By Local Pastors

THE NEW TESTAMENT CHURCH ESTABLISHED
Louis E. Kinness, Pastor
Mt. Vernon Christian Church

In previous sermonettes, we were presenting the Scripture facts relating to the establishing of the Kingdom of the Church. We had reached the following conclusions: The Church was to be Christ's and he was to be the founder, yet not during the time he was on earth. Second, Peter and the disciples were given the keys to the Kingdom and they were to witness and have a part in the coming of the Kingdom in all of its glory.

Our eyes are now turned to another meeting of Jesus with his disciples and the setting is at the mount called Olivet which is about 1,600 yards from the city of Jerusalem. It is here that Jesus speaks his last word to the disciples which agree perfectly with Isaiah's prophecy regarding the expanding of the Kingdom. Remember that Isaiah said, "Out of Zion shall go forth the law and the word of the Lord from Jerusalem." Now, listen to the words of Jesus when he says, "Ye shall be my witnesses in Judaea, next in Samaria, and finally in all the world."

When Jesus was taken up from their midst, they returned to Jerusalem as they were commanded and there waited in a ten-day prayer meeting.

Turning to Acts 2, we begin reading, "And when the day of Pentecost was fully come, they were all with one accord in one place." Read the entire chapter to get a summary of the happenings. The language used by Luke to describe the notable event is of necessity restrained due to the limitations of the vocabulary of any language. We will never realize the true magnitude and wonder of the occasion described. There has never been anything before nor since that has had such a tremendous effect upon so many nations at one time. Shortly before the same crowd, or at least a portion of the crowd, had been responsible for the death of Christ. Now, before the impact of a convulsion and revealing message, they cry out "Men and brethren, what must we do?" (Acts 2:37). Peter commands that they must repent and be baptized for the remission of their sins which they did. Luke next gives us the following details: "They then that received his word were baptized; and there were added unto them in that day about three thousand souls." And the Lord added unto the church daily such as should be saved (those who were being saved). Acts 2:41, 47. Here in this chapter we have language, Christ's new institution, the Church, as it is brought into existence.

HOLINESS UNTO THE LORD

By G. W. (Bro) Murphy

SPIRITUAL GIFTS

In these last days, as Paul mentioned in his letter to Timothy, the numbers of believers especially in the Pentecostal Holiness church have gifts, or claim to have them; there are 9 gifts God has for the church, mentioned in 1st Cor. 12, 8, etc. Back in the days of Paul there were many questions asked about the gifts, so he wrote these words: "Now concerning Spiritual gifts Brethren, I would not have you ignorant. I have asked for some divine guidance on these important things that he did not want me to be ignorant in, and yet endeavor to write on each one of them for the next several issues of the Signal, provided you who desire to have them discussed and written upon by me (I don't know) (First I will say there must be something to them, for this reason.) Paul says or commands, 'Sit up the gifts', which is in this: 'Neglect not the gift that is within you.' 'Come behind in no gift.' 'Let us long to impart unto you some spiritual gifts.' 'Seek earnestly the best gifts.' 'Be zealous of spiritual gifts.' (1 Cor. 12 and 14 chapters) The greatest gift of all, is the baptism of the Holy Ghost; according to the second chapter of Acts, 4th verse. Everyone who has received the gift of the Holy Ghost has been 'inbued with power from on high.' (Lk. 24: 26)

Now the 1st one: What is this talent or gift? 'The word of wisdom.' According to Webster a gift is that which is given; also talent or ability. The gift of the word wisdom is a revelation from the Lord, to an individual, of his mind and purpose. He provides the gift which is necessary for the occasion. For instance, if you call up your attorney on the phone about some legal matter he won't tell you all he knows about the law, but he will tell you what you need to know. A gift of wisdom is the mind, will and plans of the Lord. It is a flash revelation of his purpose concerning people, things, or events in the future. This gift can be used to fortify the future, to instruct for the future, to unfold free offers of love, to exhort, to urge, to plead, to give commands, to give personal guidance, to reveal the Lord's plan, etc. How very odd! In most cases he who has the gift of the word of wisdom doesn't know it, but those who hear him know it. (Next week, on the Gift called the word of knowledge). Amen.

Rockies Win Two From Central

The Wildlife Rockies displaying a fine brand of baseball defeated the second place Central Scarlets in both ends of a double-header 7-4 and 4-1 last Sunday.

Ed Burdette led the Rockies four games in the lead in the Tobacco League standings.

Robinson won his tenth victory of the season by limiting the Scarlets to seven hits while the Rockies were downed 7-4. Burdette pitched ten safe blows. The Rockies picked up a run in the second inning, three more in the fourth and five in the fifth. When Stewart Parsons reached first on an error, Hiatt doubled, Fish made first on an error, and then Durham and Brannan singled to account for the run. The Rockies scored again in the fourth when two runs crossed the plate as a result of Burdette's error. The home run over the left field fence by Stewart Parsons led the Wildlife attack with a home run and two singles, with Durham and Brannan. The game was a share of the honors with each getting 2 for 3.

Walter McNew handcuffed the Central team in the nightcap by allowing only six hits to the hard hitting Scarlets. McNew used his slow stuff to keep the Central batters under control. The game was well played with only two errors being committed in the contest, one for each team. The Rockies counted single runs in the first and second innings, and the winning two markers in the sixth which broke up a 2-2 ball game to give the Rockies a 4-2 victory. In that inning Durham led off with a doubling. Smith reached first on a fielders choice, and both runners scored. Buckette laid down a squeeze play. Both Durham, Smith, and Burdette led the Wildlife team to victory with each getting two hits at the bat. Burdette made several sparkling catches in left field to spark the Wildlife defense.

The Wildlife Rockies will meet the Ravens in a double-header next Sunday on the Wildlife diamond. The Ravens team defeated the Rockies in their last two contests, and the Rockies will be out to avenge those losses. The Ravens team is now in a tie for second place in the league standings. First game of double-header will start at 1:00.

County Agent's Notes

By Robert F. Spence

Tobacco Priming

Since the tobacco crop is going to be short this year it is good business for every tobacco grower to save all the leaves he possibly can in order to hold up the cash income expected from the crops.

The following 8 good reasons for priming are important:

1. Saves lower leaves.
2. Permits upper leaves to ripen.
3. Saves more leaves.
4. Increases yield of smoking grades.
5. Increases total yield.
6. Brings highest returns.

Priming, if done right, is the answer to the question that growers often ask, "What can be done if the bottom leaves are turning while the rest of the plant is still green?" Most dry weather priming bottom leaves when this happens, cut the tobacco—all of it. By doing so they get 6 to 8 excellent leaves per plant, 4 to 6 passable quality and 6 to 8 immature leaves hardly worth marketing. If, instead of cutting at this time they would go through the field and pick off 2 to 5 bottom leaves per plant and wait to cut until the middle and upper leaves were mature they would get a total of 16 to 20 good, to choice leaves per plant.

The reason for such priming (removing leaves from standing stalks) is that the leaves of tobacco plants do not ripen at the same time. The flyings and trash leaves ripen before the middle and upper leaves and by the time the top and bright leaves ripen and are ready to harvest the lower leaves are often burned and damaged badly, especially in dry weather. By priming bottom leaves as they ripen and while they are sound we get an extra smoking grade.

Does Priming Pay?

Because priming tobacco takes extra labor the first question the growers ask is, "Does it pay?" When priming is necessary it is definitely profitable. Farmers haven't generally adopted the practice of priming tobacco but those who have tried it have found they can increase yields of leaf on an average of 300 to 400 pounds per acre. They have also found it necessary to prime tobacco in a smoker grade and the average quality of crops is improved where priming is done. It, in fact, brings a higher price. In recent years, primed leaves of Burley have averaged 20 to 25% above the seasons average market price. Returns of 100 to 150 dollars more per acre where priming is done have been reported by many farmers of this county.

Priming is practical on all tobacco producers, especially useful to those who have 2 or 3 acres or less. It enables them by putting in a little more work in harvesting to diversify their income by increasing income from tobacco. Of the 120,000 farms in Kentucky producing burley tobacco some 31,000 grow less than 2 acres per farm and only about 14,500 produce more than 4 acres per farm.

When To Prime

Priming may be done at any time after the bottom leaves or flying mature and begin to yellow thoroughly and burn at the first frost. The greater number of leaves in the best condition you should prime the bottom leaves before they are badly burned. Many farmers wait until the bottom leaves are practically cured or until the plants are harvested, then go through the field and pick off the leaves. This done in a dry season may be satisfactory but in a damp season it may result in a serious quality of poor leaves and a loss in profit.

Livestock Judging School

We have arranged for a special 3 day Livestock Judging School to be held at Willie Bullen's farm, Wildie, August 28—from 1:30 p.m. to 4:00 p.m. (slow time). We will have a Livestock Judge, Mr. A. H. Lawson from the State College of Agriculture assisted by Mr. Monier from Berea College to conduct the judging and supply needed information. The purpose of this judging demonstration with Dairy and Beef Cattle, is to teach farmers how to judge dairy and beef cattle for maximum production and showing.

There will be sufficient number of cattle at Mr. Bullen's to carry out a very interesting 2 hours of work under the direction of competent instructors and judges, farmers, veterans farmers, future farmers and H. club members are urged to attend. This is an opportunity to learn more about livestock since it is part of our farm practices. Tell others about the meeting and come yourself. All present will have the privilege of judging each of our livestock.

WHAT MAKES John best remembered is that he preached Christ. He is known as the forerunner; he was the man who said of Jesus, 'He must increase but I must decrease.'

ROCKCASTLE BEAUTY SPOTS

Certain sections of Rockcastle County are indeed however, the story that it is rugged and provide some of the scene of suicides and that the most exciting, natural it "rains every day at Anglin Falls in Kentucky. One of the fact that many years ago when a horse path or skakin' road led up to the falls many young folks went there for outings and romancing and used the rain alibi for a late return home.

The falls may be reached by Anglin Fork road 1 1/2 miles to the Irvin Cobb farm. From there you walk, wade, wiggle through jungle and climb over boulders as high as house, dodge briars, poison ivy and maybe snakes for another mile or more. The boulders are slick with moss and water and present a real hazard. When you finally reach your goal you are steaming wet, muddy and exhausted. Until now you have had not even a glimpse of the falls. You wonder if someone hasn't taken you snipe-hunting. You have been hearing the rush of water through the boulders but suddenly it becomes louder and all at once nature parts his verdant curtains and presents a scene you will never forget.

The stream plunges about 70 feet into a well carved out of solid rock during the ages of erosion. It breaks into a mist which shows you the colors of the spectrum when sunlight can break through the dense foliage.

"The trip to Anglin Falls is trying, yes, but it is well worth the effort. If you haven't been here, go by all means, but be sure to take with you a guide who knows the locale. Accompanying the writer on this jaunt were J. H. Wolfe and Sam Coffey. They had been to the spot before under different conditions. We made it the hard way and to boot got caught in a storm which kept us under the falls nearly three hours. Darkness moved us out into the rain and soaking wet and shivering we must have been a sorry looking trio groping our way back through the wilds in the dark. We spent eight hours making the trip and return, and I might say, thanks to Sam we did return.

I got my picture of the falls alright but lost the films that night in the undergrowth. They were found two days later by Sam and W. T. Smith who lives nearby. I hope to shoot a few more of Rockcastle's natural wonders but Old Mother has a cunning way of hiding them behind barriers and placing obstacles in the path of one who would try to capture their beauty on film.

Miss Odella Allen has been numbered with the sick for a few days.

The purpose of Kentucky's Green Pasture Program is to develop better pastures throughout the state. The final scoring in the 1939 program will be done about the first of October. Between now and that time there are many things that can be done to make Kentucky's pastures greener. Here are some of them:

1. Sow cover crops following all row crops, except on overflow land—wheat, rye, barley, oats, vetch, and crimson clover all contribute to the Green Pastures Program even though they might not be used for pastures.

2. Sow alfalfa in August. Use some grass with it for higher yields and to reduce leaching and erosion. If you have well-drained soil you can grow alfalfa—provided you meet other requirements—such as lime, phosphate, potash, inoculation, and a firm seedbed.

3. Make soil tests. An efficient soil-building program can only be carried out when one knows his soil requirements. Late summer and fall is a good time to use phosphate and potash, and fertilizer of the year.

4. Apply lime and fertilizer. Late summer and fall is a good time to apply lime. It is also a good time to use phosphate and potash, and fertilizer of the year.

5. Renovate old pastures. Many old pastures can be improved by disking or otherwise working the soil, applying needed fertilizers and lime, and reseeding with adapted grasses and legumes. Late summer and early fall is the best time.

6. Bring into pasture development at least a part of your waste or idle land unless used for woods.

7. Don't forget to clip the pastures in late summer. Weeds compete for water and plant food.

Health Department Rockcastle

By Dr. Walker Owens

Today we want to tell you the story of Johnny. At the age of six months he was as healthy a baby as you would want to see. However, by the time he reached his second birthday he was not progressing properly. He lacked pep, had lost his appetite and seemed to be growing weaker.

His mother was worried about him and took him to the family physician. The doctor diagnosed Johnny's trouble as anemia and inquired what the mother was feeding him. When she learned that Johnny was still living on a diet of chiefly milk, he pointed out that a mother should feed her child a variety of fruits and meats. He showed the mother by charts that the child should have had all these things daily, beginning early in infancy.

He also pointed out the need for periodic check-ups. Prenatal and infant care are necessary if a child is to get a good start in life, but a child needs continuing care.

Johnny's mother now gives him an adequate diet—one which is based on his age and his needs—and Johnny is thriving on it. His mother realizes that he should have had continued health supervision from birth through school age and takes him in for a check-up periodically.

Cases like Johnny's are all too frequent in our state, but they can be prevented. For those who do not have a family physician, child health conferences held in communities throughout Kentucky are finding many such cases in the early stages when treatment can be most effective. Parents are being urged to avail themselves of the opportunities offered by such clinics. This is one of the many services rendered by the Rockcastle County Health Unit, in conjunction with this particular program, the Division of Maternal and Child Health, Kentucky State Department of Health, makes available its technical help and guidance.

Water heaters can be too small, too

UNDERSIZED ELECTRIC WATER HEATERS COST YOU MONEY!

Your electric water heater should be large enough to heat all the water your home requires on our low, off-peak rates.
 Few homes can get by on less than 40 gallons of hot water a day. And since you can heat about 80 per cent of the contents of a water heater on the low, off-peak rate, a 52 gallon storage tank can do the job for a small family.
 However, if you try to get those 40 gallons of hot water from a 30-gallon heater, all over 24 gallons will heat at a greater cost per kilowatt hour. From a 40 gallon heater, only 32 gallons will heat on the low, off-peak rate.

 It pays to get your heater large enough. The small additional cost of an electric water heater of the correct size will return dividends in lower operating costs. Get one to fit your needs.
