Mrs. Baker accepted Christ in the early age of 13 years and became a member of the Fairview Christian Church, Withers, Ky., later moving her membership to the Mt. Vernon Christian Church.

She suffered a paralytic stroke March 1, 1950, being confined to her bed one year and 20 days. She was a devout Christian and bore her suffering so patiently, living very close to the Lord and spending much time in prayer and singing hymns of praise. She became very anxious to go to be with the Lord and prayed earnestly for some time.

Mrs. Baker leaves to mourn her passing, one son, Fred; the daughter-in-law, Carrie; three brothers, Billy Mullins of Richmond, Ky., Frank and Edgar of Mt. Vernon, and many other relatives and friends.

Funeral services were held Thursday afternoon at the residence. The services were conducted by Rev. Lanis Kline, pastor of the Mt. Vernon Christian Church, and by Rev. Wendell Belew, pastor of the First Baptist Church, Bristol, in Elmwood Cemetery.

Washington

The Iron Curtain WASHINGTON CHURCHILL'S well-known phrase "the iron curtain" has now become so universal that some people really believe the Soviet Union is behind it. Actually, however, the curtain is made of barbed wire—and rusty barbed wire at that. This writer visited the southernmost segment of the iron curtain today at a spot where democratic Turkey and Communist Bulgaria meet. This border is the start of a long tangled barricade zigzagging westward through Greece, Yugoslavia, Rumania, Germany and Poland. And though the fields of winter barley are just as green on both sides of the barbed-wire barricade, it might just as well have been made of iron as far as free exchange of human intercourse is concerned. I drove up to the curtain in a jeep with Captain Petia Seckin and Lieutenant Aladin of the Turkish army. The latter is in command of a ten-man detachment guarding the Kaprikli outpost. The curtain was paved with centuries-old stone and beside the road were Roman walls built by Emperor Trajan. The curtain was leading to the barbed-wire curtain, and from an ox team pulling a John Deere disc drill, a tribute to the American farmer, was being pulled. Suddenly the road ended. Ahead was an iron gate bearing that intricate English design known as every tongue: "Stop." Beyond it was another gate slightly rusty and delapidated bearing the words "No entry for the Turkish army." This was the iron curtain and the place which Turks call Serhad, the border between the two nations. The frontier and the neckline where one's head is chopped off.

Blockhouses Guard Curtain

Alongside the gate was a series of blockhouses—one on the Bulgarian side, a little above the Turkish side, and two on the Turkish side, both new and orderly. One Turkish blockhouse was from the French and the other was from the American. The Turkish side was connected with it by a series of trenches—household troops. The American side was the thick wall of barbed wire on top of which a Turkish soldier stood, scanning the landscape through the field glasses. Through his glasses we could see a Bulgarian guard in the tower on the opposite side of the iron curtain. From time to time he would run to the telephone evidently to notify his headquarters about our party. Aside from the American and the Turkish side, the curtain was connected with it by a series of trenches—household troops. Prisoners Escape

A herd of water buffalo grazed in the distance. They did not know the difference between communism or democracy, between Rumanized Bulgaria or Turkey—to which the Truman machine is supplying arms and Marshall plan aid. They only knew that the grass was just as green on either side.

Genesime's

"Genesime's," sheep or buffalo get under the wire and cross to the Bulgarian side and the Communist side. Our prisoners get no chance to herd them. Sometimes, also, I saw a Bulgarian political prisoner sneak through the barbed wire at night to give themselves up to Turkish authorities. This happened at the rate of one or two at three times per month and they tell a story of harassment and political suppression in what once was a relatively democratic country.

Climbing down from the watchtower

On rare occasions an official with a properly vassed passport is permitted to pass through this gate and customs officials are kept on the other side of the wire. I was told that the sun was warm, and I pulled my chair out onto a stone platform in the sunshine in full view of the Communist guard peering down through rifle slots in their watchtower fifty feet away. I don't know and never will know what they thought of the trouble the civilian dressed in western clothes who sat and drank coffee just below them.

REDS DECLINE IN EUROPE

REDS DECLINE IN EUROPE—An indication that the Communists are losing the battle to take over western Europe by boring from within was revealed in a state department report that said the party had lost a third—1,295,000—of its members in the west since World War II. The report said there were 1,673,000 Communist party members in western Europe (except Italy) in 1948, and 2,300,000 in Italy in 1948—a total of 3,973,000. The number dropped to 2,678,000 in 1950.

Labor's Recent Revolt Called Open Warfare on Truman Administration

LABOR IN REVOLT.—The Truman administration has had many and varied difficulties in its history, but few of them have approached the seriousness of labor's recent revolt against the government's mobilization effort. The decision of labor to withdraw from the wage stabilization board and other government agencies amounted to a declaration of war on the Truman administration in iron.

The united labor policy committee, composed of 14 top officials of the C.I.O. and A.F.L., ordered the withdrawal. As a result, labor members resigned from 24 advisory posts and other positions in defense agencies, including the military.

MAIN STREET FEATURE

Labor was especially bitter about the 10 per cent wage formula as recommended by economic stabilizer Eric Johnston. The union leaders were not pacified when Johnston exempted from the wage ceiling all cost-of-living escalator clauses in union contracts written before January 20.

These grievances were serious enough in themselves, but there seemed to be other motivating factors behind labor's revolt. Hidden behind the curtains of petty disagreements was that of a labor rift during World War II.

In the interest of mobilization and the well-being of the nation, peace between the administration and labor has become a pressing, desperate need.

HOUSEWIVES' DISTASTE

HOUSEWIVES' DISTASTE—It has been said by critics of this country that the United States is ruled by women, that our economy and way of life centers around the wives, sweethearts, daughters, sisters and mothers of the nation.

As an example of the woman's influence on the nation's economy was reflected in the meat markets of the nation when housewives' distaste of costly cuts of beef caused real price roll-backs.

A nation-wide census revealed that prices were cut from 10 to 25 per cent on the more expensive cuts of meat. And in every case, the price-cutters declared housewives' lack of relish for high red meat prices was the main reason for their action. There was evidence, too, that the public might consume most surplus meat and get the most out of it. The agricultural department is on record as saying "prospects are for a larger meat production in 1951 than in 1950."

Meanwhile, the agriculture department had other interesting statistics. The general farm-product prices index climbed to a record level in February. The figures revealed that prices paid farmers for all their commodities was 2.35 per cent higher than the old record set in January, 1948, and about 25 per cent above the level prevailing before the Korean war.

However, despite the high level of the farm commodity market, only nine major products were selling at or above parity—the price standard declared by law to be equally fair to farmers and those who buy their products. The products above parity were beef cattle, veal calves, lamb, sheep, cotton, cotton seed, wool, rice and soybeans. Such products as wheat, corn, peanuts, potatoes, butterfat, milk, oats, barley, rye, flaxseed, grain sorghum, citrus fruit, apples, sweet potatoes, chickens, and eggs were bringing less than parity prices.

CASUALTIES TOTAL 50,675

CASUALTIES TOTAL 50,675—The people of the cities, home towns and countryside of the nation were beginning to feel the full force of the Korean conflict. Every day families in communities across the nation were being notified of casualties of war. The latest statistics listed 50,675 wounded, missing or killed in action. Of the total, 7,639 were missing; 1,812 were wounded and 9,835 missing.

And while American troops had suffered the greatest number of casualties, the 10 other nations fighting beside U. S. and British troops had suffered 41,836 reported casualties totaling 2,813. The breakdown showed Australia with 48 killed, 200 missing; 4 prisoners; France with 44 killed, 201 wounded, 3 missing; Greece, 20 killed, 45 wounded, 1 missing; Netherlands, 24 killed, 76 wounded, 2 missing; Philippines, 150 casualties (not broken down into categories); United Kingdom, 145 killed, 442 wounded, 294 missing; 41 prisoners.

WATCHFUL WORLD

WATCHFUL WORLD—As deputy foreign ministers of France, Great Britain, the Soviet Union and the United States met in Paris in an attempt to work out an agenda for a big-four conference, a watchful, but pessimistic world waited for announcement of first results.

Considerable interest was shown, but not even an agreement on an agenda could be reached among the four nations. The Soviet Union indicated it would stress the German problem and charge the western powers with rearming western Germany. On the other hand, the United States would stress direct discussion of the vast build-up of the arms in the Soviet Union and its eastern European satellites, and argue that those arms are the basic cause of the world's ills.

It was believed doubtful, therefore, that the big-four could even agree on a list of subjects at which the big-four could talk with any hope of success.

It was also reported the United States would try to put the settlement of an Austrian peace treaty on the agenda, an achievement long sought by the government, but continually blocked by the Soviet Union.

SPRING OFFENSIVE

SPRING OFFENSIVE—The threat of a big spring counteroffensive by the Chinese Communists still hung over the Korean front as United Nations troops continued their push northward. Heavy movements of troops were reported at several points along the Red line.

Increasing numbers of Communist troops were reported moving south into Seoul and the fields stepped up night mortar and artillery fire from the old South Korean capital. There were also indications that a new Chinese division may have been moved into Korea in preparation for a renewed offensive.

What Where and HOW-TO-SHOP

By DOROTHY BARCLAY

FOOD STUFF

IN THESE DAYS of high prices and dwindling supplies, feeding a family and maintaining a home demands the genius of a director of the budget. And any way you slice it, that budget—save a dime here, a nickel there, and a penny here and there—is Good News Today! That penny-saver's counterpoint is that it is dear to the housewife's heart!

There are ways to save, on food, some have even devised turkish-turkey. If you watch the signs of economy—the ads in your local papers, the signs on your store windows, the tips of your neighbors—and take advantage of them.

Not every store-owner is like one super-market owner I know, who writes his own ads in the form of personal letters to his housewife customers.

"I'm just as mad as you ladies about the high cost of food-stuffs," he writes. "Prime sirloin is up another 4 cents a pound today, and I don't like it. So have you some nice chuck cuts today, and I'm running a Special on 'em."

Can't you just see the line-up at his store? All markets may not have that same personal touch, but they all run their Specials. If you watch for them, you'll find national favorite items at its high in supply and low in price from about mid-January through the end of March.

So have your own Special Special dinners now, and that family rib-roast, but watch for the Special Sales!

BUY OF THE MONTH

That chuck our supermarket friend offered that day, at any price, is one of the best three-way cuts of beef you can buy. Here's how: Get a large hunk of chuck, centering around the round end. Cut it into three vertical pieces. That center piece, surrounding the round bone, will make the finest roast you can buy. The other two pieces will give you a chuck roast with all your favorite trimmings—calisy, onions, carrots, green peppers, just popping up that tasty brown gravy! The leaner end-piece can be sliced through horizontally for Swiss steaks, covered with that tomato sauce you put up last summer. And the other, fatter end, why not cut it up for that sure-to-be cold-weather meat, beef stew?

Just watch for those Specials, and eat hearty—and economically!

1,500 Families Forced to Move From Farms

AIKEN, S. C.—Some farms were ordered to leave the land of your birth. Where would you go? What would you do? How would you face with that problem. For many of them it will be the end of the only world they have ever known.

The government has decided to construct an atomic-energy plant on the 200,000 acres of land now occupied by these farm families. The government, of course, will buy the land, but that does not offer a solution to the problem of where they will go.

Some families in the rolling hills, area will have to get out within a short time. All residents must be gone within 18 months.

The villages of Ellenton, Dumbarton, Jackson, and Stelling will disappear. The largest has a population of about 700 persons.

Into the vacuum their departure will create will pour thousands of people lured by millions of dollars in wages from the atomic energy commission.

Highways and railroads will be relocated and new ones built. Nearby towns and cities will boom with the influx of the displaced.

Hospital, schools, churches, and civic and community facilities will be overtaxed. New businesses will spring up, and one expands into another.

A number of small towns outside the project area have asked the people of the villages to move en masse into their centers.

H. M. Castels, banker, mortician, daylirman, merchant and farmer in Ellenton, said: "I don't know it would absorb us. It's like having a death in the family, going to the funeral, then being asked to give a eulogy and realizing the emptiness of the house."

Mixup in Terms Miranda, the new cook, had arrived only a short while before the dinner hour. The mistress of the house, wishing to save time, instructed her to eliminate the salad. There was a long delay but she finally served, and with it the salad. Miranda was asked why she did not eliminate the salad as requested. "Beggins' your pardon, ma'am," she explained, apologetically. "But as from de front to de back, an there jest weren't no eliminated salad recipe, so all jest done it plain."

Sarcastic Caddy

A pompous businessman strode out to the starting tee on the golf course, selected his driver with deliberation, measured the distance to the first hole with great care, took numerous practice swings, and finally, after much flourishing of his club, drove the ball about twenty feet. After going through the same procedure repeatedly, he turned to the caddy that the course was really a difficult one to play. The caddy, in exasperation, replied, "I don't really think you can judge yet—you haven't begun to play you know."
