Education for the next year. I was on this board approximately one year and during that time was instrumental in getting 40 or 50 thousand dollars spent on the Livingston Schools, which is more improvement than has been done in this school in many years. My reason for seeking re-election is that you elect someone who can work with the present administration and can procure many benefits for Livingston and District No. 1 as a whole.

I feel that if this District No. 1 has a qualified board member to represent them during the coming four years of building and expansion the district would be greatly benefited. This is my reason for desiring re-election. I hope to see each and every one of you before election day on November 7th.

Hogs Build Higher Profits at Lower Cost
On Well Fertilized Legume-Grass Pasture

High-Protein Pasture Produces Healthier, Heavier Pigs.

HOGS will build higher profits for you if you give them plenty of fresh, clean legume pasture, reports M. L. Mosher, Illinois College of Agriculture farm management specialist. This practice cuts down grain consumption and also reduces death losses from disease.

Mosher bases his statement on an analysis of income records of 300 Illinois hog farmers over a 10-year period.

The 60 most profitable farms in the group used about one-fourth more pasture and one-fourth more grain than the 60 farms with the smallest profits.

Farms with the most pasture needed 45 less pounds of corn to produce 100 pounds of pork. That was a saving of more than 30 percent in grain. The amount of supplement was the same on farms with plenty of little pasture.

Mosher reports that on farms with the most pasture, death losses after weaning were 18 percent smaller, too.

Altaifa was the most common hog pasture. Other high-protein pastures were red clover, Ladino clover and rye for early spring and late fall.

Getting and maintaining high yielding stands of pasture depends on giving the legumes plenty of nutrients. Agronomists recommend adding phosphate and potash fertilizer to new legume-grass seedings. Top-dressing older established stands with phosphate and potash in the fall will help keep the growth thick and vigorous. Fall-applied fertilizer helps the legumes weather the winter in better condition. Moreover, the plant food is right there ready to be used by the roots when spring growth starts.

Grain markets continued rather weak during the week ended September 21, according to reports to the Kentucky and United States Departments of Agriculture. Market receipts increased and offerings were generally adequate for trade needs. Wheat prices were somewhat irregular. High protein milling wheat was in good demand and sold at or above the previous week's quotations. Ordinary protein types declined with the futures influenced by a slow inquiry, better harvesting weather for spring wheat and favorable soil and moisture conditions for seeding winter wheat.

Corn declined 3 to 5 cents per bushel as farmers offered old corn more freely because of continued favorable weather for maturing the new crop which is still two to three weeks late in some areas. Oats and grain sorghums held about unchanged but barley and rye turned weaker at the leading markets. Flaxseed dropped 10 cents per bushel at Minneapolis and soybeans at Chicago as marketing of the new crop began.

HERRY GO-ROUND

Tobey Election Target

A recent cocktail party, a hand some dinner with a slight draw and polished manner, stepped up to Sen. Margaret Chase Smith of Maine.

We are really going to get that colleague of yours from New Hampshire," he said. "When the Republican primary is over your friend Tobey isn't going to run what his him." And he went on to tell at some length about his plans to defeat Tobey.

Senator Smith's friend was Roger Whiteford, a top Washington attorney, while the senator to whom he referred was Tobey's ally, Charles Tobey, now fighting for his life in the New Hampshire primaries.

Behind this cocktail conversation was something which is axiomatic in politics—namely, "Your friends may forget you at election time, but your enemies will not."

This axiom, incidentally, is having important impact on the makeup of the caliber of the United States senate.

In this particular instance, it happened that 30 long years ago, Senator Tobey called for a hearing before the senate interstate commerce committee and subjected him to a grueling cross-examination regarding profits made by the giant Radio Corporation of America to call off an antitrust case against RCA, the National Broadcasting Company and its allies.

Hoover Says 'No'

Whiteford was then a Washington attorney for the corporation, and thanks to Senator Tobey's grueling cross-examination, it was decided that RCA had to pay $75,000, of which $25,000 went to the testimony, $25,000 was passed on to the clerk of the U. S. district court in Wilmington, Del. That fixed the antitrust case.

The clerk indicated Judge John P. Neils, appointed to the bench through Senator Hastings, to postpone the antitrust suit, following which the justice department finally let RCA off with a consent decree.

The evidence was truly shocking. It showed that one of the nation's most important corporations had resorted to political fixing and bribery to get an antitrust case called off. And had it not been for the persistent efforts of Senator Tobey, the facts probably would still be buried.

Now 18 years later, it appears from Roger Whiteford's conversation with Senator Smith that the chickens hatched by Senator Tobey's fearless perseverance are coming home to roost. For the opposition against him in the New Hampshire primary is such that he can no longer.

Similar Battle In Utah

Tobey's opposition is similar to that which has lined up against other courageous Republicans in Utah. For instance, the national automobile manufacturers has helped nominate its president in Utah, the one to Senator Elbert Thomas, and may defeat him. Thomas, as chairman of the senate labor committee, was the repeat of the Taft-Hartley act and went all-out for labor. Now big business is retaliating against an anomaly while labor is going to bat for a friend.

Similar forces were lined up against senators Claude Pepper in Florida and Frank Graham in North Carolina—two men who had the courage to fight for the Negro and for labor. And whether you agree with either of these senators, even their enemies have to admit that it takes courage to champion the Negro in Florida and North Carolina. Both senators were defeated in this year's primaries.

New Hampshire's Tobey now appears to be next on the list. And again, whether or not it is Tobey or not, his enemies also have to admit that he has courage. He was, for instance, the one Republican who led the fight against confirmation of Truman's close pal, big oilman Ed Pauley, to be under secretary of the state a time when Truman was at the peak of his popularity. Most Republicans did not relish bucking him.

WEEKLY NEWS ANALYSIS

JOHNSON:

Resigns Defense Post

In a move that caught much of the nation by surprise, President Truman accepted the resignation of Louis A. Johnson as secretary of defense and nominated Gen. George C. Marshall to succeed him.

The move was surprising in that the President had insisted up until a few days before the announcement that he would not ask for Johnson's resignation.

Johnson had been under attack in Capitol Hill and elsewhere on the ground that he was fundamentally responsible for defense weaknesses brought into glaring focus by the Korean war.

There were rumors also of a wide breach between the defense chief and Secretary of State Dean Acheson which added to the confusion and demands that Mr. Truman accept his resignation.

Under the existing unification law, no person who had been on active military duty within the past 10 years was eligible for the post of secretary of defense. President Truman immediately asked legislation to enable Marshall to accept.

Although opposition to the move arose immediately after Marshall said he would come out of retirement to accept the post, there was little doubt from the first the law would be changed and the general confirmed.

TRUMAN:

A Tough Speech

President Truman in a second radio address to the nation in as many weeks said cost of living would soar to a rate of $30 billion annually by next June and that inflation was being held in check only by the government "unless we do something about it."

The chief executive also announced the creation of a stabilization agency to hold prices in check during the war emergency.

He named W. Stuart Symington, chairman of the national security resources board, to coordinate the administration of these new powers.

Observers reported the President's speech a tough one, much stronger than had been anticipated. Without mincing words he called for new tax increases "as soon as possible" on top of $4,500 million increase now in process.

Shortly before his radio talk he issued an executive order designating agencies to enforce price controls, limit civilian goods output if necessary, lend money for defense plant expansion and allocate scarce materials.

"For the consumer," he said, "the guiding principle must be: Buy only what you really need and can do without."

And the housewife follows that rule, he promised, "there will be enough of the essentials—in fact, enough of almost everything—to go around."

For businessmen, he said, the operating rule should be: "Do not pile up inventories; hold your prices steady."

And after he set forth this guidance: "Do not ask for wage increases beyond what is needed to meet the rise in the cost of living."

FOREIGN MINISTERS:

Imported Discussions

The foreign ministers of Britain, France and the United States held talks in New York concerning the defense of western Germany.

Early reports indicated the three—Ernest Bevin of Great Britain, Robert Schuman of France, and Dean Acheson of the United States—were in some agreement on the question of arming western Germany.

Acheson had previously exchanged views with members of the congressional foreign relations committee. Those present at the meeting agreed unanimously to pledge support to the "general line which the secretary would follow"—evidently meaning the administration's aim at arming western Germany.

The three also appeared to be in agreement on President Truman's proposal to send more American troops to Europe as an important step toward the common defense of the continent.

Schuman indicated that France was prepared to make comparable contributions to the program and that France has sufficient factories for arms production.

Assault Fails

A KOREAN

Although Communist troops continued to apply pressure on the northern front near Yongchun (2) and in the vicinity of Pohang (3) their all-out offensive has stalled again. New attacks were reported in the area of Chongju (4) in the north and the area of Changnyong and Yongsan (5).

CROP PROSPECTS:

In Line With Average

The department of agriculture predicts a harvest volume higher than in five of the past eight years and in any year prior to 1946. It forecasts the volume at 125 per cent of the 1929 average level.

Up until the latest report, a drop in farm production had been predicted all along the line. Now the picture was revised, wheat, corn, peanuts, peaches, apricots, peaches, rye, and dry peas appear smaller than average.

Corn remained virtually unchanged at a bumper crop level despite unfavorable growing weather.

Wheat total climbed above the billion-bushel mark to 1,012,000,000 bushels. This was an increase of about 15 million bushels over the August 1 estimate.

Other crops for which production prospects improved included oats, barley, flaxseed, sorghum grain, hay, soybeans, potatoes, sweet potatoes, tobacco, sugar beets, hops, apples, pears and grapes.

Soybean and sugar-beet production indicated a record level. The department said prospects indicated production of grains will provide livestock for the nation's expanding livestock industry.

KOREA:

Situation Dangerous

Military observers reported the situation in Korea still dangerous, but not critical, with the entire front the quietest in a long time.

North of the U. N. and Communist troops engaged in a heavy artillery duel with the invaders building up their forces for a possible new offensive in that area.

At the east-coast end of the northern front, U. N. forces were striving to seal a trap around an estimated 80,000 Communist troops. At the east-coast end of the northern front, U. N. forces were striving to seal a trap around an estimated 80,000 Communist troops.

On the southern front American troops recaptured a ridge from the Red's four miles east of the confluence of the Nam and Nakton rivers.

In the air, fighter planes of the Far East air force continued around-the-clock aerial assaults that hit a record of 670 sorties in one day.

But the big news from Korea was that nobody talked anymore of an American "Dunquerque". Predictions of early victory, however, were hard to find. U. N. command.

The period of optimism returned because U. N. forces smashed the Red's largest offensive, the 50,000-man attack on the southwest front toward Pusan which began September 1.

Other counter-attacking U. N. forces succeeded in closing the gap in the northern front and were well on a Communist break-through toward Yongchun, gateway to Taegu.

On the front itself the general opinion persisted that the U. N. troops. In Korea were there to stay even though they might have to give up more bloody ground. Even the pessimists seemed to believe that.

Grandma's Sayings

LOTS OF FOLKS learn only by experience that the same key that opens the door to success also locks the door to excess.

WOULD YOU believe it? There's a modern Miss (Mammy) with new things about cookin'; I'm referin' to Miss Nu-Maid, the little lady on the Nu-Maid margarine package. Thanks to her, I've found out yellow margarine no longer comes in modern baby style 16 pound prints to do any servin' dish. I found out Nu-Maid is a modern margarine.

IT'S GOOD for youngins' to keep in mind that just 'bout the sweetest musico to a busy mother is the sound of 'dishes baw' washed—by somebody else.

WHEN I LOOK for margarine, I always look for the picture of Miss Nu-Maid on the package. And folks, there's a package that's really unique—Nu-Maid in every way. Seals in Nu-Maid's "Table-Grade" flavor. And that churned-flavor makes a big difference in my cookin' and bakin'.

REDS PREPARE NEW MOVE last week. A location was found that eliminated the steep grades of the old road. The survey will be completed and the plans made, so that all possible delay will be eliminated when it is finally determined whether or not State or other funds will be available to build the road.

Because of the very steep slope between the top of the hill and the river, all of the level spaces on the hillside will have to be utilized for picnic areas, overnight cabins, parking spaces and other installations needed at the dock. Summer home sites for that area will have to be confined to the hilltop overlooking the river, where several very desirable locations will be available, when it is determined that none of the area will be needed for public use areas. Private camps will not be permitted in areas that may later be needed for public use—London Sentinel-Exho.

Woman's Club Holds

The season's first meeting of the Woman's Club was held Tuesday evening at the home of Mrs. John Lair at Renfro Valley. Mrs. Fannie Thompson, president, opened the meeting. This is Mrs. Thompson's second term as president of the club.

RIVER SITES PLANNED

W. E. Hodges from the Regional Forester's Office in Philadelphia arrived at London last week to layout the Rockcastle River dock site, picnic areas and summer home areas. After completing the recreational plans here, he will go to the Jellico District at Williamsburg to layout the Laurel River dock site and make other recreational plans for that area.

Preliminary road surveys to the Rockcastle dock were made

WASHING — POLISHING

LIGHT YOUR FARM

FOR CONVENIENCE— Good seeing conditions are essential on the farm. The better lighting you have, the quicker and easier you can do every job. In barns, barn lots, milk parlors, poultry houses and shops, it's the ease of seeing that helps get things done.

FOR INCREASED PROFITS— The perfect grading you achieve with modern stripping room lighting can pay the installation cost from one crop of tobacco. Lights in the poultry house can start feeding earlier each day, speed growth, get fryers to market earlier, increase egg production. Lights during lambing help you spot trouble quickly, permit you to move about without startling the flock.

FOR THREE KINDS OF INSURANCE— Check your farm to see how many places where added electric lights would mean extra safety from fire... from accidents... from prowlers. Additional light is your cheapest form of insurance against these three.

Extra lights and wiring cost so little... save so much work and worry. Why not have one of our farm representatives help you plan your farm lighting? Just phone us. The service is free incurs no obligation.
