

County Agent's Notes

By Robert F. Spence

Farm Account Books
The Kentucky Farm Account Book, put out by the State College of Agriculture, can be obtained at the County Agent's office. A new supply of Farm Account Books are now available for the farmer who wants one. The College of Agriculture charges farmers 25c per book which is payable at the County Agent's office when you get your book.

4-H Calf Show And Sale
Last week farmers, bankers, stockman and county agents from 13 counties met in London and planned another 4-H Beef Calf Show and Sale to be held at London on October 10. Rockcastle County had 12 4-H Club members to show and sell 15 fat beef calves in this show last year. There were a total of 162 calves in the show at that time. Plans have been made for 215 calves this year. Any boy or girl from 10 to 20 years of age can become a 4-H member and carry a Beef Calf Project by seeing or writing the County Agent at Mt. Vernon. This project can't be carried on without the cooperation of parents also.

Now is the time for boys and girls to enroll in the special Beef Calf Project and secure their calves. Call and talk it over with the County Agent. Twenty-five are eligible to enter this special 4-H project. Enroll Now!

Dairy, Swine Meeting
Monday, January 15, should and will be one of the most important meetings of the year for the County. Farmers are urged to be present. The speakers will be specialists from the State College of Agriculture. The meeting will be held in the Court House, starting at 9:30 a. m. Two subjects will be discussed before noon and two in the afternoon. Come prepared to spend the day. The meeting is open to women as well as men.

I. S. Wood Will Speak At Farm Bureau Banquet

Principal speaker for the Rockcastle County Farm Bureau banquet, to be held Thursday, January 11, at the Vernon School, will be I. S. Wood, director of field services of the Kentucky Farm Bureau Federation. Mr. Wood's topic for discussion will be "Farm Bureau Worth the Price".
Kentucky Farm Bureau District Representative H. D. Tarver of Somerset will assist with the program.
The annual meeting will start at 7 o'clock, with a steak dinner to be served by the home economics department of the school. All Farm Bureau members are urged to attend, the meeting.

According to the county president, William Norton, it is more important today than ever before that farmers have an organization to speak for them on national problems and policies. Through the Farm Bureau, Mr. Norton points out farmers in Rockcastle County become better informed about their place in the American economy. With a stronger membership, he adds, the Farm Bureau becomes stronger and more influential.

Directors for the County Bureau are: Robert L. Snodgrass, Ottawa; J. M. Wallace, Ottawa; John L. Baker, Crab Orchard; James E. Reynolds, Wildcat; Kenneth Stewart, Wildcat; Robert Gentry, Level Green; Robert H. Burck, Jr., Mt. Vernon; Rudolph Burnett, Mt. Vernon; J. W. Coffey, Mt. Under PMA Farmer Assured Fair Profit
A notice has been sent to farmers of Rockcastle County this week that the deadline for making their application for payment of the county PMA office is February 18.
To the farmer the notice needs no further explanation. Either the farmer has already reported to the PMA office to sign his 1950 farm report, or he will do so within the next few days.

The whole thing is as clear as can be to the farmer and those in the county acquainted with the farm program. The farmer might ask "pay for what?" The farmer sells his crops, but doesn't get paid when he does. True enough the farmer does get paid for his crop when he takes it to market. A price is set for tobacco and the farmer is assured of receiving it, return for his crop. If a buyer doesn't offer the price, the Commodity Inspector will step in and take the crop out of the farmer's hands. The tobacco is graded and appraised by a government inspector before going on the block and the farmer knows he will get the price the government inspector says. But how much tobacco, can the farmer raise and be assured of getting a fair return? There the government program ends. There the PMA steps in. The PMA is the Production and Marketing Administration, a division set up under the De-

John Lair Named Fire Destroys Home Of Den McClure

The home of Mr. and Mrs. Den McClure, located off Quarry Street in Mt. Vernon, was destroyed by fire early Monday morning, with the McClure family barely escaping in time to prevent injury.
The fire was discovered about 4:45 a.m. while Mrs. McClure was preparing breakfast. She built a fire in the kitchen stove and discovered the blaze which destroyed the home when she opened a door to another room. The other room was attended most ready to cave in when the blaze was discovered.
Mr. McClure and the McClure children, Evalene and Lois, still were in bed, but escaped before the blaze reached their rooms. The building was ready to cave in when the fire Department was able to reach the scene.

The house, owned by Mrs. Ernest Clark, was a total loss, and the McClures lost all their clothing and household furnishings, as well as a small amount of money.
The children were outfitted by the school and friends and neighbors came to the aid of the parents. Mr. McClure is employed with the Proctor Lumber Company.

Southard Child Dies in Hamilton, Ohio
Jerry Tipodores, Southard, born May 9, 1950, died unexpectedly January 10, at the age of 8 months and two days. His parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Southard, brought her here from Hamilton, Ohio.

The baby was the son of Walter and Stella Southard of Hamilton, Ohio. She is the daughter of Mrs. Hobbs Southard of Mt. Vernon and Mrs. Cleo Goforth of Pine Hill. He also will be buried in the Hamilton cemetery and uncles and other relatives.

Funeral services were held Wednesday afternoon at the Church, Main Street, Hamilton, with the Rev. J. W. Southard officiating. Burial was in Elmwood Cemetery.

C. A. Lay, owner of the Western Auto Associate Store here, attended the Western Auto Spring and summer merchandise preview in Cincinnati Monday.

keeper for the Baker Motor Co. He was always faithful in his duties of service.
The PMA was set up in 1933, and the government hasn't lost on the program. Since that time, government price-support programs have shown a profit of $45,000,000. During that period, a total of $9,000,000,000 has been invested in the program, but of that total, $7,000,000,000 represented losses, including those on farm storage facilities. Losses were sustained on our crop but these losses were offset by gains of $208,000,000 on cotton and $5,000,000 on tobacco.

As defined in legislation, the basic commodities are corn, cotton, peanuts, rice, tobacco and wheat. Loans and purchases for farm commodities, basic and others, represented an investment of more than $1,000,000,000, of which $950,000,000 was for loans. Losses realized on all programs were $338,000,000, or five cents out of every dollar. Most of the loss was realized on potatoes and other perishable crops, but if the government didn't support potatoes, as well as tobacco, the loss would not have taken a chance on

P.S.C. Hearing Date Set For K. U. Rate Change

The Public Service Commission in Frankfort has set February 8, as the date of a hearing in behalf of the Kentucky Utilities, application for permission to place K. U. standard rates in effect in the territory recently acquired from the Community Public Service Company.
The change when made, will mean an overall saving to customers of approximately 8 1/2 per cent. These rates, when put into effect, will be the same as in Stanford and Lancaster, or any other town with a population of 3,000 or more, served by the Kentucky Utilities Company, Roy E. Owens, local manager, said today.

For both residential and commercial consumers, the minimum rate will be one dollar instead of $1.50.
The residential lower step in rates will be from two and one-half to two dollars and one-half, two to one dollar and one-half, one to one dollar and one-half, and one-half to one dollar.

A copy of all the rates filed with the local K. U. office will be open for public inspection. The file also includes general rules and regulations applicable to the territory served by K. U. A representative of the company will tend any assistance needed in securing information from such tariffs or laws.

Red McClure To Work On Illinois Newspaper
Raymond McClure, 1950 graduate of the University of Kentucky, has accepted a position on the editorial staff of the Pantagraph, newspaper published in Bloomington, Ill.
Mr. McClure is the son of Mr. and Mrs. W. R. McClure of Mt. Vernon and has contributed articles to the paper on different occasions. He will leave for Bloomington Saturday night, but will be in town for his new job Monday morning.

Letter From Korea
Mt. Vernon's Jack Laswell has arrived in Korea, according to a letter received by his parents this week only the findings are really interesting in the Korean war.
Sergeant Laswell doesn't express an opinion himself, but says he has been hearing stories which make the Korean war nothing but a political affair.

The boys from the United States has no business in Korea. All the people there are Communists, the boys report, and they the people that form of government.
The Koreans themselves don't seem to fight, even the Marines say they have no heart to fight, Sergeant Laswell continues. They can't understand why they are here — all just want to get away from this place. They all say we should evacuate Korea as soon as they can, and he said it would take fifty years to beat them (the Chinese).

Sergeant Laswell's letter was written on December 27 at Pusan. His outfit arrived in Pusan on Christmas Day, the outfit arrived in Tokyo late one night and the next morning about ten o'clock they were Japan. They had about a 30-hour train ride from Tokyo.
As soon as they arrived in Seoul, Sergeant Laswell stated, they were ordered to go to Pusan. The soldiers with whom Sergeant Laswell is serving are in tents-12 men to a tent-which is Ernest E. Bullock but the weather wasn't so cold and there wasn't any snow. Pusan is 100 miles from Seoul, which was the line between Sergeant Laswell's letter was written.

4-H COUNCIL MEETING
The Rockcastle County 4-H Club Council will meet on Friday, January 12, at 7 o'clock, as planned. The date has been changed from the Farm Bureau banquet which was scheduled for the night of January 18.

Boxing Exhibition Between Games Friday
Basketball fans attending the game here Friday night between Mt. Vernon and Green Dale will be able to witness a boxing exhibition between the first game teams scheduled to start at 7 o'clock, with the boxing exhibition to follow the first game. The participants in the boxing match have been trained by their coach, Frank Rose, who is himself a former professional boxer.

partment of Agriculture to control the supply of basic commodities.
The farmer can raise only so much tobacco and be assured of realizing a fair profit. The PMA tells him how much of his land can be allocated to tobacco. And to some, the program might not seem fair. But if the PMA didn't step in, the farmer might take his tobacco to market and either have to take it back or give it away. The market might be glutted. An over supply! Under the Production and Marketing Administration program, the farmer knows his crop will find a market.
The notice sent to farmers this week concerns money the farmer will receive from the government to help him keep his land in a productive condition. In addition to establishing marketing quotas, the PMA office also pays off through programs carried out through the commodity program.
The PMA shows the farmer what he can safely produce, make the right agencies help him, and the farmer knows he will get the price the government inspector says. Limited Controls

It looks as if the cost of certain key food items isn't going to be controlled very soon, after all. The Price Administrator Mike Di Salle who came to Washington prepared to do a job for the housewife got a rude shock when he read that the farm lobby had nearly insured certain exceptions to price control, and one of them is grain. In brief, Di Salle has no power whatsoever to control the price of grain or any food made from grain.

So Di Salle will have to go back to congress in January and get the law rewritten.

Aside from this the new price ceiling has decided that it will try to control a wide variety of prices, but will stick chiefly to a few conflicting items. It will control metals and war production raw materials.

Note—Di Salle arrived in Washington from Toledo, Ohio, to find he had no telephone, no staff, and no full legal power to stop price rises. After he had was a heap of angry letters from housewives. At first he was tempted to buy a return ticket to Toledo, but he has been getting to work at 6 a.m., going to bed after midnight, and is gradually working order out of chaos.

Russian War Plans

Outguessing the Kremlin is extremely difficult these days, but here how Andre Gromyko, expert, trained to do this job, size up the immediate war future.

No. 1 Soviet strategy will probably be to grab off weak and isolated nations one-by-one.

No. 2 will be to lure the United States into committing men and resources in a big war against the case Russia would throw enough armament into the battle to sidle the Communist to hold down American strength.

No. 3. While we were tied up in Asia, Russian armies would drive across western Europe. The latter move is not expected this year, however. The Kremlin wants to engage us in other areas.

Number 4. Soviet war strategy can be paraphrased as follows: "Russian policy is to expand its borders as far as the convenience or hostility of its neighbors allow, and to hold or draw back when met by determined resistance."

Next probable Soviet victim will be French Indo-China, already torn by the Communist.

Iran, Burma and Malaya would probably follow.

Another weak spot which may fall to Russia without a battle is Iran. Already, Soviet pressure has caused Iran to ban broadcasts of the Voice of America and the British Broadcasting Company on local radio stations. Meanwhile, a secret Russian station has been calling Kurd tribes to revolt.

Truman and MacArthur

President Truman came into a cabinet meeting some time ago carrying a copy of the New Republic's liberal view of the situation.

During the cabinet session, Secretary of Defense Marshall complained about the difficulty of getting cooperation from General MacArthur. He indicated that MacArthur was a law unto himself. Truman frowned, finally held up a copy of the New Republic.

"This is the way to handle that," he said.

Cabinet members, after the meeting, immediately sent for copies of the magazine. It contained an article by former Secretary of the Interior Harold Ickes criticizing MacArthur for violating directives from Washington.

Happy Chandler's Tears

Senate colleagues always knew B. H. Chandler as the happy man in congress when he served as senator from Kentucky. But his smile turned to tears at his annual banquet for major league characters in Tampa.

Happy had just been informed by his guests that his $65,000-a-year contract would not be renewed.

No one was expected to show up for the banquet that night. Chandler went through with it nonetheless. News reports that the party proceeded without incident "went wrong" it started at 1:00—two hours late, all but New York Giants' Horace Stoneham and St. Louis' Fritz Lee.

So Di Salle will have to go back to congress in January and get the law rewritten.

Aside from this the new price ceiling has decided that it will try to control a wide variety of prices, but will stick chiefly to a few conflicting items. It will control metals and war production raw materials.

Note—Di Salle arrived in Washington from Toledo, Ohio, to find he had no telephone, no staff, and no full legal power to stop price rises. After he had was a heap of angry letters from housewives. At first he was tempted to buy a return ticket to Toledo, but he has been getting to work at 6 a.m., going to bed after midnight, and is gradually working order out of chaos.

Another weak spot which may fall to Russia without a battle is Iran. Already, Soviet pressure has caused Iran to ban broadcasts of the Voice of America and the British Broadcasting Company on local radio stations. Meanwhile, a secret Russian station has been calling Kurd tribes to revolt.

During the cabinet session, Secretary of Defense Marshall complained about the difficulty of getting cooperation from General MacArthur. He indicated that MacArthur was a law unto himself. Truman frowned, finally held up a copy of the New Republic.

"This is the way to handle that," he said.

Cabinet members, after the meeting, immediately sent for copies of the magazine. It contained an article by former Secretary of the Interior Harold Ickes criticizing MacArthur for violating directives from Washington.

Happy Chandler's Tears

Senate colleagues always knew B. H. Chandler as the happy man in congress when he served as senator from Kentucky. But his smile turned to tears at his annual banquet for major league characters in Tampa.

Happy had just been informed by his guests that his $65,000-a-year contract would not be renewed.

No one was expected to show up for the banquet that night. Chandler went through with it nonetheless. News reports that the party proceeded without incident "went wrong" it started at 1:00—two hours late, all but New York Giants' Horace Stoneham and St. Louis' Fritz Lee.

"This is the way to handle that," he said.

CHINA: Refuses to Negotiate

If the world held any hopes that the Chinese would talk peace in Korea, they were killed when China's Foreign Minister Chen Biao said they would not negotiate with the United Nations Korean Command.

Chou then went on to name his price for peace in Korea. 1. Removal of the United States Seventh Fleet from Formosan waters.

2. Withdrawal of "foreign troops" from Korea. 3. A seat in the United Nations for Communist China.

This ended any hopes that the Chinese Communists would dicker with the three-man treaty committee set up by the General Assembly to try to bring about a cease-fire in Korea. Peking did not even bother to transmit a copy of its list to the United States.

MacDonald said it was "wonderful to wear" category. The last is particularly true of clothes which may need a bit of cleaning up or a dash of color to set them off properly with your dress or suit.

EUROPE: Army of 750,000

The Atlantic pact nations pledged themselves to try to maintain a major role in Europe. He urged the U.S. to concentrate on holding that role and not to be distracted by the island outpost of the Philippines.

He then warned against sending more men and money to Europe. The former president's speech created a buzz of controversy in Washington.

Democratic officials called it "rank isolationism" and even some top G.O.P. policy makers, including Sen. Robert Taft, did not agree in all respects with Mr. Hoover.

This is how Mr. Hoover saw the situation: "A clear continental Europe has not in three years of our aid developed a unity of purpose and spirit which is necessary for its own defense."

"It is clear that our British friends are flirting with appeasement of Communist China. It is clear that the U.S. is in a fog of debate and indecision on whether to appease or not to appease."

He then went on to outline his seven "principles and action" for American policy: 1. Preserve "this western hemisphere."

2. Hold the Atlantic and Pacific oceans, seeking the cooperation of Great Britain. 3. Arm our air and naval forces to the teeth.

4. Reduce other expenses, balance the budget and have no deficit. 5. Aid other nations that show "spirit and strength" in defending themselves against the Communists.

6. Watchful waiting in Europe pending its own development of the "will" to resist aggression. 7. Much of the criticism against Mr. Hoover's proposals centered around the belief that the Pacific and Atlantic oceans can be made a defense line.

President Truman issued a statement shortly after Hoover's speech which amounted to a firm rejection of the former president's demand that troops and money be withdrawn from Europe.

The President said the Atlantic pact nations had shown they "mean business" about setting up a common defense and asserting the protection of western Europe was vital to United States security.

"It is not possible," Truman said. "The unity of the nations of western Europe and the North Atlantic is vital to their security and ours."

He then announced that soldiers of pact nations—presumably including U.S. troops—will be fighting together "within the next few weeks."

CIVIL DEFENSE House Votes Plan to Build Shelters

The house voted 247 to 1 to build shelters. The plan that would cost an estimated $3,100,000. More than 100 of the total amount would go for bomb shelters, with the federal government paying half the cost and local and state governments putting up the rest.

The plan was sent to the senate and quick approval was expected. A somewhat similar program had been approved unanimously by the senate's armed-services committee.

One member of the congressional atomic committee, said it was estimated that first-rate civil defense measures, plus 15 minutes' advance warning of possible attack, might reduce casualties in an atomic attack by as much as 80 percent. For this reason an adequate defense is imperative.

WOMAN'S WORLD

Prolong Life of Your Wardrobe By Simple, Money-Saving Tricks

By Erita Haley

Sheath Dress

THIS IS THE time of year, shortly after the holidays and middle of the season, when wardrobes seem to wilt. It's too early to buy into the next season, but you must somehow manage to look well dressed until the new clothing is practical.

Any woman who has tried the "strange wardrobe-saving" idea will realize that clothes, like people, respond to kindness. For every dress or suit that needs sewing adjustment, there's a simple needle and thread treatment, trimming trick or cleaning tip that will work wonders.

True, really threadbare clothes will have to be discarded, but clothes which need some minor freshening features can be as good as new. Who knows, you may even be able to rescue some clothing from the "it's all right, it's wonderful to wear" category.

The last is particularly true of clothes which may need a bit of cleaning up or a dash of color to set them off properly with your dress or suit.

SEENHOWER: Concerted Effort Needed

Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower, supreme commander of the Atlantic pact armies, urged Americans to settle down to the concerted effort to meet the emergency confronting this country and stop partisan squabbling over the nation's leadership.

In his first formal press conference as supreme commander, he asked for "no more business as usual, no more profits as usual, no more working hours as usual."

Observers were interested in the general's view on including German troops in the new western European army. He said he wanted his former foe included but emphasized his belief that the Germans should make their military contributions solely on a "voluntary basis."

"In accepting anything like that," he said, "we must be sure we are getting strength and no weakness."

Of one thing Eisenhower was positive. The nation's strength is in the unity of its people and not "anything in the world they set out to do."

CASUALTIES: The Price of War

The horrible price of war was brought home to the American people with the announcement that 116 United States troops were killed as dead, wounded and missing from the time the Chinese Communist States attacked up to December 13.

With previous defense department figures, total American casualties were now 42,000. The report said the Chinese Red had suffered approximately 120,000 casualties during the past year.

The defense department's last previous total of casualties, whose figures were reported in December 31, 1950, included 5,818 killed, 25,597 wounded and 5,316 missing. Of the wounded, 662 died later.

Heads Agency

Brussels set the tone for Belgium. The city was gaily festooned for the holiday, the mood of victory, successfully hidden and the celebration testifying to Belgium's recovery of economic strength.

West Germany tried to forget that she was the object of a tug of war between Communists and non-Communists. Christmas sales hit a post-war peak.

In East Germany there was no Christmas. There are no displays in the stores and no decorations anywhere except for a few forlorn wreaths and there, hung up by the less timid housewives.

That was the world on Christmas Day—divided into two parts, one trying to be happy and the other, the other grim and foreboding.

RUSSIA: Race of Sea Power

The Soviet Union has entered the race of sea power. The Navy's authoritative yearbook on the navies of the world, reported the Russian put into service last June a 35,000 to 37,000 ton battleship with turrets for firing guided missiles.

Jane's also reported that 350 to 370 Russian submarines were believed already in service, with 120 more building.

With the baby chicken season approaching the Kentucky Department of Agriculture wishes to advise the housewife and farmers of Kentucky to be careful in purchasing their chickens.

Many people purchase diseased chickens unknowingly each year and results in several dollars worth of loss.

Anyone buying chickens should buy from dealers and hatcheries having the permit to sell issued by the Kentucky Department of Agriculture. To obtain this permit the hatcheries must obtain their eggs from flocks certified to be free of pullorum disease.

ROCKCASTLE FACTS and STORIES
By RALPH GRIFFIN

The chronicle of such events are about to be related is not a pleasant task for one who attempts to record them, nor is it anticipated that they shall make pleasant reading. Shielded from all history, however, the result would present a very imperfect picture of the past.

The contrast presented by such happenings should at least make Rockcastle citizens thankful for conditions as they know them today.

In the year 1870 this county had come far since its organization in 1810. Much progress had been made in agricultural pursuits and some degree of prosperity had been brought about through the export of timber products and coal. Hard times had been brought upon everyone through the Civil War period, but a railroad had since been completed, which promised inestimable benefits to an isolated section, such as Rockcastle had been previously.

Kentucky had been torn by dissenting opinions during the war, almost more than any other state. Located as it was between North and South, violent political battles were fought over whether The Commonwealth should ally herself with the one or the other; these ended in an attempt to carry water upon both shoulders. Thousands of citizens enlisted in the Union Army. Other thousands joined the Confederates, so that in reality father was arrayed against son and brother against brother.

Under such conditions the Reconstruction period was particularly hard for all concerned. Passions ran high, rigid political opinions were in violent conflict, and the lawless conditions of the War period could not be corrected in a day.

At this time Rockcastle county was largely controlled by Confederate sympathizers. Numbers of the most prominent families had been represented in the rebel army, and their stables battles and skirmishes had been fought upon Rockcastle soil.

When the soldiers returned home from the victorious and from the defeated armies, neither side was in the mood for conciliation.

Many acts of violence were committed, feuds began between families which were carried on for years, masked marauders roamed the county at night to commit depredations against those of different political faiths; altogether it was a most unpleasant state of affairs.

The negro slaves had all been freed, of course, but that fact was of minor importance here, as compared with its effect in the Southern states. Probably there were not more than four-hundred blacks in the entire county, counting women and children. Most of these, when released, departed for the North or chose to remain with their former masters in the capacity of servants. Decidely there was no mass insurrections among them, no roving bands of negroes, no real colored outlaws and no race problem.

Confederate sympathy was rapidly against the blacks, however, and times were perilous for the best of them.

Tom was a seventeen-year old mulatto boy who had chosen to remain with his former master, Judge Pearl, who then owned what is now known as the Charles Lovell farm and surrounding territory, three miles south of Mt. Vernon.

According to the custom of the times the boy, having claim to no other name, was known as Tom Pearl. It was an unhappy day when Tom chose to remain in Rockcastle County!

We're WORKING... BUILDING... EXPANDING to provide Kentucky's biggest bargain!

Because electricity IS the biggest bargain in your budget today, the demand for it continues to grow. Homes, farms, factories, stores, offices - businesses of all kinds - are multiplying the uses they make of electricity.

Since 1947, K. U. has added 750,000,000 kilowatt hours to the state's power supply.

Our Pineville generating station will be doubled in size in 1951. Plans call for our Tyrone station to be doubled in 1952. These additions will provide another 600,000,000 kilowatt hours annually, another 110,000 kilowatts of capacity.

K. U. is building for Kentucky's future - on its own initiative and enterprise, and financing its construction entirely with investor owned capital.
