Bathroom Should Receive First Attention in Remodeling Plans

By Erita Haley

BATHROOMS are usually the smallest rooms in a house, and deserve careful planning. With one bathroom, the whole family must use it. It's essential to make it as colorful and useful as possible.

Modern Bathroom

If you're remodeling or building a home, experts say that the bathroom should be at least five and one-half feet by seven. This is the minimum size to be practical, and if it can possibly be any larger, it's wise to make it so.

For those who already have their homes and cannot change the size of the bathroom, it might be wise to look to some tips for making more storage space available. If you can clear the floor of a small bathroom, for example, you will really have more room and thus simplify the cleaning job.

Decoratively, much can be done to improve the bathroom and make it more cheerful. There are many accessories which will spice the bath scheme which you can change at little expense. The main thought to remember in this respect is that the room is small and too many different colors cause a jarring note as well as a confused appearance.

If you store folded clothes in the bathroom, there are a number of them. Lack of floor space can lead you to place one which attaches to the back of the door. If several towels to hang are your problem

Good storage space... and you don't want them draped over the bath tub, think back at different levels solve this problem nicely.

Hooks for brushes, combs, hand mirror, shower caps and such items will also help clear the room and keep it more neat.

Good Planning Make Essential Windows in bathrooms are a necessity, but they should never be placed over the bath tub. If set there, they would be hard to open and close, and it would provide too much of a draft for bathers. The window is well placed on one side of the basin or against a free wall.

A separate shower stall is nice to have, but if there is not the space for this, the bath-tub-shower combination works out well in most cases. If tiled, the tilework should be carried to at least the height of the shower curtain bar, to avoid damage around the walls around the shower, and the rod itself should be firmly anchored.

Medicine chests are standard equipment, but most in bathrooms are completely inadequate for the average household. If the wall area permits, build a man-size chest with a full-length mirror as the door.

Storage cabinets built under the wash basin are convenient and inconspicuous places for hanging towels, soap supplies and powders and cloths for cleaning. Cabinets of this nature in their bathroom would provide more storage facilities if they could.

Quality Pasture Cuts Swine Feeding Costs

Feed Costs Reportedly Can Be Cut 30 Per Cent Hog feeding costs can be cut down as much as 30 per cent with high quality legume pasture.

Either occasion will be a several hours, and you'll have the kind of feed that can be set on the table for eating, and sipping when it's convenient.

Cold succulent slices of turkey, roast beef or ham are ideal for the main platter. Serve with this tossed or molded salad, assorted relishes, breads and rolls.

The dessert can take the form of a festive, creamy punch to be served in low mugs or punch cups with stick cinnamon, sugar cookies, candies and assorted, salted nuts.

When they are fed all the grain they will eat pasture will save at least 10 per cent in feed.

Among high protein pastures are alfalfa, red clover, Ladino clover and eye for late yield and early spring.

How big a pasture yield you get depends on how well the legumes are fertilized. Agronomists recommend adding phosphate and potassium to new legume seedings.

Cover cabbage with water for 1 hour. Drain and add celery, mix oil, parsley, watercress, tomato juice, minced onion, salt, and pepper together thoroughly and pour over cabbage and celery. Mix well, chill and serve.

Combine pineapple, cherries, marshmallows, and confectioners' sugar. Blend well. Thin cream cheese with cold cream and vanilla. Mix with fruit. Fold whipped cream and vanilla into mixture. Pour into refrigerator tray and freeze at coldest temperature just until cream mixture is firm.

Know Your County

By GEORGIA CLARK
Mt. Vernon Unique
In Tourist Field

Mt. Vernon county seat of Rockcastle County, is probably one of the most unique little towns of its size in the country. Rich in historical lore, the town has long been the stopping off place of travelers from near and afar. Through the years of Ralph Griffin, the history of the town has been traced back to the days of Daniel Boone, but there probably has been no more epic making period in the history of Mt. Vernon and Rockcastle County than today.

and Renfro Valley, which are synonymous in the minds of many, will reach into the hearts of Americans from coast to coast. On January 1, the new Renfro Valley show will go on the air seven days a week over the CBS radio network. More and more people will be coming to Mt. Vernon as a part of their itinerary in visiting Renfro Valley, home of the Renfro Valley Barn Dance.

Mt. Vernon will be ready for the visitors. The town has been making preparations for just such a day for more than ten years. The Renfro Valley Barn Dance first went on the air in the fall of 1939, but even then Mt. Vernon was prepared to greet tourists.

Town Of Lights
Today neon lights all over town advertise the fact that the tourist is welcome, but even before John Lair began to see his dream come true, Mt. Vernon seemed to beckon to the traveler.

Mt. Vernon - Where the Boonewave Joins the Dixie - has always been the logical place to spend the night. True, there was a day when it might not have been safe for the lone traveler to venture into "The Wilderness" alone, but a background like that only adds to the progressiveness of the community.

Today modern highways like U. S. 25 and U. S. 150, which meet in the heart of Mt. Vernon, give the town a more inviting air than ever before, but long before modern highways were more than a dream, lights in the windows of the homes of Mt. Vernon sent out their welcome.

Or maybe it was the flicker of the burning logs in the front-room grate. At any rate, travelers stopped, and they were made welcome. One of the most popular spots in the early days was the Aunt Mal McKenzie home on Richmond Street, now known as the Brown Tourist Home. Aunt Mal didn't mind a sign out at first, but still the travelers stopped.

Hamlin Pioneers
Then in 1927 Marion Hamlin gave the town something to talk about with his modern brick tourist home in the section of Richmond Street now predominated by tourist homes, cottages and cabins.

Another pioneer in the tourist field was Jim Winstead, who's office as his modern day contribution the Half-Way House, on U. S. 25 South of Mt. Vernon. Winstead first owned and operated the Pine Grove Camp on U. S. 25, South of Mt. Vernon, and then the Old Winstead Camp on the curve of Old U. S. 25. Pine Grove was built by the late Wade Graves, and the Old Winstead Camp was built in 1931.

County's Largest Camp
While Hamlin and Winstead pioneered in the tourist field, Green Carpenter came to Rockcastle from Laurel County to build up the largest tourist court in the county. Today his cabins, known as the Hillview Camp, number close to twenty. The original group of three cabins first were built into a court and today reach out toward Renfro Valley with a long row of cabins. Reigning over the tourist cabins is a log house, which often serves as a retreat for visitors to Rockcastle County for months at a time.

Typical of the visitors who keep coming back to spend a few restful days or weeks in the log house are Dr. and Mrs. Walter Winzel of New Mexico and Texas. The Winzels leave Mt. Vernon with tears in their eyes and often write back inquiring about the many friends they have made in Rock-castle County.

Vacation Rambler
Across highway from the Carpenter log house is the Runyon cottage. The Runyons are from Louisville and spend several weeks out of the year in the hills of Rockcastle County.

Hardly a large house exists today on the main thoroughfare of Mt. Vernon which hasn't at one time served as a tourist home. In the days when Aunt Mal McKenzie was first welcoming travelers, the T. J. Nicely house also was serving as a tourist home. Other homes on Richmond Street which have welcomed tourists include the R. B. McKenzie home, across the street from the McKenzie homeplace, the Cecil Purcell home, owned today by James Lambert, but known as a tourist home when the J. W. Griffins lived there. Oscar Hilton welcomed tourists in the house now owned by his daughter, Mrs. Carl Jones, and the Hiltons have remodeled the old Ball homeplace into a modern tourist home. The Hilton's daughter and son-in-law still keep tourist in the smaller house.

David Gregory and Bob Gentry have cabins and cottages next to the house the Hilton's built and on out Richmond Street the visitors find the Estelle Builders' cabins.

Camps South Of
On the other side of town, on U. S. 25 South, are to be found Jim's Place and the Pine Grove Camp. Jim's Place, originally the Melvin Hughes Camp or Unique Inn, later became Clark's Camp and today is owned by Johnny Clark's daughter and son-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. James Mullins.

One of the newest establishments is the Bell's, owned by Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Brennan of Louisville. The Bell's area restaurant was the idea of Renfro Valley's Smokey Ward, and the restaurant itself was carried out to include 10 modern cabins.

Renfro Accommodations
Belly Acres leads to Renfro Valley and Dixie one finds John Lair's Renfro Valley Enterprises.

Renfro has 21 log cabins, in addition to the barn, inn, museum, and other properties which make up the Renfro Valley Enterprises.

But only a few of the visitors to Renfro can find accommodations in the Valley. Others find their way on into Mt. Vernon. Past Belly Acres they come, then appears the Green Carpenter's Hill view Camp and then the visitors starts seeing things. Appearing as if out of nowhere, the traveler is greeted by an assortment of tourist accommodations to suit the taste of anyone. At night neon lights flicker as if in every direction. Tourist mesa, the establishments on Richmond Street might be called. On past Hamlin's and Gregory's and the Hilton house and the visitor can stop at Cornelius'. Cornelius' Cottages are next on the itinerary.

Camps In Town
Even in the center of town you'll find tourist cottages and cottages.
On past Brown's Tourist

Home and the Hilton Tourist home, and the traveler finds two more camps. The Vernon Griffin cabins greet the traveler first and then comes McKenzie's Court. The Willis McKenzie camp started out with a few "wigwam" cabins, and now 11 cabins make up the McKenzie Court.

Tent Camp Recalled.
In town, of course, are the hotels, the Dixie Boone, the Mt. Vernon and the Rockcastle, but for as long as anyone can remember there have been other tourist accommodations. Old-timers in town recall Bill Fish's tent camp. Located in front of the present day Dixie Boone Hotel, the Bill Fish camp offered the traveler the opportunity to pitch his tent in a safe and protected area. Even in those days Mt. Vern attracted the visitor. The charge was 50 city limits of Brodhead.

cents a night, and the traveler was welcome to set up house-keeping.

Welcome Reaches 'Ous
So from the days when the traveler found it necessary to carry along the kitchen stove, Mt. Vernon has grown. Today any accommodation, from the humblest tourist cabin to the most modern cottage can be found in the city limits of Mt. Vernon, the county seat of Rockcastle County. And from Mt. Vernon the welcome reaches toward town. Even headed toward tourist accommodations. Old-timers in town recall Bill Fish's tent camp. Located in front of the present day Dixie Boone Hotel, the Bill Fish camp offered the traveler the opportunity to pitch his tent in a safe and protected area. Even in those days Mt. Vern attracted the visitor. The charge was 50 city limits of Brodhead.

Stroke Given As Cause Of Cornelison Death

Eli Cornelison, who was taken to Berea Hospital last Monday after it was reported he had attempted to take his own life, died last Thursday.

It now is believed that a stroke might have been responsible for Mr. Cornelison's cutting himself with a razor.

Dr. John Baker, attending physician, has given a cerebral hemorrhage as the cause of death, and Mr. Cornelison's son, Radio Entertainer Ernie Lee, has quoted the physician as stating that throat wound Mr. Cornelison suffered at his home Monday morning probably were inflicted accidentally with his razor when he suffered a stroke while shaving.

The son reported that his father had suffered two previous strokes and was partially paralyzed. He also quoted the doctor as saying that the throat wounds were healing and did not cause death.

Mr. Cornelison was 68 years old and was known in Mt. Vernon as Rockcastle route man for the Berea Dry Cleaners. In addition to his son, Ernie Lee, he is survived by his wife, Mrs. Julia Cornelison, and two other sons, D. N. Cornelison, Big Hill, and Jimmy Cornelison, Berea.

New Highway Strip Open For Travel

Robert A. Blair, Corbin, executive director of the U. S. 25 Dixie Highway Association announced today that the new U. S. 25 highway from Livingston to East Bernstadt has been opened for winter travel.

Mr. Blair said that the new section of road "is now being used by cars and light trucks," also pointing out that there is a saving of more than six miles by the use of the new road.

With the exception of "one-half mile of good gravel, the remainder of this new section of highway construction has one or more layers of asphalt top and offers excellent driving conditions through an area of upland scenery.

World's Largest Culvert

The longest and largest highway culvert in the world is in this new section of U. S. 25, and is located about six miles north of Livingston, according to Blair.

It is understood that the open until Spring, when the contractor will complete the job. The road being opened at this time will greatly facilitate Florida travel over U. Junior Jones City's First To Die In Korean War

Killed While Serving With U. S. Marines

The Korean war hit closer to home than ever this week as news was received in Mt. Vernon of the death of one of the town's most young men, Edward Jones, Jr., of the U. S. Marine Corps.

The War Department telegram announcing Jones' death was received Tuesday by his sister, Mrs. Gordon Graham. As word of the youth's death spread, heads bowed, and many a group of the town's young people met quiet seemed to prevail. There wasn't much which could be said.

Junior Jones was loved by all who knew him. At Mt. Vernon High School he played saxophone in the school band, and after school and on Saturdays worked in Maggard's Drug Store, where he always had a smile and a welcome for everyone he met.

He graduated from high school in May, 1948, and worked for the health department until August of that summer, when he enlisted in the U. S. Navy. He was 17 at the time of his enlistment and 19 when he died.

According to the War Department telegram, death came on November 28, in Korea. At that time he was 19 and was serving with the U. S. Marine Corps, having been transferred from the Navy to the Marines last July. He received his first commission in the Great Lakes Naval Training Station and went overseas about five months ago, with the Second Marine Division.

Mrs. Hoskins' husband, Earl Hoskins, still is in Berea Hospital where he is being treated for chest, rib, scalp and leg injuries. The occupants of the other car, an Illinois car, were admitted to the hospital for treatment. Mr. Hoskins condition is reported critical.

Driver of the Illinois car was Robert T. Sledge, 18, who was on his way to his family's home in Knoxville, Tenn., with the girl Miss Cora Bell Murray, 15, gave Chicago as her home. The couple went on to Knoxville Wednesday.

The wreck occurred on U. S. 25, this side of Renfro, with both cars reported demolished. Cause of the wreck has not been determined.

SERMONETTES

By Local Pastors

By Rev. A. M. Williams
Brodhead Baptist Church

It is a precious privilege this unworthy servant of the Lord has, in bringing to you His Word; if trusted, tried and tested will never fail.

Today I desire to speak to you regarding the Way! From the lips of our Master Jesus Christ, came these words: "I am the way, the truth and the life." You will notice that Jesus did not say that I am a way, a truth, and a means of life. Christ would have contradicted Himself when He said: "No man cometh to the Father, but by me." Jesus taught, emphatically that there is only One Way, One Truth, and only One true source of proclamation that they quit their Living. A man cannot say that he is truly living, if he eats well, wears good clothing, has been able to build a comfortable house. He will realize at the end of his way, that he has not lived, but has merely existed in a world of temporary life. Man who walks in his own way, is walking down a path which proves to be a way of slow death. Man cannot live by bread alone, the Saviour says; but, "by every word that proceedeth out of the mouth of God." Man can only live by the light shed on The Way of eternal Life — and this only by the one who is the center of the Way, the "Son Of Righteousness!"

How can you find the Way that Jesus said He was? Repent — which means: "Quit your sinning, do an about face as we learned in the service." You must stop walking down the slippery way, which is the way, prepared by the deceivers of mankind — the hissing serpent, the devil disguised as the angel of light. "Billy Graham," Nationally famous Evangelist was given an audience with President Truman. Truman asked, "Do you want me to declare a National Day of Prayer?" "No, I want you to make a national proclamation for this nation to repent, fall on their knees to God; I want you to

SOIL CONSERVATION

By Clay Colson

Ask any farmer who has a good farm income what his key to success is and he won't give you just one thing that accounts for his well being. In slang terms they don't "put all of their eggs in one basket."

John Holbrook, Brodhead says you can't do any good farming in this country without cattle. However he doesn't depend on cattle alone for his income. In addition to cattle he has an income from tobacco, hogs and feed, just to mention a few. With good cattle one needs feed and pastures.

The secret of good pasture is a combination of grass and legumes and plenty of fertilizer, says Mr. Holbrook. High quality pastures can not be produced on soils that do not have plenty of plant food in them. A farmer can't wait until pasture season opens up and then overnight develop a good pasture, neither can he wait until the day before he needs fertilizer and expect to get the kind and amount that he needs every time.

How many planes do you think a plant could make if the manager waited until everyone came to work and then said, "we'll make jets today and 100 miles of insulated wires, 100 motors, etc., go out and see if you can find them somewhere in town?"

Plan ahead. Sometimes a penny pencil used correctly can be the greatest tool a farmer can have. What kind of soil do you have on your farm? What is it capable of producing? The Brodhead Soil Conservation District can help you find out. Develop a long time farm plan, then work your plan.

WEEKLY NEWS ANALYSIS

Truman, Attlee Outline Program Of 'Peace Without Appeasement'; Korean Picture Remains Somber

EDITOR'S NOTE: When opinions are expressed in these columns, they are those of the writers. The newspaper's policy is to accept and not necessarily to agree.

With 1951 but a few days away a number of observers paused long enough to ask the question of what life in the United States might be like during the coming year, assuming we have still managed to avoid a third world war.

The assumption that the U. S. will not be involved in war during 1952 is taking the optimistic view of the coming year. But if that should be the case, the future, shapes up something like this:

Cost of living will be higher, perhaps by as much as six per cent, with prices and wages controlled. Food will be ample, including luxuries at higher prices. There are a few people who will not eat more, but eat better.

High grade wool for clothing will be scarce and rayon goods will be in tight supply. House furnishings quality will deteriorate and some items will not be available.

Automobile production will be far below 1949's eight million or more. There should be enough gasoline to go around, but the quality is likely to be somewhat lower.

There will be a good deal higher than the average American and an excess-profit tax is almost certain. Consumer credit controls will be tougher, meaning longer down payments even than now and shorter payment periods.

All of which means, according to the experts, a lower standard of living for the average American and an austerity program for the country generally.

U.S.A., 1951:

Washington Merry Go-Round

Churchill Supports Attlee

There is a certain vein of similar-ity running through the lives of the two men who conferred regarding the future to be followed by the British and American governments toward future war or peace.

Prime Minister Attlee and President Truman both are left-of-center liberals, both have spent most of their lives in government, both have tried to work for the less-privileged people of the British and American people.

Neither is considered a strong man in his own country, neither is a man of much immediate influence. He has the force, the flair, the genius of two others who conferred the great deal during the past decade—Franklin Roosevelt and Winston Churchill.

However, Clement Attlee, in his quiet way and backed by the powerful party, has put a general schedule of socialist legislation which still old Britons never dream could happen.

And while there are reforms passed in the face of vigorous opposition, nevertheless, Attlee's policies are almost certain to be followed by the country.

Churchill advised Trip Furber, he has the support of most of the Conservative Party. On the other hand, Truman of late has had the bitter, sometimes perplexing position of a majority of Republicans snatching away almost every foreign-policy move he has made.

Attlee not only was careful to get massive support before he left London, but he has even advised him on how to force Truman's hand regarding the treaty.

What happened was that immediately after the Prime Minister heard of Truman's atom-bomb statement, he called on Churchill. Though political opponents, the two served in the same coalition war cabinet together and are personal friends.

At one time Attlee was Churchill's deputy prime minister, and handled British domestic affairs while Churchill was busy with the war.

With this background of friendship, it is not hard to understand why Attlee should have consulted Churchill or that Churchill advised Truman to take the trip to Washington. Furthermore, Churchill suggested that inasmuch as Truman might be opposed to the trip, Attlee should be invited to accompany the announcement of his plan—thus making it impossible for Truman to decline.

Attlee's plan was to visit the United States in the first quarter of 1951, setting a record for that season.

On the basis of preliminary reports, it plans to visit as a whole are realized, 1951 capital outlays will be higher than in any previous year, the department said.

The report also showed a sharp drop in business spending for new plants and equipment since the outbreak of the Korean war last June.

If plans uncovered in the department survey are carried out, expansion outlays in the first quarter of 1951 will be 30 per cent above the first quarter of 1950. All major industries will be contributing to the increase.

Stabilizer

Repairs Own Pipes

Attlee is married to Violet Helen Miller, a woman who is a devoted mother and a devoted wife. They lived with their four children in a modest house in a London suburb where Attlee did a little gardening and repaired his own pipes in his own carpenter's shop.

Unlike Truman, Attlee is a half-tone-to-beautiful speaker. When he speaks promptly he hesitates and repeats. The President on the other hand, is at his best when speaking in the open. In conferences, Attlee tries to win by charm and persuasion. The President sometimes gets impatient and blurted out to the next future.

When Foreign Minister Molotov visited Truman a few days after Roosevelt's death while en route to the San Francisco conference, the news correspondent spent 45 minutes bewailing him out. There have been many occasions when Molotov deserved to be rebuffed.

In Europe, Attlee and his government are considered among the most vigorous of all opponents to Communist Russia. He has often predicted that, in case the Russians overran Europe, the Attlee cabinet would be the first to suffer.

Robert Burns Auld Lang Syne New Year Boon

"AULD LANG SYNE" has become such an integral part of our modern New Year's eve that no celebration, however gay, would be complete without it.

The music sheets for these nostalgic strains simply say "Robert Burns—Scottish Air," and Robert Burns generally is supposed to have written it after he had settled on a farm and taken himself a wife, following the sweeping success in 1778 of the second edition of his "Poems." Well and good, but Auld Lang Syne was not exclusively Burns' product, nor did he claim it to be.

In it is due to George Thomson, a publisher, Burns explained: "It is an old song of olden times, which has never been in print. I took it down from an old man's singing."

Modern scholarship has discovered that Burns was wrong when he told Thomson "Auld Lang Syne" never had been in print. In fact, at least, was printed obscurely long before Burns heard his old man bawling it.

In Watson's "The Old Man and the Sea" (published in 1711), these verses were attributed to Francis Beattie who died in 1666.

Further, the original song often has been credited to Sir Robert Aytoun (1570-1638). Aytoun was one of the earliest Scots to use the old Gaelic words as a literary model.

Many centuries of Americans descended from non-British stock are perpetually irritated by this dialect, nor does it make much sense in the standard English translation which comes out "Old Long Since."

Regardless of its original author or origin, it was Burns who gave "Auld Lang Syne" its immortality. And though the bells now welcome the New Year, it is Burns' symbolizing mankind's hope for a bright future, the nostalgia of "Auld Lang Syne" summarizes an inherent reluctance to leave the security and friendships of the past and embark upon a future which, in all probability, may not be more pleasurable.

Part of the English speaking heritages to "Drink a cup of kindness yet 'Tis Auld Lang Syne."

AROUND THE HOUSE

Regardless of how young or small your baby is, you can weigh him or her quite accurately on an ordinary bathroom floor scale.

Climb on the scale with the mite in your arms and make a note of the reading. Now, step on the scale step on the scale empty-handed.

The net difference between the two weighings is, of course, the weight of your bambino.

When cork coasters get old, water soaks through them, defeating the purpose of the coaster. Put a stop to the whole thing by coating the bottom side of each coaster with colorless nail polish.

Youngsters who spill food (and drink) on their clothes can be saved by a little bit of magic.

ROCKCASTLE FACTS and STORIES

By RALPH GRIFFIN

It is well for us to keep in touch with the people and their events of our past, lest we forget. All around us we see the blessings of good roads, paved streets and excellent highways, all made possible from taxation, derived in turn from good business. We see our churches, schools and educational systems, all maintained from the same source, taxation. The payment of such taxes as made possible because some former citizens of Rockcastle and the Commonwealth were progressive, because they looked ahead and planned for us; because they created conditions which, in turn, created a greater volume of business. Are we doing as much for succeeding generations?

In the very foremost, among Rockcastle's leading business men of days past, we would place Ulysses Grant Baker. Mr. Baker established a business in merchandise and everything in a first-class store. His motto is, "We Sell It For Less."

Mr. Baker is a member of the Christian Church, the Masonic Blue Lodge and Chapter in Mt. Vernon, and a Knight Templar of Marion Commandery at Lebanon. He is treasurer of Mt. Vernon Royal A.R.M. Chapter No. 140.

"Mr. Baker is the kind of a man, who gives you the kind of a deal that makes you feel the kind of way that you will travel in any kind of weather, over any kind of roads to find him."

Mr. Baker operates his business in a handsome two-story brick, which is a metropolitan establishment in every way.

In partnership with E. S. Albright and C. D. Sutton, U. G. Baker organized and incorporated the Mt. Vernon Light Company, which first brought Mt. Vernon out of the darkness.

At that time our homes were lighted with candles and kerosene. When we went anywhere at night, which we carried lanterns to light our way over duck-boards and avoid the deepest mud-holes. Prior to the coming of electricity we had a few scattered street lamps, which operated on kerosene and accentuated the gloom and darkness, rather than dispelled them.

Mr. Baker was president of the first Mt. Vernon Commercial Club. With J. W. Maret as secretary, this Club was given credit all over the Commonwealth, as being the instigator of the good roads movement in Kentucky.

Mr. Baker, in Cooperation with Miss Anna Belle Stewart and Miss Ross McCord, was instrumental in organizing and building the excellent school of which our town now boasts. Upon the front of this building which houses the Mt. Vernon Graded and High School, will be seen the following inscription: "Baker-Stewart-McCord."

Mr. Baker was more proud of this than of any other of his many accomplishments, always stating that this honor was his living monument. It was, and still is!

While Mr. Baker engaged in many other business activities during his lifetime, his retail store was his first love, and remained so until his death. He was a great believer in advertising and brought much space in the Signal, during the days of his active business life.

Large headlines screamed the praises of his merchandise and prices, and his sales brought hundreds of people and thousands of extra dollars to his own coffers and those of other Mt. Vernon business people. His ads always crowned him,

"King of Low Prices," he frequently stated, "I prefer to cater to the masses, rather than the classes."

It is too bad that space does not permit the reproduction of at least one of his ads. They were based upon a keen knowledge of business psychology and they brought results. Modern advertisers could not do better than to pattern their copy upon that produced by Mr. U. G. Baker fifty years ago.
