Adding Superphosphate Helps Manure Make Better Top-dressing for Wheat and Legumes

One Load of Manure Does the Work of Two When Superphosphate is Added.

BARNYARD manure can be put to good use in top-dressing winter wheat. Ohio agronomists recommend a winter top-dressing of 4 to 5 spreader loads per acre. Manure top-dressings will also help legume seedlings which go into the winter with weak and short top growth. The manure serves as a mulch which cuts down winterkilling and heaving losses. Besides the mulching benefits, the manure's plant nutrients boost hay yields. Prof. C. J. Chapman, University of Wisconsin, extension agronomist, says that one load of manure can be made to do the work of two if superphosphate is added to the manure. He points out that manure contains about twice as much nitrogen and potash as it does phosphorus. This nitrogen, largely in liquid form, evaporates rapidly in the form of ammonia. Chapman says that adding superphosphate helps prevent nitrogen loss by locking it up in nonvolatile form and stopping its evaporation. Chapman says superphosphate can be spread in barn gutters at the rate of a pound per cow per day, or the superphosphate can be added when the manure goes out to the field.

County Agent's Notes

By Robert F. Spence

"Danger Signals Ahead." "Prepare To Meet the Emergencies." "What Can the Farmers Do About It?"

The above statements are common expressions heard every day from all sides. There have always been danger signals ahead, emergencies to be met, and the farmers have always done something about it. The farmers won't fail this time as long as we keep ourselves properly informed and go about meeting the problems we have before us - in the home, on the farm, and in the business, we and our country will be benefited.

On Monday, January 15, in the courthouse at Mt. Vernon, the farmers, with a specialist from the State College of Agriculture in Lexington, will discuss some of these problems the farmers are facing. The program will start at 9:30 a. m. All farmers are invited to this all day meeting. The following program will be carried out, led by Dairy and Soil Specialists:

Program

9:30 a. m. - Veal and Dairy Calf Production.

10:30 a. m. - Soil Testing and Its Interpretation.

1:00 p. m. - Winter Feeding of Dairy Cattle - Management and Fertilization of Hog and Pasture Crops.

Meetings like this are being held in all of the counties in the State during January, February and March.

The problems in Dairy farming and Soil building and Management are many and must be solved by the farmers themselves on their own farms.

This meeting at Mt. Vernon will give opportunity to all who are interested in a more profitable dairy herd and a more productive farm at less cost in the long run. When the farmers prosper the whole nation prospers. The soil is the farmer's source of income. Let it be tobacco, milk and cream, beef, poultry or other crops or livestock. As the soil so is the people.

4-H Clubs

The county agent needs a lot of help from 4-H leaders and teachers in getting 4-H clubs organized for 1951. Sickness prevented the county agent in December from getting all 4-H clubs organized and now is calling on Teachers and Leaders for help.

The 4-H enrollment cards and organization blanks will be sent to any teacher or 4-H leader who will enroll and organize a 4-H club in the school. We would like to have all 4-H club members enrolled and clubs organized before schools close. Assistance and cooperation will be appreciated.

4-H club project certificates, written for club members who were late in turning in their reports, will be ready to deliver in a few days. Some 4-H leader certificates are yet to be delivered for 1950.

4-H County Council

The 4-H County Council will not be able to meet on Thursday night, January 18, due to the Farm Bureau Banquet. It will meet on Thursday, January 25, at 7 p. m. instead of January 18. All members of last year are invited to continue on the council for 1951.

Buy Fertilizer Now To Avoid Shortages When Spring Comes

FERTILIZER shortages can be avoided next spring if farmers place their orders now and take delivery early, reports the Middle West Soil Improvement Committee, in citing a recent statement by Dr. H. B. Cheney, extension agronomist at Iowa State College.

Cheney points out that railroad car shortages may restrict the movement of fertilizer next spring and it may be impossible to meet farmers' demands if they call for heavy deliveries over a short period of time.

"The outlook for fertilizer production is good this year, but in a few days if fertilizer producers run out of storage space, they will have to slow up production."

As a means of keeping plant food moving steadily, he advises farmers to make immediate arrangements for supplies and to store plant food until it is time to use next spring.

Cheney recommends a dry building with a wooden floor as the best storage place. If the fertilizer is stored on a concrete floor, a wooden platform should be built to be 4 to 6 inches above the floor. This will allow air circulation under the bags, which can be piled 10 to 12 bags high. Space should also be left between the sides of the building and the storage pile to provide for more circulation.

Letters to Editor

To the Editor of the Mt. Vernon Signal: I have read Westbrook Pegler's scathing article regarding Judge J. May Adams of the Law Judges Municipal Court, in the Louisville Times December 28.

I am a Kentucky mountain Republican and am not in sympathy whatsoever with the political views of the late President Roosevelt. I have, however, been a lifelong friend of Judge Adams. She is not only a Kentucky thoroughbred, but a lady of culture and learning, such as you seldom see and has degrees from at least two rather well known colleges in the United States.

I wrote Mr. Pegler: "Had it not been for the seemingly misspelled words in her letter, it would probably have found its way to your wastebasket and never been heard of. Due to those two words, however, you have under your own famous colors published this article for the world to read. Could it be that Judge Adams is just smart enough to have anticipated that very thing, hereby setting a trap for you, into which you have fallen?"
Edwin R. Gentry, Louisville, Ky.

(Ed. Note: Judge Adams has many relatives and friends in this county. The misspelled words referred to by Pegler are "poles" for "polls" and "deamon" for "demon." In his article deity is spelled "dety," but he doesn't say whose error that was. Judge Adams had attacked Mr. Pegler for his "insulting" articles about Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt.)

Tax Assessments Started This Week

In the past year, Kentucky taxpayers have had to pay almost $100,000 in penalties and interest alone for the failure to list intangible property. This reminder comes from County Tax Commissioner SGM Chandler this week as the of-final period opens for the listing of the tax-payer's property. Intangible property as well as real estate and tangible property must be assessed for taxes, Mr. Chandler stated.

Mr. Chandler urges all taxpayers to be sure to list all of their taxable intangibles so they will not have to pay such penalties and interest.

Dodge To Introduce New Cars January 20

Dodge will introduce its 1951 model cars to the public on January 20, it was announced today by McKinney Motor Co., Mt. Vernon, Ky.

Mr. Delmas McKinney has just returned from a dealer preview of the new cars at Cincinnati. He described them as "really outstanding in appearance, riding comfort and roadability."

"I am excited about the looks of the 1951 Dodge cars," Mr. McKinney said. "They are beautiful automobiles, both inside and out, as for mechanical improvements, Dodge engineers have developed some things new in the way of ride control. It is one of the best advances in chassis engineering we have seen in a long time and I am looking forward to the road demonstrations beginning January 20."

Mr. McKinney said Dodge 1950 retail sales nationally were the greatest in Dodge history despite the fact that the factory was out of production for three months last spring.

TAXPAYERS NOTICE

Notice to all taxpayers who have not already assessed their property with the Tax Commissioner. They are notified to call at the commissioner's office in the courthouse in Mt. Vernon during the month of January, 1951, and not later than the month of February, 1951. The new law provides that all tax lists must be in by February 28th, 1951.

ROCKCASTLE FACTS AND STORIES

By RALPH GRIFFIN

Among our old notes is found the following bit of early Rockcastle history, written about the year 1900. The article is unsigned, although it is easily recognized from its style as having been written by one of our earlier historians, Mr. D. N. Williams. We quote:

In 1811 the town site of Mt. Vernon was laid off and a plot was made of the same; in the same year the Court House was built. The location of the town had been decided by Stephen Langford in 1800 to James Terrill, John Hill and James McClure as trustees of the town of Mt. Vernon; it contained 23 acres. Stephen Langford was one of the first settlers in Mt. Vernon, having bought the house on what is now Old Main Street, where James Hook lives. R. L. McEwen owned the location of Mt. Vernon was then a wilderness of cane, where many deer and other wild animals inhabited.

The other two oldest houses built in Mt. Vernon, one of which is the house on the corner of Old Main and Spring Streets (now owned by Standard Oil Co. ed.) which has since been greatly improved and is better known as the J. J. Brown house. The other house was built upon the corner of what is now Main and Spring Streets, and was the residence in which Col. R. G. Williams lived and died, and who upon the 27th day of January, 1876. This house burned in the year 1877. All three of these houses had port holes in their chimneys, that the few people of Mt. Vernon might defend themselves against the attacks of the Indians.

The following named people were some of the earlier settlers of Mt. Vernon and Rockcastle: Stephen Langford, John Hill, Frederick Akers, James Lewis, Elijah Kirtley, Wm. Buford, John Burdette, Josiah Ball, Uriah Gresham, Samuel Carson, James Hendrix, James McCall, James Kincaid, Thomas Jones, William Smith, Ezekiah Farris, Reuben Ekin, Absolom Waters, Patrick Cherry, Barney Haley, Mason Miller, William Fish, W. P. Hiatt, John Owens and William Adams.

Henry P. Buford was the first County Court Clerk of Rockcastle County. James Terrill was County and Circuit Court Clerk (combined) from 1830 to 1850. The writer of this (article) wrote in the office with James Terrill in 1849 and 1850. Terrill died in May 1851. I was living with him at the time of his death. His widow, whose maiden name was Annie Smith, daughter of General William Smith, died two years after the death of her husband. Two good people, Dr. Josiah Joplin, who was noted so well for his skill in

GOD IS LOVE

By Mrs. Lee Renner, Mt. Vernon, Ky.

God heals the sick; He raised the dead; He helped the blind to see. He is the way; He is the door. No other way can be. He is our Lord; He is our God. No other one for me.

He loves the rich; He loves the poor. How great his love must be. He hears the prayers; if they are true. He knows, He understands. He knows our thoughts, He knows our needs, He's God to all the land.

He knows our grief; He smooths the brow And drives away the tears. Where else I want to know Is anyone so dear?

On 'em I lean For He is strong. But I am very weak. His love is mine. He's love for all. Whoever tries to see, He's there for one. If he's there for all If they will only seek.

He is the one that made the world. The sea and all the land. His love today's as it was then For all who understand. He's good to great; He's good to small; There is no choice with Him. He watches here; He watches there; His vision never dims.

Let us seek God and hold his hand For He is warm and sure. If you have faith and tell Him so. I know that he will hear.

FLOWERS FOR THE LIVING

We can appreciate them as always been my idea. The following letter received by me 12 years ago from a Christian minister on his deathbed and from the bottom of his heart, gives me flowers in abundance, more than I deserve. They cost very little but they live. Make your 1951 resolution to pass your flowers along to your friends while living and you will both feel better.

Happy New Year to all.
Dr. R. G. Webb

Livingston, Ky. November 7, 1938
Dear Doctor Webb:

Some time ago I wrote a letter to the Signal thanking the people of Livingston for their kindness especially mentioning you not only for what you had done for me but for Livingston. For some reason my letter was not published, so I am writing you now.

The flowers are usually in abundance at most funerals, but the honored know little of it. So please permit me to give you a rose or two while you can appreciate it.

First I have talked to many people about the history of Livingston. In my opinion there has never been a more valuable citizen than you. You have fought almost alone for many things that would have greatly helped everyone here. But as most pioneers have been abused and mistreated so have you been turned back in scorn.

I marvel that you have been able to go on so well under such conditions. There was a time when I joined in the mob that were joining "Crucify Him," but I am thankful that I have seen my error.

Thursday, January 4, 1951

People who criticize you, in general, could not offer a better idea than yours if it were to save their life. There are always those ready to criticize any good move, but very few have anything better, (or half as good) to offer.

Of course I am profoundly grateful for your kindness to me when Bonnie pulled that crazy trick and when my little girl was so sick. But my appreciation of you goes further than my own selfish reasons. I appreciate you because you have so much determination and for the fact you mean so much to this town. Frankly, I don't know anyone living here now who could take my place even if they wanted to for there is no one whose ability and general aptitude is equal to yours.

You probably will make some mistakes but who does not? I want you to know I am for you. I wish I could vote but I have not registered. Bonnie will vote tho and I can talk. My best wishes are yours.

Starns M. Freeman.

REDUCE SAFELY
Nutrition Expert Reports Dieting Can Be Done Safely, Cheaply

You can reduce safely and economically on a diet that includes enriched white bread at a very low cost. Dr. Ruth M. Leviton, professor of nutrition research at the University of Nebraska, proved in a research project recently.

"Omitting bread in a reducing diet is unnecessary and tends to increase cost of the diet," Dr. Leviton said. "No aspect of food and nutrition is subject to more abuse, fed, and misinformation than the low calorie diet necessary for weight loss."

Dr. Leviton explained that no single food is fattening, but that it is the total number of calories eaten that determines whether a person gains or loses weight.

The baking industry, led by the American Bakers Association, is planning a nationwide observance, in 1951, of the tenth anniversary of bread enrichment, focusing attention on the resulting improvement in the nation's health. "Enrichment" means the addition to the bread of certain essential vitamins and minerals.

This appetizing, low-calorie dinner featuring a pork chop, browned apple slices, enriched white bread and butter, and fresh strawberries, was one of the meals served to dieting and scientific study. Twelve girls lost a total of 277 pounds in 8 weeks of the diet.

In the scientific study at the University of Nebraska, 12 overweight young women followed a daily 1200-calorie diet, which included enriched white bread and butter at each meal. The 12 girls who took part in the study were between 18 and 25 years of age, and were from 20 to 38 pounds overweight. At the end of the eight weeks, the girls lost a total of 277 pounds, or the equivalent of two whole girls. Average loss was 23 pounds per girl per week. The girls remained in excellent health.

Enriched white bread was selected for each meal because it is nutritious, appetizing, low in cost, readily available, according to the report. Cost of the diet averaged 88 cents a day. It readily included meat, milk, fruits and vegetables, as well as bread. An important share of the total protein in the diet was provided daily by enriched white bread.

JUDY HOLIDAY was a terrific success on the New York stage in "Born Yesterday," but Columbia tested some of Hollywood's top stars before giving her the starring role in the screen version of the comedy. No one else could have played it as well. Judy's show business career began as switchboard operator for Orson Welles' Mercury Theatre, then came a stint in the chorus of Broadway musicals. A small role in "Kiss Them for Me" won her the Clarence Derwent award. Then came "Born Yesterday," her first picture and biggest success.

Spencer Tracy is delighted with his role in "Plymouth Adventure," that of captain of the Mayflower. The picture will explode the popular belief that all his passengers were a dull lot; some were Pilgrims, some Puritans.

Helen Deutsch, author of so many successful pictures, her latest is "King Solomon's Mines," has proved to MGM executives that she knows what will succeed on the screen; of 30 scripts she turned down, only one was made, and it shouldn't have been. She is thrilled over her next, "Plymouth Adventure," with Spencer Tracy starring. Her completely modern, yet enough to be a movie star herself, Miss Deutsch likes to do historical pictures, and very few details be absolutely correct.

BREAKFAST: 1/2 cup of grapefruit or orange, 1/2 cup of enriched white bread, 1/2 teaspoon of butter or margarine, 1 medium egg cooked in the shell or poached, and 1 cup of skim milk.

LUNCH: 3 slices of enriched bread, 1/2 teaspoon of butter or margarine, 1 medium carrot, 1 medium orange, and 1 cup of skim milk.

DINNER: 1 pork chop 1/4 lb. with fat removed, 1 small apple, 1 cup of raw vegetable salad, 1 slice of enriched white bread, 1/2 teaspoon of butter or margarine, 1 cup of skim milk, 1/2 cup of fresh strawberries, 1/4 place of strawberries, the following may be served: 1 medium potato, 1/2 cup of medium cantaloupe, 3 ounces of angel food cake, 1 piece of canned fruit salad, 1/2 cup of peach, 1/2 apple slice, and no sweetened juice.

Widow Curses Legacy That Kills Faith of a Lifetime

Whenever an out-of-towner says, "What have you got in New York that we haven't got in Punksawney?" I throw a copy of the Manhattan Classified Phone Directory at him. On page 1067, listed under "Missing Heirs" is a man named Theodore W. Roth whose business it is to find money.

"I first heard of this gentleman on a radio program and this morning, in a mood to muse and meander, I stopped in to see him at his office on West 42nd Street."

"Glad to see you," said Mr. Roth. "You don't happen to be related to the 'Missing Heirs'?"

"No, that I know of," said Mr. Roth. "Too bad," said Mr. Roth. "Stramson left a hundred thousand dollars and I'm trying to find it."

"Is there much unclaimed money lying around?"

"About eight billion dollars," said Mr. Roth. "I have a list of all the accounts, stock and bonds in escrow, wills and collectible insurance policies and inheritances nobody has claimed."

"WHAT'S THE biggest case you ever worked out?" I asked.

"The Garrett case in Philadelphia," said Mr. Roth. "Back in 1930 only a Texas woman, Edwina Garrett, had a chunk of oil land worth forty million dollars. So far over six thousand people have claimed it."

THE FICTION CORNER
WAIT YOUR TURN
 By One Freeman Lathrop

BESS WILKINS wondered if she was going to be able to stand another thing or thirty years of Henry's stubbornness and impatience.

"I declare, your father is getting so cranky on his old age."

"Why, Mother, how you talk!" Alice looked shocked.

"Well, he actually embarrasses me in restaurants and public places if we aren't the first to be waited on. And today he wouldn't even bank my money from that last real estate deal just because there was a line ahead of him."

"Just don't pay attention to him," Alice advised. "You probably aggravate him more when you argue with him. Maybe he isn't well."

"There's nothing the matter with him that a good hard jolt wouldn't cure, and I'm going to think up a way to jolt him out of his cussedness," Bess announced.

"Well, he isn't yet thought up the jolt when she and Henry were driving out for groceries that evening."

"I got to have some gas in the car before we can go to town," Henry announced, a rowl slithering up his nose.

"Henry, I need some money," she informed him as they drove along.

"Here, take my wallet and get out a ten-spot."

Silently she counted the bills. No sense in a storm moving in the interior. Funny the girls hadn't been turned on yet. She saw Henry step inside and close the door behind him. Then she saw something that made her heart skip a beat. His hand went up high above his head. A police car was rounding the corner.

There ought to be some way! After all, she couldn't have anything happen to Henry. She leaned over and pushed the horn—clunk down. It stuck as she had hoped it would.

The station door flew open. The masked bandit stuck his head out. "Shut that off, sister!" he snarled. "Can't it stick," she said, trying to keep her face pale from squeaking in high soprano.

"Get that crate out of here then," he snarled.

"I don't know how to drive, and besides, my husband has the keys in his pocket." She went on setting the pattern for her deers and people sleeping to turn and grin at her corner.

"Now, Eddie, we've got to get on out of here," she cried croaked, and they came out on the run to a parked car. By that time a police car was rounding the corner.

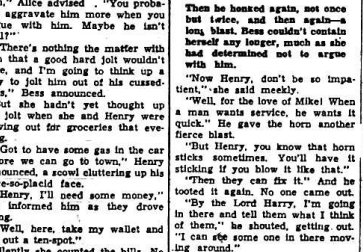

Henry and the gas-station attendant came on the scene to disconnect the horn and fix it.

"You sure saved our skins, Bess," Henry murmured in a subdued voice. "But my bank-roll is gone. After this—"

Bess smiled. "Oh, I had taken all the money out of your wallet except nine dollars, but I think that will teach you not to be so impatient anyway. Henry. Next time, wait your turn."

It's Curtain Time

Just as the showman's children never are shot, so shower curtains seldom get bathed.

BESS WATCHED, yet she could see a storm moving in the interior. Funny the girls hadn't been turned on yet. She saw Henry step inside and close the door behind him. Then she saw something that made her heart skip a beat. His hand went up high above his head. A police car was rounding the corner.

going to all that trouble she wanted me to check and make sure her claim to the estate would be clear and undisputed. I, of course, turned the letter over to the police."

DO YOU HAVE any trouble collecting your fees?" I asked.

"As a rule," said the lumber of family trees, "she'd be I turn up to get together. There have been cases, of course, where the only thanks I got was a dirty look."

"As for instance?"

"Oh, I'll tell you, Roth," there was a time a widow refused to believe me when I told her I had located a two-hundred-thousand-dollar account left by her husband. I finally convinced her to sign the necessary papers, but when I handed her the check she said, 'I curse the day I ever met you and I curse the day I never too.'"

"It turned out she had always loved her husband and was devoted to his memory, despite the fact that she had been married to him for one. He had always pleased her except when she needed a dress or a pair of shoes, and she had believed him. Now that she saw him for what he was, she was understandably bitter."

"Two hundred thousand dollars was a lot of money, but it had destroyed the faith of a lifetime."

Jesus New Year
 Lesson for January 7, 1951
 SCRIPTURE: Mark 11:35
 DEVOTIONAL: Reading: Isaiah 41:10
 THERE is no room in this one thin column for a commentary on the whole Sunday school lesson each week. If the reader is interested, let it be said he will first study the Bible passage himself, and with whatever aids his own denominational churches may provide. The Sunday school teacher or Bible study leader who wishes to do more good "living" of Christ work will need a Bible Dictionary and at least a one-volume commentary on the entire Bible. (Dummelew's [Macmillan Co.] and the Abingdon Commentary [Abingdon Press] are among the best of these. As a background for the studies of the next three months, the student should read one or more of the following. Write to your own church bookstore for suggestions.

When Is New Year's Day?
 EVERY day is a New Year's Day for somebody. The legal holiday that goes by that name in a solemn comes at a real turning-point in any one's life.

The real occasion is when some momentous change occurs, so that after that day it never flows in the old channel. In this sense, a very important New Year's Day for Jesus was the day when he was baptized in the Jordan river.

Before that day he lived as a carpenter in a quiet town. He was, as a public man, the pattern of the public man of all times. The pattern of his life completely changed.

Friends—
NEXT ask Jesus' life-work came as the best of friends. No doubt he had known Simon and the others before, and Mark simply records in his abrupt way the climax of a long story, in telling how Jesus "called" them.

We cannot imagine Jesus without his disciples. It is not exaggeration to say that even the Son of God would have been a failure, as a man, had he not had his friends. There would have been no Christian religion if Jesus had not had his friends.

Next New Year's time it is well to ask the question: Am I as careful in selecting my friends as Jesus was in selecting his?

Cost Cutting Production Methods Boost Yields Per Acre, Increase Farm Income

More Plant Food Made the Difference Between These Corn Crops.

KEEPING down crop producing costs is a mighty important matter these days. Prices of things farmers buy are going up, but farm incomes are falling behind.

Purdue University economists say that the most important single factor controlling costs per bushel is a high yield per acre. Their research revealed that on corn, wheat, soybeans, hay and pasture the yield per acre had more influence in cutting costs per bushel than any other single production factor.

This was borne out by a survey of 28 1/2 in. Soil-Builder Indiana. Here the economists found that farmers who ranked among the top third in corn yields had twice as much net income from their crops as farmers down at the bottom of the heap. For what, the top-yielding third had a net income 11 times greater per acre than the low one-third. The difference was three times for hay and seven times for soybeans.

The Middle West Soil Improvement Committee points out that when yields are high, a farmer is in better shape to make a profit in spite of rising costs or falling farm prices.

The way to get higher yields, it says, is to make every acre do a better crop producing job through good crop and soil-building methods. Such a program should include the use of plenty of well-balanced fertilizers containing nitrogen, phosphate and potash. It should include a good rotation in which well-fed deep-rooted crops are rotated with shallow-rooted crops to build the soil for higher yields.
