture land.

For 10 years previous to this the field had grown up in brush, briars, and sedge grass, which would not graze livestock. The stumps, rocks, bushes, and briars were removed and the land was then turned with a tractor plow and disc three times. 17,600 lbs. of Disphosphate and 4400 lbs. of 3-12-12 fertilizer were spread and the land then discd again. Twelve bushels of oats were sowed and discd in.

After seeding the oats Mr. Bullen sowed the following grasses and legumes on the 22 acres and used a cutpacker to cover the seed:
 150 lbs. Ky. 31 Fescue
 160 lbs. Orchard grass
 30 lbs. Ladino Clover
 60 lbs. Sweet Clover
 50 lbs. Red Top

Mr. Bullen says he expects to add lime and more fertilizer this coming winter when time permits. "I want to make this field into real pasture to show what can be done with an old piece of waste land," says Mr. Bullen.

Two Stories of the Futures of Two People—A Girl Worried About Hers; a Man Did Not

By BILLY ROSE

Here are two stories, both true. The first is as plain as a thumb in the eye; the second, as heartrending as a sunrise.

The man is a young Philadelphia industrialist who, on one of his frequent business trips to New York, made the acquaintance of a young lady whose good looks were only surpassed by her amiability. Despite the fact that he was married, the tycoon began to see a lot of the girl, and it wasn't long before he had set her up in a Madison avenue apartment and was forking over $200 a week to cover expenses.

After a couple of cozy and clandestine years, the girl said to him one night, "I've got something to tell you, Daddy. I'll be left without a penny. Don't you think you ought to do something about securing my future?"

"You're absolutely right," said the industrialist. "Give me a few days to work it out."

The next time he called on the girl, he handed her half a million dollars worth of 3 per cent railroad bond.

"These will yield you an income of 15 thousand a year," he said. "Every three months as the coupon comes due, clip them and I'll cash them in for you, and you can use the money for expenses."

"You'll notice I haven't put your name on the bonds," he said.

She thanked him, and the man continued seeing each other until the tycoon keeled over in his Philadelphia office a couple of years later with an attack of coronary thrombosis. When his lady friend read the obituary in the paper, she wrote her name on the bonds and took them to the brokerage house.

The broker examined the certificates. "You're a little late, Miss," he said. "This railroad went out of existence almost 20 years ago."

The girl picked up the worthless paper and walked out. "The dirty double-crosser," she muttered. "He gave me the same three hundred a week."

AND NOW let me take the thumb out of your eye and show you the man.

Some years ago, a Iowa garage man went bankrupt and decided to make a fresh start in another state. He scooped together a little cash, loaded his wife and kids into a beat-up Chevrolet and headed for California. Unfortunately, the jalopy broke down outside of Tucson, and the cost of getting it fixed cleaned him out.

To get a little eating money, he set out to canvass the garages in town for a job but quickly found the supply of local labor was greater than the demand—Tucson, because of its climate, was filled with tuberculosis victims, a good many of whom were mechanics.

At the last garage on his list, he reported his bank story and got the standard hard-down, but as he started to walk out he was stopped by one of the mechanics.

"If you need a job as bad as you say," he said, "you can have mine. I'm pretty sure I can fix it with the boss."

"Doesn't you need the job yourself?" asked the man from Iowa.

"I've saved enough to last me for six months," said the mechanic. "I can't take any more. I'll give me for TB says that's all I figure to live."

JACKIE'S BEST WORLD

By Richard H. Wilkinson

"THE DAY BEFORE" Darling's three-acting circus target to ever visit New England came to Dexter, Sias Liederer called his 12-year-old son in from the barn and said, "Look here, Jackie, you've been a pretty good boy all summer. Guess you deserve bet' on hand with the other boys at that circus when it gets here tomorrow."

The Liederers were poor as church mice, and Jackie hadn't dared even think of asking his pop would let him attend the circus. Consequently, his round blue eyes grew even rounder.

Old Sias grinned and swallowed a lump in his throat. He dug down into his pocket and brought out a shiny, new silver half-dollar.

Jackie carefully placed the half-dollar in a pocket of his tattered overalls, pulled his straw hat well over his ruddy face, pucker up his lips and began to whistle. He whistled all that afternoon and was still whistling when he came in from the lower lot for supper.

Once upstairs, Jackie carefully took off his shirt and then felt in the pocket of his overalls for the half-dollar. He'd better stop whistling it under his pillow, he reasoned, like he'd read about folks doing.

It was right then that Jackie's half-dollar sank, right then that the world turned black and there was a horrible, terrifying, empty feeling in the pit of his stomach. The half-dollar was gone.

Jackie wanted to cry, but he was too much of a man for that. He reassured himself that the half-dollar was carefully tucked under his pillow, and then he went to bed.

Jackie woke up early the next morning and found the half-dollar under his pillow. He was so happy that he cried.

And so Jackie, his heart aching with misery, crawled into bed. And then—"he couldn't help it—he cried. For all the time he kept telling himself he was a man now and he'd better stop crying before mom came up to look him in and kiss him good night.

If mom found him crying she'd feel bad and probably cry, too. And Jackie didn't want that to happen.

HE COULDN'T, he decided, weep. He knew that he had lost the half-dollar. Or pop either. That wouldn't be fair. He'd just go off by himself tomorrow afternoon and make them think he was at the circus all the time. He wouldn't want them to know for anything. But he didn't say one word. Jackie just kept the half-dollar under his pillow and he didn't wait long for

Not All Pictures Are Good Ones

By William R. Nelson

A PICTURE may or may not be worth "10,000 words", as the Chinese proverb claims, but it certainly represents a pretty penny in costs, time, space and judgment, if published in a newspaper. In addition, it is seldom desirable to republish a picture, so all of the effort and money expended is for a single use.

Editors appreciate the interest shown when readers suggest pictures to be published, and they comply as often as possible. But publishing a picture in a newspaper is not as easy as it may seem.

Pictures are only "worth" 10,000 words" when they convey very distinct information. That immediately classified pictures as news and means they should be selected for their news value. Unless a photograph is of someone or some event currently in the news, publication has little value for no reason.

Assuming that a picture has news value, it then must be of such quality that it will reproduce well in the paper. Many photographs which are entirely satisfactory for an album cannot be reproduced distinctly enough to be recognizable in a newspaper. Publishing such pictures is a disappointing waste of space, effort and money.

There are other factors, too, such as permission of those in the picture for its publication, its news value or its amount of interest in it among the paper's readers, and whether there is time to make a picture for the paper.

No Place specifically for the picture in the paper.

Incongruity of the photograph may not be timely and therefore its use may seem incongruous. Even if timely but received too late to get a cut made, it may not be practical to use it in a later issue because reader interest will have waned by then.

For these and many other reasons, the editor is always the best judge of whether or not a picture can be or should be published. If the paper publishes other pictures, some not local in origin, in the very issue for which yours is rejected, it is well to remember that in addition to the above factors, there is still another. It is that some pictures, always of news value, are furnished to the paper in forms that make their use easy and inexpensive, because they are so supplied to many other papers.

IN MEMORY

In memory of our son who passed away two years ago May 30.

Some think we are not lonely when at times they see us smile. Little they know the heartaches, as we suffer all the while.

God knows how much we miss you

Never shall your memory fade. Loving thoughts still always linger. At the spot where you are laid.

Peaceful be thy rest, dear Delbert.

It is sweet to say your name. In life we loved thee, oh! so dearly.

And in death we do the same. Sadly missed by mother, father, sisters and brothers and aunt.

The Griffin Family

HERE and THERE

By Robert Cox

One of the nicest gestures we have seen locally is the placing of a wreath on top the Honor Roll beside the County Courthouse. The wreath was placed there by Mrs. Maggie DeBorde in memory of her son, Clyde A. DeBorde, who was killed in action in World War II. It was a very beautiful and sentimental expression of thoughtfulness, and should remind us all that we should never forget those who died for us and our country in all the wars past.

They say a man is only as old as he feels, and most men don't feel as old as they are.

The installation of the new parking meters in Mt. Vernon has brought about controversial feeling among the town's citizens. Some like the meters, others don't. Those who approve them point to the revenue they will bring into the city treasury. Those who disapprove argue that the meters will drive business away and thus nullify the gains made in revenue.

Both sides have good arguments, but the situation clearly calls for at least a period of experimentation in which the meters may prove themselves or steps will have to be taken to remedy the existing situation.

Just about the time that spring fever begins to wear off, summer has come and it's just too darn hot to work.

Now that the state of Kentucky has begun to advertise its wares in the national magazines, we may begin to see an increase in the state tourist trade—an exploitation that has been long-sought by businessmen throughout the state. Let's hope that plenty of those people are attracted to the Rockcastle Homecoming Festival come July.

It might be a good idea, too, to start writing letters to those friends and relatives outside the state and in the state. There will be lots of folks anxious to come once they hear about it. They know they will be well-treated in Rockcastle County for the reputation is forever growing of the county's hospitality.

The family of Lt. Lewis D. Nicely has been cheered by the news that he has been moved to the hospital at Ft. Knox. Lt. Nicely had been in the Good Samaritan Hospital, Lexington since his auto accident on the Richmond Road last week. Lt. Nicely is reported to be recovering well.

SOIL CONSERVATION NEWS

"Fertilizer on pasture grasses and legumes really bring results," says Charlie Bussell, Mt. Russell fertilized a field of orchard grass that was seeded last spring in a new-ground. The scrubby growth of bushes were cut off with axes then the bush and bog harrow used to prepare a seed bed. Orchard grass and lespedeza was seeded. After the fertilizer was applied the grass just seemed to grow so fast you could almost see it grow, said Mr. Bussell. W. S. Cass top dressed a field of fescue and ladino clover with excellent results. John Holbrook and John Housler say that by adding fertilizer to their fescue they get double the seed yield and lots more pasture after the seed is saved.

Good pastures are the cheapest source of feed on the farm. The judges in the Green Pasture Program, after their first visit to farms entered in the county reported that the fescue and ladino clover combination was showing up best as a pasture combination at this time. They also said that farmers who treat pastures as a crop and see that they are fertilized are getting the most returns from their pastures. Legumes for hay need feeding just as well as tobacco or corn.

Chiant Lear says that he intends to put both phosphate and potash on his alfalfa after the first cutting is made. The life of a stand of alfalfa can be lengthened as well as the yield increased by liberal applications of phosphate and potash every year.

Fortuna Day

In Mt. Vernon
COMES AGAIN ON Saturday, May 20th

Be sure and come to Mt. Vernon on this date, for parking meters will probably be in operation by that time. Opinion seems to be much divided about whether they are going to be a good thing or a bad. Think how much fun it will be to stand around upon the streets to see how it works out. Then discuss it and argue about it with your friends and neighbors. Why, it will be as good as a county fair! Come on in! Don't miss it.

While you are here it will always pay you to visit the Smokey Ward Gathering. It will also pay you to visit the business houses listed below.
